PRESIDENT URGES U.S. PUT UP HALF OF COST TO HELP FREE WORLD EXPLOIT ATOM

2 NEW PROGRAMS WOULD SUPPLY REACTORS, FUNDS AND 'KNOW HOW'

Eisenhower Renews Appeal for Russians to Go Along With Plan for World Atomic Pool for Peace.

(Text on Page 31D).

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa., June 11 (AP)—President Eisenhower recommended today the United States put up money, nuclear materials and "know how" for two new atoms-for-peace programs in other free nations.

The programs, subject to approval by Congress, provide for helping such nations obtain atomic power and research reactors. The President pictured them as "the gateway to a broad avenue of world progress in the peaceful uses of atomic energy."

Delivering the centennial commencement address at Pennsylvania State University, where his younger brother, Milton, is president, Mr. Eisenhower voiced a new hope also that Russia eventually will go along with this 1953 proposal to create an international atomic pool for peaceful purposes. The new appeal appeared to be directed over the heads of the Kremlin dictators to the people of Russia.

Speaks to 20,000 in Rain.

The President spoke to a crowd of about 20,000 persons on whom a misty rain fell in Beaver stadium, and to a nationwide radio audience. He was protected from the drizzle by a canopy over the speaker's stand. Before his address he received an honorary doctor of laws degree.

The chief executive in his address gave no hint of the cost of the two proposed programs. But he said "it will be small, indeed, when measured against the certain returns, tangible and intangible."

The President told about his plans this way:

"We have developed two new programs that I shall submit to the Congress in the conviction that they reflect this spirit and intent of law and the American people.

"First: We propose to offer research reactors to the people of the free nations who can use them effectively for the acquisition of the skills and understanding essential to peaceful atomic progress. The United States, in the spirit of partnership that moves us, will contribute half the cost. We also will furnish the acquiring nation the nuclear material needed to fuel the reactor.

"Second: Within prudent security considerations, we propose to make available to the peoples of such friendly nations as are prepared to invest their own funds in power reactors, access to and training in the technological processes of construction and operation for peaceful purposes."

In the case of the research reactor program, the President said the United States would support a voluntary grouping of the resources of several nations within a single region if the resources of individual countries of the area did not appear adequate to make effective use of a reactor.

"Our purpose is to spark the

PRESIDENT RIBBED ABOUT RED TAPE IN GETTING URANIUM

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa., June 11 (UP)—President Eisenhower took a ribbing about Government red tape today while on the Pennsylvania State Unionthe Pennsyivania State University campus.

Eric Walker, dean of engineering told the President it was unique in that it was the first such reactor built entirely with private funds. But, Walker added, it still does not have the uranium needed to put in into operation.

"If we can cut through the Government red tape, and I hope we can soon, we hope to have it (the reactor) critical by July 1," Walker said.

Mr. Eisenhower blushed and replied: "I must say, I don't understand any delay in getting the fuel."

"It's just the timing," his brother Milton, university president, chimed in.

His audience, university trustees who voted the funds for the reactor roared with laughter.

RAINS 'ESPECIALLY BENEFICIAL' HERE, SAYS FARM AGENT

Rains yesterday and earlier last week were described as "especially beneficial" by Paul M. Bernard, St. Louis county farm agent.

He said the fact they were mostly steady, soaking showers made them particularly helpful for crops. Pastures and lawns probably derived the greatest good from the moisture, Bernard said, although the rains "set the stage" for better corn and soybean crops.

Only occasional showers were forecast for today, although the unseasonably cool weather was scheduled to continue—giving way to warmer temperatures tomorrow. The mercury fell to 54 yesterday, making it the coolest June 11 in 42 years.

Rainfall for the week to noon yesterday totaled .95 of an inch, compared with a normal of .91. From midnight to noon .35 fell. This sent the total for the year to 12.67 inches, still well below the normal of 17.38. The shower early last night did not stop the Municipal Opera performance.

HOME WHERE MRS. SHEPPARD WAS MURDERED TO BE SOLD

House On Lake Erie Will Be Shown to Prospective Buyers By Appointment.

CLEVELAND, June 11 (UP)—The house where Marilyn Sheppard was murdered last July 4 was put up for sale today.

Relatives of the murdered woman said the action was taken "to clear up her estate." Asking price, according to realtor George E. Forbes, is $33,500—$1500 more than Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard paid when he bought it four years ago.

The home will be shown to prospective buyers by appointment only.

TRUMAN CHARGES GOVERNMENT IS RUN BY BIG FIRMS

Ex-President Voices Bitterest Attack So Far on Eisenhower in Oregon Speech.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 11 (INS)—Former President Harry S. Truman charged tonight that the "top leadership of the Republican Administration is dominated by the special interests of big business."

In his bitterest attack to date on President Eisenhower and his administration, Truman in an address before the Oregon dinner of the Democratic party in Portland, said:

"The fight to return the Government to the people in 1956 is already under way. I pledge you now that I will do my level best in that fight."

The Missouri Democrat praised the battle in behalf of public power by Senator Wayne Morse, former Oregon liberal Republican who now has turned Democrat, and said:

"What is happening today is that a Republican President is being used to cripple the program of river development that has brought prosperity to many regions of our land. In 1952 I tried to tell the people just what the Republican would do. Unfortunately, it was hard for them to imagine any President could be used to halt and undo our public power programs."

Truman continued:

"Let us not be misled again by the strange assurances that keep coming from Washington. You know, the President, in his speeches and press conferences, keeps saying, after each new blow at the TVA, that the Administration has no intention of destroying TVA . . .

"Let me make one point perfectly clear. I do not have the slightest doubt that the President honestly believes the expansion of our program of federal power development is wrong. I am sure he thinks he is doing the right thing in curbing TVA and in permitting the giving away of Hell's Canyon. But the facts and our national experience are against him. If the Administration continues its present policies, the future development of our river resources will be irretrievably lost to us.

"The future of this part of the country depends not only on having a Congress that is sympathetic to projects necessary to your economic growth but a sympathetic administration as well. You must have a President who believes in the public development of our rivers. For unless the executive power is on your side, there is nothing but frustration and delay in the way of the development on which your future depends."

Truman recalled that when he

$500 Seal Sloughs Off Training By 'Jumping Ship' and Escaping

WILDWOOD, N. J., June 14 (UP)—A California seal, brought here to be trained for exhibition, gave an impromptu show of its own yesterday by "jumping ship" and eluding all attempts to capture it.

The 300-pound seal was one of three brought here by trainer Paul Roberts. It was confined to a net-covered tank aboard the old schooner, Atlantic, while being trained for a marine show.

The frisky mammal managed to slip out somehow. It was seen off a pier about one mile north of the ship. A tugboat and smaller craft took off after it, but to no avail.

The seal, a show-off, flapped its flippers and barked to the delight of the crowd, slipped out of a net that was thrown over it and swam away. Later it was seen juggling an eel as it cavorted in the channel.

The six-foot seal, valued at $500, has a chance to survive so long as it does not swim out into the ocean, Roberts said.

RACING CAR HITS PACKED CROWD IN FRANCE; 70 KILLED, 75 HURT

Mercedes Hurtles Earthen Wall at Le Mans After Collision—Other Car Also Injures Some Spectators.

LE MANS, France, June 11 (AP)—At least 70 persons died and another 75 were seriously injured today in the crash of a flaming sports car in front of the grandstand in the Le Mans 24-hour auto race.

A speeding Mercedes crashed into another racing car and disintegrated, parts of it being catapulted in flames over a dirt retaining wall into the crowd.

Among the dead was the driver of the Mercedes, Pierre Levegh of France.

Flames and flying debris took a heavy toll among the spectators. Pieces of hot metal cut bodies apart.

M. Huet, chief police inspector who directed the removal of dead and dying, said he knew of two children who were decapitated. The dazed parents took the bodies away without informing police.

Huet said 65 persons died in hospitals or were dead on arrival "and I know of five others at least who are dead."

Dead Mostly French.

All of the identified dead were French except one man from London and another from Spain. So far as was known no American was killed or hurt.

The race which is to end at 4 p.m. tomorrow, continued.

The accident was one of the worst in the history of racing—possibly the most catastrophic.

John Fitch of Stamford, Conn., was the relief driver for Levegh, but he was not in the car at the time of the crash.

The accident occurred when three cars roared abreast in the half-mile straightaway in front of the stands. A crowd of about 250,000 spectators, many of them 20 to 30 deep along the outside rail behind the protecting wall watched in horror as two of the cars collided.

Another Group Hit.

A British Austin-Healey driven by a Briton, Lance Macklin, veered, scraping and smashing along the cement wall in front of the pits. Macklin and several spectators were injured on that side of the track.

The second car, the Mercedes, brushed against the pit wall, bounced off and headed at a right angle across the track, catapaulting over a six-foot dirt wall, over a picket fence and plunging in a flaming, smoking dive straight into the massed crowd of screaming people.

The third car, not identified in the excitement of the crash, whizzed by without getting touched. It was in a tight formation with the two cracked up cars but escaped entanglement.

Racer Turns Over.

While the dead and injured were being carried from the scene, the race continued, the roars of the engines mingling with the screams of the injured and the dying.

Officials at first flagged the cars to reduce speed, but shortly afterwards, since the roadway itself was clear, they signaled the drivers they could resume top speeds.

Shortly after the big crash, a British M.G. driven by R. W. Jacobs of Britain, rolled over twice and caught fire at a curve. The driver quickly scrambled from the car and suffered only minor contusions.

A few hours after the crash, the Mercedes company ordered its team withdrawn from the race as a gesture of mourning. At the time, Juan Manuel Fangio and his Mercedes were leading by two laps. Another Mercedes was running fourth.

Jaguar in Lead.

As a result a Jaguar driven by Mike Hawthorn of Britain took over the lead with the gruelling race one-third over. Second at the time was another Jaguar, while the leading American competitor, a Cunningham Special, driven by Briggs Cunningham of Green Farms, Conn., was 24 laps behind the leaders.

Twenty-seven cars had dropped out by the time the race was eight hours old, leaving 33 entries still in the running.

Just before the Mercedes hurtled into the crowd, the lap record for the course was broken by Hawthorn, who hit 122 miles per hour. The old mark was 117 miles per hour set last year by Jose Gonzales of Argentina in a Ferrari.

The endurance race is run over a closed asphalt highway circuit of 13.492 kilometers (8 miles 675 yards). The cars, little and big, are piloted by pairs of drivers relieving one another.

Le Mans is about 100 miles southwest of Paris.

VOLCANO ERUPTS IN JAPAN

TOKYO, June 11 (UP)—Mount Asama, Japan's biggest active volucano, erupted with a thunderous explosion today, spouting dense black smoke 30,000 feet high and covering the surrounding area with ash.

The eruption occurred shortly after dark and lasted about three minutes. It was the second outburst of the 8340-foot mountain in nine months. Mount Asama is a popular spot with Japan's weekend mountain climbers.

HEAD OF COUNTY COUNCIL INSISTS ON REVALUATION

Singer Rejects Matthews Plan for Flat Assessment Boost — Wants to Hire Firm for Study.

Plans for a comprehensive revaluation of all St. Louis county real estate for tax purposes definitely will be carried out despite a proposal by County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews to abandon them, County Council Chairman James A. Singer said yesterday.

In a formal statement, Singer, who is also chairman of a special committee of the Council to deal with the assessment problem, said it is not proposed to place a blanket increase on all assessments as the State Tax Commission has indicated it will order done within the next 30 days.

Such an increase, designed to bring assessments in the county up to 30 per cent of actual value, has been opposed by county officials because it would compound and aggravate already existing inequities among assessments within the county.

240,000 Parcels Involved.

They have accordingly proposed to employ an appraisal firm to revalue each of the 240,000 pieces of county real estate before the increase in assessments is put into effect. Under the special committee's proposal the land alone would be revalued this year in time for next year's tax bills and the improvements would be revalued in 1956.

"The committee believes that our procedure provides the only way the purposes of the state and county and the interests of the taxpayers whom we represent can be properly served," Singer said.

"We do not propose to place any across-the-board, blanket increase into effect. Such an increase would only further confuse an already aggravated situation and would only be wasteful of state and county funds, clogging the administrative boards of county and state with costly and needless appeals which would terminate only in litigation."

Matthews announced Friday he would recommend abandonment of the revaluation plans because there was no money available to pay the appraisal firm that would be engaged to make it. He said the bids ranged from $498,000 to $1,119,000 while the county had only $14,000 in its emergency fund.

He asked Tax Commission Chairman James M. Robertson to advise at the earliest possible moment the exact figure by which assessments were to be increased so that the work of getting the increase on the books could get under way immediately. The commission had indicated the county would have to raise urban property by 60 per cent and rural property by 85 per cent.

Statement by Singer.

Singer's statement describing the activities of the special committee follows:

"The special committee, consisting of Frank L. Martini, James H. J. McNary and James A. Singer, filed its report and recommendations for the orderly and systematic professional reappraisal and equalization of assessments in St. Louis County on April 20.

"The Council unanimously approved the report and recommendations. It adopted a resolution to solicit proposals from qualified expert consulting ap-

1500 Doctors Ask Eisenhower To Modify U.S. Security Setup

HONOR FOR JANITOR WHO BECAME EYE, EAR AUTHORITY

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—The janitor who stayed to become one of the world's foremost authorities on the eye and ear will have a museum built in his honor at the New York Eye and Ear Infirmary.

Edgar B. Burchell's degree as a "doctor" is an honorary one. He cannot treat patients because he is not a doctor of medicine. But as a recognized scientist, the 83-year-old man who never completed high school has taught medical students and has been called in as consultant by eye surgeons.

He came to the hospital as a janitor just 60 years ago. He taught himself by poring over discarded textbooks, sitting in on lectures when he could and assigning himself endless research and study projects.

IT'S CARNIVAL TIME AND GYPSIES QUIT WINTER LIFE HERE

Now that carnival time is here again, many gypsies who make their winter quarters in St. Louis are on the move once more and their old haunts are deserted.

For the cold weather—the only time when gypsies are content to stay in one place—they settled in several neighborhoods over the city, renting quarters in which to ply their trade, largely in books on palm reading.

If the policeman on the beat was not at hand, a customer could get his fortune told at winter rates.

The gypsies got into trouble with the police on a mass scale just once, last December, when an uninvited group crashed a big family reunion in the 4100 block of Olive street, and a free-for-all ensued.

MOST CATS ARE REAL 'SOUTHPAWS,' RESEARCHER FINDS

LONDON, June 11 (AP) — Most cats are left-handed; parrots too.

John Cole, Oxford University researcher in physiology, reported this after tests to find out why some people use one hand in preference to the other. Scientists call this "handedness."

In an article in the Journal of Comparative Physiology and Psychology, Cole told about his experiments:

He trained 60 cats to take food from a glass tube in which only one paw could be inserted.

Cole said 23 of his cats proved to be left-pawed, 12 right-pawed, the remaining 25 were ambidextrous—didn't care what paw they got their food with, so long as they got it.

Tests proved the same thing with parrots.

Peters Case Cited in Petition to President — Professors Here Among Signers.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 11—More than 1500 physicians, including a cross-section of top-flight professors in many of the nation's medical schools, have sent a petition to President Eisenhower strongly urging modification of the federal security program, particularly as applied to physicians engaged in medical research, it was announced today.

The petition was forwarded to the President four weeks ago, but announcement of it was withheld pending a ruling by the United States Supreme Court in the case of Dr. John P. Peters, senior professor of medicine at Yale University, who was ousted as a special consultant to the Public Health Service in May 1953, on the ground there was "reasonable doubt" as to his loyalty.

Last Monday the court held he had been wrongfully dismissed but did not rule on such constitutional questions as the right of an accused person to face his accuser.

In a statement accompanying the petition, the physicians pointed out that since the court did not deal with constitutional matters, "it becomes all the more important for the President to make the fundamental and necessary modifications in the security program so that the nation's health will in no way be jeopardized by arbitrary and restrictive procedures."

Signers of the petition include Dr. Carl V. Moore and Dr. W. Barry Wood, professors of medicine at Washington University, and Dr. Alfred Gellhorn of New York, formerly of the Washington University medical school faculty. Dr. Wood will go to Baltimore next September as vice president of Johns Hopkins Hospital and John Hopkins University.

The petition was initiated by 53 prominent physicians who were joined subsequently by doctors from 38 states, the District of Columbia, Hawaii and Alaska.

The loyalty program under which Dr. Peters was fired has been discarded, but the substitute program still is unacceptable, the petition said.

The petition quotes President Eisenhower's own words of Nov. 23, 1953: "If we are to continue to be proud that we are Americans there must be no weakening of the codes by which we have lived (such as)—the right to meet your accuser face to face."

It continues: "If the case of Dr. Peters stood alone it would be sufficiently alarming. In fact, however, the Peters case resembles many others that have not reached the light of public knowledge nor the status of an appeal to the Supreme Court. Such episodes have not strength-

Convicts to Get Paid Vacations ---Behind Walls of Penitentiary

MILWAUKEE, June 11 (AP)—Long term prisoners at the Atlanta (Ga.) federal prison will get paid "vacations"—within the walls.

Myrl Alexander, Washington, assistant director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, described the system yesterday at a meeting of the Wisconsin corrections conference.

He said "if a vacation is good for people on the outside, it's good for the men on the inside, too."

The vacations follow this pattern: They are two weeks long and during the time the prisoner lives in a special center, gets up when he pleases, eats when he wants, can watch television and his prison pay to dependents continues.

PLACE RAN TILL LT. SHOULDERS BECAME FIGURE IN RANSOM CASE

Officer Watched Establishment on Chouteau, Boyle for Months — Claims He Saw Others on Force Enter It.

Karl Schottler, a beat patrolman who was assigned to the Newstead avenue district, planned in 1952 to raid a house operated by Mrs. June Alma Lytz, murdered brothel operator, but was advised that "downtown said it couldn't be touched," the Post-Dispatch was told last night.

As a result, the raid was never made, although Schottler had made careful plans for it after months of hard work gathering evidence. During periods of his surveillance, he saw other policemen enter the establishment, at the northeast corner of Boyle and Chouteau avenues.

The place continued in operation until a few days after Police Lt. Louis Shoulders of the Newstead district became a central figure in the missing Greenlease ransom inquiry. This was in October 1953.

Circumstances of Schottler's thwarted raid have been learned by Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd's office, which is investigating reports of pay-offs to St. Louis policemen by the late Mrs. Lytz.

Tavern Owner's Contention.

Ulrich Brugger, who has a tavern on the southwest corner of Boyle and Chouteau, corroborated Schottler's statement that Mrs. Lytz's establishment gave evidence of being operated as a disorderly house.

Brugger said the police officer frequently watched the place from his doorway, noting the comings and goings of men, young women and other policemen.

In an account to the Post-Dispatch confirming information obtained elsewhere, Schottler said that in the fall of 1952 he observed a new tenant moving into the three-story brick building at the northeast corner of the intersection.

He watched with interest as a man, who proved to be Mrs. Lytz's husband, installed a tile floor, put in buzzers, shifted telephones and closed off a door leading to the building from Chouteau, east of Boyle.

Lytz informed the policeman he planned to operate a floor-tile sales firm, to be known as Valley Supply Co., on the first floor. On the second floor were five rooms suitable for living quarters.

About two or three months later, Patrolman Schottler received a tip that the upstairs quarters were being used as a disorderly house. The policeman decided to keep close watch on the place.

He took the names and numbers of taxicabs that arrived frequently at the establishment, and the license numbers of private automobiles that pulled up. He observed an unusual number of deliveries by laundries and other supply and service firms.

Thinks He Saw Shoulders.

Watching from the doorway of Brugger's tavern, Schottler saw persons he believed to be policemen in plain clothes go into the building. He was certain that Shoulders, the lieutenant in the district, and Patrolman Elmer Dolan were among the visitors.

Shoulders and Dolan are now serving prison terms for perjury in the missing Greenlease ransom inquiry.

Schottler said he finally thought he had enough evidence on which to base a raid. However, he saw this was going to be difficult because Mrs. Lytz or someone else always was on the lookout in the cupola above the building's corner entrance. The cupola, with its three windows, gave a commanding view of Boyle and Chouteau avenues.

Since entrance could be obtained only through the floor-tile firm on the first floor, the approach of any policemen would be a warning to the second-floor occupants. Schottler figured he had one chance.

The Newstead avenue station was only six blocks away and, when the shifts changed at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, there were many policemen in the vicinity of Boyle and Chouteau, either coming to work or going home.

Schottler thought this would be a good time to stage a raid. Distrustful of Shoulders and somewhat suspicious of other officers who might be friends of the lieutenant, he sought out the one man he thought he could confide in—a sergeant.

On a pretext, he got the ser-

GENERAL MOTORS HANDS NEW OFFER TO UAW IN MOVE TO AVERT STRIKE

Proposal Said to Be Similar to Ford Settlement — Union Calls Recess to Study G.M. Terms.

DETROIT, June 11 (UP)—General Motors handed the CIO United Auto Workers union a new offer today aimed at averting a strike by 385,000 G.M. workers at midnight Sunday.

A four-hour recess was called by the union to study the offer, which was reported to be patterned closely after the settlement reached between the UAW and Ford Motor Co. last Monday. The three-year Ford contract included a "guaranteed semi-annual wage," a six-cent hourly pay increase (or 2.5 per cent if that is larger) each year, higher pensions and improved insurance benefits.

Invitation to Curtice.

General Motors spread its new offer before union negotiators shortly after the union tried unsuccessfully to get G.M. President Harlow Curtice to join the contract talks. Curtice turned down the invitation and said other company officials had "full authority to negotiate."

Because of a "news blackout" shrouding the negotiations, the company offer could not be immediately confirmed.

By the Associated Press.

The UAW set Sunday midnight as the final deadline, after granting a contract extension earlier in the week, for either a settlement or a walkout of G.M. workers in 119 plants from coast to coast.

The invitation to Curtice to take part in the bargaining was contained in a letter from UAW president Walter Reuther and union vice president John W. Livingston. They said that with less than 36 hours before the deadline, the negotiations "have reached a critical stage with time running out."

Unsettled Issues.

Unresolved issues, the union said, include economic matters, working conditions and local plant problems. The letter did not mention the guaranteed wage demand specifically, but it was indicated that this, too, was among the unsettled contract matters.

Reuther and Livingston told Curtice that "both of your two immediate predecessors, Mr. William S. Knudsen and Mr. C. E. Wilson, participated in negotiations when they had reached a comparable critical stage."

"In the interest of avoiding a strike," they said, "we urge your prompt and favorable consideration of our request that you join us at the bargaining table."

Curtice, en route to nearby Ann Arbor to receive an honorary engineering degree from the University of Michigan, answered through a spokesman.

"Mr. Harry W. Anderson and Mr. L. G. Seaton are delegated full responsibility to handle the negotiations with all unions representing General Motors employes. Contrary to the union statement, the president of General Motors did not in 1947, 1948, or 1950 participate in the negotiations."

Both Wilson and Knudsen had participated to some extent in union negotiations in years prior to those mentioned by Curtice. Anderson is G.M. vice president in charge of personnel. Seaton is director of labor relations.

May 26 Offer Rejected.

For days union sources have confided that they expected a new G.M. proposal matching or bettering Ford's version of the guaranteed wage.

Reuther's letter revealed publicly the UAW's rejection of a G.M. offer made last May 26. This would have given G.M. employes an opportunity to buy G.M. stock at half price, set up interest-free loans for idle employes, and provide separation pay to employes permanently laid off.

Ford had made a similar offer but in both cases the union said they were unsatisfactory. Reuther's letter today called that G.M. proposal "inadequate and unacceptable."

Any G.M. walkout would strike a blow at the nation's economy. In the wake of the Ford settlement it would put G.M. at a sharp competitive disadvantage. It also would cut off nearly a third of the UAW's dues income and even modest strike benefits would wipe out within weeks the bulk of a $25,000,000 strike fund the union is building.

CIO Rubber Workers to Seek Guaranteed Annual Wage.

CHICAGO, June 11 (UP)—The CIO United Rubber Workers served notice on the rubber industry today that it would seek a guaranteed annual wage and "substantial pay increases" in forthcoming contract talks.

The union's policy committee announced after a day-long meeting that it will spell out its contract demands to the management of major rubber companies within the next two weeks.

The union represents more than 200,000 workers in 38 states and Canada.

SOVIET PRESIDIUM RATIFIES AUSTRIA INDEPENDENCE PACT

LONDON, June 11 (AP)—Moscow Radio said tonight that the presidium of the Supreme Soviet (parliament) ratified the Austrian independence treaty. The broadcast was recorded here.

The action put Russia's final stamp of approval on the now independent Austria. The presidium acts for the Supreme Soviet when the latter body is not in session.

FINNISH BRUNETTE JUDGED EUROPE'S MOST BEAUTIFUL

HELSINKI, June 11 (AP)—Dark-haired Inga Birtt Soederberg of Finland tonight won the title of the most beautiful girl in Europe.

Raven-haired Suna Soley of Turkey, highly rated as a favorite, was second in the "Miss Europe" contest. Monique Lambert, a Paris model, won third place.

Miss Finland's victory over the 12 other European beauties for the title of "Miss Europe" of 1955 came after she paraded before the judges and 8000 spectators, most of them women. She got resounding applause as she flashed a big, beautiful smile.

Miss Soederberg first walked out in a while lace evening dress. If there was still doubt in the spectator's minds who should win, it vanished when she walked out in her swimsuit of blue torquoise with black trim.

Miss Soederberg's measurements: height 5 feet 5, bust 34 inches, hips 33, waist 22, weight 123 pounds.

ROBBERS BRAVE TEAR GAS, STEAL $12,000 FROM SAFE

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP)—Three determined robbers took $12,000 from a department store safe after tying up a watchman, braving a flood of tear gas and drilling off the safe door.

Joseph Nohejl, the watchman, said the three intruders accosted him last night in a department store, forced him to lie on a mattress and then worked three hours to get into the safe.

He said the robbers tossed several jugs of water into the safe in an attempt to halt the tear gas that poured out when they knocked off its combination dial. They also forced the watchman, twice at gunpoint, to make his scheduled rounds.

IT'S 'TARGET STATES' NOW, RADIATION EXPERT SAYS

LOS ANGELES, June 11 (INS)—Dr. Albert Bellamy, a radiation expert at the University of California in Los Angeles, says that it's "a little late in the day to talk about 'target cities'" in the event of a nuclear attack. "We're talking," he said, "about 'target states.'"

He made the statement at a Southern California civil defense meeting yesterday after Los Angeles Mayor Norris Poulson spoke critically of the frightening facts being released by the Federal Civil Defense information program.

Blood Donor System Inadequate For Major War, 2 Scientists Say

Present Method Is 'Prodigal,' Army Experts Assert—More for Use in Direct Transfusions Urged.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 11 (UP)—Two Army scientists have warned that the present blood transfusion system in the United States would not be adequate in case of a third world war.

Lt. Cols. Joseph H. Akeroy and William H. Crosby, of the Walter Reed Army Medical Center, told a joint meeting of the Army medical service and surgery sections of the American Medical Association yesterday that the present system was "prodigal."

They said the present "universal donor system" was adequate "when a relatively small combat zone—as Korea—can be supported by the population and transportation facilities of the United States."

"But were we to become involved in a larger war, or a war in several theaters, or a war involving the United States mainland, we could not afford to rely on at transfusion service as prodigal as the present universal donor system," they said.

The physicians said the department of hematology at Walter Reed had been considering the problem for the last two and a half years. A plan has been developed which will be tested within a year, they said.

They said the plan would modify the present system so that a higher percentage of blood donated could be used directly for transfusions. Under the "universal donor system," only 45 per cent of the blood is used for transfusions. The rest is diverted into the plasma program where time can be taken to type and cross-match it.

SINGAPORE BUSSES HALTED BY DISPUTE OVER 3 CENTS

SINGAPORE, June 11 (AP)—A dispute over 3 cents stopped all Singapore's busses today.

Employes of the British-owned City Traction company stayed away from work to attend a cour case in which a conductor is charged with a breach of trust involving 10 Malayan cents (3 U.S. cents).

The bus company said the case lasted only three minutes. It charged that the men, influenced "by other forces," used it as an excuse to stay out. City authorities have charged that Singapore's wave of strikes is following a Communist pattern.

RED CHINA SNUFFING OUT RELIGION, BISHOP SAYS

HONG KONG, June 11 (UP)—An American Catholic bishop expelled from Red China said today the Communists there are gradually snuffing out religion through intimidation and education of the children.

Bishop Frederick A. Donaghy of Fall River, Mass., told a press conference there will be no Catholic church in Red China after a few generations.

"It takes a courageous man to be a Christian" there now, he asserted. He said Premier Chou En-lai's claims of religious freedom in China are "false." Donaghy crossed the frontier yesterday.

GERMAN BUS EXPLODES, 2 GIRLS KILLED, 21 INJURED

OSNABRUECK, Germany, June 11 (AP)—A sightseeing bus carrying 43 young Dutch choir singers caught fire and exploded today. Two teen-age girls burned to death and 21 other passengers were injured, five critically.

Four chaperones and the driver of the bus, en route to the Weser mountains, suffered shock but no burns. It was the second major bus accident in Germany this month. Eighteen German church women were killed June 1 when their bus went out of control on a Rhineland hill and crashed.

Toll in Cameroons Rioting.

PARIS, June 11 (AP)—French news agency reports today from the French Cameroons trusteeship territory in Central Africa put the toll in recent political rioting at 26 dead and 188 wounded. The Cameroons People's Union has charged that 5000 Cameroonians were killed by the French.

ADENAUER TO FLY TO U.S. TODAY TO REASSURE WEST

To Meet Eisenhower, Big Three Ministers—Bonn Acknowledges Russian Invitation.

BONN, June 11 (AP)—Chancellor Adenauer flies to Washington tomorrow to give his personal assurance that West Germany will remain true to the Atlantic alliance despite Soviet wooing.

He is meeting President Eisenhower and the Big Three foreign ministers for the first time since the Russians invited him to Moscow to discuss establishing diplomatic relations.

The Russian offer excited the West German public more than any other move — including restoration of Bonn's sovereignty—in the East-West struggle for Germany.

The Government announced tonight it had sent a note through the Soviet embassy in Paris formally acknowledging receipt of the Soviet invitation. An official spokesman said the simple acknowledgment contained no comment on the Russian bid.

Ready to Talk.

Adenauer has declared himself ready in principle to talk with the top Russians. But he has ordered a careful consideration first of all the questions involved in low level exchanges.

Observers here believe that no definite reply will be given until after Adenauer's strategy talks with the Big Three next week.

Because of the high hopes raised in Germany by the Moscow offer, Adenauer is considered to be unable, for internal political reasons, to refuse to meet the Russians.

He is regarded likely to propose a date after the planned Geneva Big Four "summit" meeting in July.

This timing is one of the points on which he will seek Western advice, informed sources said.

Official previews of his trip say the Chancellor wants to make these "fundamental" points:

1. West Germany will be "unswervingly loyal" to its Atlantic pact commitments and fulfill its military obligations.

2. He sees "reason for optimism" over signs of relaxing tension, which he attributed to Western unity and strength. This must be maintained if further successes are to be achieved.

3. The time is ripe for a dramatic Western offer on controlled world disarmament.

4. West Germany will not accept "any form of neutrality" as the price for reunification.

Unity Question.

The reunification question is expected to loom large in the talks. This is a big question in Germany and the Russians are trying to exploit the German desire to see their country welded together again.

The Paris treaties bar the West German government from negotiating directly with the Russian on reunification and a final peace treaty. But the Western Big Three have pledged they will consult Bonn on every step they make toward settlement of the German questions.

Close associates report that Adenauer is satisfied with this procedure and has no intention of pressing for enlargement of the Big Four conference to include himself.

One reason is that it would give the Russians an excuse to bring along the Communist East Germans, whose rule the Adenauer government refuses to recognize.

Adenauer flies from Bonn in a special Lufthansa Super-Constellation. He is due in Washington Monday morning. He is due back in Bonn the following Monday after a stopover in Britain to lunch with Prime Minister Eden.

Full-Scale Vaccine Inquiry Scheduled by House Group

Committee Chairman Opposes Congressional Action Pending Study — 'White Paper' Attacked.

WASHINGTON, June 11 (UP)—Chairman J. Percy Priest of the House Commerce Committee today ordered a full investigation of the vaccine controversy.

Priest, a Tennessee Democrat, said his group will dig into the vital issue of the vaccine's safety, the advisability of giving shots in the summer polio season, and the way the program has been handled by the Eisenhower Administration. He said the hearings would get under way about a week from Tuesday.

The Senate Labor Committee will resume its hearings on several vaccine control bills next week.

Priest said that until his committee gets all the answers on the vaccine's safety and use, "Congress should not enact any legislation indorsing the mass inoculation of American children."

'White Paper' Under Attack.

He spoke out as the Government's "white paper" on the nation's vaccine troubles came under attack from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, one of the vaccine manufacturers, and others.

The report conceded that the safety standards, under which most of the vaccine this year was released, had "failed" because of misjudgment on the part of the Government, manufacturers, and scientists.

Foundation President Basil O'Connor attacked the report as a one-sided version. He said that Dr. Jonas E. Salk, developer of the vaccine, had another version. Salk declined to comment until he reads the whole document.

He said, however, the Public Health Service "should be commended" for the new safety standards it ordered.

"We must now allow time for the reorganization of the Public Health Service to take place," he said, "and for its influence to be felt." The service has ordered a major overhaul and expansion of its vaccine safety machinery.

H. W. Blades, executive vice president of Wyeth Laboratories, took issue today with implications in the report and statements of Public Health Service officials which, he said, appeared to cast "suspicion" on one batch of his company's vaccine.

The Health Service report, issued Thursday, said the company voluntarily withdrew the unused portion of the one batch after 11 children inoculated with it came down with polio. It said the firm acted even though evidence that the vaccine was to blame was not at all conclusive.

Subjected to Tests.

Dr. James A. Shannon, associate director of the Government's National Institutes of Health, said yesterday this withdrawn vaccine was being subjected to the same tests being applied to the barred vaccine of Cutter Laboratories in California.

Blades branded this a "distortion of the facts." He said, and a Public Health Service confirmed, that the unused Wyeth batch was merely being subjected to the same retesting ordered for all manufacturers under new safety standards adopted two weeks ago.

"That suspicion should be cast on Wyeth's vaccine and its routine retesting program," Blades said, "and inference be given that Wyeth's is 'suspect' is most unfortunate, misleading and not in the public interest."

NEHRU AND DAUGHTER LEAVE MOSCOW FOR STALINGRAD

MOSCOW, June 11 (UP)—Indian Premier Nehru left by air today for Stalingrad, his first stop on a 10-day tour of Russia's provinces.

The Premier's daughter Indira and a group of Indian officials made the trip in Nehru's plane. A second airliner carried Indian newsmen covering his current state visit to Russia.

Last night, Nehru was guest of honor at a performance of Tschaikowsky's "Swan Lake" ballet, attended also by Soviet Communist secretary N. S. Khrushchev, Premier Bulganin, and ex-Premier Malenkov.

MOROCCO NEWSPAPER OWNER ASSASSINATED NEAR HOME

CASABLANCA, Morocco, June 11 (AP)—Jacques Lemaigre-Dubreuil, long a leading figure in French North Africa, was assassinated tonight near his home.

Police said he died instantly at the wheel of his car under a hail of machine-gun bullets fired gangster style from a speeding automobile. Police blamed a band of "counter terrorists," a term usually employed to designate Frenchmen who are fighting North African nationalists, for the attack.

A month ago Lemaigre-Dubreuil purchased control of Maroc-Presse, one of the leading newspapers in Morocco.

GEORGE FAVORS MORE JAPANESE, RED CHINA TRADE

Says It Will Avoid 'Cutthroat Competition' Between America and Tokyo.

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—Senator George (Dem.) of Georgia today called for greatly expanded trade between Japan and Red China. He said this is the only way to insure a prosperous Japan and at the same time avoid "cutthroat competition" between the United States and Japan.

"Japan ought to be allowed and should not be discouraged from reopening its markets in the great trading area of China," said George, who is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"There should be a relaxation. Japan should be allowed to trade in its ancient and natural markets."

The Senator said that Chinese Nationalist blockades of Red China ports across the Formosa strait would prevent Japan from using those entry points unless some arrangement could be made with Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek. This is regarded as impossible now.

But George said the Nationalists have no power to prevent entry of Japanese goods to northern China ports. Only goods with a strict military application should continue to be embargoed, George said.

A major trade agreement between the United States and Japan, announced Thursday, lowered or froze existing tariffs on a wide variety of goods traveling in both directions.

George told a newspaperman he has already had complaints from southern textile manufacturers that United States concessions to Japan will hurt their business.

The American Cotton Manufacturers Institute last night assailed the concessions on textile imports as "a staggering blow" and a "ravishment" of the American cloth-making industry. At the same time Senator Olin Johnston (Dem.) of South Carolina, denounced the concessions as part of "a cleverly conceived sell-out" of the American textile industry to the Japanese.

The State Department, in announcing terms of the trade agreement on Thursday, said that "among the concessions granted by the United States were moderate reductions on some carefully selected cotton textile items."

Although George's expression of views followed the announcement of the trade agreement, his aids said he had been considering for some time previously a proposal to ease trade between Japan and the China mainland.

MAYOR NAMES 20 TO SUPERVISORY COMMITTEE FOR BOND PROJECTS

Sidney Maestre Will Be Chairman and David R. Calhoun Jr. Vice Chairman of New Group.

A 20-member Citizens' Bond Issue Supervisory Committee, representing all sections of the community, was appointed yesterday by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker.

Sidney Maestre, chairman of the Citizens Bond Issue Screening Committee, which selected items submitted to the voters in the bond issue election, will serve as chairman of the supervisory committee.

The appointment of David R. Calhoun Jr. as vice chairman of the supervisory group was announced by the Mayor. Calhoun served as general chairman of the Bond Issue Campaign Committee.

Mayor Tucker said the majority of the members of the supervisory committee served in key capacities either in the screening process for the bond issue or in the campaign itself.

City Is Fortunate, Mayor Says.

"Personally, I believe the city is extremely fortunate to have been able to obtain the services of so many people who are not only representative of the community as a whole but also are familiar with the intent and purposes of the bond issue," the Mayor said.

Maestre said the task assigned to the committee is that of making certain that the $110,639,000 in capital improvements for St. Louis is spent in accordance with the pledges made to the voters.

Other members of the committee are: Delmond Garst, regional director, CIO; William A. Webb, executive secretary, AFL Central Trades and Labor Union; Frank M. Mayfield, board chairman, Scruggs Vandervoort & Barney, Inc.; Frank X. Overman, assistant secretary and treasurer, Northwestern Bank & Trust Co.

Others on Committee.

Bige Wyatt, insurance broker; Clarence M. Turley, president, Clarence M. Turley, Inc.; Edwin M. Clark, president, Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.; C. H. Drees, president, Wellston Chamber of Commerce; Howard F. Baer, president, A. S. Aloe Co. and chairman of the board, St. Louis Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Frankie Freeman, attorney; Powell B. McHaney, president, Civic Progress, Inc., and president, General American Life Insurance Co.; Mrs. Edward M. Harrington, housewife; Leo G. Bayless, chairman, General Council on Civic Needs; Arthur K. Atkinson, president, Wabash Railroad Co.; Milton H. Mantler, Cherokee Business Men's Association; James M. Douglas, attorney; Harry A. Stockmann, president, Stockmann Lumber Co., and William G. Buchholz, president, Buchholz Funeral Home.

INVENTOR HERE HAS GADGET TO PREVENT WRITERS' CRAMP

While writing lengthy applications for patents on some things he had invented last year, Andrew L. Appel, 4115 McPherson avenue, thought of a new invention, one which prevents writing fingers from tiring.

Appel, a hoisting engineer, described the handwriting helper as having a tube of sponge rubber which fits outside the pencil and against the fingers, thus preventing writer's cramps and callouses. A metal clamp holds the pencil at the correct angle, thus boosting children's writing style.

Other recent inventions which Appel makes in his spare time at home include dispensers for sugar, salt and liquid soap which have tops that allow just the desired amount to come out; and a needle-threader, designed to ease eye and finger strain, which can be used with either hand or for sewing-machine threading.

Appel, 44 years old, said he has been inventing things for about 20 years. He began tinkering when he was a youth, he said, and once, for fun, he rearranged the wheels of an automobile so it rocked, limped and jumped sideways as well as back and forth.

Cat Mothers Rabbits

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

Four adopted baby rabbits being mothered by a cat along with her own kitten. The heterogeneous litter, now at the Animal Protective Asssociation, 1705 South Hanley road, Brentwood, was found in what apparently was rabbits' nest in a field near 7309 Burrwood drive, Normandy. Cat and kitten will be put up for adoption, but the rabbits will be raised and then set free.

GROUP IN COUNTY TO OPPOSE AIR CONDITIONER FEE

About 200 St. Louis county owners of water-cooled air conditioners have signified they will join an organized protest to the Missouri Public Service Commission against an annual assessment of $40 a ton that the state agency recently authorized against the devices, Charles W. Bolan announced yesterday.

Bolan, who heads an advertising agency and lives at 9004 Stonebridge drive, Richmond Heights, sent out 2500 circulars inviting owners of such air conditioners, not equipped with water-conserving devices, to unite in opposition to an assessment that, under the commission's ruling, may be made by St. Louis County Water Co. after May 1, 1957.

The water company obtained permission to make the charge as a means of discouraging waste of water in summer months, when consumer demand is likely to exceed supply. Bolan termed the surcharge "arbitrary and confiscatory." He said opponents of the ruling had not been heard.

A public meeting of persons opposed to the ruling will be held here the week of June 20, Bolan said. He said his own home was equipped with a 5-ton air conditioner that would cost about $600 to convert. He said more than 50 of the 71 homes in Richmond Hills, where he lives, were so equipped.

WELLSTON SUED OVER LOSS OF CITY COUNCIL SEAT

Peter J. Byrne Jr., whose office as member of the Wellston City Council was forfeited when he moved to St. Ann, filed suit yesterday in Clayton asking for a writ of certiorari, declaratory judgment and an injunction against the Mayor and the 11 council members.

In his petition, Byrne said the Mayor and council are attempting to withhold the office from him, refusing him the rights and privileges of being seated at the council table and participating in the lawful government of Wellston.

Charges that Byrne, a member of the council from the fifth ward, had forfeited his office were sustained at a special council meeting May 12. By a vote of 9 to 1, the council decided that the office was vacant and ordered that a special election be held. Byrne said although he bought the residence in St. Ann his legal residence remained at 6149A Bartmer avenue, Wellston.

LITTLE SYMPHONY PROGRAM LECTURE AT ART MUSEUM

A lecture on the Little Symphony program will be given at the Art Museum tomorrow at 8 p.m.

Taking part in the program will be Jascha Horenstein, who will conduct the five remaining concerts of the symphony, and Edward Ormond, soloist for next Friday's concert.

They will discuss Handel's Concerto for Viola and Orchestra in B Minor, which will be played Friday. Ormond has written an original cadenza for the concerto, which also will be heard at the concert in the Quadrangle of Washington University.

Museum to Use Dental X-Rays To Look Gift Horses in the Mouth

Old Machine Given to Art Curator Will Permit Proper Tests for Condition and Genuineness.

When City Art Museum visitors hear a talk today on "Science in a Museum," they will also see a valuable new acquisition that came the museum's way as a result of talks on science in a dentist's office.

The object is a 24-year-old but perfectly functioning X-ray machine that Dr. Edward H. Schlueter, Clayton dentist, had been keeping as "stand-by" apparatus after buying later equipment. Among his patients is Dr. Thomas T. Hoopes, curator of the museum.

As dentists and patients will, the pair discussed mutual professional interests. Dr. Hoopes, frankly envying Dr. Schlueter his extra X-ray machine, declared he himself has yearned for X-ray facilities at the museum ever since becoming curator here 19 years ago.

"Well, take it," Dr. Schlueter said. Dr. Hoopes quickly did so, with the help of installation services freely donated by Thau-Nolde, Inc., dental supply firm.

Though the machine cost Dr. Schlueter $998 in 1931, the much greater cost of comparable equipment today would be a luxury item in the museum's limited budget, Acting Director William N. Eisendrath Jr. explained.

The museum science talk will be given at 2:30 p.m. by Dr. Hoopes. Presented originally before the American Chemical Society May 6, it will be enlarged to tell how an outmoded dental X-ray machine may be used to explore centuries-old art objects in preparation for restoring them, and to examine proposed museum purchases and gifts to ascertain their condition and genuineness.

"With this gift from a dentist," Dr. Hoopes observed, "we will be able at last to do a proper job of looking other gift horses in the mouth."

18 KILLED IN COUNTY TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS IN FIVE MONTHS

Eighteen persons were killed and 222 injured in 351 traffic accidents in the first five months of this year in St. Louis county, the Missouri State Highway Patrol announced yesterday. Property damage of $216,309 was caused by the accidents.

Of the total, four persons lost their lives and 69 were injured in 91 accidents last month. Property damage from the accidents was $50,418 in May. There were 12 more traffic accidents last month than in May of last year and the number of persons injured increased by seven. The death total was three less than in May 1954.

Traffic accidents in the county for the first five months last year totaled 317 or 34 less than at the corresponding time this year. The number of those killed from January through May last year was 25 and those injured totaled 204. Property damage resulting from traffic accidents during the five-month period last year amounted to $163,873.

DRIVE AGAINST ABANDONED ICEBOXES STARTING HERE

A campaign to protect children from the danger of abandoned ice boxes will be conducted tomorrow through Friday by the St. Louis chapter of the Refrigeration Service Engineers Society.

To safeguard children, the society recommended that doors, lids and latches be removed from unprotected and abandoned iceboxes. It also suggested that holes be drilled in the cabinet and the door gasket removed to provide an air supply to the inside cabinet, or destroy the cabinet altogether.

If doors or locks cannot be removed, the society will provide the service free this week, it was announced. The society can be reached at CE 1-2377.

LEO C. BOHANAN FIRST GUEST ON KETC'S NEW 'INTERVIEWS'

Leo C. Bohanan, executive director of the Urban League of St. Louis, will be the first guest tomorrow on a 15-minute program, entitled, "Interviews," to be presented at 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday on educational television station KETC.

Persons who have unusual stories to tell about their work will appear on the program, Ranlet Lincoln, public affairs director for the station, said. Lincoln will be the interviewer.

Dr. Hubert Pruett, reported to possess one of the largest collections of jazz records, is scheduled to talk about his hobby on Tuesday's program, Lincoln said.

TRUMAN'S EX-AID MAY APPEAR IN TAX INQUIRY HERE

U.S. Grand Jury Expected to Call Matthew Connelly, Also William M. Boyle Jr.

William M. Boyle Jr., former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and Matthew Connelly, who was President Truman's appointment secretary, are expected to be heard this week by the federal grand jury investigating tax scandals in the Truman Administration. The jury will resume hearings tomorrow and continue through Wednesday.

Boyle, then national committee chairman, was represented by Lee B. Schumacher, former Kirkwood metallurgist, to officials of the May Department Stores Co., operator of Famous-Barr stores, as the man who could get fast action on a $10,000,000 federal tax claim for the company. The suggestion was rejected by officials of the company and Schumacher subsequently was convicted of perjury and obstruction of justice.

Linked to Nicaro Deal.

It was alleged that the proposal under which the May Co. would have paid a $1,000,000 legal fee, was part of the plan of a group which included James P. Finnegan, former Collector of Internal Revenue here, to acquire the Nicaro Nickel Co. plant in Cuba. One of the charges against Schumacher was that he lied to the grand jury in saying he took no active part in the effort to have Boyle hired.

Connelly was named in testimony before a congressional subcommittee investigating the Justice Department in 1952 as having intervened in the tax fraud case of Irving Sachs, head of a St. Louis shoe brokerage firm.

Theron Lamar Caudle, former head of the Justice Department's tax division, told the subcommittee that Connelly called him up from the White House and asked that a conference in the Sachs case be postponed because of the illness of Harry Schwimmer, attorney for Sachs. Caudle said there was no objection to a postponement. Caudle was a recent grand jury witness here.

Purpose of Investigation.

The grand jury is seeking to learn which high Government officials in the Truman Administration were responsible for "whitewashing" the early stages of an investigation of Finnegan's activities. Finnegan, who is completing a prison term as a result for his conviction for misconduct in office, is expected to be called by the grand jury.

Two former Justice Department officials who also may testify this week are Thomas Lynch and Peyton Ford, attorneys. Lynch appeared previously before the jury in its present session.

Department of Justice attorneys in Washington last week examined transcripts of two executive sessions of the House Judiciary Committee in an effort to obtain leads that may assist the investigation here. A spokesman said the transcripts dealt with testimony by Caudle and by Ellis Slack, who also formerly headed the Justice Department's tax division.

Experimental luminous street signs on electric traffic signal standard at northeast corner of Eighth and Olive streets.

Names of downtown streets are being painted on vertical strips of reflective material by traffic division employes in an experiment intended to find a better system of marking streets.

Traffic Commissioner Charles G. Gonter said the strips will be affixed to light standards at downtown intersections to determine legibility under various weather and light conditions, and cost of maintenance.

Street names are being painted in black on yellow material similar to that used on some traffic signs and used also on reflective automobile bumper strips.

Gonter said he believes the strips will be more visible by day and by night then the present metal street markers, most of which are of white lettering on a pale blue background. These are mounted horizontally high on standards and are very difficult to read, especially at night, Gonter said.

The new system also will be much less expensive than the old, he pointed out. If the experiment shows public acceptance, the marking system will be extended throughout the city.

UNITED FUND, INC. BARS EDUCATION, CULTURE GROUPS

Campaign Restricted to 'Health, Welfare and Character-Building Agencies.'

Directors of the United Fund of Greater St. Louis, Inc., organized last month for the purpose of reducing the number of fund-raising drives, have decided to restrict its one big campaign this fall to "health, welfare and character-building" agencies, the Post-Dispatch was informed yesterday.

The directors decided not to include agencies primarily concerned with education and culture, some of which have received support from the Community Chest.

A committee of Community Chest officials has been appointed to meet with representatives of United Fund and make recommendations as to agencies that are to be taken into the new organization.

United Fund officials said it will be necessary first to determine "ground rules," or a kind of yardstick to be used as a guide in deciding whether an agency is primarily engaged in health, welfare or character work, or whether it is primarily educational or cultural.

Agencies that have been supported by the Chest, and whose future with the United Fund is uncertain, include the Community Music School, People's Art Center, International Institute, and the Adult Educational Council.

Richard E. Booth, executive director of the Community Chest and executive vice president of the United Fund, said it was "premature to name agencies that are to be excluded, if any, until the committee has had a chance to study the policy to determine how it may or may not relate to present Chest member agencies.

"There are absolutely no agencies that have been singled out, by either the Community Chest or the United Fund, in regard to this policy to date," he said.

A United Fund statement on agency inclusion was read to representatives of the Chest agencies at a meeting 10 days ago, and copies of it were mailed to the agencies last week so their directors could plan accordingly.

The agency inclusion problem is twofold, since some agencies that would like to be in will not be accepted, and others that are wanted refuse to come in, preferring to conduct their own campaigns.

MISSOURI G.O.P. PATRONAGE COMMITTEE IS PROPOSED

Special to the Post-Dispatch

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 11—A new patronage plan for the dissension-racked Republican party in Missouri has been drafted by state committee member John J. Robison of Maysville, who said he would present it at the scheduled harmony meeting June 26 unless G.O.P. leaders reach agreement in the meantime.

Under Robison's proposal a five-member patronage committee would be formed, with at least one member each from St. Louis and Kansas City areas. Its job would be to resolve differences over political job recommendations when agreement could not otherwise be reached.

A group of St. Louis Republicans headed by Barak T. Mattingly suggested recently that a small committee to "assume full management of the Republican party of Missouri" be formed if factions headed by state chairman Perry T. Compton, on the one hand, and National Committeeman A. D. (Bud) Welsh, on the other, can't get together.

TRUMAN CHARGES GOVERNMENT IS RUN BY BIG FIRMS

was at Kalispell in Montana in 1952 he advised the voters to "take a good look at Hungry Horse Dam, because if a Republican president was elected, that was the last new dam they would see out here for a long time to come."

He added: "Senator Morse knew I was right."

Truman concluded as follows: "The top leadership of the Republican party is dominated by the special interests of big business. This is the fundamental reason for their attack on public power. You can also see the evidence of it in many other issues. You can see it in their haste to cut taxes for corporations and top incomes, even though the budget was unbalanced, and their refusal to give a small amount of tax relief to the little fellow. You can see it in their labor policies and their farm policies. You can see it in the vetoes of justified pay increases for federal workers. You can see it in the giveaway of publicly financed rubber factories and tidelands oil."

Praises McNary, Norris.

The former President declared that in the past there were "some Republicans" who fought for development of the water resources by the Federal Government, and he cited Senators Charles McNary and George Norris. Truman also paid tribute to the late President Theodore Roosevelt, who, he said, "fought against raids on public resources."

He added: "Those days are gone. That is dramatically illustrated by the presence at this Democratic dinner of Wayne Morse, now a Democrat but hitherto a lifelong Republican. What else is an honest man to do, when his party ceases to stand for what he believes in? Where in the Republican ranks today can you find support for men who fight for the people's right to own and develop their common property?"

Thwarted in Raid Plan

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

KARL SCHOTTLER

POLICEMAN SAYS BROTHEL RAID WAS THWARTED

geant outside the station and told him of the plan for the raid. The sergeant agreed, since the establishment was in his precinct. He promised to obtain two or three other reliable policemen to assist him and Schottler.

The day planned for the raid came but the sergeant said: "Not today." Another day was set, but again there was a postponement. Finally, after more delays, Schottler became impatient. He said he asked the sergeant for an explanation.

"Downtown said to let it run, that it shouldn't be touched," the sergeant told the surprised Schottler. He added: "If you want to get any take from it, it's OK, but I don't want any part of it."

Schottler, stunned by the turn of events, demanded a transfer the following day, saying he did not want to be found with a disorderly house operating on his beat. Soon afterwards, the sergeant transferred him to another beat.

No Comment by Sergeant.

The sergeant named by Schottler told the Post-Dispatch angrily that he woud not comment.

For several days after the incident, Schottler said he pondered the sergeant's remarks regarding the raid. He wondered if the cancellation came from Police Headquarters, as the sergeant's statement indicated, or from a ranking officer in the district.

He recalled that when he first mentioned knowledge of a disorderly house ,the sergeant said: "Do you mean that place across the street from May Traynor's?"

His reference was to a house then being operated in the 4000 block of Forest Park boulevard by Ruby Hoffman. Miss Hoffman, now living in the 4400 block of McPherson avenue, tried recently to obtain the record books and furniture of June's Massage Parlor, which was operated by Mrs. Lytz at 308A North Theresa avenue. She did obtain Mrs. Lytz's telephone number as her own.

The Circuit Attorney's office also is investigating another case arising from a raid last Dec. 7 in which Miss Hoffman, two other women and two men were arrested at a house in the 4400 block of McPherson avenue. The women were charged with prostitution and in addition Miss Hoffman with keeping a bawdy house.

The cases were set for police court hearing last Dec. 13, and the charges were then dropped. Police records of the case have been put in a private file at the request of the Circuit Attorney's office.

Shooting of Mrs. Lytz.

Mrs. Lytz was walking near the North Theresa establishment when she was shot to death on the street April 21 by Guy Nolan, a Negro, under circumstances that had no connection with the alleged police pay-offs.

Mrs. Traynor, arrested many times on morals charges, is an aunt of Joseph Costello, head of Ace Cab Co. and, like his friend Shoulders, also a central figure in the ransom inquiry. The 4200 block of Forest Park is in the Newstead police district.

Several persons, including Brugger, the tavern operator, told the Post-Dispatch that all the furniture in the building at the northeast corner of Boyle and Chouteau was moved out overnight shortly after Shoulders came under investigation in the Greenlease ransom case.

The building is now occupied by firms and families that have no connection with the previous use of the premises or the police pay-off inquiry.

Rent Records Checked.

Records of the real estate firm that manages the building show the first floor was rented Oct. 1, 1952, to the Valley Supply Co. and the upstairs quarters on the same day to Mrs. Lytz. The store rent was $129 a month. Mrs. Lytz paid $36.

Payment of rent by the tenants stopped in June 1953, and the occupants moved out the following October, the real estate firm said. Subsequently a judgment for back rent was obtained. Lytz is still making payments on this.

Capt. Thomas Dirrane, who was commanding officer of the Newstead avenue district, told the Post-Dispatch he had no knowledge of Mrs. Lytz's operations in his district. He said Shoulders never reported to him on vice conditions.

Schottler said he was hesitant to go to Dirrane with his plans for a raid since that would put him in the position of by-passing Shoulders, who was tough with subordinates incurring his anger.

Capt. Dirrane, now at the Page Avenue District, was commanding officer at the Newstead District when Lt. Shoulders bypassed him in reporting the arrest of the Greenlease kidnapers and the recovery of about half of the ransom money.

Shoulders did not inform Dirrane of the arrest of the kidnapers or of the recovery of a large sum of money. Instead, he went over Dirrane's head to inform Police Chief Jeremiah O'Connell and I. A. Long, president of the police board, about midnight of Oct. 7, 1953. The handling of the ransom money became one of the chief issues in the aftermath of the kidnaping.

Mrs. Lytz reportedly lived at June's Massage Parlor on North Theresa avenue while maintaining at the same time the establishment at Boyle and Chouteau. She also tried to open up at other locations, but sometimes ran into police interference.

Schottler has been suspended as a member of the St. Louis Police Department for the last year because he refused to give up his private fingerprinting business.

He has consistently maintained that he was granted permission to engage in an outside business by the Police Board headed by the late William L. Holzhausen. He told the Post-Dispatch he can show a written order to that effect if the Police Board would give him a hearing.

Joined Force in 1940.

He became a member of the force March 1, 1940. He was dropped from the rolls after failing to report for an assignment but was again appointed a probationary patrolman June 22, 1945. In 1949, he obtained an indefinite leave of absence to take a civilian job with the Army in Germany.

Schottler returned to the department March 1, 1952. After about six months in the detective bureau, he was assigned to the Newstead avenue district as a beat patrolman. His office for his private fingerprint work and document examination is at 915 Chestnut street.

Questionnaire for Police.

A detailed questionnaire on personal finances is being prepared by Circuit Attorney Dowd for distribution to policemen who have been named as recipients of pay-offs, the Post-Dispatch learned yesterday.

The questionnaire, consisting of about 20 pages, seeks information on all assets of the policemen, including house, automobile, real estate, personal property and bank accounts.

One hundred copies are being printed and will be distributed this week.

The investigation by a special police squad into alleged police pay-offs will get under way on a full scale tomorrow, Maj. James F. Thompson, head of the squad, announced yesterday.

Thompson, who has asked for 10 policemen to assist him, said the investigation will be conducted daily from 9 a.m. until 1 o'clock the following morning.

If necessary, the work will be on a 24-hour basis, he said.

Named to help Maj. Thompson in his investigation were Detective Sgts. Robert Heckel, William O'Connor, August Ernst and Walter Dorn and Detective Cpl. James Mohan. Each will pick a policeman, subject to Thompson's approval, as an assistant and chauffeur.

The four detective sergeants and the corporal were the personal choices of Thompson, who submitted their names to Police submitted their names to Chief O'Connell for approval.

Tax Returns May Be Checked.

Policemen listed as suspects in receiving pay-offs likely will be asked to show copies of their income tax returns for the last several years, the Post-Dispatch was told.

These returns would be examined for the purpose of determining if the police officers reported income in excess of their departmental salaries.

The Internal Revenue Service has been examining returns of policemen involved in the pay-off inquiry to ascertain if any failed to report income from sources other than salary.

Federal tax liens totaling $421 were filed yesterday against the late Mrs. Lytz, doing business as June's Massage Parlor. The liens were based on withholding taxes allegedly owed for two consecutive three-month periods ending Dec. 31.

An intensive inquiry into the reported pay-offs has been started by the circuit court grand jury under the direction of Circuit Attorney Dowd. The jury heard witnesses for two days last week and will resume its investigation this week.

BAR ASSOCIATION PROTESTS AGAINST TAX OFFICE SHIFT

A protest by the Bar Association of St. Louis against the proposed shifting of the federal estate and gift tax office, a unit of the Internal Revenue office, from St. Louis to Kansas City was forwarded to federal officials at Washington yesterday.

T. Hartley Pollock, association president, in a letter to T. Coleman Andrews, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, said transfer of administrative control of audits, reviews and conferences on estate and gift tax matters "will have a serious financial effect on St. Louis business, because of the necessary travel to Kansas City by taxpayers and counsel." The protest also pointed out that the estate and gift tax regional office, for a nine-state area, was previously shifted to Omaha.

Mrs. Leonor K. Sullivan, St. Louis Congresswoman, has also protested against moving the tax office from St. Louis. She declared the proposal is "entirely out of proportion to any claim of efficiency and economy."

BY-THE-DRINK LIQUOR SALE UP FOR VOTE IN RIVERVIEW

Voters of the Village of Riverview will ballot Tuesday in a special election to determine whether they wish to permit sale of intoxicating liquor by the drink. The polling place at 246 Chambers road will be open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m.

A simple majority is needed to pass the proposition. If the proposal carries, the Board of Trustees will draft an ordinance providing for by-the-drink sales.

SIDNEY H. POCKELS ESTATE INVENTORIED AT $319,898

The estate of Sidney H. Pockels, former head of the Pockels Drug, Glass and Paint Co., was valued at $319,898 in an inventory filed yesterday in probate court.

Principal assets included $38,847 of the company's stock and $270,884 in municipal, state, and county improvement bonds. Under terms of his will, filed previously, the estate was bequeathed to his sister, Miss Alice Pockels, 2322 Sidney street.

Pockels, 72 years old, died April 8. A graduate of the St. Louis College of Pharmacy, he was a member of the glass, drug and paint firm for 55 years and also was head of the Herman Pockels Realty Co., 2344 Gravois avenue. He lived at the Sidney street address.

ARMY CAMPS WILL TRAIN GUARDSMEN

Eight Weeks' Basic Instruction Planned for 12,000 Men Each Year.

WASHINGTON, June 11 (UP)—The Army today announced a new plan under which it will provide basic training for 12,000 national guardsmen each year at regular army installations.

The program, which will start July 1, will be operated on a volunteer basis. State authorities will select the trainees from the list of volunteers.

They will be sent to one of five army camps for eight weeks of regular basic training under army supervision. The recruits, however, will retain their identity with the guard and will be subject to the military laws of the state in which they hold guard membership.

During the training period, they will be paid by the Army the same as active army trainees.

The Army said the purpose of the program is to induce guard recruits to complete their basic training in eight weeks. This will permit guard commanders to place more emphasis on unit type training during armory drill and summer field training, it said.

Military posts where the trainees will be sent include Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. Missouri's state quota is 120 men, that for Illinois 300.

PARKING GROUP TO CONVENE

The National Parking Association, composed of owners of parking lots and garages, will hold its 1956 convention here, it was announced yesterday. The convention is scheduled for early May.

BRITISH STRIKERS REJECT GOVERNMENT WAGE OFFER

LONDON, June 11 (UP)—Hopes for a weekend settlement of Britain's paralyzing rail strike vanished today. The striking Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, ignoring a direct appeal from Labor Minister Sir Walter Monckton, turned down a government wage offer.

No further talks are scheduled until Monday.

Meanwhile, a new walkout on the strikebound waterfront halted the sailing of two liners, the Saxonia and the Media, and stranded 1080 passengers bound for the United States and Canada. Six other passenger ships had previously been prevented from sailing.

AUDREY KREITMAN NAMED TV GUIDE EDITOR HERE

Miss Audrey Kreitman has been appointed editor of the St. Louis edition of TV Guide, national television magazine, it was announced yesterday.

SCIENTISTS REPORT BASIC LIFE ACID

Researchers Think They Have Material of Genes, Carriers of Heredity.

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—A group of British, French and American scientists report they have laid bare in its living state one of the fundamental substances of life.

The substance, deoxyribose nucleic acid, is believed to make up the genes that control heredity.

Results of the studies were reported in the British scientific journal, Nature, and in interviews with the New York Times.

The new studies show that the structure of the substance is identical in man, cattle, plants and bacteria.

Research on the acid, known as D.N.A., started 12 years ago.

In the new studies, the nine scientists extracted, crystallized, X-rayed and analyzed the substance to show how it hangs together.

Scientists taking part in the work include groups at King's College, London; the Genetical Institute, Paris, and the Sloan-Kettering Institute in New York City.

In the long run, the report in Nature suggests, knowledge of the molecular structure of D.N.A. may lead to a chemical explanation of the phenomena of inheritance.

The acid chains in D.N.A. are reported to be so small that molecules can be viewed only through an electron microscope.

The ability of bacterial D.N.A. to reproduce with other bacteria, it was said, has given the strongest evidence yet available that D.N.A. actually is heredity-carrying material.

BOYS' HOME OPPOSES MOVE TO OPEN ANOTHER NEARBY

The board of directors of the Marquette Boys' Home at its annual meeting yesterday voted to oppose a proposal of the Illinois Youth Commission to establish a home for boys from state training schools on the same state-owned property in Grafton, Ill. on which the Marquette home is situated.

The Marquette home, which contains 12 "pre-delinquent" boys from 9 to 14, is supported by the Illinois Federation of Woman's Clubs and other private organizations.

Mrs. Marshall E. Bruce, of 35 Hill Top place, East St. Louis, was re-elected president of the board at yesterday's meeting at the home. Other officers chosen were Alvin A. Stolz, first vice-president; L. E. Shearburn, treasurer; and Mrs. James Boone, secretary, all of Alton.

BONN DEFENSE MINISTRY PLEASED WITH U.S. WEAPONS

BONN, June 11 (AP) — The West German Defense Ministry expressed satisfaction today over the quality of American arms aid promised the new German army.

Defense Minister Theodor Blank said the federal republic's 500,000-man army would receive "the same equipment as the other members of NATO."

The Defense Ministry issued a statement to deny reports that the equipment was "obsolete" and that a dispute over it has developed between American and West German officials. These reports had cropped up in Socialist opposition circles.

50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Longerich, 7129 Hunter avenue, Beverly Hills, will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary with a family dinner Tuesday.

Longerich, 72 years old, has been a photoengraver for 55 years. His wife, Georgia, is 70. They have one daughter, Mrs. John Huemmler, and two grandchildren.

EDWARDSVILLE MAN INJURED IN AUTO CRASH DIES

Vehicle Struck Tree at Curve Where Woman Was Killed 3 Hours Earlier.

Ernest R. Green of Edwardsville died early yesterday in a hospital at Red Bud, Ill., of injuries suffered when his automobile struck a tree at a curve three miles north of there, on Illinois Route 3.

The accident occurred Friday night, just three hours after Mrs. Jesse Marks, 425 Lone Oak drive, Rock Hill, was killed and four others were injured in a two-car collision at the same place, known as "Dead Man's Curve."

Rain had washed clay over a sharp turn in the road and made it especially dangerous.

Green was 29 years old, and was employed by Granite City Steel Co. A companion, Vernon F. Thompson, 40, of Granite City, suffered a head injury.

In an unusual accident on U.S. Highway 67 south of Bonne Terre early yesterday, Glenwood G. Brown, 18, 711 Soulard street, was killed.

He had been in a car driven by Robert E. Layton, 2600A South Compton avenue, and it stlled near the top of a hill. They were working on it, and highway patrolmen had stopped to help them when a tractor-trailer came over the hill.

The truck driver, John W. Merritt, of Farmington, swerved but could not avoid hitting the auto. Layton got out of the way, but Brown was pinned under as the trailer overturned. Merritt escaped injury.

FOUR TALKS ON GOYA'S ART

Miss Mary Powell, supervisor of education at City Art Museum, will present tomorrow the first of four consecutive Monday evening lectures on "Goya: Drawings and prints." All will begin at 7 o'clock, the last being on the last day of the show, July 4.

The exhibition includes 162 drawings and prints, most of them lent by the museums of Madrid. This group of works is the first loan show from Spain under the country's new policy of permitting art works to circulate abroad.

OIL-RICH NATIONS URGED BY POPE TO SHARE WEALTH

VATICAN CITY, June 11 (UP) — Pope Pius XII urged the world's oil-rich nations, in a speech made public today, to share their wealth with less favored peoples.

The Pope made his plea yesterday in a speech from his golden throne in the Vatican Hall of Benedictions to delegates attending a world petroleum congress in Rome.

"The natural riches of a region, a nation or a continent are not destined only for the economic profit of a small number," the Pope said. "The world character of economy becomes more and more apparent and the duties incumbent on privileged nations in respect of those less favored must have their effect on the sharing out of the goods produced."

Hospital Pay for Veteran, 108.

WASHINGTON, June 11 (UP) —Albert Woolson, last surviving veteran of the Union Army in the Civil War, will have no more worries about medical expenses. The Senate passed and sent to the White House yesterday a bill to pay hospital expenses of the 108-year-old Duluth (Minn.), veteran. The House passed the measure May 17.

GAMBLERS FACE $245,207 TAX CLAIM BY U.S.

Partners in East Side Policy Game Uncovered by Kefauver Involved in 3 Suits.

The Internal Revenue Service is attempting to collect $245,207 in unpaid taxes and penalties from a group of East Side gamblers as a result of an investigation begun by the Kefauver crime committee in 1950, the Post-Dispatch learned yesterday.

The gamblers, who were partners in the old Harlem Association, St. Clair county policy racket, operated without interference from local or state law enforcement authorities until the Kefauver committee brought details of the operation to light.

Senator Estes Kefauver, chairman of the committee, announced following a closed hearing here in July 1950 that he had learned the policy racket collected more than $500,000 in one three-month period and reported a net profit of only $7133. At that time he said he was turning over to the Internal Revenue Service details of the operation. He expressed disbelief in the small percentage of profit claimed.

3 Cases Pending.

Three cases involving the operators of the policy game are pending in United States Tax Court at Washington. In one the Government seeks to collect $46,124 in unpaid taxes from 12 operators of the racket. A total of $199,083 is sought in two other cases from individuals who allegedly profited from the illegal enterprise.

The Internal Revenue Service agreed with Senator Kefauver that the declared "take" from 1950 activities of the Harlem Association was too low. Agents arbitrarily declared this to be so and threw out a deduction of $114,239 claimed by the operators.

The Harlem Association, which had headquarters in Brooklyn, all-Negro community north of East St. Louis, declared gross receipts of $700,192 for the first five months of 1950. The operators deducted from the association's income tax returns $665,780 for "hits," or payouts to players. This amounted to 94 per cent of the gross.

Internal Revenue agents claimed "hits" would not exceed 78 per cent of the gross and arbitrarily threw out the $114,239. The decision was based on past experience with gamblers in the policy racket.

Appellants Named.

Attorneys have appealed the assessment in behalf of John Aiken, Tom Berry, Clarence Cange, Vincent H. (Vic) Doyle, Julius Fishman, Eugene Hayes, Sam Magin, William P. (Bow Wow) McQuillan, Claus E. Tietje, D. C. Watson, Cliff Phayer and Frank Hackethal.

In the other pending actions D. C. Watson and his wife, Almonia, of Brooklyn, are charged with tax deficiencies and penalties totaling $109,008 for the 1948-50 period. The Government charges they received $111,184 from the Harlem Association in 1948, $92,676 in 1949 and $123,355 in 1950.

A total of $91,075 is sought from Claus E. Tietje and his wife, Ann, of 10 Hilltop place, East St. Louis, alleging they received $94,005 from the association in 1948, $85,738 in 1949 and $39,355 in 1950.

Income tax returns of the association reported gross receipts of $1,189,438 in 1947, $2,159,854 in 1948 and $1,649,360 in 1949. The Government alleged that income distributed to members totaled $407,995 in 1948, $308,090 in 1949 and $123,405 in the shortened 1950 operation.

The East Side racket, which once was known as the Eagle Park Lottery, operated for many years under various names. Headquarters depended on the political climate, being sometimes in St. Clair county and other times in Madison county.

Policy "writers," as the distributors of policy slips are known, operated on both sides of the Mississippi river. They received 25 per cent of the bets they took as commission.

Two of the 1950 operators of the game are dead. They are Hackethal, former Egan gangster, and Phayer, Madison county gambler.

McQuillan, former partner in the old Mounds Club, was reported by the Post-Dispatch in 1946 to be representing interests of the Chicago Capone syndicate in the lottery. Berry, whose home is in Belleville, now operates a casino in Las Vegas, Nev. Doyle once was East St. Louis's biggest gambling house operator.

VALUE OF W. E. TARLTON'S ESTATE LISTED AT $234,397

The estate of the late Walter E. Tarlton, vice president and member of the board of directors of the Brown Shoe Co. before his retirement in 1952, was valued at $234,397 in an inventory filed yesterday in probate court.

Chief assets of the estate included 2700 shares of the shoe firm's stock, value at $227,475. In his will, he established a trust fund for his wife, Mrs. Mildred R. Tarlton.

Tarlton died April 20 at the age of 73 at his home, 625 Skinker boulevard. He had been with the shoe company since 1898 and held executive positions for 20 years before his retirement.

WALTER HAMPDEN, VETERAN ACTOR, DIES

Stricken in Taxicab—Noted for Shakespearean Roles.

HOLLYWOOD, une 11 (AP)—Walter Hampden, actor of stage, screen and television, died today at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital. He suffered a stroke Thursday.

Particularly noted for his Shakespearean roles, Mr. Hampden came to Hollywood from New York to take a role in a movie. He started work at M.G.M. studio Wednesday. He was stricken in a taxicab the next day on his way to the studio.

Born Walter Hampden Dougherty in Brooklyn, the actor would have been 76 years old June 30. He was graduated from Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute in 1900. At the institute he joined its dramatic society. At 16 he portrayed Shylock in "The Merchant of Venice."

He lated went to France to study music. He left Paris and ran off to England to join the touring F. R. Benson Co. For the next three years he played Shakespearean roles ranging from comedy to tragedy. His biggest success was as Romeo. A performance as Hamlet established Hampden's reputation as an actor in London.

Returning to the United States, he made his American debut as leading man for Alla Nazimova in a comedy, "Comtesse Coquette."

His performance in "The Servant in the House" brought critical acclaim. For 10 years thereafter he performed in light plays. Then he did "Julius Caeser," "Hamlet" and "Macbeth" at the Shakespeare playhouse in New York. His performances were so well received that he determined to confine himself to serious roles.

One of his notable achievements was 1000 appearances in Edmond Rostand's romantic comedy, "Cyrano de Bergerac."

His films included "All About Eve," "The First Legion," "Five Fingers," "Treasure of the Golden Condor" and "Sombrero."

His home was in Ridgefield, Conn. Surviving are his wife, English actress Mabel Moore, and a son, Paul, of New York.

He had been president of the Players Club in New York since 1928.

Walter Hampden appeared in "Caponsacchi," a romantic tragedy based upon Robert Browning's poem, "The Ring and the Book," at the old American Theater in 1933. He returned the following year in Bulwer-Lytton's "Richelieu" and in "The Servant in the House," "Macbeth" and "Hamlet."

His next appearance was in 1936 in the title role of Edmond Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac."

BOYCOTT OF SHIVERS AT U.S.C. FIZZLES

Texas Governor Addresses Overflow Crowd at Commencement.

LOS ANGELES, June 11 (AP)—A threatened boycott fizzled today as Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas spoke to an overflow crowd of 14,000 at the University of Southern California commencement.

Although the Governor had to skirt a protest picket line as he left his hotel, he had no trouble when he arrived at the university.

Shivers who received a degree of doctor of laws, was applauded following his speech, in which he hinted at the controversy his visit aroused.

"There has been, I understand, some division of opinion as to the appropriateness of this particular occasion," he said. "That I can fully appreciate. I have long held to the school of thought that the moment of graduation is an inappropriate time for speech making."

Extra police were on duty because two weeks ago some students and faculty members protested against the choice of Shivers as commencement speaker. The student senate adopted a critical resolution and a petition was signed by 136 faculty members. The senate has about 35 members.

Both the students and faculty groups proposed a boycott.

Student leaders said the senate action stemmed from Shivers's views on segregation.

As the Governor left the Beverly Hills Hotel this morning about 150 students, claiming to be from universities and colleges in this area, marched carrying placards. The signs had such slogans as "Education, Not Segregation." "We Believe in Brotherhood, Not Shiverism," and "Shivers, You Give Me the Chills."

This was the only demonstration. In the graduation throng it became impossible to tell if the student senators had all remained away from the graduation. The section provided for faculty members was full, but customarily the section does not have seats for all the faculty.

Although the faculty numbers about 1000, only 300 seats are provided as this is part of a two-week vacation between the close of the regular semester and the start of summer school.

One student who did boycott the ceremony was Bill Van Alstyne, president of the student body. He picked up his diploma afterward. Although he had urged the 3116 graduates to boycott, apparently not many followed his lead.

SPECIAL INSTITUTES OPEN TOMORROW AT ST. LOUIS U.

Three special study institutes beginning tomorrow will open the 1955 summer program at St. Louis University, it was announced yesterday.

Subjects of the three courses, which will run for one week, are developmental concepts in childhood and adolescence, exceptional children and teaching sociology. College credit may be earned in these special programs, which are not part of the regular summer session.

Other special institutes to be held later in the summer include courses in reading problems, human relations and group guidance, hospital administration, chemistry teaching and children's literature.

DRIVER OF LAUNDRY TRUCK IS ROBBED

$107 Stolen by Armed Pair — Woman Beaten by Purse Thief.

A laundry truck driver was robbed of $107 yesterday afternoon by two men, one armed with a knife and the other with a pistol, who hid themselves in the truck and held him up after he made a delivery in the 4200 block of West Cook avenue.

The driver, Warren C. Spraul, 5308 Bancroft avenue, an employe of Sunshine Laundry & Dry Cleaning Co., 2323 Rutger street, said the men, both Negroes, held a knife at his throat and a pistol at his side.

Spraul said the robbers returned his wallet after removing the money, which was company funds. He said they then leaped from the truck and ran away.

Mrs. Clara Moore, 60 years old, was knocked down and beaten early yesterday when she resisted a robber, who seized her purse containing $50 in front of her home, 5352 Terry avenue.

The robber, a Negro, stopped her on the sidewalk, after she had parked her automobile at 4:15 a.m. He fled with her purse and also a shopping bag of groceries she was carrying.

Ford McChesney, an Ace cab driver, 4167 Olive street, reported he was robbed of $25 early yesterday by two men who hailed him at Vandeventer avenue and Olive street and ordered him to stop in the 4100 block of Lindell boulevard.

One of the pair held a knife at his throat, he said. McChesney said he ran away after throwing $25 on the floor of the cab. One robber then drove the cab away, but the other apparently left the scene on foot, McChesney said. The cab was found a short time later in the 4500 block of West Pine boulevard. The $25 was gone.

Dreiser's Sister-in-Law Dies.

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—Mrs. Mai V. Dreiser, sister-in-law of the late novelist Theodore Dreiser, died today. She was the wife of Edward Dreiser, 82, retired silk merchant and former actor. She was 76 years old.

TALK BY MRS. BRUNGARD

Mrs. Edward G. Brungard, director of public welfare for St. Louis, will be the guest speaker at the annual meeting of the General Council of Civic Needs at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Automobile Club of Missouri, 3917 Lindell boulevard.

It's the finest home cooler in America—any home cooler that approaches this fine quality would sell for as much as $75 or more! Giant capacity keeps your home comfortably cool; removes "stale" air. Quiet-operating, belt driven and long-lasting, it will give you many years of trouble-free, continuous satisfaction. Easy to install, fits snugly into windows 27¼ to 37½ inches wide—a screwdriver does the job.
5 YEAR GUARANTEE Homart Home Cooler is guaranteed for 5 years by Sears! Should it require service, your nearest Sears store will honor the guarantee. No bother or delay to return it to manufacturer, as most factory-guaranteed fans require.
Public Demand Has Created a Tremendous Market for Home Coolers—and many manufacturers have tried to produce a comparable 20-inch home cooler at this price—but without these 2 important, superior qualities, they are merely fans—NOT HOME COOLERS.
No One Has Duplicated This Homart Home Cooler! For 15 years no other manufacturer has produced a comparable Home Cooler at this low price! The deep pitch blades and expensive, heavier motor make the cost prohibitive. It's proof again that "You Get More for Your Money at Sears"!

BRADLEY TALKED OF FOR SENATOR FROM CALIFORNIA

Dan A. Kimball, Another Missourian, Also Among Top Choices of Democrats.

By EDWARD A. HARRIS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, June 11—Two native Missourians, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, former chief of staff of the United States Army, and former Secretary of the Navy Dan A. Kimball are among the top choices of Democratic politicians here for the Senate seat at stake in the California campaign next year, inquiry disclosed today.

The two-year term of Republican Senator Thomas H. Kuchel expires next year. Kuchel was elected for the short term last year over the Democratic nominee, Representative Sam W. Yorty, to fill out the unexpired term of Richard M. Nixon, to whose Senate seat he had been named by the Governor when Nixon became Vice-President.

Yorty, who lost his House seat also by running for the Senate, is anxious to have another try at Kuchel. But he failed to give Kuchel a really close race last year, and party leaders here have been casting about for a Democrat more likely to win.

Brown First Choice.

Their first choice, the Post-Dispatch was told, is State Attorney General Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, whose impressive winning of both the Democratic and Republican primaries last year under the state's dual filing system stamped him as a vote-getter with a future.

Democratic leaders are convinced that Brown would be an easy victor over the relatively colorless Kuchel, but they are far from sure they can persuade Brown to run for the Senate. Elected to the state office for a four-year term, Brown could run without giving up that office, a point that will be presented to the Attorney General with increasing emphasis.

Brown, however, appears to want to keep the attorney generalship as an eventual stepping stone to the Governor's mansion, now occupied by Goodwin J. Knight. Knight has been discussed by some Republicans as a possible dark horse for the G.O.P. nomination for President in the event President Eisenhower does not run. Other Republican hopefuls include Senator William F. Knowland, and Nixon, should Mr. Eisenhower take himself out.

If Brown remains adamant, Kimball is tentatively the second choice of important Democratic politicos. Kimball is said to be willing to make the race, and party leaders believe he, too, could whip Senator Kuchel. Kimball, 59 years old, was born in St. Louis and attended the public schools there before starting his career in 1920 as manager of a national tire company branch in Los Angeles. He is now president of the Aerojet-General Corp. here.

Bradley, 62 years old, a native of Clark, Mo., is third choice only because there is so much doubt in the minds of state party leaders that he can be persuaded to run. An avowed willingness to toss his hat in the ring might raise him to first place in the thinking of the politicians, but it known that Bradley was approached last year before the primary elections and refused, at that time, to go into politics. He is now board chairman of the Bulova Research and Development Laboratories in Los Angeles.

Asked by the Post-Dispatch how he reacts to renewed talk of a Senate race, Bradley replied: "I don't." He confirmed that he had been approached last year on the subject, but said his reasons then for not running still held true today, and were personal in nature. However, from other sources it was learned the door may not be irrevocably closed in Bradley's case, and he remains very much in the preliminary discussions.

One of the best known military men in the nation and the world, Bradley served as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff from 1949 to 1953, when he retired. It is generally agreed here that he would gather heavy bipartisan strength if he did run.

Two Other Names.

Two other names have been mentioned. Robert M. Hutchins, head of the Ford-underwritten Fund for the Republic, with western offices in nearby Pasadena, is said by friends to be less interested in the Senate race now than he was a year ago.

Representative James Roosevelt, who was elected last year to Yorty's House seat, has been rumored as a possible Senate candidate but this is discounted by friends who insist he would not compete with Yorty.

Much may depend on whether Mr. Eisenhower runs again. If he does, the Democrats believe they will need their strongest possible candidate to beat Kuchel in the Senate sweepstakes. But if the President bows out, it is speculated even Yorty would have an excellent chance to win. Yorty lost by about 200,000 votes in 1954, but reported expenditures of only $17,000 compared to reported expenditures of nearly $300,000 by Kuchel.

This Water Extra Hard.

SABULA, Ia., June 11 (UP)—Officers raided a tavern here and at first found nothing amiss. Then a policeman turned on a water faucet to get a drink of water. Out flowed whisky. Owner Elmer Patterson was charged with violating Iowa liquor laws.

CREEK POLLUTION BARS SOME FHA LOANS ON HOMES

Sewage Impairs Market Values of Coldwater Area Houses, Official Says.

Sewage, either "raw or partly treated" is polluting much of Coldwater Creek to such an extent that the Federal Housing Administration often refuses to insure loans on nearby property, Alan T. Smith, director of the St. Louis FHA office, said yesterday.

A sanitary trunk sewer line has been proposed for the area.

"In many instances FHA will not insure loans on property within about 300 feet of a major part of the creek because the pollution impairs marketability of adjacent property," Smith said.

The board of trustees of the Metropolitan Sewer District has scheduled the first of four public meetings for Tuesday at 8 p.m. to discuss a proposal to establish a Coldwater Creek sanitary subdistrict. The meeting will be held in the Florissant Elementary School, Washington avenue and St. Jean street, Florissant.

Other Hearings.

Other hearings are scheduled as follows: Thursday, St. Ann Elementary School, 3721 St. Bridget lane, St. Ann; June 21, Berkeley Junior High School, 6033 Caroline avenue, Berkeley, and June 23, Elm Grove Elementary School, Highway 140 and Taylor road, Hazelwood.

"Foul-smelling, mosquito-breeding and germ-carrying sewage now flows in the open channel of most of the creek, making it essentially an open sewer," L. E. Ordelheide, executive director of the Metropolitan Sewer District, said.

The sewer district proposes construction of about eight miles of a sanitary trunk line sewer to enclose and carry sewage that now runs in the open in Coldwater Creek. Officials of the district also are seeking approval to construct a plant to treat the sewage before it is discharged into the Missouri river above St. Louis's Chain of Rocks Waterworks on the Mississippi.

An area of about 40 square miles that drains into the creek would make up the proposed Coldwater Creek sanitary trunk sewer subdistrict. The St. Louis County Planning Commission lists the population of the Coldwater Creek watershed at about 55,000.

Ordelheide said the purpose of the public hearings is to determine sentiment of people in the area toward establishment of the proposed sewer subdistrict. Trustees of the Metropolitan Sewer District will determine after the public meetings whether the subdistrict should be established.

If the board votes to adopt an ordinance creating the subdistrict, Ordelheide said, engineering studies will be made to determine the design of the proposed trunk sewer and sewage treatment plant, construction costs and proposed methods of financing construction.

He added that mass meetings will be held after completion of these studies "to explain all the features of design, cost and financing." Ordelheide said any bond issue would be submitted to the voters in the subdistrict.

Creek 19 Miles Long.

Coldwater Creek is about 19 miles long. It starts near Lackland avenue and Ashby road in Overland and runs northward to about New Hall's Ferry road, where it turns eastward and empties into the Missouri a short distance above the river's confluence with the Mississippi.

The confluence of the two rivers is a few miles above the Chain of Rocks water intake and purification plant, from which St. Louis gets most of its water supply.

Ordelheide said there are about 12 existing sewage treatment plants that discharge into Coldwater Creek from about St. Charles road northward to about Highway 140. He added that most of these are so outmoded or so overloaded that the sewage from their areas goes into the creek in virtually raw condition.

In some parts of the watershed, raw sewage goes directly into the creek, he said, and there also are many hundreds of small individual septic tanks whose drainage adds to the pollution of Coldwater Creek.

Sister Susanne Marie Vachon C.S.J., president of Fontbonne College, will be a participant in an institute for college presidents next Sunday through June 24 at Harvard University sponsored by the Association of American Colleges and financed by the Carnegie Foundation, it was announced yesterday.

Sister Margaret John Purcell C.S.J., associate professor of English at Fontbonne, will represent the college at the North Central Workshop for representative of liberal arts colleges at the University of Minnesota for four weeks beginning tomorrow.

Y.M.C.A. DAY CAMP PROGRAM

More than 225 boys and girls between the ages of 6 and 12 have enrolled in the Y.M.C.A.'s day camping program, it was announced yesterday.

The Y.M.C.A. furnishes transportation for campers, who will make daily trips to Babler State Park under the supervision of counselors. The camp will be in session for three periods of two weeks each: June 20 to July 2; July 4 to July 16, and July 18 to July 30.

CIO-USW OFFICER SWEARS HE NEVER WAS COMMUNIST

'Shocked and Amazed' to Learn He Was at Red Meeting, Says John J. Mullen.

WASHINGTON, June 11 (UP)—John J. Mullen, an officer of the CIO United Steel Workers union, declared firmly under oath today he never had been a Communist nor "in any way" associated with the Communist party. Mullen, Mayor of Clairton, Pa., from 1938 to 1953, contradicted testimony given by former undercover agents for the Federal Bureau of Investigation who said he had been a member of the party.

He admitted that unknowingly he once had been taken to a Communist party meeting but he said he was so "shocked and amazed" that he left as soon as he could.

Mullen testified before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee about his relations with Michael A. Musmanno, associate justice of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, in which three 1953 bribery trials at Clairton figured.

The witness gave a somewhat long and complicated explanation. He said, however, that Musmanno never had asked him to "do anything wrong" in connection with the trials.

Earlier Musmanno had accused Mullen of trying to "smear" him at the time in statements given to the district attorney and Pittsburgh newspapers.

Murray Fired Organizer.

In his account of his attendance at a Communist party meeting in 1936 in Pittsburgh, Mullen—who is director of political activity for the USW—said an organizer named George Powers took him to the meeting in a yellow brick building in the "Hill section" of Pittsburgh one night when Powers was driving him home. Mullen said he "raised heck and asked (Powers) to take me out of there and he did."

He said he immediately told Philip Murray, then president of the USW, about the incident and that Powers was fired shortly afterward.

Yesterday, two former FBI undercover agents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Mazzei, testified they once attended a closed Communist party meeting in Pittsburgh where Mullen allegedly presided.

A third agent, Matthew Cvetic, identified a list of names with Mullen listed as a "no card" Communist party member. He said he first had seen the list in the Pittsburgh headquarters of the party, but he never had seen Mullen at a closed party meeting.

Denies Knowing Accuser.

In another denial, Mullen contradicted sworn testimony yesterday by Flavian Stazer of Pittsburgh, an admitted former Communist, that he served on a Communist-supported "unemployment council" in Pittsburgh during the depression.

Mullen swore that he never saw Stazer until yesterday and stuck by the statement when the subcommittee asked Stazer to stand up in the audience.

Mullen insisted that C. Joseph Recht, former Clairton city attorney, told him of a conversation in which Mazzei, according to Recht, made what appeared to be a threat against Mullen. The subcommittee inserted in its record Recht's affidavit denying making any such statement.

According to Mullen's account, Recht said Mazzei said that he wasn't through with Mullen and would get him yet.

JEFFERSON'S HOME FILLED WITH GADGETS—BUT NO TV

WASHINGTON, June 11 (UP)—Representative Clifton Young (Rep.), Nevada, and his 6-year-old son, Mark, recently visited Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson near Charlottesville, Va.

Young was impressed by the many ingenious gadgets which Jefferson installed to make life more comfortable in colonial days.

He told his constituents in a news letter today that, to test his son's power of observation, he asked him afterward if he had noticed anything unusual.

"Yes," said Mark. "No TV."

MISSOURI JET PILOT BURNED TO DEATH IN CRASH LANDING

FLINT, Mich., June 11—The pilot of an Air Force F-89D Scorpion jet was burned to death last night when his plane caught fire on a routine training flight and crashed near Bishop Field here.

Air Force officials identified the victim as Lt. Joseph A. Bostic, 27, of Springfield, Mo. They said a radar man, Lt. Leo P. Bouska, 23, of Shawnee, Okla., was pulled to safety by two civilians.

An Air Force spokesman said Bostic was practicing instrument landings on a routine flight from Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Oscoda, Mich., when his right engine caught fire. They said nearby cornfield. An aramament team was sent to disarm them.

The spokesman said Bostic attempted to land the plane at Bishop Field, but overshot the runway and made a belly landing. He was dead when the civilians reached the craft but they were able to rescue Bouska. he jettisoned live rockets in a nearby cornfield.

CHARGES LEV HAS NOT DISPROVED BRIBE CHARGES

McClellan Makes Accusation as Senate Group Ends Inquiry on Uniform Buying.

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—Senator John L. McClellan (Dem.), Arkansas, closed an investigation of alleged graft in military uniform purchases today with a statement that Chicago hat maker Harry Lev had "failed" to disprove charges he paid $50,000 in bribes to a suspended Air Force captain.

Lev, meanwhile, insisted he could not remember at all how he spent $213,924 in unaccounted for cash withdrawals from his Chicago banks in 1952 and 1953. He was resentful when senators questioned his truthfulness on this and other points.

The investigators developed that Lev, who made a fortune on government contracts, is in trouble with federal income tax agents.

To the end, after five days of testimony varying from stormy to hilarious, Lev insisted none of his money found its way into bribes, blackmail or favoritism for government purchasing officials.

Stories of such deals, which Senator Bender (Rep.), Ohio, called "stinky," were reported repeatedly in the Senate Investigations subcommittee hearings which began May 18.

'Wise Guy' a Long Time.

"Don't be funny," Senator Jackson (Dem.), Washington, told Lev at one point today. "You've been a wise guy here for a long time. If there is any truth in you it ought to come out right now."

His face flushing, Lev retorted "I object to your telling me 'if' there is any truth. I object for saying I am wise."

Lev, once a refugee from Pinsk, Poland, who says he can neither read nor write English, promised the subcommittee a statement later about the $213,924. "I don't remember, but I'm going to," he insisted, puffing on a cigar. He said he could not recall now what he did with even $5 of the sum.

Leon M. Levy of Brooklyn, a rival manufacturer, told the subcommittee earlier he heard that Lev paid $50,000 in bribes to Air Force Capt. Raymond Wool, who once headed military purchasing offices in New York.

Wool denied this. Asked about $16,000 in cash he kept in an iron box in his home, Wool said most of it was profit from a dress shop, which he failed to report on his income-tax return. Senators insisted the tax returns were right and the money came from other sources.

Wool now faces court-martial on charges he accepted favors from military contractors "for services rendered."

Asks for Proof.

McClellan, subcommittee chairman, brought out that Lev claimed $50,000 in "entertainment and promotional expenses" on his 1952 income-tax return. He asked if Lev had any documents to back up the claim.

"I haven't," Lev replied.

Theodore C. Weinberg, Lev's income tax adviser, told the subcommittee revenue agents already have challenged Lev's tax deductions from the year 1950 down."

Weinberg, in testimony yesterday said he filled out the 1952, 1953 and 1954 forms and warned Lev that any claimed deductions for "promotional" expenses on government contracts would be illegal.

Weinberg said he told Lev that the items would be "red-lettered and flagged" by tax agents. Weinberg said he never asked Lev whether "payoffs" were among the expense items, which he said were never itemized.

Carmine Bellino, a subcommittee auditor and former assistant to FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover, testified he found "no records available" to explain what Lev did with $125,859 in 1952 and $88,065 in 1953, withdrawn in cash from various bank accounts. He added that altogether $1,403,245 in cash passed through Lev's hands in those years.

No Records Kept.

Under hammering questions as to what he did with the $213,924 in cash withdrawals, Lev said, "I have not kept any records. I (will) bring it out of my head in a statement," which he said he would furnish later.

"Who are you going to talk to about these expenditures?" Bender asked.

"Myself," Lev replied.

Bender protested to Lev, voluble in earlier hearings, "now all of a sudden you become deaf, dumb and blind."

Lev: "I resent this here."

Senator Jackson interjected, "You need a few weeks to make up a statement."

"I am not trying to 'make up' a statement," Lev insisted.

Lev commented he was resentful because Bellino "didn't trust me" and used a subpena to get his bank records.

Lev, who has declared the committee should give him a medal of honor for his work on the contracts, was asked how much of the cash went to Marvin Rubin, a business hustler for manufacturers, who Bender says was a "payoff man" for Lev.

"Not a broken cent," Lev replied.

"How much to Capt. Wool?" Bender pressed.

"I resent this here question," Lev responded, insisting none of the money went to Wool.

New African Phone Line.

KHARTOUM, June 11 (AP)—Premier Ismail El Azhari of the Sudan opened the longest telephone line in Africa this week. Across 1750 miles largely paralleling the Nile, it links Cairo and Khartoum with Juba, a southern Sudanese town of 8500.

Week's Votes By Illinoisans, Missourians

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 11—Following are recorded votes of Missouri and Illinois members of Congress on important measures in the last week.

SENATE

On amendment to federal housing bill, substitution the Administration's proposal limiting construction of public housing to 35,000 units a year for two years. Rejected, 38 to 44. Missouri: Nay—Hennings and Symington (Dems.); Illinois: Nay—Douglas, (Dem.). Not voting and not announced Dirksen (Rep.).

On housing bill, calling for construction of 135,000 units a year until authorized total of 810,000, set in 1949 housing act, is reached. Passed, 60 to 25. Missouri: Yea—Hennings and Symington (Dems.); Illinois: Yea—Douglas (Dem.). Not voting and not announced—Dirksen (Rep.).

HOUSE

On second postal pay rise bill, providing average 8 per cent increase in place of 8.59 per cent rise vetoed by President Eisenhower. Passed 409 to 1, and, after Senate agreed to minor changes, sent to the President, who signed it yesterday. Missouri: Yea—Karsten, Mrs. Sullivan, Bolling, Cannon, Carnahan, Christopher, Jones and Moulder (Dems.) and Short (Rep.); Southern Illinois: Yea—Price, Gray ond Mack (Dems.), and Simpson, Springer and Vursell (Reps.).

On inter-American highway bill, authorizing appropriation of $65,730,000 and construction in three years instead of six, as now scheduled. Passed, 353 to 13, Missouri: Yea — Karsten, Mrs. Sullivan, Bolling, Cannon, Carnahan, Christopher, Hull and Jones (Dems.), and Curtis (Rep.). Not voting and not announced — Moulder (Dem.) and Short (Rep.); Southern Illinois: Price, Gray and Mack (Dems.), and Simpson, Springer and Vursell (Reps.).

TURNCOAT SOLDIER HOPES TO MARRY RUSSIAN GIRL

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 11 (AP)—Samuel David Hawkins, turncoat soldier who remained with the Communists after being captured in Korea, has fallen in love with a Russian girl in China and hopes to marry her, his mother said today.

The mother, Mrs. Carlos Jones, said the girl is an employe in the Russian embassy in Peiping, where he attends Peiping University.

She said her son, who was captured by the Reds in Korea two months after he reached 17, has expressed no desire to return to this country. He is now 21 years old.

Canadian Train Derailed.

MONCTON, N.B., June 11 (AP) — The Canadian National Railways said today its Sydney-Halifax passenger train was derailed near West River, N.S., last night by someone who ripped away part of a switch. The locomotive and seven cars left the tracks but the only reported injury was to the fireman.

U.S. PLANE CRASHES IN GERMANY, 10 DIE

All of Crew Killed as Bomber Hits Mountain in Heavy Fog.

STUTTGART, Germany, June 11 (UP)—All 10 crew members of a United States Super Fortress were killed when their plane, flying up a dead-end valley and with visibility cut to 30 feet by fog, crashed into a mountainside and burned last night, the Air Force announced today.

"There were no survivors," an Air Force spokesman said after rescue teams reached the scene of the crash 1300 feet up the side of the 2200-foot peak Teckberg, in the Swabian Alps.

The plane, from Molesworth Air Force Base in England, was on a non-stop instrument training flight over Germany when it crashed 13 miles southeast of Stuttgart.

Instrument failure or a miscalculation of the crew while flying blind over unfamiliar territory was blamed for the crash.

The pilot flying on instruments let down for a practice approach to the Stuttgart air field and was climbing away from the field for a return flight to England when radio contact was lost with the aircraft.

His climb was too slow and he flew up a dead-end valley 900 feet below the summit of the surrounding hills, officials said.

"Visibility was only 30 feet," an official said. "The pilot apparently tried at the last minute to pull the plane up, clear of the peak that loomed in front of him."

Air Force rescue teams and detachments of German police reached the scene early this morning near the village of Owen.

ROBERT WILCOX DIES, HUSBAND OF DIANA BARRYMORE

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 11 (UP)—Robert W. Wilcox, actor-husband of actress Diana Barrymore, suffered a fatal heart attack today in his compartment aboard a westbound New York Central railroad train.

An autopsy, disclosed that the 44-year-old actor died "of natural causes." A book was found in the berth alongside the body, indicating Wilcox fell asleep while reading.

He was en route here from New York City to visit his mother, Mrs. Roscoe Wilcox. He had recently appeared on tour with Miss Barrymore in the play "Pajama Tops."

Miss Barrymore and he had been separated numerous times during a stormy marriage. Wilcox also had been married to Florence Rice, actress-daughter of the late Grantland Rice. The marriage ended in divorce in July 1940 after one year.

During a five-year movie career, he appeared in 26 movies.

Wilcox also served four years in the United States Army during World War II, being discharged as a captain.

MRS. F. S. CAMPBELL DIES

Mrs. Marie T. Campbell, wife of Dr. Forrest S. Campbell, dentist, died yesterday of cancer at her home, 975 Nancy Carol lane, Glendale. She was 33 years old.

Surviving, besides her husband, are a daughter, Patricia, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Farley. Funeral services will be at 9 a.m. Tuesday at Mary Queen of Peace Catholic Church, Webster Groves. Burial will be in Resurrection Cemetery.

praisal firms. The report of this special committee was widely distributed in the county and had general approval and acceptance.

"Resolutions have been received from the County League of Municipalities, from the State League of Municipalities president and from various school districts, among which were Clayton, Normandy, Maplewood-Richmond Heights and others.

"The St. Louis County Chamber of Commerce studied the plan and the program and urged that it be adopted. The Mayor and the Collector of the City of Clayton have offered their assistance to effect the reappraisal in the City of Clayton with respect to land values at once.

"Your committee has sought and obtained assurances from the title companies in St. Louis county and other large corporations located in the county that they would voluntarily furnish pertinent records and information as well as personnel to expedite the work of reappraisal.

Tax Commission Advised.

"The committee has met with and advised the State Tax Commission in Jefferson City of the steps taken and to be taken in order to complete this work. We shall continue to keep the State Tax Commission fully advised, as, when we last met with them, they stated they had not made an official order and could not do so until the report of the County Clerk on the assessed valuations was turned over to them. We pointed out the substantial increases in valuation already reported in the county school districts which were on the books for 1955.

"On Friday morning we met with the representatives of two nationally known and recommended appraisal firms and discussed the proposals which they had submitted. On next Monday morning and on Monday evening we have scheduled meetings with the other appraisal firms which have made proposals pursuant to our invitation.

"The proposals have been professionally presented. We shall continue our schedule and we have not abandoned our plans for a systematic appraisal. The appraisers have co-operated completely with us and are giving the county every consideration in permitting us to finance the reappraisal within funds which may be available in 1955 and 1956."

The statement concluded by saying that a blanket increase would not be put into effect.

Delay in Increase Needed.

The plan for a scientific reappraisal is conditioned on the willingness of the State Tax Commission to postpone the increase until next year. None of the members of the Commission has indicated any intention of so doing.

County Clerk Leo Sievers must furnish abstracts of the assessment rolls to the State Tax Commission by June 20. The order may come down at any time thereafter. It then becomes Sievers's duty to apply the increase to each piece of property on the Assessor's books. Tax Commission Chairman Robertson has indicated that failure to carry out the order would call for court action.

Matthews has said that the tax rate would have to be reduced if the assessments are raised to the extent contemplated by the Commission, and a number of county school boards have gone on record pledging a reduction in the rate for their school districts if the increase becomes effective. However, if the rate is reduced it will be reduced also on the distributive property of public utilities, on personal property and on merchants and manufacturers' inventories.

Shift to Realty Tax.

This means that if the rate is reduced to produce the same amount of revenue, some of the burden now borne by the utilities, personal property owners and merchants and manufacturers will be shifted to real estate. How much the increase in real estate taxes will be cannot be known until the new assessment total and the new tax rate are determined.

Mayor Ray Parker of Brentwood, president of the County League of Municipalities until last month, in a statement yesterday said he felt certain the County Council would have ways and means of financing the revaluation project.

He pointed out the league had passed a resolution several months ago approving the council's stand in opposing an immediate blanket revaluation.

"The league felt that all expeditious and orderly reassessment was the only fair and equitable manner in which to approach this problem," Parker asserted. "I sat in several meetings at that time with the supervisor and most of the other county officials whose departments would be directly affected by this revaluation.

"Estimated figures were given on cost and the mayors of the county league were unanimous in their desire to assist the council and the assessor's office in an orderly reassessment."

ALL-MAGNESIUM JET PLANE IS TESTED BY AIR FORCE

MITCHELL AIR FORCE BASE, N.Y., June 11 (AP)—An experimental jet fighter-trainer built entirely of magnesium made a test flight today. Air Force authorities described the test as successful but gave no details.

The single-jet Lockheed plane was piloted by Capt. Richard Ramsbottom. The Air Force said the aircraft needs fewer stiffening members and has 1100 fewer parts than planes built of aluminum.

The East Coast Aeronautics Corp. of Pelham, N.Y., designers and manufacturers of the plane, said it will cost 20 per cent less to build than its aluminum counterpart and will be 10 miles per hour faster.

ADM. BEN MOREELL TO GIVE TALK BEFORE ENGINEERS HERE

Adm. Ben Moreell, U.S. Navy (ret.), head of the Hoover Commission committee on water resources and power, will address the American Society of Civil Engineers at a convention beginning Tuesday at Hotel Jefferson.

The convention, which will end Friday, also will include discussions and technical sessions on flood and channel control, dams, highways, structures, foundations, surveying, soil mechanics and city planning.

Other speakers include Mayor Raymond R. Tucker, Brig. Gen. John R. Hardin, head of the Army Corps of Engineers for the lower Mississippi valley, and William R. Glidden, national president of the society.

POLICE HEAD OFF 200-YOUTH GANG FIGHT IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—Police last night headed off a gang battle in which 200 youths were to have clashed to decide what group should rule the roost in Riverside park.

Just before the fight was to start, police rounded up 38 boys between the ages of 13 and 19. Ten were later released. Of the others, 23 were charged with juvenile delinquency and five with unlawful assembly.

Found hidden near the scheduled battle scene was a collection of makeshift and dangerous weapons. They included a sharpened bayonet, iron pipes, broom-handle clubs, beer-can openers and spear-like stakes with sharp points on the end.

From the youths picked up police learned that the battle, or "gang rumble," had been formally called by the "Balkans" and the "Villains."

The "Balkans," who center their activities at Broadway and 115th street, had claimed the park as their exclusive preserve. They were challenged by the "Villains" from around 130th street and Amsterdam avenue. Both groups recruited reinforcements from other gangs.

NATIONALIST PILOT REPORTED TO HAVE DESERTED TO REDS

TOKYO, June 11 (AP)—A Nationalist Chinese air force officer deserted to Red China on May 18 with an F-47 fighter-bomber, the Peiping radio said today.

The broadcast identified him as Ho Wei-chin and said he was given a "rousing welcome" in Shanghai.

GAMBLING SQUAD ARRESTS MAN IN RAID ON APARTMENT

Martin Steffen, 63 years old, was arrested by police yesterday in his apartment at 6160 South Grand boulevard and booked suspected of establishing and keeping a common gambling house.

The raid was made by members of the gambling squad under the leadership of Sgt. Robert Matteson, who had obtained a warrant to search the premises. Police said they siezed a number of betting tabs.

In the hour police were in the apartment, they took telephone calls for horse-race bets totaling $570, they said. Records show Steffen was fined $350 in Circuit Court in 1951 on a plea of guilty to a gambling charge and had been arrested numerous times on allegations of similar charges since the middle 30s, police said.

1500 PHYSICIANS URGE CHANGE IN SECURITY SETUP

ened the nation's security.

"On the contrary, knowledge of such distressing experiences has discouraged the participation of highly qualified physicians in research projects and programs vital to the nation's health. The effect of unsupported attacks on the reputation of medical scientists has thus been the precise opposite of that intended to be achieved by the employe security program.

"As citizens, we are deeply troubled by these departures from traditional American methods of adjudication, which are rightly regarded as essential elements of our democratic heritage. As physicians, we are more particularly concerned by the discernibly harmful impact of such proceedings on our special field of work."

Most areas of medicine are non-sensitive, have no relation to military or diplomatic considerations and involve no "secrets," the doctors asserted.

"Since a large part of all the money available today for medical research stems from governmental sources, the institutions responsible for this research, being bound by the security program, are no longer free to choose their research personnel soly on the basis of the applicant's competence in his field or his potential contribution to its advancement.

"For example, the Public Health Service has reportedly withheld research grants from at least 30 important though entirely unclassified projects involving no 'security' conditions whatsoever because some of the scientists connected with the projects (including professors in leading medical schools and one scientist who, be it noted, subsequently became a Nobel laureate) were suspected of 'disloyal associations' that were neither specifically described nor formally moved."

The 53 physicians who initiated the petition were Murray H. Bass, Mount Sinai Hospital, N.Y.; Allan M. Butler, Harvard; William B. Castle, Harvard; Benjamin Castleman, Harvard; Stanley Cobb, Harvard; Katherine Dodd, University of Arkansas; J. Russell Elkinton, University of Pennsylvania; John F. Fulton, Yale; James L. NAVY TO DISCHARGE 16,500 INACTIVE RESERVE OFFICERS

WASHINGTON, June 11 (UP)—The Navy announced yesterday that it would honorably discharge 16,500 inactive reserve officers who have not participated in training programs for at least two years. The discharges will be effective Sept. 1. They will be sent by commandants of naval districts.

The Navy said that the "great majority" of officers involved rank below lieutenant commander. After the reduction, the naval reserve will have 225,000 officers.

SAYS U.S. IS FIRING JEWISH EMPLOYES

Speaker Here Asserts Security Is Used as Pretext to Vent Bias.

The Eisenhower Administration is turning Federal Civil Service into a spoils system as administrators are using the security program to fire persons because of their race, religion or political beliefs, Ben Kaufman, executive director of the Jewish War Veterans, told the group's state convention last night at a banquet at Hotel Jefferson.

As examples he cited the cases of Wolf Ladejinsky and Abraham Chasanow, both of whom have been re-appointed to government jobs after investigation showed their suspensions on security grounds were without fair cause. Kaufman said, "Ladejinsky was suspended because he was born in Russia and was Jewish. This is supposed to be enough to make a person a Communist."

All 31 of the Fort Monmouth (N.J.) civil employes of the Army suspended as security risks were Jewish and honorably discharged veterans, Kaufman said. He stated they were suspended because of an anti-Semitic bias against them by a superior. Already 23 have been re-hired and charges against them dismissed as absurd, he declared.

A winner of the Congressional Medal of Honor in World War I, Kaufman said the country must be protected against subversives, but this did not excuse the present violation of civil liberties in attempts to catch security risks.

To assure government employes the protection of due process of the law, Kaufman suggested that security charges placed against them be heard before an impartial body composed of individuals outside their own department and that they be given the right to question their accusers.

"Congressional committees should investigate, not accuse and pass judgment upon individuals," he added.

In a ceremony at the banquet, Kaufman, a New Yorker, presented Leo Schneider, 8043 Canton avenue, University City, with a distinguished life award from the Jewish War Veterans. Schneider is a disabled Korean War veteran.

3 MORE GROUPS IN FAVOR OF CITY-COUNTY MERGER

Indorsement of the St. Louis-St. Louis county merger idea by three additional groups was announced yesterday by James E. Darst, executive secretary of a citizens' committee sponsoring a campaign for petitions.

They are an Olivette committee headed by Burnett Schwartz; Beta Sigma Psi, a business women's sorority with 285 members, and the Thirty-ninth Street Business Association.

All agreed to circulate petitions asking for appointment of a board of 19 freeholders to draft a plan for metropolitan merger or co-ordination.

President Urges U.S. Help Free World Exploit Atom

creative inventive skills latent in the free world, to pool them and put them to work for the betterment of the conditions under which men must live."

"The people of the United States instinctively reject any thought that their greatest scientific achievement can be used only as a weapon. . . .

"While we build atomic powered ships for war—because we must—we have the desire, the determination to build atomic powered ships for peace. And build them we shall.

"While we design bombs that can obliterate great military objectives—because we must—we are also designing generators, channels and reservoirs of atomic energy so that man may profit from this gift which the creator of all things has put into his hands. And build them we shall!"

On April 25 the President announced plans for United States construction of the world's first atomic-powered merchant ship. On Dec. 8, 1953, he outlined to the United Nations his plan for creation of an international atomic pool for peaceful purposes.

Can't Wait on Decisions.

Russia, he said today, has indicated "no willingness to share any part of its nuclear stockpile" under the proposal. Mr. Eisenhower added "we cannot wait on Soviet decisions," and noted that the United States already has negotiated atomic agreements with Turkey, Lebanon, Israel, Italy, Spain, Switzerland, Denmark, Colombia, Brazil and the Argentine.

He said other pacts are being worked out, and then unveiled his two new atoms-for-peace projects.

Mr. Eisenhower's appeal that seemed to be directed over the heads of the Kremlin leaders to the Soviet people went like this:

"Surely those of the Russian people—who, despite their Communist overlords, still think for themselves and who still retain respect for human dignity—are moved by the same feelings as we.

"I still hope earnestly that the Soviet Union may join in an international effort to harness the atom for man's good. But I have such unlimited confidence in the creativeness of free men's minds and in the capacity of free men that I know we will, with or without the Soviets, achieve a more abundant life for those who join together in this historic venture."

The President told the school's 1828 graduates—who sat in the rain—that in the United States today both liberal and practical types of education are being emphasized.

"But too often," he added, it is a liberal education for one and a practical education for another. What we desperately need is an integrated liberal, practical education for the same person—for every American youth who can possibly obtain its blessings."

Mr. Eisenhower said education in this atomic age "can nurture for us the possibility of a thousand Franklins and a thousand Lincolns in a generation, where before we were fortunate to have one . . ."

The crowd in the stadium applauded as the President's brother Milton placed the academic hood of honorary doctor of laws over the Chief Executive's shoulders.

The President responded with a smile and said: "I am particularly grateful that my youngest brother — younger brothers being confirmed skeptics about their elders—raised no objection and in person made the presentation."

Shortly before a 70-mile drive to his country home at Gettysburg, Pa., to spend the rest of the weekend, the President took part in cornerstone laying ceremonies at a campus inter-faith chapel dedicated to the memory of Helen Eakin Eisenhower, Milton's wife who died last July.

Mrs. Eisenhower was waiting for the President at Gettysburg. He plans to return to Washington tomorrow evening or Monday morning.

President's Proposals Win Support in Congress.

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—President Eisenhower won support in Congress today for expanding the use of atomic energy in aiding the peaceful economies of the free world.

Senator Clinton Anderson (Dem.), New Mexico, chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, spoke of the need "to keep our lines of peacetime developments in the field of nuclear energy very open with other countries."

Representative W. Sterling Cole (Rep.), New York, who headed the joint committee last year, said the President's proposals are "very fine and very laudable, and added "I am confident Congress will accept them."

ROOSEVELT U. PROFESSOR FOUND HANGED IN HIS HOME

CHICAGO, June 11 (UP)—Prof. George W. Hartmann, head of the Roosevelt University psychology department, hanged himself in a closet of his home today.

Hartmann's body was discovered by his wife, who told police that her husband had been under the care of a psychiatrist for some time.

Hartmann was a candidate for lieutenant governor in New York State on the Socialist ticket in 1938 and a candidate for mayor of New York City in 1941. He was chairman of the Peace Now Organization in 1943-44 and the author of several books including "Democratic Socialism" in 1948. Hartmann had been with the university for seven years. He was 53 years old.

VFW HEAD SAYS EISENHOWER FOREIGN POLICY IS 'SOFT'

JEFFERSON CITY, June 11 (AP)—Merton B. Tice, of Mitchell, S. D., the national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, today assailed the Eisenhower-Dulles foreign policy as "peace at any price."

Tice said President Eisenhower through Secretary of State Dulles and other agencies of government has adopted "a soft, wishy-washy appeasement policy."

Tice, speaking at the Missouri VFW state convention, urged immediate action to effect the release of some 800 American prisoneers of war he said are still being held in "Red Chinese dungeons." Present foreign policy is based on fear of the Reds, he said.

PILOT HURT IN AIR, ENGINEER BRINGS HELICOPTER DOWN

BURLINGTON, Vt., June 11 (UP)—An Air Force flight engineer who had never piloted a helicopter took over the controls of one yesterday to save the pilot.

Airman First Class Gordon L. Grenier of Chicago took over the controls after Lt. Jerry Eakin of Long Beach, Calif., suffered a severe hand injury adjusting the craft's mechanism.

Eakin managed to bring the craft to the ground near the mouth of the Winooski river. Grenier applied a tourniquet and then radioed for help. He got no answer.

Grenier then helped Eakin back into the craft. Acting on the pilot's instructions, Grenier took the helicopter into the air and back to Ethan Allen Air Force Base, at Burlington.

Eakin later was flown to San Antonio, Tex., for treatment at the Army hospital there.

COUPLE MARRIED 50 YEARS

The fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Becherer will be celebrated today with a reception for relatives and friends at their home, 9426 Ardmore drive, Bellefontaine Neighbors.

Becherer, 74 years old, was in charge of the auditing office at Famous-Barr Co. before retiring about six years ago. He had been employed by the company for 50 years. His wife, 71, is the former Mary Exa Shaw. They have a son, Edward, and three granddaughters.

GOLDEN WEDDING DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Abel, 1031 Donnell avenue, Bellefontaine Neighbors, will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary Tuesday with a family dinner at Rose Bowl Cafe, 3323 South Kingshighway.

Abel, 75 years old, has been employed for 42 years by Sligo Inc. His wife, 72, is the former Clara Voelker. They have two sons, Wilbert and Oliver Abel; two daughters, Mrs. J. T. Ryerson and Mrs. E. I. Reimer, and two grandchildren.

Gets Same Hospital Room.

DENVER, June 11 (AP)—Released from Mercy Hospital after a dental operation, Mrs. Ann Corey, 38 years old, of Limon, Colo., was driving home with her husband, when their car collided with another in a dust storm. Mrs. Corey was returned to Denver for treatment of a broken foot, then was transferred to Mercy Hospital where they had only one vacant room—that she had left only a few hours before.

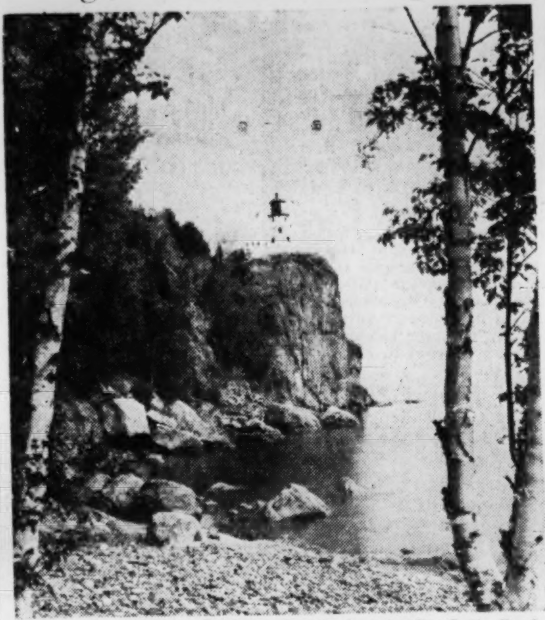
Lighthouse on Lake Superior



Look like Maine? Perhaps, but it is actually Split Rock Lighthouse along the North Shore of Lake Superior, the "inland sea."

MINNESOTA LAKES

Although commonly known as the Land of 10,000 Lakes, the actual count of Minnesota lakes above 25 acres is 11,007. If the lakes with less than 25 acres of surface were counted, Minnesota would have well over 20,000 lakes. All this water covers 2,597,760 acres.

This means that 95 per cent of the folks who live in the North Star state live within five miles of recreational water.

MACKINAC ISLAND RICH IN HISTORIC LORE

High on the list of histric shrines of midwestern United States and equally outstanding as a vacation retreat is Mackinac Island, in the Straits of Mackinac off Mackinaw City at the top of Michigan's lower peninsula.

Here is Michigan's summer capital, scenic splendor, wonders of nature, gay activities at luxurious summer hotels and fine dining rooms, a wide range of recreational facilities, historic sghts everywhere and an alluring quaintness that attracts tourists who come for a day of sightseeing or resorters for a season-long holiday.

Set aside as a state park, Mackinac Island's historic landmarks and scenic beauty have been retained. Motorcars are prohibited and in their place are colorful horse-drawn carriages and self-propelled cycles of many types, all of which provide a rare atmosphere of carefree enjoyment.

Transportation to the island is provided by two boat lines that operate from Mackinaw City and St. Ignace. The Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads, Greyhound Bus Lines and Capital Airlines have service into Mackinaw City to connect with the schedules of the ferries to the island.

Tourists traveling between the peninsulas who take a day out for a visit to the island, can leave their motorcars at Mackinaw City and have them transported to Stt. Ignace where they can pick them up, a time-saving service for those traveling into the upper peninsula. A similar service is available between St. Ignace and Mackinaw City. A nominal fee is charged by garages in the two communities that provide this servicee.

Mackinac Island has many resort hotels with rates to fit any vacation budget. Here, too, are tourist homes, inns, gift shops that sell souvenirs and others that deal in exclusive wearing apparel.

A theater, two golf courses, shuffleboard and tennis courts, yachting, swimming and water sports, as well as night spots with name bands, are among other attractions.

Michigan's governor lives on the island from June until September and Mackinac Island becomes the state's capital.

For a week, starting June 12, the island celebrates Lilac Time, with blooms everywhere on trees planted by the early missionaries and explorers. Parades, coronation of a queen, street dancing and other events are scheduled on the week-lang program for the entertainment of tourists.

Fourth of July and V-J Day celebrations, the revelry that accompanies the finish of the two yacht races in July, and Daisy day in August are occasions for other special events.

'Butterfly Net.'

Mexico's "butterfly-net" fishermen are found only at Lake Patzcuaro—fishermen alternately dip each flimsy wing of a double-ender "butterfly-net" paddle into the water on each side of a dugout canoe, to bring up the "pez blanco," or white fish.

Among events of wide spectator interest are the July 4 ski jump (on real snow) at Lake Placid; the annual Mormon pageant on Hill Cumorah, Palmyra, Aug 11-13; the twenty-second national soaring contest at Harris Hill near Elmira, July 5-14; the Grand Prix road race, Watkins Glen, Sept. 15-17; the New York State Fair, Syracuse, Sept. 3-10; the twenty-fourth annual Rose Festival, Newark, June 12-26; the fifty-third annual Intercollegiate Rowing Regatta on Onondaga Lake, Syracuse, June 18; the Davis Cup (tennis) challenge round, Forest Hills, Aug. 26-28; the world-wide Air Force track meet, Rome, June 17-18, and the New York City summer festival, June 21-Sept. 5.

BERMUDA AN IDEAL HONEYMOON SPOT

Traditionally the land of honeymoon, Bermuda weaves a spell of romance from the music of the sea, from the light of the moon, from the poetry of the sunset, from the colors of its bright flower gardens and its lush tropical foliage.

Away from the hustle and bustle and pressure of modern life, Bermuda is endowed with all the elements for the perfect honeymoon. It has hundreds of secluded beaches, hidden from view by towering formations of stone. It has miles of tiny lanes and roads that lead sometimes to a high hill overlooking the ocean and at other times through residential districts that retain a charm uniquely Bermudian.

Bermuda offers a carriage ride while the moon is rising from the sea, it invites a walk along the shore where the low murmur of the sea swells into a bolero rhythm and the small sounds of the night crack against the stillness.

A sailboat ride on the waters of Bermuda's bays and sounds become a voyage of adventure. The tiny islands that dot the waters of Bermuda become newfound lands for newlyweds, part of a cherished memory filled with recollection of a special island or of pleasant hours spent drifting before the winds in the lazy Bermuda sun.

Bicycles or motor assisted ones are also favorite means of discovering the charm of Bermuda. A cycle trip to picturesque Somerset or historic St. George enables honeymooners, as well as other vacationers, to view at close range the richness of Bermuda's scenery. Here is a patch of wild Bermudiana, there a towering Norfolk Island pine, here a shaded bower and a perfect place for a picnic.

Always within convenient distance are golf courses and tennis courts among beautiful scenery. And sooner or later, cyclists usually wind their way down to the sandy beaches to take a refreshing dip in the turquoise sea, build castles from Bermuda's pink sand, or relax in the sun.

At night Bermuda puts on her special dress. The white roofs of Bermuda homes shimmer beneath the moon and the stars. The night air is perfumed by hundreds of flower gardens, and the music of one of Bermuda's other bands floats on the evening air.

Rates at the large hotels, many of them with their own private beaches and swimming pools, range from $12 to $22 per person, double, on an American plan or modified American plan. In the smaller hotels or Spacious guest houses, some of which also have beaches, the rates are comparable to the big hotels and a few have minimum rates as low as $10. Cottage colonies, often set by the side of the ocean or bays, feature individual cottages, accommodating from two to four people, which rent from $13 to $22 daily per person, American or modified American plan.

COLLEGE CREDITS PLUS VACATION IN NORTH CAROLINA

College credits or new skills in arts and crafts can be lasting "souvenirs" of a visit to North Carolina's summer vacation lands.

Up in the Blue Ridge and Great Smokies and down on the Atlantic coast there are congenial groups and accredited schools which offer training in everything from how to catch a fish to how to instruct handicapped children.

All of these vacation land schools and colleges are within convenient driving distance of such mountain attractions as the Blue Ridge Parkway and Great Smoky mountains, or such coastal attractions as Fort Macon State Park and fine fishing grounds.

Students from almost every state come to Appalachian State Teachers College at Boone in the Blue Ridge and Western Carolina College at Cullowhee in the Smokies.

Duke University maintains a "coastal campus" at the Duke Marine Laboratory on Piver's Island between Beaufort and Morehead City. From the tropical surroundings of south Florida the University of Miami transplants a division of its Department of Dramatic Arts to Burnsville in the Blue Ridge mountains, where a drama workshop is offered for six weeks with full college credit.

Huckleberry Mountain Workshop Camp is a summer colony for the teaching of creative writing, handicrafts and fine arts and is located near Hendersonville. Transylvania Music Camp at Brevard will be open from June 23 to Aug. 27.

These are just a few of North Carolina's summer colleges with "campuses in the clouds."

NEW AIRLINE SERVICE BETWEEN MIAMI, VENEZUELA

MIAMI, June 11—A new airline service offering direct flights to Venezuela from Miami by way of Jamaica will start June 14, officials of Aerovias Venezolanas announced.

The initial flight will arrive at Miami on June 14 with the inaugural south bound trip from Miami to Maracaibo by way of Montego Bay, Jamaica scheduled for June 15.

The new route will be the first connecting Miami with Maracaibo Bay.

Twice weekly schedules each way will be in effect initially with additional service scheduled for the future.

With the Sand Castle Set

—Daytona Beach Area.

These young construction engineers consult on a project in the Daytona Beach area while mother suntans and father snoozes nearby.

Early Settlers.

Pioneers of Miami, Fla., number about 375 and have their own clubhouse, dedicated in 1936. Membership in the club is limited to persons who were residing in Miami before Dec. 31, 1906. The city was founded in 1896.

DAYTONA BEACH AREA OFFERS FAMILY FUN

Another summer filled with family fun and breeze-cooled recreation is just getting under way in the Daytona Beach Recreational Area. This is the Florida pleasure-land that comprises Daytona Beach, Ormond Beach, Holly Hill, South Daytona and Port Orange.

The 1955 Daytona Beach Fishing Tournament which started June 1 will end on Labor day when 13 weekly winners will contest with one another in an all-day "fishathon" for a prize of major proportions. The tourney will include an additional prize division for youngsters. Both fresh and salt water fish will be eligible, and everyone entering a fish of any size will receive official tournament certificates for framing.

Anglers all over the country know Daytona Beach as an ideal area because of its immediate proximity to excellent deep sea fishing, ocean pier and surf casting, Halifax river fishing from bridge or boat, and first class fresh water angling only minutes away.

For those who prefer beauty to boats, bass and bonito, this Florida fun spot brings together the most luscious-looking lassies of the southland for the annual Miss Dixie Contest, sponsored by the Daytona Beach Jaycees over the Fourth of July weekend.

Contestants in the $1000-plus competition must live south of the Mason-Dixon line and must have previously won a major beauty contest. A talent contest at Peabody Auditorium, Saturday night, July 2, will precede the bathing beauty competition at the open-air Bandshell at the Beach on the evening of July 4.

Other highlights of the Dixie Frolics weekend include a "Little Miss Dixie" contest for girls between the ages of three and five; a Hound Dog Derby in which anybody's pooch can make like a greyhound at the local dog track; a water show; parade; and a spectacular fireworks display along the glamorous World's Most Famous Beach.

Still another highlight of the Independence Day weekend will be the departure from the Halifax Yacht Basin of some 300 outboard motorboats bearing nearly a thousand enthusiasts on a three-day Pirates' Treasure Cruise over the Inland Waterway and tributary streams and lakes.

Variety? Daytona Beach Area visitors really have their choice. Nightly greyhound racing started June 4; the glitter and gayety of the quarter-mile Boardwalk with its exciting rides and games; the evening band concerts in the bandshell overlooking the Atlantic ocean; the magnetic voice of the auctioneers; the delightfully informal dancing and dining that's always associated with friendly Daytona Beach.

For sightseeing, there are the smart shops and colorful clubs; "Winston" and "Gracie," the only Sea Cow family in captivity, frolicking at the Sea Zoo; Sir Malcolm Campbell's magnificent "Bluebird" car, with its threadbare last tires and its unforgettable world speed records, scorching the Daytona Beach sands as fast as 276 miles per hour, now resting in full glory at the new Museum of Speed.

There are cruises down the handsome Halifax river or up the twisting, turning Tomoka river; golf at three championship calibre 18-hole courses; water skiing, boating and sailing in super-safe little catamarans; nightly baseball starring the Daytona Beach Islanders, hot contenders in the Florida State League; trips into the romantic past at Tomoka State Park, around the relics of old plantations dating far back into America's remote past, or a glimpse of only-yesterday at the Casements, John D. Rockefeller's former home at Ormond Beach.

Along the major arteries of the 23-mile long Daytona Beach Area you'll discover endless numbers of attractive accommodations; some costly, others modest in price, something for practically any purse.

But with all the allure of the Daytona Beach area, the greatest hit always will be the enchanting beach, itself . . . 23 miles long and 500 feet wide at low tide . . . and every square inch of it free for the world to enjoy.

It's a place to loaf, to play, to suntan, to build the biggest sand castles and amuse the smallest tots, to swim or splash in the Atlantic surf . . . always knowing there's a member of the internationally renowned Lifeguard Corps nearby . . . a fine, safe, friendly place for all the family . . . the Daytona Beach Recreational Area of Florida.

OLD GRIST MILLS STILL REMAIN IN MISSOURI COUNTIES

A survey made by the Conservation Commission for the Division of Resources and Development shows there still are 38 old water grist mills in Missouri.

Once a vital part of Missouri's industry, only 14 such mills remain in operating condition.

Mills still operating and the counties in which they are located: Dulleys (Bollinger), Burfordville (Cape Girardeau), Dillard (Crawford), Hulston (Dade), Whites (Iron), Cedar Hill (Jefferson), Havenhurst (McDonald), Jolly (Newton), Ritchey (Newton), Falling Spring (Oregon), Aid-Hodgson (Ozark), Dawt (Ozark), Hammond (Ozark) and Zanoni (Ozark).

Other mills are: Calton or Tom Town and McDowell (Barry), Duly (Boone), Old Appleton (Cape Girardeau), Caplinger (Cedar), Oak Hill (Crawford), Montauk (Dent), Topaz and Jackson (Douglas), Goode's and Noser's (Franklin), Old Wine (Gasconade), Waco (Jasper), Dryknob and Orla (Laclede), Verona (Lawrence), Cyclone (McDonald), Bray (Miller), Broylers (Morgan), Greer and Turners (Oregon), Edgerton (Platte), and Hazelton and Turley (Texas).

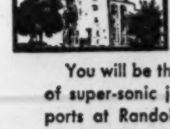
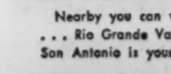
Historic SAN ANTONIO has sung the praises of DAVY CROCKETT since 1836

The "king of the wild frontier" was reputedly the last defender in the famous siege of the Alamo, and the old Mission-fortress where he fell is today a revered shrine located in the heart of this modern cosmopolitan city.



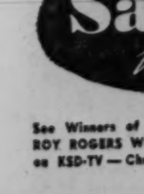
In San Antonio are many interesting reminders of a dramatic past. History unfolds as you explore four ancient missions, the Spanish Governors' Palace and the quaint village of La Villita.

You will be thrilled at the performance of super-sonic jets and mammoth transports at Randolph, Kelly and Lackland Air Force Bases. See Fort Sam Houston, Fourth Army Headquarters.



You can glide down the Venetian-like river in a gondola or enjoy exotic foods at a river-walk cafe. See a great zoo in natural-like settings . . . beautiful parks . . . unusual museums.

Nearby you can visit ranches, dude and real . . . the Gulf Coast . . . Rio Grande Valley . . . and colorful Mexican border cities. Thru San Antonio is your best and most scenic route to Old Mexico.



Visit San Antonio this summer. Come now, or write today for free picture booklet and Davy Crockett folder.

GOOD FISHING YEAR AT HOT SPRINGS

HOT SPRINGS, Ark.—This is the season when hundreds of anglers, bristling with rods and reels, take to the waters of adjacent Lakes Catherine, Hamilton and Ouachita—each only a few minutes drive from the heart of this great American spa. In addition to the lakes, the nearby rivers and mountain streams are also noted for largemouth black bass—the sportiest of game fish found in fresh waters and many varieties of tasty panfish.

Sportsmen's records show that finny catches are excellent as to size in the local lakes. Registrations indicate that the average bass tips the scales at five pounds. Nine-pounders are not unknown. The legal daily take limit is eight. White bass also abound in the local waters. The daily take for this species and for crappie is 15 each. Izaak Walton disciples announce that the local lakes are also teeming with goggle-eye perch, bream and channel catfish. The nonresident fishing license is $2 for 10 days or $5 a year.

Fishing this season is expected to be better than in recent years, because of higher water levels brought about by more rainfall, which materially increased the food supply, aiding in the rapid growth of the fish in these beautiful national forest-surrounded lakes.

Restocking is continuously in progress here, as a large and fine hatchery is located on Lake Hamilton, the state's most highly developed lake.

Hot Springs is the eastern gateway to the rugged pine-clad Ouachita mountain ranges and the Ouachita National Forest, noted for its scenic beauty and unexcelled recreation and camping areas, made possible by the forest service.

UPPER MIDWEST HAS INTERESTING INDIAN MOUNDS

McGREGOR, Ia. (INS) — The Upper Midwest is the only area where vacationers can see some unusual burial mounds built by American prehistoric Indians.

These are fashioned in the forms of animals, birds and fish and are found only in a limited area in Wisconsin, northeast Iowa and southeast Minnesota.

The mounds are so unique that a national park has been established to preserve them in a 1200 tract of land along the Mississippi bluffs in northeast Iowa.

This is called the Effigy Mounds National Monument Park, one of the latest to be established by the government.

Archeologists believe the Indians erected the mounds in the distinctive shapes because they were the burial places of important persons.

DRAGON OF MISSOURI

The beautiful "Dragon of Missouri," the Lake of the Ozarks, is the largest of six major lakes in the state. Twisting and curling, the lake has more than 1300 miles of shoreline and is more than 250 miles long.

In recent years, the giant lake is becoming known as an excellent fishing spot for walleyed pike (or Jack Salmon). It is said to be one of the best walleye lakes south of the Great Lakes.

Morgenthau Diary Traces U.S. Career of Harry Dexter White

Portions of Former Treasury Secretary's Papers Released After He Testifies at Senate Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—Harry Dexter White's rapid rise in the Treasury Department before and during World War II is recorded in portions of the Morgenthau diary made public today.

The diary—900 volumes in all—was kept by Henry Morgenthau Jr. when he was Secretary of the Treasury from 1934 until mid-1945.

The Senate internal security subcommittee released portions of the diary as part of its study of the part White played in high-level wartime decisions during a time when he is alleged to have been a Soviet agent. White died late in 1948, shortly after denying any Communist connections.

The subcommittee, headed by Senator Eastland (Dem.), Mississippi, obtained the diary from Morgenthau, who also appeared as a voluntary witness June 1.

'No Reason' to Suspect Him.

Morgenthau testified then that while he was Secretary of the Treasury "I had no reason to suspect White's integrity or his loyalty to the United States. No security agent and no individual ever reported or suggested to me there was any doubt about White's loyalty."

Morgenthau said it was "some time" after he left the Cabinet that he heard of the charges against White.

If the charges had been brought to his attention before he left office, Morgenthau said he would have suspended White and ordered a full investigation. If the charges had been substantiated, he said, he would have removed White from office.

The subcommittee's legal staff has been studying the Morgenthau diary in the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library for almost a year.

Morgenthau said he kept it in hopes "it would encourage young men and young women to come into the Government."

The portions released today show that White joined the department in 1934 as one of 30 economists hired for a special assistant secretary in fact, though not in name, in charge of all foreign affairs within the purview of the Treasury.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull called White "a mighty suitable man" for the job and "a very high-class fellow."

Attorney General Brownell said in a speech on Nov. 6, 1953, that former President Truman promoted White in 1946 after the FBI had notified the White House that White was a Soviet spy.

In reply, Truman accused Brownell of "cheap, political trickery," and said he permitted the promotion of White to U.S. director of the International Monetary Fund to keep him under surveillance.

In subsequent hearings before the internal security subcommittee, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover testified that he had not agreed to such an arrangement and that it hampered the FBI's watch on White.

The papers released today include an early draft, in memo form, of White's plan for an International Monetary Fund and Bank for development. The subcommittee said this plan apparently was the forerunner of present World Bank and fund, which White helpeed to establish.

The papers also include a memorandum from White, dated May 15, 1942, three years before the end of World War II, suggesting that we should be prepared "to stop at once production of armaments by the cancellation of all war contracts" when hostilities ended.

He suggested legislation to provide for cancellation of contracts, to provide for "adequate unemployment payment for millions of disemployed" and for a tax program designed especially for the immediate postwar period.

"All this takes time, and since the war might end this year," White wrote in 1942, "we ought to begin serious study and preparation now."

Jobs Done by White.

Among the jobs assigned to White, the diary shows, were: a trip to The Hague in 1935 to study the movement of European exchanges when the franc was falling rapidly, a study with others in 1939 of world oil production, supervisor of negotiations in 1942 for blocked sterling in Great Britain owed to American motion picture companies, an adviser at the inter-American conference in Rio de Janeiro in 1942 and chief of the American technical mission to Cuba in 1942

White tried to develop a new monetary plan for Cuba. The subcommittee said former assistant Secretary of State Spruille Braden has testified such a plan as White's would have wrecked the economy of Cuba if it had been adopted.

The released documents end in November 1944, when White was participating in United States talks with representatives of Great Britain on continuing lend lease aid to Britain after the expected defeat of Germany.

RELOCATION PLAN IN RAT-PLAGUED AREA

Families Would Be Moved Now From Houses to Be Razed.

A proposal that families living in rat-infested tenements be relocated in public housing projects, rather than put landlords to the expense of rehabilitating old buildings soon to be razed, was made yesterday by Mrs. Edward G. Brungard, Director of Public Welfare.

The proposal followed receipt by Mrs. Brungard of a letter from Sidney Zagri, director of community relations for Teamsters Local 688, declaring that nothing had been done to better conditions in a neighborhood in which one of the worst rat bite cases occurred last winter. The letter added that a city ordinance requires that landlords ratstop such properties.

Zagri's letter referred to the case of Reginald Harrington, 2 months old, who was bitten on the head, hands and forearm in his crib at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D'Arcy Harrington, 515A South Twenty-third street, last Feb. 2. The letter pointed out that the incident was cited in promotion of the recent municipal bond issue, but declared. "nothing whatever has been done by city officials about the shocking conditions. which led to the near-fatal rat bites."

Mrs. Brungard, who personally visited the tenement in which the Harringtons live, said the building and others in the neighborhood have been marked for demolition, to make way for the Mill Creek Valley slum clearance program.

The Health Department, a division of Public Welfare, has taken the position it will not require owners to spend large sums to rat-proof old structures which are to be razed within a year or two, Mrs. Brungard told reporters. She described the tenement in which the Harringtons live as "next to impossible to rat-proof."

Early relocation of eligible families living in rat-infested buildings is now possible, Mrs. Brungard said. Meanwhile, the Health Department is hiring a new public health engineer and will renew its anti-rat campaign in infested districts, she added. The department has been handicapped in rat control through lack of competent personnel, City Hall officials have said.

AERIAL BALL LOST OFF PLANE LANDS IN REFRIGERATOR

CANASTOTA, N.Y., June 11 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. James R. Wilhite went to their refrigerator last night to get food and found a ball from an airplane aerial that wasn't on their menu.

They took a second look and found a hole in their kitchen wall and the back of the electric refrigerator.

Wilhite, an employe of the United States Department of Agriculture, said the ball was attached to about 18 inches of heavy wire. It is pear-shaped, about four inches in diameter and five inches long. It weighs about two and one-half pounds.

Police Chief Dominic Barberi said the ball and part of the antenna apparently had torn loose from an Army twin-engine C-47 that made an emergency landing at the Canastota Airport.

DANIEL J. BOONE, 74, DIES; DESCENDANT OF PIONEER

Daniel J. Boone, great-great-grandson of the famed pioneer, died of uremic poisoning yesterday at the Manchester Nursing Home. He was 74 years old. Mr. Boone was co-founder, vice president and general manager of the old Webb-Boone Paving Co. here for about 30 years before retiring in 1945.

He was born at Ash Grove, Mo., on the farm which once belonged to Nathan Boone, youngest son of the original Daniel Boone, and lived here most of his life. Mr. Boone lived at the nursing home for the last 18 months.

Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Laura B. Cooke, Mrs. Mary E. Peters, both of St. Louis, and Mrs. Effie McKinney, Lockwood, Mo. Funeral services will be at 1 p.m. tomorrow at the Lupton undertaking establishment, 7233 Delmar boulevard. Entombment will be in Oak Grove Mausoleum.

MAJ. REBECCA R. PRESTON FUNERAL TO BE IN CHICAGO

Funeral services for Maj. Rebecca R. Preston, superintendent of the Salvation Army's Booth Memorial Hospital, 3740 Marine avenue, will be held tomorrow at Chicago, followed by burial there. St. Louis services were held yesterday at the C. Hoffmeister undertaking establishment, 6464 Chippewa street.

Maj. Preston, who was 49 years old, died of cancer Friday at the hospital, where she had served for six years. Previously she held a similar position at a Chicago Salvation Army hospital.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Michael Johnson, 3664 Shaw boulevard, and Mrs. Margaret Norris of Omaha, Nebr.

RELEASED FROM HOSPITAL

Dr. Richard S. Weiss, St. Louis dermatologist, has been released from a New York hospital where he was under treatment for a heart ailment and is en route home, it was reported yesterday.

Dr. Weiss presided at a meeting of the American Dermatological Association in Clearwater, Fla., about two months ago and then went to New York where he became ill. He lives at 8173 Stratford avenue, Clayton.

CALLS FOR SAFETY BELTS AND OTHER GUARDS IN AUTOS

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP)—The Journal of the American Medical association called on automobile manufacturers yesterday to do something about the "urgent need" for safer cars.

"The actual number of deaths and injuries generated by the use of automobiles has multiplied to such an extent that one out of every 10 Americans has an excellent chance to be killed or maimed in highway accidents by the time 1970 rolls around," the Journal said.

Instead of just stressing "the thrills and satisfactions of increased acceleration," it said, car makers should emphasize "the more abiding satisfaction of controlled deceleration."

The journal said controlled deceleration—a means of bringing a moving passenger to a safer stop—could be accomplished with safety belts, installation of shock-absorbing bumpers and a hood unit that would crumble slowly, absorbing the shock of a crash.

It also advocated elimination of sharp edges and projections in the interior of the automobile, the generous use of interior padding, installation of a steering wheel column with flexible joint and elevation of seat backs to protect the neck and head.

CROSS IN CHALICE MADE OF URANIUM FROM ST. LOUIS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS GATOS, Calif., June 11—As a symbol of the Atomic age, uranium from St. Louis forms the cross in a new chalice used here for the first time in a Catholic mass.

After the Atomic Energy Commission gave permission, St. Louis's Mallinckrodt Chemical Works sold the uranium employed in the chalice, to be used regularly later in Hiroshima, Japan.

Uranium, needed in atomic energy production, is used in the chalice along with gold, silver, cobalt and cadmium, to express continuity between the age of Jesus Christ and the atomic age.

Designer of the chalice, the Rev. Paul Hilsdale, S. J., explained his first mass was offered with the prayer that elements in the chalice "would never be profaned by man's hatred of man and exploded in the face of defenseless humanity."

The STRUGGLE for PEACE

Justice Douglas Says Free World Must Win The Battle of Asia With Democratic Ideas; Recognize Red China and Seat Her in the U.N.

'Our Task Is to Identify Ourselves With Democratic Nationalists, Giving Them Strength to Win Their Local Contests.'

'Co-existence With Communism Only Feasible Course' — 'Recognition Does Not Mean, Never Has Meant, Approval.'

THERE is a new mood today on the international scene. What it means, what it portends for the future, no one knows, but it has arrived, and its presence is an appropriate occasion for reviewing the situation confronting us.

International Communism has two aspects. It is, in the first place, an armed aggressive venture, operating from a position of military might. In the second place, it is a political operation within each country.

A solution of the first aspect of International Communism involves military and political decisions of the highest order. Today we are in an arms race. Only a real disarmament program that is complete right down to the level of internal police forces can relieve the tensions growing out of the military aspects of International Communism.

The second phase presents an equally important, though less dramatic, part of the world struggle. The second phase centers primarily on Asia. Asia holds the bulk of the peoples of the world, the bulk of the markets, and the bulk of the world's riches. In other words, Asia holds the political balance in the world. The Communists seek to win that balance. Should it be lost to them, we would indeed be in a most precarious position. Then our outposts would be gone and our whole scheme of defense would be tragically altered.

Asia's Turbulence Rising.

Asia these days is turbulent; and the turbulence can be expected to increase in the years ahead. There was a time when a gunboat could go up the Yangtze or enter some troubled Asian port and, perhaps without firing a shot, quiet the troubled waters. Those days are gone—forever—for those days, which meant quiet and peace to the Western World, meant oppression and exploitation to the East.

Asia is on the march. She is partly democratic, partly Communist. Both forces are strong—one symbolized by Nehru of India, the other by Mao Tse-tung of Red China. Which of those forces will in the end be dominant in Asia, no one knows, but it is fairly clear that any victory of the democratic forces in Asia will turn primarily on the Asians themselves.

If Asia is saved from Communism, the Asians must save it. If the tide of Communism is to be turned back in Asia or checked, the Asians themselves must manage it. No Western power can determine Asia's fate.

International Communism does not operate through the importation of foreign agents into a nation. International Communism utilizes the nationals of each country to conduct the Communist revolution within that nation. It bores from within. The only force that can meet it and oppose it from within is a democratic group of leaders of that nation.

The political battle, in other words, must be fought with nationalist forces —democrats aligned against Communists.

Our task is to identify ourselves with the democratic nationalists, giving them strength to win their local contests.

The Bandung conference made clear that Asia is a responsible community, that its nations are not puppets of any power, that the leaders of Asia are not subservient to anyone's command, that they are not docile victims of Communist designs.

The Asian nations on the democratic front are numerous—Burma, India, Israel, Japan, Pakistan, and the Philippines, to mention the leaders.

India Symbolizes the Struggle.

India, perhaps more than the others, symbolizes the struggle that goes on in Asia today. India is vast in size and has a complex of problems. Her size and her problems pretty well match those of Red China.

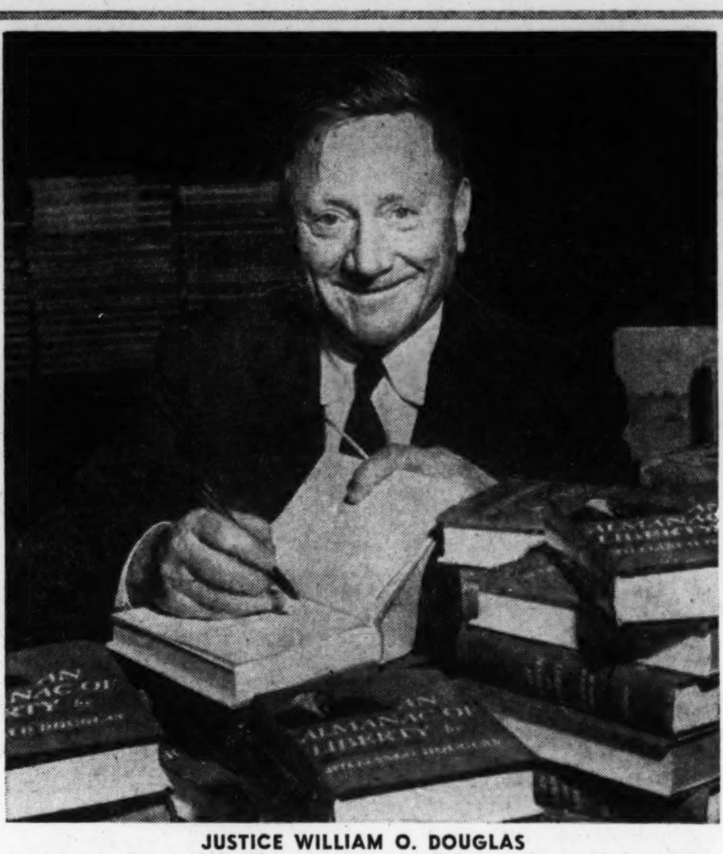
India, protagonist of the democratic faith, is in a dramatic race with Red China, champion of Communism. Each nation is bent on raising the standard of living of its people through an industrialization program. Red China is doing it the Communist way; India, the democratic way.

The Western nations can and should aid India and the other democratic Asian nations through teams of experts and through financial grants, but the West cannot dictate to them. The nations of Asia, though young, are intensely proud. They are bent on retaining their independence. They are extremely sensitive to any intimation or suggestion that they should do the bidding of any foreign power. They seek recognition among nations as equals. They are determined to be beholden to none.

One reason why the Asian nations are acutely sensitive is the inferior status they were accorded by the foreigner through the centuries. The Asians are the colored people of the world, long looked down upon by the whites, long under the domination of colonial powers.

That history has made them sensitive to criticism from the West; stubborn when ordered around; militant when their independence is even remotely threatened.

Asia will be turbulent for years to come.



JUSTICE WILLIAM O. DOUGLAS
"Political solutions of the China question are, I think, not only possible but within reach if we start from the premise that there are today two Chinas—the China of Formosa and the China of the mainland."

She has problems of reconstruction and rehabilitation that are staggering. Asia, to be democratic, must get rid of the feudalism that has been fastened on her from time out of mind. Asia, to be democratic, must undertake vast educational programs. Asia, to be democratic, must raise the standard of living of the people through some degree of industrialization.

To do these things Asia must produce leaders steeped in the democratic faith. That means sending hundreds of young people abroad for educational training. It means returning those trained personnel to the villages to undertake the vast transformation that is necessary.

We can help greatly in that phase of the problem. We have indeed made an excellent start on it.

Question of Auspices.

The transformation of Asia from feudalism will take place. It is merely a question whether it will be under the auspices of Communists or under the auspices of democrats. The Communists are well organized; the democrats are not. We still are divided in our councils about Asia. We still think of Asia in terms of guns and dollars. Guns and dollars play critical roles, but the foremost role will be played by ideas—ideas of equality, freedom and justice.

We with our tradition of the dignity of man, we are much better equipped to win this contest than the Communists with their shabby and ugly creed; but if we are to win, we must go to Asia, not to dictate or command, but to co-operate. We must go with humility and tolerance. We must identify ourselves, not with the schemes of feudal overlords, but with the dreams and aspirations of the masses. We can do it best if we hitch our aid to men like Magsaysay, Nehru, and U Nu who lead the democratic fight in Asia.

Coexistence with the Communist world is the only feasible course for us. Coexistence means eternal vigilance lest we be wiped out by a treacherous move. Coexistence means intense diplomatic activities in the search for chinks in the Communist armor. Coexistence means some kind of settlement—or even an uneasy truce—in the areas where war has waged or where there are war theaters —Korea, Formosa, Viet Nam.

This raises the question of the relation of the West to Red China, for Red China has been the aggressor, stirring trouble in those three areas.

The answer, I think, is in the recognition of two Chinas—the China of Formosa and the China of the mainland.

Chiang Kai-shek's army is a good one. I was with it on maneuvers in 1952. But it is old; it is small; it is limited. It would not be able to land on Red China's coast unless the United States Navy put it there; and it would not be able to stay on the Chinese mainland unless the United States Army and Air Force kept it there.

In other words, if Red China is to be invaded, the United States must do it.

Invasion of Red China would be the most disastrous adventure possible for America. The sacrifice of our men and the waste of our fortunes would be part of the disaster.

There would be more than military tragedy in a war with Red China. The presence of a foreign army on China's shores would have two results. First, China would become united behind Mao Tse-tung just as we would become instantly united if an Asian army ever landed on our West Coast. Second, we would squander at once most of our prestige in Asia; we would demonstrate by deeds that we were bent on a program of military, not political, action in Asia.

Formosa Can't Be Yielded.

While an invasion of Red China would be sheer tragedy, a surrender of Formosa to the Communists would be equally tragic. The leadership in Formosa represents the past that failed, not the future with its hopes. The leadership in Formosa has no major following in Asia. Asia marches under reform banners, not under the old flag of the Kuomintang. But Formosa nevertheless represents important values. It has important military values to us, in the sense that our position would be weakened if it were in hostile hands.

It also represents great humanitarian values. Formosa has about 7,000,000 people. They are mostly refugees, some Christian, some not, but most of them good citizens of the world community. Though Formosa is more or less a police state, social and economic programs of reconstruction have gone ahead at a good pace.

It would lie very heavy on our conscience if we surrendered those 7,000,000 people to the Communist executioners either by agreement or by the act of forsaking them. The decision of the President and of Congress to stand by them is, therefore, the only course which we, in good conscience, could tolerate.

Diplomacy or War?

That course, however, is only the beginning of the problem. Unless we look beyond it to the possibility of an ultimate peaceful solution, we may have no alternative but all-out war with Red China; and, as I have said, that would be the most disastrous event that could befall us.

Political solutions of the China question are, I think, not only possible but within reach if we start from the premise that there are today two Chinas—the China of Formosa and the China of the mainland. The problem is to draw a line between them and get a guaranty of non-aggression with some sort of United Nations trusteeship over the intervening islands involved in the controversy, until the dispute can be amicably resolved.

That, at least, is the starting point. From there on the problem involves settlement of the differences between Red China and the West and the admission of Red China into the United Nations. In other words, the ultimate political settlement of the China problem involves recognition of two Chinas and the grant of seats in the United Nations to both of them, as the British have urged.

The Charter of the United Nations presently includes the Republic of China in the Security Council and that seat is held by Chiang's China. Some change in the arrangement is necessary. India, Pakistan or some other democratic Asian nation should be substituted for China on the Security Council; or the present China seat on the Security Council might rotate among Asian nations.

More Manageable Situation.

The continued non-recognition of Red China will mean constant turmoil and trouble in Asia. There may be continuation of the turmoil and trouble, even after Red China gains admission to the United Nations, but the situation will be more manageable with Red China in than when she is an outlaw. On the outside, she gains stature as a martyr in millions of Asian eyes. Inside, she will be forced to a more responsible role. With Red China inside the United Nations, we all will have a better chance to observe how tightly tied to Soviet Russia she really is.

The bald truth is that Mao is in control of the mainland with no prospect for an overthrow of his regime. It is the historic policy of the United States to recognize regimes which are firmly in control of a nation whether we like them or not. Recognition does not mean, and never has meant, approval. Recognition merely means (1) an acknowledgement that a regime is in control of a nation; and (2) that we should undertake to treat diplomatically with that power.

Once Red China is recognized, the West can treat diplomatically with her. Whether she will eventually go the way of Tito, no one knows. Today she is laced tightly to Russia, economically and militarily. Only through diplomatic action can the unlacing of that relationship begin.

German-Russian Parley: West Trusts Adenauer but Offers Could Be Tempting

Bonn Chancellor Obviously Will Work to Get All He Can From Both Sides in East-West Conflict, but He Has Already Succeeded in Bringing His Country Into Free World Lineup as an Important Equal.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Copyright, 1955, The Pulitzer Publishing Co.

LONDON, June 11.

THE contest between East and West over the allegiance of Germany has now begun in earnest. While Moscow's invitation to Chancellor Adenauer had long been expected, it came somewhat earlier than had been expected and the bid that has been made is cruder and more obvious than the West had considered likely.

The attitude both in London and in Washington is one of massive and deliberate calm. The line is, we knew this was going to happen all along and we are confident that our good friend, the old Chancellor, can handle it in his own way.

If it does actually work out in accord with assurances that have come from the Federal Republic in Bonn, then the sequence of events will be roughly as follows:

The German reply to the Russian invitation, which may have been sent even before this report is in print, will express interest and appreciation but will ask for time in which to consider who is to visit Moscow and when. There will be no visit before July 18 which is presumably the beginning date for the Big Four conference.

Action in the Meantime.

This interval will permit, if things go according to plan, the approval by the Bonn Bundestag of the legislative steps essential to recruit a German military establishment. The nature of these steps is not yet clear since some resistance has developed to Adenauer's plan to push through a simplified decree that would permit the German defense ministry to begin the formation of divisions with volunteers without the lengthy legal process that must otherwise be followed.

Conceivably the Russian bid could be sufficient to tip the scales in favor of delay in rearming. That was plainly one motive for the Soviet strategy.

To push this timetable a little further at the four-power conference, the three Western powers will stand solidly for the NATO alliance with West Germany as a fully ratified member and with confidence that again Adenauer will stick to his pledge of alliance to the West and reject the Soviet bait of a unified but neutral Germany. If there were the possibility of a realistic plan for general European disarmament with iron-clad inspection agreed to by Russia, then the question of German rearmament would have a new look. No one, however, seems to expect that any such agreement will come out of the meeting "at the summit."

ADENAUER
London and Washington are confident the old Chancellor can handle the Russians in his own way.

Back of the outward show of confidence are private doubts. The bidding of East and West for the support of a Germany that only 10 years ago lay in ruins must be heady wine for the German people. Here is proof that they can swing the balance in this deadly contest for supremacy of power.

Many old ghosts out of the past are rising to haunt the present scene. It was the abrupt and unexpected coming together of Russia and Germany in 1922 that made possible the secret rehabilitation of the German Wehrmacht in defiance of the prohibitions written out in such detail by the Allies at Versailles. Even after Hitler rose to power, important members of the military hierarchy who were swiftly consolidating their power pushed the idea of a Russian-German partnership to dominate the great Eurasian land mass. Again in August, 1939, an abrupt switch in policy in Moscow and Berlin resulted in the Hitler-Stalin pact freeing the Nazis to make war on Poland.

But those who are shaping the policy of the West believe that circumstances today are completely different and that the Germans learned as a consequence of the horrors of the Russian invasion and conquest that they cannot stand alone nor can they again afford to "make a deal" with Moscow.

Hypocrisy of Soviet Bid.

The hypocrisy of the Soviet bid is glaringly obvious. Actually, the Soviets were narrowly prevented from looting the industries of the Ruhr and they have carried off considerable plant equipment from East Germany.

A weakness in the Western approach, and particularly in the American attitude, was the assumption that joining a sovereign Germany in alliance with the West would mean the end of the "German problem." While this was an essential step, it now is evident that it was in fact the beginning rather than the end of what promises to be a long and difficult struggle, the real nature of which is somewhat disguised by the massive presence of Adenauer as the grand old man, the kind of father leader in whom the Germans have always trusted and who in this instance has led his people in the direction of the West.

In the struggle ahead, unity of approach by France, Britain and the United States is of primary importance. The details of a unified approach will presumably be worked out in the weeks ahead in Washington, New York and San Francisco.

There is one difference between London and Washington that could have important repercussions in relation to the Big Four conference and Germany. Secretary of State Dulles's repeated remarks about the necessity to bargain for a changed status for the Red satellite states cause a certain uneasiness in the British Foreign Office. It is feared here that any proposal for "freeing" the satellites in Eastern Europe of Russian control will bring a counter-proposal with respect to Germany. Yes, the Russians will say, we will move our forces out of Rumania, Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia if Britain and the United States will take their divisions out of Germany.

Meaningless Gesture.

The gesture of removing Russian troops from Poland would be meaningless so long as Marshal Rokossovsky remained at the head of the Polish military establishment, but the gesture would have a definite bargaining value at the conference table, and it could cause the West no little embarrassment. It is all very well, say the British, to play the satellite card when Russia talks about neutralizing Western Europe, but do it more discreetly.

When it comes to bargaining, Chancellor Adenauer has close at his elbow some shrewd and resourceful diplomats who are prepared to take part in this game of power politics. One of them is Herbert Blankenhorn, who was a junior diplomat in the German Embassy in Washington until the outbreak of World War II. Now Germany's ambassador to NATO in Paris, Blankenhorn has in recent years been as close to the Chancellor as any other single individual.

One may be sure that for all of Adenauer's fine speeches and sincere protestations of loyalty, these diplomats in the immediate background will be determined to get all they can from both sides for Germany. This is an element which must be taken into account as the 80-year-old Adenauer shows the extraordinary determination and energy of the mission to which he has dedicated himself, bringing Germany into the company of free and democratic states on a basis of equality.

Three-Year Test Run on Guaranteed Annual Wage Principle

By SPENCER R. McCULLOCH
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, June 11.

THE first step toward a guaranteed annual wage in the automobile industry, as represented in the three-year contract between the Ford Motor Co., and the United Automobile Workers, CIO, is tentative and experimental for both sides.

Whether Walter P. Reuther, union president, ultimately reaches his goal of a real guaranteed annual wage plan remains to be seen, but, as between the parties, the principle of the moral obligation of the employer to provide for employes in lay-off periods has been established.

What has been agreed to amounts to a limited test run on that principle. In lay-off periods, the company will supplement the employe's state unemployment allowances with payments up to $25 a week for a maximum of 26 weeks. These benefits will be paid out of a $55,000,000 trust fund to be built up by the company on a basis of 5 cents an hour for every hour for which the employe receives pay. The company pays nothing for the first week of unemployment, but thereafter the laid-off employe will receive from the state and the company 65 per cent of his regular take-home pay for four weeks and 60 per cent thereafter. Company payments are graded under an intricate system of seniority benefits.

While this is less than the union asked for, the union considers it an application of the guaranteed annual wage principle, or at least a good start toward it. The company calls it merely supplementary compensation. Whatever it is called, it represents about one fourth of the union's contract package. For Ford the average hourly work cost per employe is raised from $2.10 to $2.30.

Why did Ford agree? The company proposed the plan for a variety of practical reasons aside from its announced recognition of the moral principle of greater security for its employes.

The UAW told the industry four years ago that an annual wage would be its major demand this year just as it now has served notice that when new contracts expire it will press for a 30-hour week. All major companies conducted surveys on the annual wage. So far as is known, they conducted them separately. After three years of research, Ford was the first to come up with what amounts to an introductory plan. The union, considering it had gained the threshold of a guaranteed annual wage, accepted the Ford plan with some modifications.

The rash of "wildcat" strikes that broke out in some Ford plants in the wake of the agreement reflected differences within the UAW. These strikers protested, in effect, that they would rather have more nickels in the pay envelope now than the gradual benefits of the long-range security plan now in process of development. Reuther risked that opposition, but he has overwhelming majority control of the 1,300,000-member union.

Ford is embarked on an expansion program calling for expenditures of about $2,325,000,000 at the end of three years, coinciding with the run of the contract. It did not want to risk delay of its program by a strike or lose the sales race between Fords and Chevrolets.

In a formal discussion of the Ford plan, a panel of company economists and executives pointed out that the "supplemental private compensation" system only equals approximately the figure set by President Eisenhower when he favored raising unemployment compensation. They pointed out that the plan avoids unlimited financial responsibility which might be ruinous and erases the danger that a worker might lose his incentive if he got full pay without doing any work. The company maintained enough differential between the man working and the man laid off so that, it is believed, the man on the job will not feel discriminated against in pay. Income of the laid-off worker was held low enough to supply him with an incentive to look for another job in a long layoff.

One company panelist gave it as his personal opinion that the Ford plan was as great as or even greater, in a pioneering sense, than its introduction of the $5-a-day wage back in 1913, but he added: "We are in a completely uncharted field here."

The plan does not go into actual operation until June 1, 1956. It is estimated it will take a year to fund it and perfect administrative machinery. Men laid off before next June will not get extra benefits.

Apparently there is no feeling on either side that the fund may become exhausted, automatically cutting off benefits. Such a contingency might result from a depression or some other industrial economic calamity not expected. Nor is it expected that a company may find it preferable to cut the work rather than lay off men and pay compensation benefits. For the company that is "a bridge we have not come to."

Both union and company, however, stress the job security of the present program.

Thus Ford got a program tailored to its own operations. The UAW, having gained its concessions with Ford, now turns to General Motors. While Ford is an industrial giant with 145,000 production workers, General Motors is even larger with some 325,000. Chrysler will not have to make up its mind on the guaranteed wage until its contract expires Aug. 31. Chrysler has about 137,000 production employes.

Whether smaller manufacturers, parts suppliers and other concerns in the automotive industry can afford a guaranteed wage plan is still under consideration by company and UAW officials.

When the Ford-UAW agreement was reached, Reuther, who also is president of the CIO, was asked to what extent he regarded the guaranteed annual wage principle as a pattern.

"I think that there is a growing awareness in industry circles," Reuther replied, "that we need to do more and more to achieve economic stability of our economy. Unnecessary layoffs are a great economic waste and I believe that the guaranteed annual wage is going to be a kind of constructive incentive and I think more and more it will be applied to a broader and broader section of American industry."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Good in the Sparrow Hawk

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

May I say a word in defense of the sparrow hawk, which James P. Whiteside in this space last Sunday called "the most infamous wretch of all the feathered killers, the Hitler of birddom"?

This beautiful little falcon is the most beneficial of all the hawk family. While it may take an occasional small bird, during most of the year it lives almost exclusively on field mice. Anyone who has driven along a country road surely has seen one hovering motionless over a field while searching with telescopic eyes for field mice. It is the only hawk which knowing farmers never kill.

Individuals, such as Mr. Whiteside's hawks, sometimes deviate from their normal food habits and must be eliminated. But a whole species should not be condemned because of the dereliction of a few, any more than that the race of men should be banned because it contains a few murderers.

If Mr. Whiteside will hang some bright pieces of tin on short lengths of string fastened to a horizontal wire, so that they twinkle like semaphores in the sunlight, it may keep the sparrow hawks out of his vicinity.

I have to do this to keep Cooper's hawks from taking my chicks while they are small. It works.

Predators, furred or feathered, perform a useful service, even for the species preyed upon. They preserve the balance which nature finds is proper as to population and are nature's health brigade in that they remove the weak, sick and unfit.

They are protected by law in most states. A. M. WALTON.
Browns, Ill.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

It must be remembered that the sparrow hawk is not much larger than a robin, and is the smallest and incidentally the most brightly colored of all our North American hawks. The name given to this bird is rather unfortunate, for bird life constitutes a very small part of its food. Its diet consists largely of the enemies of agriculture—injurious insects along with a fair proportion of destructive rodents.

I don't doubt the truth of Reader Whiteside's story. There have been cases of individual hawks destroying useful small birds, but before condemning any groups, please look for the whole truth. Hasty judgments based on half truths have done infinite harm to both accused and accuser.

Salute From Minnesota

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Congratulations to the people of St. Louis—a great city—for their forward-looking attitude on the bond issues and to a great newspaper like the Post-Dispatch.

Minneapolis. F. B. GRIFFITH.

Developing an Audience

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In reply to the recent letter of Reader Paul Grace of Webster Groves, who was praising the past accomplishments of Radio Station WEW in the cause of good music, I should like to call his attention, and yours, to the fact that another source of good music is available.

Even though the Post-Dispatch has practically ignored this new cultural asset to our city, KCFM has been bringing good music, drama, literature and important speeches to its listeners for the past two and one-half months.

If you are ignoring KCFM for fear that it is taking listeners from the audience of KSD, I would say that such fears are groundless.

The audience that listens to the drivel from New York and Hollywood that is forced on KSD by its network affiliation is not the same audience that would sit by the hour beside an FM set to listen to Arnold Toynbee and J. Robert Oppenheimer, symphonic music, chamber music and Shakespeare.

KCFM has developed an audience that previously had been lost to St. Louis stations. You should get behind this new cultural force like you have supported most of the other good causes in the past.

Spread the good word. KCFM has built on the foundations laid down by the former WEW management. Let's go forward with St. Louis. Why not print the programs of KCFM?

DEAN MOORE,
Program Director, KCFM.

Seeking Facts on Peace

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Due to lack of reading time because of pressure of work, I had planned to discontinue my subscription to the Post-Dispatch.

However, now that you are publishing the series "The Struggle for Peace—What Are the World's Choices?" and sending Marquis Childs to Europe and Raymond P. Brandt to Russia, in addition to calling upon the knowledge and wisdom of many national leaders, I am requesting that my subscription be continued for another year.

This study alone will be worth far more than the price of your paper. The Pulitzers have won many medals in the field of educational work. It seems to me that this is the most far reaching and noble study that you have ever attempted. RENEWED.

TVA in Grave Danger

Brig. Gen. Herbert D. Vogel's extraordinary behavior on the TVA Board of Directors is finally coming to light. The board's functionings have been largely a mystery since the Eisenhower appointee became chairman eight months ago.

It has been known all along that Gen. Vogel disagreed consistently with the two directors who antedated him on the board, Dr. Harry A. Curtis and Dr. Raymond R. Paty.

But only now, with publication of testimony given last month to a House Appropriations subcommittee, has it become public knowledge that Gen. Vogel is trying to gain ascendancy over the two other directors, and to transform TVA in accordance with his own views.

The manner in which Gen. Vogel seeks to make his one vote count more than Dr. Curtis's and Dr. Paty's two is simple — and lethal. He wants Congress to designate him as TVA's "executive head." He then wants to set up his own private and personal "special management staff" which would come largely from outside TVA and would view TVA "objectively"; i.e., as he does.

Under any such arrangement, the two-man majority of the TVA board would be scarcely more than figureheads; they would be advisers whose advice the "executive head" might not heed. The general manager of TVA, who administers the business of the agency in accordance with the policies laid down by the board of directors, would be placed in an impossible position, his office usurped by the Chairman-Executive Head.

Among the thousands of men and women who operate TVA, one group would form behind the board majority and another behind Gen. Vogel. Personal feelings would be bitter, and the affairs of the Authority would be in a condition approaching demoralization.

Soon too little of TVA that was worth saving would be left for anyone to want to fight to save it. An institution that had been the pride of the people of this country for a quarter century would have been destroyed from within.

In all this, Gen. Vogel's role does him little credit. He was asked by Senator Gore of Tennessee, when confirmation of his appointment was being considered in the Senate, whether as chairman he would speak for the TVA board or for himself. "What you mean," Gen. Vogel replied, "is, would I suppress the majority view. The answer to that is positively no."

Yet during these eight months Gen. Vogel has never spoken for the TVA board and has always spoken for himself as chairman. Perhaps he has not suppressed the majority view, but he has subordinated it as much as he could. He went so far, it is now disclosed, as to stigmatize as "premature and presumptuous" the board majority's appeal to the Budget Bureau last March 7 to scrap the proposed Dixon-Yates power contract.

He has repeatedly presumed to speak for TVA as though it were a one-man board. When he has presented the majority's objections to his views he has done so as though it were a minority dissent.

His relations with his fellow-directors have been so bad that, by his own account, after a majority vote was registered on Dixon-Yates he refused to accept the vote, and when Dr. Curtis started to leave the room he "directed" him to resume his seat. Dr. Curtis then walked out.

No wonder Representative Cannon of Missouri accuses Gen. Vogel of trying to set up a "dictatorship." This is the behavior of a martinet, of a man who does not believe in the principle of majority rule, and who is more accustomed to being obeyed than to being disagreed with.

So submerged has the board majority become that it has apparently felt obliged to make its opinions heard in Congress and at the White House without publicity. During these eight months TVA has not discharged its usual duty of giving the public its analyses and opinions of proposals affecting TVA. Instead there has only been a kind of cowed silence.

Congress has only begun to turn on the light. From here on, all Gen. Vogel does, and all he has done, should be disclosed fully and promptly to the public he is supposed to be serving. Only so can the people judge how faithfully his sworn belief in the wisdom and feasibility of TVA is being borne out in practice.

Refunds Without Pain

An ethical problem of sorts seems to be shaping up for City Hall with respect to refunds on the earnings tax. Relatively few persons are taking advantage of the city's offer to return that portion of it paid on income that eventually went for federal and state income taxes.

The reason seems to be that people are inclined to lose interest when they learn the size of their potential refunds. These amount to only about $1 on each $200 of federal and state income taxes. Nor do they flow automatically into the taxpayer's pocket with the same ease that the tax itself flowed out. The individual must ask for a refund, applying on a somewhat complicated form that must be notarized. In some cases the notary's fee could eat up a good part of the refund.

All of which suggests that perhaps Collector Bannister and the City Administration ought to try some other scheme. If the tax is going to be collected from the worker without any forms or notary's seals—indeed without the taxpayer even lifting a finger—perhaps it ought to be refunded just as painlessly. That means the city would have to accept the burden of seeing that the taxpayer got his due, and many citizens will think that it should.

An Occasion for Surprise

Kentucky, much to its astonishment, is studying ways to make its water laws fit its needs better and more fully. "It is incredible that such a thing could happen in this, the state with more miles of navigable streams than any other in the nation," writes Allan M. Trout in the Louisville Courier-Journal. But the drouths of the last few years have made the incredible credible.

Mississippi, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia investigations to the same purpose are under way, and Alabama expects to start a study. Missouri confronts the same need.

As a group of TVA lawyers write in the Tennessee Law Review: "Before satisfactory legislation can be drafted, much more data than is so far available—concerning water supplies, probable future needs, and the relative economic values of competing uses—must be supplied by economists, agronomists, engineers, and hydrologists." That is as true of Missouri as though it had been specifically written about this state.

Missourians need first of all new knowledge and new laws regarding groundwater. We must learn to harvest it like a crop, not mine it like a coal pit. Then, Missouri needs the knowledge and the laws which will keep its running waters pure, so that they will be useful for homes and cattle and industry. Here is a challenging task that affects urban and rural Missouri alike. When are we going to set ourselves seriously to its performance?

Words to Follow With Deeds

> Our nation has no desire for a monopoly on the knowledge and practice of these possibilities. We want the world to share—as we always have.

With these generous words, President Eisenhower, in his address at Pennsylvania State University Saturday, advanced by one more stage the great cause of peaceful atomic development on an international scale.

To his proposal for a United Nations pool of atomic information and materials, and to the arrangements already made for a sharing of certain atomic skills with 10 nations, the President now adds two new projects, soon to be submitted to Congress, which may prove to be the most significant yet.

First, he urges that the United States offer research reactors to some free nations, and pay half the cost of constructing them. Next, he urges that the United States help to train foreign technicians in the construction and operation of power reactors. "Within prudent security considerations," access to our own experience and knowledge would be given to scientists and engineers from friendly countries which are financially able to finance atomic power projects but need help in mastering the skills necessary to operate them.

Both steps, as the President said, are designed "to clear away some of the obstacles that have impeded progress in nuclear science and to permit its peaceful application by all who propose to make it serve mankind."

If those purposes are to be achieved, it is essential that Congress act promptly and boldly to put the program into execution. Merely proposing it without following through will do this nation little good in the eyes of a world which is already too much inclined to identify the United States with the nationalistic and destructive uses of atomic energy rather than its international and benign applications.

The Soviet Union's reluctance to participate can be blamed for lack of progress toward the President's proposed U.N. atomic pool, but in the case of these new proposals any responsibility for inaction will fall squarely upon our own country. May the President's fine words soon be matched by tangible deeds to "spark the creative skills latent in the free world."

Fly the Flag

Tuesday is Flag Day—the anniversary of the birth of the Stars and Stripes. President Eisenhower is 100% per cent right in proposing that homes and business institutions fly the national emblem on that day. The sight of the flag will not make a poor citizen a good one, but it is always a reminder for many citizens, old and young, of the origin of our nation and its growth in power and responsibility through the years. It would be an inspiring thing to see Old Glory displayed Tuesday and again on the Fourth of July as our parents and grandparents so proudly used to flutter it from front porch or upstairs window. Let's make 1955 a year in which we fly the flag!

Petition for a Redress of Grievances

The Post-Dispatch news columns today report the presentation to the President of a petition of the most serious character. It is a formal request from more than 1500 physcians, medical educators and others in the field of medicine that Mr. Eisenhower "consider the necessity of making certain basic changes in the Federal Government's Employe Security Program."

However disposed the Administration may have been in the past to ignore complaints on its "security" program, the White House cannot afford to ignore this petition. Its signers, as the quickest glance shows, include some of the most eminent men in the field of medicine. The great universities — Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Johns Hopkins, Cornell, Pennsylvania, Stanford, Minnesota, to name only a few—are represented. St. Louis signers include Dr. Carl V. Moore and Dr. Barry Wood of the Washington University School of Medicine.

What these men of science say can be readily summarized. They say that the Administration's security program does not contribute to security, but actually makes for insecurity. They say that it deprives the country of the services of professional men who are vitally needed in Government work. They say also that the growing tendency is for the Government's "standards" to be applied by universities and hospitals. "Medical research," they say, "cannot thrive in such an atmosphere."

This petition speaks of the Peters case which was decided by the Supreme Court last Monday. Extracts from the court's opinions appear under the cartoon on this page. In the words of the 1500 physicians, "The case of Dr. Peters is not an exception; it merely exemplifies the injustices inherent in a procedure applied to thousands of physicians who require security clearances in order to work for the Government."

What is most impressive, in our opinion, about this petition is that it places responsibility right where it belongs—on Dwight D. Eisenhower. It quotes to him his own words about "the right to meet your accuser face to face" and "your right to speak your mind and be protected."

After the receipt of this petition—it was delivered to the White House four weeks ago—how can the President persist in his stand that there is no need for a commission of distinguished citizens to study and correct faults of his floundering security system?

In Vino Visas

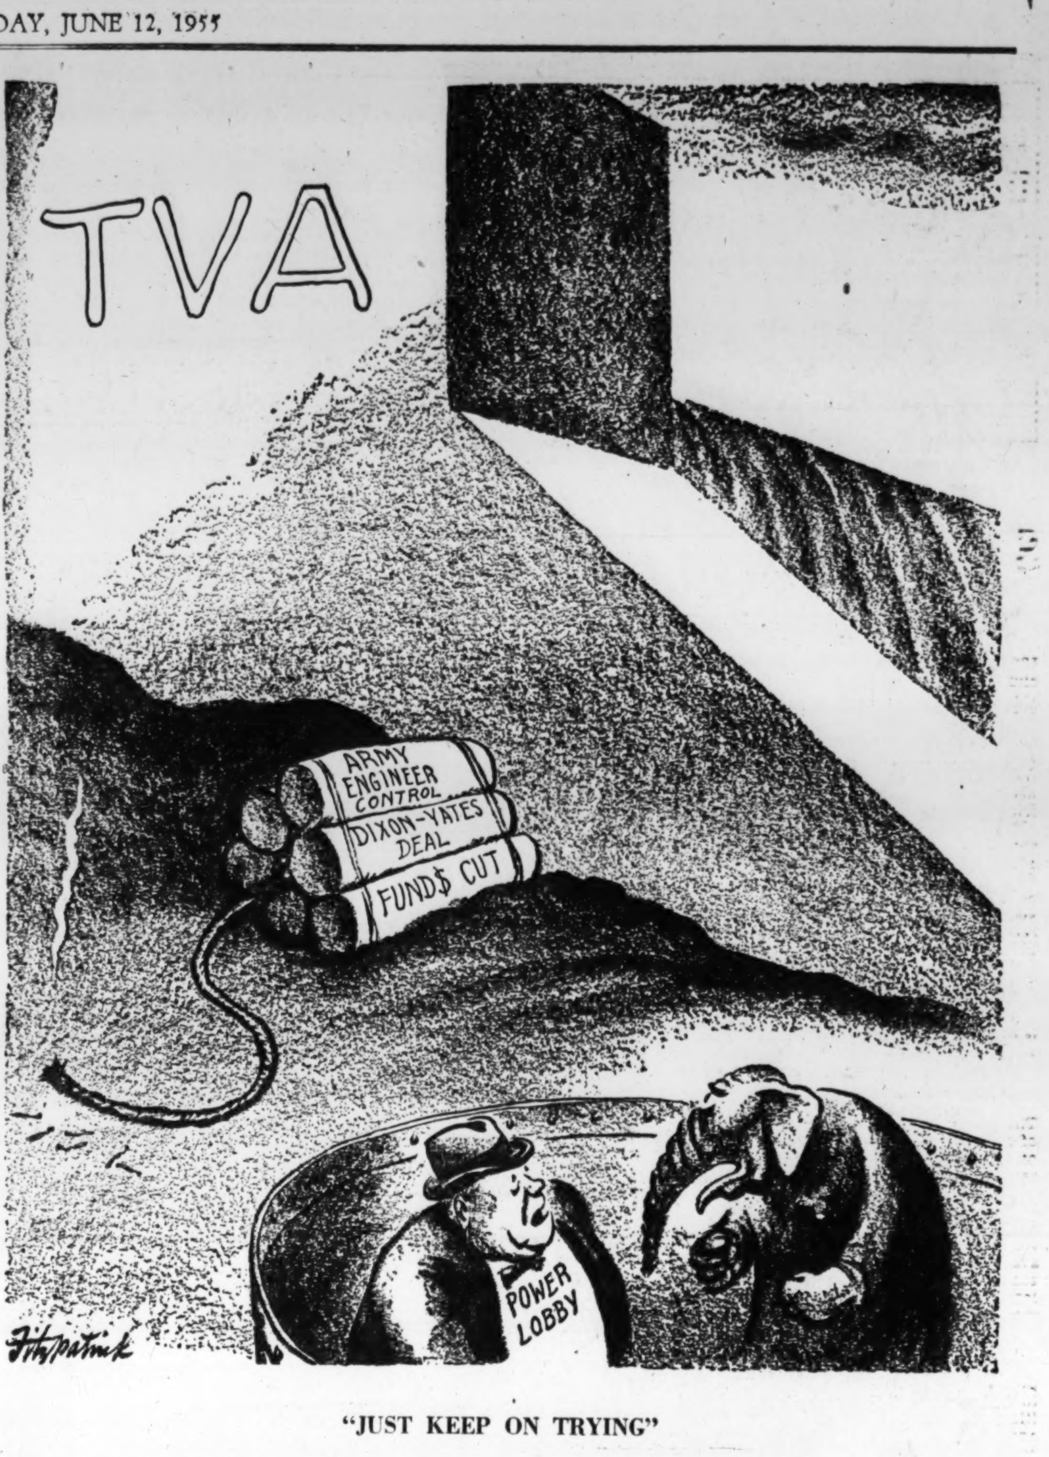
Nero, Grant, Peter the Great, Andrew Johnson, Henry VIII—to this list of important men whose drinking habits got into history must now be added Nikita Khrushchev.

It is too early for final judgments, but the preliminary data suggests that Khrushchev's fit of exhilaration on the last night of his visit to Tito may turn out to have been one of the most significant bats of history.

Khrushchev's condition as he teetered away from the embassy reception was well advertised. For on his way out—just before he heartily bussed several diplomats' wives — he met the press. Chiding an American newsman for knowing so little of Russia, he was instantly reminded that Russia has long excluded many correspondents. Khrushchev, lurching a bit, generously promised visas to all correspondents within earshot. Next day 13 applications went in.

The strange part of the story is that within a week six of the visas had been approved and approval was promised for the rest.

Much has been said about prying open the Iron Curtain, but nobody ever suspected that it might jerk upward some day to make good an alcoholic boast. Is that what is happening? Quien, as the Spanish say, sabe?



"JUST KEEP ON TRYING"

Faceless Informers Before the Supreme Court

Extracts From Opinions of the United States Supreme Court in Peters vs. Hobby

Chief Justice Warren:

On April 6, 1953, petitioner (Peters) was advised by the Loyalty Review Board that it had determined to conduct a "post-audit" of the Agency Board's determination.

In his own testimony, petitioner denied membership in the Communist party, discussed his political beliefs and his motives for engaging in activities and associations which were the subject of the charges, and answered all questions put to him by the board. In support of petitioner's testimony, five witnesses stated their long acquaintance with petitioner and their firm conviction of petitioner's loyalty.

In addition to this evidence, the record before the board contained information supplied by informants whose identity was not disclosed to petitioner. The identity of one or more, but not all, of these informants was known to the board. The information given by such informants had not been given under oath.

On this record, the board determined that "on all the evidence, there is a reasonable doubt as to Dr. Peters's loyalty to the Government."

In his complaint, petitioner contends that the action taken against him was "in violation of Executive Order 9835 and the Constitution of the United States." On the constitutional issue, petitioner complains chiefly of the denial of any opportunity to confront and cross-examine his secret accusers.

From a very early date, this court has declined to anticipate a question of constitutional law in advance of the necessity of deciding it. Applying this rule to the instant case, we must at the outset determine whether petitioner's removal was effected in accord with Executive Order 9835.

Earl Warren

We conclude that the Loyalty Review Board's action was so patently in violation of the order —in fact, beyond the board's delegated jurisdiction under the order—that the constitutionality of the order itself does not come into issue.

The authority conferred on the Loyalty Review Board was limited to "cases involving persons recommended for dismissal on grounds relating to loyalty by the loyalty board of any department or agency . . ." And, even as to these cases, the Loyalty Review Board was denied any power to undertake review on its own motion.

In petitioner's case, the board failed to respect either of these limitations. Petitioner had been twice cleared by the Agency Board and hence did not fall in the category of "persons recommended for dismissal . . . by the loyalty board of any department." Moreover, petitioner's case was never referred to the Loyalty Review Board by petitioner or the agency.

In undertaking to "hold a hearing and reach its own decision" in petitioner's case, the board relied on (its) Regulation 14 as the source of its authority. The board thus sought to do by regulation precisely what it was not permitted to do under the (presidential) order.

And although such a "final determination" could be made only by the employing agency, the board did not wait for respondent Hobby to act on its recommendation. Petitioner's debarment was made effective four days before the chairman of the board wrote petitioner. The board's haste can be understood only in terms of its announced intention to deprive agencies of all discretion.

Initially petitioner is entitled to a declaratory judgment that his removal and debarment were invalid. He is further entitled to an order directing the respondent members of the Civil Service Commission to expunge from its records the Loyalty Review Board's finding that there is a reasonable doubt as to petitioner's loyalty.

The Facts of the Case.

The case of John P. Peters vs. Oveta Culp Hobby raised the question of constitutional authority, under security regulations, to discharge federal employes for disloyalty without giving them the right to face their accusers. These are the facts of the case, as stated in the majority opinion by Chief Justice Warren:

Dr. Peters, professor of medicine at Yale University, was employed "because of his eminence in the field of medical science" as a special consultant to the United States Public Health Service. This now is part of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare directed by Secretary Hobby. Dr. Peters's job "was not of a confidential or sensitive character."

A departmental loyalty board held hearings on the matter of Dr. Peters's loyalty in 1949 and again in 1952 and each time found that "no reasonable grounds existed for belief that petitioner was disloyal." But in 1953 the Loyalty Review Board conducted a "post-audit" and found "a reasonable doubt as to Dr. Peters's loyalty."

Dr. Peters was refused a rehearing and brought suit in the courts. Last Monday the Supreme Court in a 7-to-2 ruling found that the Loyalty Review Board's action was illegal.

Justice Douglas:

I do not think we can avoid the constitutional issue in this case.

The question of construction of the Executive Order was so well settled that neither the Government nor Dr. Peters suggested the absence of authority in the Review Board to take jurisdiction of this case on its own motion. I agree that it had such authority. It therefore becomes necessary for me to reach the constitutional issue.

Dr. Peters was condemned by faceless informers, some of whom were not known even to the board that condemned him. Some of these informers were not even under oath. None of them had to submit to cross-examination. None had to face Dr. Peters.

So far as we or the board know they may be psychopaths or venal people, like Titus Oates, who revel in being informers. They may bear old grudges. Under cross-examination their stories might disappear like bubbles.

Confrontation and cross-examination under oath are essential, if the American ideal of due process is to remain a vital force in our public life. We have here a system where government with all its power and authority condemns a man to a suspect class and the outer darkness, without the rudiments of a fair trial.

The practice of using faceless informers has apparently spread through a vast domain. It has touched countless hundreds of men and women and ruined many.

William O. Douglas

It is an un-American practice which we should condemn. It deprives men of "liberty" within the meaning of the Fifth Amendment, for one of man's most precious liberties is his right to work. When a man is deprived of that "liberty" without a fair trial, he is denied due process.

If he were condemned by Congress and made ineligible for government employment, he would suffer a bill of attainder, outlawed by the Constitution. An administrative agency—the creature of Congress—certainly cannot exercise powers that Congress itself is barred from asserting.

Those who see the force of this position counter by saying that the Government's sources of information must be protected, if the campaign against subversives is to be successful. The answer is plain. If the sources of information need protection, they should be kept secret. But once they are used to destroy a man's reputation and deprive him of his "liberty," they must be put to the test of due process of law.

The use of faceless informers is wholly at war with that concept. When we relax our standards to accommodate the faceless informer, we violate our basic constitutional guarantees and ape the tactics of those whom we despise.

Justice Reed:

I agree with Mr. Justice Douglas that the court's reason for annulling Dr. Peters's discharge is not sound. In addition to the reasons stated by him, I find other factors that to me strengthen the view that the action of the Loyalty Review Board was not invalid.

However, I do not express any opinion on the constitutional problems which might ultimately be faced.

The court in this case is reviewing a presidential order and rules made thereunder. I do not find it as easy as does the majority to analogize such a review to judicial review of congressional acts and administrative interpretation of such acts. Certain differences are immediately apparent.

The Executive Branch is traditionally free to handle its internal problems of administration in its own way. The legality of judicial review of such intra-executive operations as this is for me not completely free from doubt.

Stanley F. Reed

However, construing the Loyalty Order as the court does, like a statute, the contemporaneous construction of the order by the Review Board in promulgating Regulation 14 and the action of the President in allowing the regulation and practices thereunder to continue leads me to conclude that the board by Regulation 14 correctly interpreted the presidential intention conveyed by Order 9835.

Such reasonable interpretation promptly adopted and long-continued by the President and the board should be respected by the courts. That has been judicial practice heretofore. Limiting myself to issues decided by the majority, I dissent.

Justice Black:

Here I think it would be better judicial practice to reach and decide the constitutional issues, although I agree with the court that the presidential order can justifiably be construed as denying the Loyalty Review Board the power exercised in this case.

But I wish it distinctly understood that I have grave doubt as to whether the presidential order has been authorized by any act of Congress. That order and others associated with it embody a broad, far-reaching espionage program over government employes. These orders look more like legislation to me than properly authorized regulations to carry out a clear command of Congress.

I also doubt that the Congress could delegate power to do what the President has attempted to do in the Executive order. The Constitution does not confer lawmaking power on the President.

I have thought it necessary to add these statements to the court's opinion in order that the President's power to issue the order might not be considered as having been decided sub silentio (in silence).

Revision of Military Justice Code Urged by Three Armed Services; Civilian Judges Oppose Request

Judge Advocate Generals Want More Authority for Commanders to Punish Enlisted Men Without Trial — Some Would Scrap Appeals Court.

By BRIG. GEN. THOMAS R. PHILLIPS, U.S.A. (Ret.)
Military Analyst of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 11.

SUBSTANTIAL REVISION of the Uniform Code of Military Justice is recommended by the Judge Advocate Generals of the three armed services in their annual reports. The three civilian judges of the Court of Military Appeals set up by the uniform code do not agree with the recommendations.

There appears to be considerable background sentiment in the Navy and some in the Air Force that the code and the civilian Court of Appeals should be scrapped in favor of the old system.

A majority of Army legal officers believe that the code has greatly improved the administration of justice and added needed protection to men being tried.

The Defense Department, with the Navy acting as its executive agent, has submitted a bill for changes in the code. These do not go as far as the Judge Advocate General of the Navy recommended in his annual report, but they do go beyond what the Court of Military Appeals believes to be justified.

1829 Appeals Court Cases.

The Court of Military Appeals is the final reviewing and appeal authority. It had 1829 cases docketed with it in 1954. The court modified the decisions of boards of review in 72 cases. The court can modify a finding of guilty but, unlike the boards of review, cannot reduce a sentence.

The present system gives an accused person who is subject to military law a much more favorable review process than is available to civilians. The accused is furnished with able legal counsel by the government. The necessary records of trial, expenses for witnesses and expert testimony are all borne by the United States. He has the right to successive appeals to the various reviewing authorities and to a final civilian agency, the United States Court of Military Appeals.

The major changes asked by the three services would increase the authority of commanding officers to punish men without resort to court-martial, limit resort to the Court of Military Appeals so as to prevent frivolous appeals from cluttering up the review process and hasten the action of the Court of Military Appeals.

Present Limits on Commanders.

Present punishment that a commanding officer is authorized to impose on enlisted men is limited to withholding of privileges for two weeks, or restriction to specified limits for two weeks, or extra duty for two hours daily for two weeks, or reduction in grade. In the Navy on board ship, confinement on bread and water for not to exceed three days is authorized.

The change proposed by the Navy would allow a commander exercising special court-martial jurisdiction to order confinement (in the guard house or brig) for not to exceed ten days or confinement on bread and water not to exceed five days or forfeiture of pay not to exceed one half of pay for one month. The Navy also would permit special courts-martial to impose solitary confinement on bread and water for 30 days and the summary court-martial (one officer) solitary confinement or confinement on bread and water up to 20 days.

247,000 Cases in 1954.

There were 247,000 courts-martial cases in the armed services throughout the world in 1954. This is an indication of the seriousness of the problems of military justice. Roughly one man out of 15 was subject to court-martial.

The record of trial of a court-martial is first review by the staff judge advocate of the command having general court-martial jurisdiction. In this review the commander, on the advice of his staff judge advocate, can affirm the findings and sentence or modify the finding and reduce the sentence. In the large headquarters having this authority, it is used to reverse errors in law and interpretation of evidence and to reduce sentences so that punishment for the same crimes is uniform throughout the command.

The second major review is made by review boards set up by each of the services in Washington. These boards last year reviewed 18,594 cases. A review is mandatory where a soldier is sentenced to confinement for a year or more or where a bad conduct discharge is given. In 490 of these cases, the findings (of guility) were modified. Sentences were also reduced in great numbers.

Paradoxical Argument.

The case for increasing the authority of commanders to order punishment without resort to court-martial is based on the contention that the number of courts-martial is much greater than would be necessary if paternalistic punishment by the commander were permitted in greater degree.

The advocates of increasing the commanders' personal authority to punish use the paradoxical argument that this is for the benefit of the men. Their record will not be stained by courts-martials, it is claimed. There is some validity to this argument but not much. The good leader maintains discipline by developing esprit and by giving his men pride in their efforts. He finds incentives much more potent than punishment.

The poor leader resorts to punishment. If he has more authority, he will punish more. The person being punished may appeal to the next higher commander or may demand a court-martial. In the enlisted ranks, however, these privileges are not generally used. A majority of the experienced officers with whom the writer has discussed this proposal believe that while the number of courts-martial might be reduced some by increasing the commanders' authority, the possibility of abuses of it are so great that it far outweighs any benefits that might accrue.

Naval statistics show that 8.6 per cent of its personnel were confined in 1950 before the new code went into effect while last year, the percentage had gone down to 8. This does not indicate tha the code had the effect of increasing courts-martial.

Neither the Army nor the Air Force permits uses solitary confinement or confinement on bread and water to be imposed as a punishment by the commander or by courts-martial. This is a Navy practice, made necessary, the Navy believes, by the special problems on shipboard. It might be noted, however, that the Navy amendment to the Code of Military Justice would extend the authority to the shore.

The Navy position appears to many to be a reversion to the more savage days of the past. In the Continental Army punishment of one hundred lashes was authorized, but gradually cruel and unusual punishments were eliminated. Solitary confinement on bread and water seems, to most people, to be one of the cruel and unusual punishments that should also be eliminated except in the case of unruly prisoners.

Punishment Too Long Delayed?

The claim is made by opponents of the Military Court of Appeals that the time for processing cases is so long—more than a year—that the effect of punishment is lost. "Punishment," the Army Judge Advocate reported, "to be effective, must, among other things, be certain and prompt." He feared that in time of war the procedure would lead to a complete paralysis of the military judicial system. The Navy Judge Advocate General agreed, saying there might be a breakdown in military criminal process which could jeopardize the success of military missions.

The Air Force Judge Advocate General went even farther. He stated that military justice was administered more efficiently under the old Articles of War than under the new uniform code. He considered going back to the old Articles of War with amendments to provide uniformity among the services.

"Such a recommendation," he reported, "might be premature since the uniform code has been in operation only three and one-half years. Therefore it is recommended that the uniform code with some vital and necessary amendments . . . be afforded another year of operation so that its effectiveness and workability may be studied."

The Court of Military Justice is not in a position to enter the public relations field and dispute the conclusions of the services. The court did say in its annual report that "the reasons the judges of the United States Court of Military Appeals do not favorably recommend any of the additional proposals (put forward by the service judge advocates general) is because of a belief that either the need for them has not been demonstrated or they turn back the wheels of progress and destroy some of the substantial rights granted by Congress to the members of the armed forces."

The Court of Military Appeals was set up during the Korean war and a large increase in the armed forces. It immediately accumulated a backlog of cases. This was partly because of the need to organize and find a staff, but also because the court was moving into a new field of procedure and had to feel its way. The court laughs at the idea held by the service judge advocates general that it could not maintain the pace required by mobilization and war. It could expand its staff along with the expansion of the services.

As for modifying the right of appeal to attempt to eliminate frivolous appeals, the court fears that this might lead to denial in many cases of the precious right of appeal accorded to members of the services. They prefer the burden of unwarranted appeals to the danger of denying the right to appeal.

On Dec. 31, 1954, the court had a backlog of only 111 cases not acted on. It had granted the petitions in 194 cases and denied them in 1703 during the year. As it establishes precedents by rendering legal opinions—178 this year—its operations will be speeded. The court is unwilling to concede, however, that haste should replace justice.

There are many legal officers who feel that older members of the armed services fail to appreciate the enormous benefits of the Court of Military Appeals provided to the armed forces. Just as a public relations affair alone, the fact that the lowest private has the right to federally supplied counsel and appeal to a civilian court against military punishment, they believe, should go far to eliminate fear of military service and the harshness of its justice.

Another benefit that has not been appreciated is that these civilian judges, with long experience in military justice, and realizing how intimately it is connected with discipline, can do more to support military justice requirements before Congress than the services ever can. The motives of the services are so often regarded with suspicion.

It is unlikely that the Congress will be able to consider the legislation to amend the uniform code proposed by the Defense Department at this session. When it does, it is considered certain that Congress will not take away any of the legal rights it has accorded to the men in uniform.

Upsurge in Economy Reflected In Reports of Steel Expansion

By GEORGE H. HALL
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 11.

THE TREMENDOUS upward surge of the American economy since the end of World War II is reflected in reports that the Government plans to encourage a further expansion of the steel industry.

The industry's capacity now is just under 126,000,000 tons of ingots a year. Production, rising steadily for the last nine months, stood at a rate of nearly 120,000,000 tons a year in April, figures of the American Iron and Steel Institute show.

Last month in New York Arthur B. Homer, president of Bethlehem Steel Corporation, the nation's second largest producer, forecast perhaps 60,000,000 tons of additional capacity by 1970.

50 Per Cent Rise.

"This means," he said, "about a 50 per cent increase for all steel producers in the next fifteen years if the present relative capacities of steel companies are maintained."

Benjamin F. Fairless, until recently chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, told the company's stockholders United States Steel would have to add 22,000,000 tons of capacity in the next twenty years if it is to hold its relative position in the industry. The company produces about a third of all the steel ingots poured in the United States.

One of the startling aspects of these forecasts is that they represent a sharp change in the thinking of industry leaders over the last decade. There was a great argument back in 1947 and 1948 over the amount of steel the United States could consume. No one guessed an amount as large as the actual consumption of today.

In 1948, Wilfred Sykes, president of the Inland Steel Co. and a spokesman for the industry, estimated that the annual peak demand in ingot tons was not likely to be more than 80,000,000 before 1955 or more than 90,000,000 before 1975. Sykes conceded that the 90,000,000 ton figure was speculative. He guessed the real economic capacity of the country at around 80,000,000.

Sykes reached his conclusions on a basis of historic per capita domestic demand. His figures were questioned by Louis H. Bean, a special assistant to the Secretary of Agriculture who later won renown as an election forecaster. Bean argued that Sykes erred in depending on selected production averages rather than on averages in years of full employment.

Bean contended there is a rising per capita demand for steel rather than a fairly constant per capita consumption. He projected his curves into the future and arrived at figures he thought would be needed to assure full employment. His projections came out at around 100,000,000 tons for 1955, assuming unemployment was within 5 per cent of the labor force.

Bean's forecast was roughly 20,000,000 tons more than that of Sykes and perhaps 20,000,000 tons short of the actual indicated consumption. At his press conference Wednesday, President Eisenhower put employment for May at 62,700,000, or 96.2 of the civilian labor force.

Aid to Industry.

In the 1947-48 period, Senator James E. Murray (Dem.), Montana, relying partly on Bean's statistics, was advocating government aid to the steel industry to assure expansion. He was saying that, if finally necessary, the Government should build steel mills and lease them to private operators.

These arguments took place before the adoption of the Marshall Plan for rebuilding the war-damaged European economy, the Korean war and subsequent global military and economic aid programs. Many of the actual requirements could not have been foreseen, but it is apparent that leaders of the steel industry now are expecting rising rather than constant demand.

Industry advisers in the Business and Defense Services Administration of the Department of Commerce have been making a survey of steel requirements and the capacity that might be needed in the event of another war. They are expected to recommend in a month or so that the Office of Defense Mobilization offer inducements to further expansion. Reports are that the advisers are thinking in terms of 10,000,000 tons additional capacity by 1958 or 1959, or an amount needed to bring the country's capacity to 135,000,000 tons annually.

Much of the steel expansion in recent years has taken place with tax help from the United States. Several major steel companies have applications on file with ODM for rapid tax write-offs on proposed plants; certificates for these might be granted if further expansion goals are set. The total cost of the projects for which applications have been made is about $450,000,000.

URGES ADMISSION IN U.N. OF EX-ENEMIES, NEUTRALS

NEW YORK, June 11 (UP)—The American Association for the United Nations tonight called for the speedy admission of World War II enemy states and neutrals to the world organization.

"A most important problem facing the U.N. is how to admit many nations that have not yet been able to secure admission," it said in a resolution. "With the emergence of an independent Germany, Italy, Japan and Austria to acceptance of equality in the family of nations, their entrance into the U.N. is vital. Other nations too, such as Ireland, Spain, Ceylon, Finland and Libya, should be admitted. The association suggests an effort be made to secure an agreement on the principle of universality."

The resolution also urged the United States to demand that the U.N. call on Nationalist and Communist China to agree to a Formosa cease-fire and the principle that the island stronghold should not be united with Red China by force.

CHIEF OF EGYPT AIR FORCE IN U.S. FOR TOUR OF BASES

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Mohamed Sidki, chief of staff of the Egyptian air force, arrived today for a three-week tour of American Air Force installations.

Gen. Sidki, here at the invitation of the United States Government, said he would study installations and organization of the Air Force. He added that his trip also would help promote relations between the two countries. Tomorrow he goes to Dayton, O.

Indonesians' Spirit and Economy Bog Down; People Look to First Elections to Start Things Moving

Energy and Enthusiasm So Abundant During Revolution Have Stagnated — How Peasant Population Will Act at Polls Is Unknown Factor.

By A. DOAK BARNETT
The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright 1955.

DJAKARTA, Indonesia, June 11.

IN VILLAGES and crossroads all over the Indonesian countryside there are small black and white election posters bearing the star and crescent, the charging bull, the hammer and sickle, or one of 97 other symbols of parties and individuals who are contesting Indonesia's first national elections.

Long postponed, these elections to choose Indonesia's first popularly selected parliament—members of a constituent assembly to approve a constitution will be chosen later—are now scheduled for Sept. 29.

The date could be changed again, but it is fairly certain that the elections will be held this fall or early next year.

Ever since achieving independence, Indonesia's government has operated on the basis of a provisional constitution and an appointed parliament which has had little connection with the political grassroots of the country. Now the politicians must go out and get votes.

Because there is no past experience to go on, even the politicians themselves are wary about predicting how Indonesia's predominantly peasant population will act, but the best guess is that the real struggle will be among the religious leaders, the bureaucrats and the political cadres.

Religious Leaders Powerful.

The religious leaders seem to have the edge. Because most Indonesians are Moslems, the teachers at the mosques have a tremendous influence in the villages. A majority of the mosque leaders now support the Islamic Masjumi party, which is currently headed by moderate leaders and claims a registered membership of 7,000,000. Others support Nahdatul Ulama.

A large percentage of the bureaucrats are behind the Indonesian Nationalist party, which has headed the cabinet in power since 1953. There are plenty of gripes about the Nationalists and the cabinet, but the Nationalists claim 6,000,000 members, and people who hold government jobs have a way of fighting to hold on to them.

There have been too many Government shortcomings and failures. The Government bureaucracy has become too big, inefficient and corrupt. Indonesia has a serious handicap in that it started out with fewer qualified civil servants than any newly-independent country in Asia, but in the last five years it has acquired too many unqualified ones. Political parties have split up into so many small groups that this has become a constant cause of instability and political inaction.

The problem of internal security has not been solved. Apart from scattered banditry, Indonesion still has three major revolts on its hands—in West Java, Achin and Macassar—and the end of these revolts is not in sight.

The cost of living has steadily risen, due in part to unwise Government economic policies, and purchase of imported goods such as textiles is now a real strain on the pocketbook of ordinary people.

The Government has squandered the foreign exchange earned from rubber and tin in the Korean war boom days, and Indonesia is one of the few countries in Asia which does not yet have a rational economic plan for development in operation. Finance seems to be handled on a day-to-day basis.

Some national leaders seem to have shown more concern about "continuing the revolution" by concentrating on getting West Irian (west New Guinea) from the Dutch than by grappling seriously with the problems in territory which Indonesia already controls.

In short, Indonesia seems almost to have stood still in the all-important field of economic development. It still does not have plans to exploit its rich resources. It is still wary of foreign capital and yet is not really mobilizing its own domestic capital. It is still almost fantastically short of qualified technical personnel.

Technicians Badly Needed.

The problem of technicians symbolizes the inertia which seems to have settled over Indonesia. Although Indonesia has a crying need for engineers, for example, it is now turning out fewer than a dozen a year.

The political cadres of the Indonesian Communist party, which has about 500,000 regular and candidate members, do not have as much support now as the mosque leaders or government bureaucrats, but they seem to be working harder and are spending more money than anyone else.

Other parties, such as the Socialists who have considerable intellectual support, may make some sort of showing, but they cannot hope to come out on top, although they will get a few parliament seats under Indonesia's system of proportional representation.

There are so many political parties in Indonesia, however, that no party is likely to get an absolute majority. The new cabinet, like all recent ones, will probably be a coalition.

Not All Disappointments.

In the atmosphere of disillusion and inertia which has become widespread, particularly among youth, some of the solid accomplishments since independence was achieved in 1949 are forgotten.

There have been successes as well as failures. Indonesia has been kept together. This in itself has been remarkable in a country of about 80,000,000 people who speak at least 25 distinct languages and are spread over thousands of scattered islands.

Progress in health and education has gone on rapidly. When the Dutch left, nine out of ten Indonesians were illiterate. In the past five years mass education has been energetically pushed, and the Indonesians' remarkable thirst for knowledge has steadily pushed up the literacy rate. Public health has been increasingly spread into the villages.

Rice production has risen to the point where Indonesia is now almost self-sufficient; and the price of rice, which is more important to ordinary Indonesians than bread or potatoes are to us, has been kept fairly stable despite general inflation.

The big hope of many Indonesians is that after the elections things will start moving again, and that the energy and enthusiasm which were so abundant during the struggle for independence will again come to the fore and solve some of the countries unsolved problems.

RUSSIAN GESTURES CALLED PROOF U.S. IS WINNING MINDS

WASHINGTON, June 11 (UP)—Director Theodore C. Streibert of the United States Information Agency said today Russia's recent conciliatory gestures prove the United States has been winning the battle for men's minds.

Streibert, just returned from an inspection trip of USIA posts in Europe and Africa, made the statements in an interview. Asked if he felt the United States is "winning the battle for men's minds," he replied:

"Yes, I think it is. I think this is shown by the change of tactics by the Soviets. They have had to appear more reasonable to the rest of the world. They have had to adopt a more appealing attitude."

He said the USIA campaign to tell the world of President Eisenhower's "atoms-for-peace" program provided the "best absolute proof of this."

The Soviets at first would have nothing to do with the peaceful atomic idea and tried to picture the United States as undertaking the program for selfish motives. But they later imitated the American program with one of their own.

Enchanting Fable From Scandinavia

A NAIL MERCHANT AT NIGHTFALL, by Mika Waltari, translated by Alan Beesley, illustrated by Roland Pym. (G. P. Putnam's Sons, 176 pgs., $3.)

Reviewed by

NELL CONVERSE PUTZEL

NOT SINCE an enchanted day when I first came on "The Story of Gosta Berling" have I had such pleasure in a story-fantasy. This one also comes from Scandinavia. The author is from Helsinki, although he has made his home in Paris, and his first books were published in Finland. "The Egyptian" was an international best seller.

In the present book, Sinuhe, who has "braved the labyrinth of Crete and seen the god face to face," is now bothering his creator to the point of desperation. He wants him to write another book. Furthermore, the retired nail merchant now finds no pleasure in his library, drinks no longer rise sweetly to his head but taste bitter and make him ill. His pictures look always the same, his friends no longer amuse him, and he finds flaws in the dispositions of his beautiful wife and his talented daughter who raises rabbits. Even his dog seems lazy.

Hunting for a lost tax bill, he finds his heart in the linen closet among the sheets. In spite of the warnings of his wife, who reminds him what troubles the old heart has been responsible for, he insists on replacing it in its rightful place in his chest.

When spring comes, the battered heart asserts itself and its owner starts on a trip to the town of his youth and the search for a picture of a man with three feet. Here, in spite of his wife's warnings as to his absent-mindedness, he misplaces his heart again in the home of a beautiful friend with smoke-bright eyes.

The humor is excellent but indescribable—the doctor with hormones so expensive that even the wealthiest patients must profit by them—the psychologist who knows that in a nice asylum the Egyptians could not but retreat—the wavering resolutions and quick rationalizations of an ordinary nail merchant who loves beauty.

It is, of course, a fable of the creative process of writing, cynical, pathetic and most beautifully done.

Speaking the Classics

READING ALOUD EFFECTIVELY, by Ben Graf Hennecke. (Rhinehart, $6.75.)

READING aloud has become widespread among public speakers who enjoy the services of ghost writers, but that is not the kind of reading aloud Professor Hennecke has in mind here. His type of reading aloud is based on the communication of great literature to a group of listeners, a practice as old as literature itself, and one that this reviewer warmly encourages whenever he can. That is why he is glad to recommend this practical and persuasive book, in which the author explains expertly how reading aloud should be done. He appends a selection of excerpts to practice on. These have been chosen with taste and understanding, and certain gems of descriptive writing that are as lovely as they are unhackneyed.

Saving the Ranch

SHOWDOWN CREEK, by Lucas Todd. (The Macmillan Co., 182 pgs., $2.75.)

BROCK MITCHELL was no longer fiddle-footed. He had returned to Showdown Creek to help the uncle who had raised him. With a railroad being built into these parts, he could get a beef contract that would save the home ranch. He had reckoned without Chad Deasey, however, whose brother he had killed in Texas. It had been a fair fight, but sometimes a man's past can catch up with him.

Brock's efforts to save the ranch are blocked at every turn by the revenge-seeking Deasey, who is out to ruin Brock before the final showdown. In his battle with these odds Brock discovers that accepting responsibility, instead of shirking the problems which arise, is the way a man proves his manhood and his affection for the people he loves.

CARLOS P. ROMULO

THE CHOICE IN ASIA

U.S. Must Either Be Partner or Enemy Says Romulo

CRUSADE IN ASIA, by Carlos P. Romulo. (The John Day Co., 309 pgs., $4.)

Reviewed By

DONALD GRANT

"ASIA will cast the deciding vote between Freedom and Communism. It is for America of the present day to decide whether Asia will be a partner or an enemy in the great task that lies ahead for all the human race."

These are the closing words of Gen. Romulo's new book, and they are a pretty fair summary not only of his thesis, but of an objective fact that increasingly is becoming evident to serious students of world affairs. And the critical point for Americans to consider is the choice posed by Romulo: partner or enemy. He does not offer an opportunity to the United States to "dominate" Asia, as Assistant Secretary of State Walter Robertson once said was our policy.

It might be useful to remember who this Gen. Romulo is. He is not in the slightest sense of the word, "anti-American." Even in the present State Department he is regarded as the best friend the United States has in Asia, and at the Asian-African Conference at Bandung, Indonesia, in April, he was entrusted with "representing" the United States position. He is a former member of the staff of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, a former Manila journalist, winner of a Pulitzer Prize for warning against Japanese aggression before the attack on Pearl Harbor, and at present is special representative in the United States of Ramon Magsaysay, President of the Philippine Republic.

HIS book presents the story of events in the Philippines since its liberation from Japanese rule, with implications for the rest of Asia clearly pointed out. It is a readable book, a serious book, and one which deserves the attention of every American concerned with the preservation of freedom in the world—freedom from Communist domination as well as from other forms of oppression.

But to return to the choice presented by Romulo—partner or enemy—it needs to be pointed out, as Romulo does, that the choice is not an easy one:

"America stands at the crossroads in Asia. On one hand is the American ideal, sprung from its revolutionary traditions, its record of liberating and recognizing the independence of the Philippines. On the other hand, political expediency inclined the United States to moderate its sympathy for the peoples of Asia and Africa so as not to alienate its Western allies, which include of course the colonial powers."

THE arena of choice is clear enough. In the first place there is Indochina, where the United States Army, attempting a last-minute rescue against Communism, finds itself often in conflict with State Department policy as it attempts to frustrate the ambitions of France to return as a colonial power. In the second place there is North Africa, where — again, France — a colonial power seeks to deny political freedom to the people of Algeria, Tunisia and Morocco. And in the third place there is the Union of South Africa, where the oppression of the Negro and Indian by the present "white" government is a stain on the whole non-Communist world.

The list does not include the attempts of the Dutch to return to Indonesia, nor the stubborn refusal of the Portuguese and French to evacuate their power from colonial enclaves in India.

The absurdity of the American policy position, however, is made more clear when it is realized that very often it is in opposition to the greatest "colonial power" of the all—Britain—which had adopted a clear policy of withdrawing its colonial power in favor of independence and self-government. The United States, on the other hand, finds it "expedient" to back France, often the Dutch, and even the "white" government of the Union of South Africa—either by a silence that gives consent, or by positive action.

GEN. Romulo also mentions the economic necessities of Asia, though it is perfectly clear that while the economic development, by non-Communist methods, of Asia, Africa, the Middle East and Latin-America is an absolute necessity, it is only one important means by which the people of these areas can achieve status and dignity, and not an end in itself. It is, however, in the economic sphere that the United States can perhaps most clearly express its sense of partnership with such areas.

The Philippines offer the United States a great opportunity to understand Asia: because of our good record there the people of the Philippines are more patient with our "funny Western ways" than most Asians. And Gen. Romulo is the most eloquent spokesman in the Philippines.

We will ignore his advice at the peril of the free world.

Action in the Valley

MAN OF THE WEST, by Philip Yordan. (Simon & Schuster, 240 pgs., $2.50.)

WHAT difference did it make if Mr. Early had used his guns on the side of law and order as he roamed the length and breadth of the western country? The settlers in the valley wanted no part of him. In their eyes he was a killer and they resented the fact of his coming among them.

Even when Grimsell, the cattle baron, threatens to turn his cattle into the valley and ruin the farms, the settlers still resent Mr. Early's efforts to help them. Mr. Early's farm, however, lies at the mouth of Angel Pass, over which it is necessary for Grimsell's cattle to come to reach the valley.

Despite the settlers opposition to him, Mr. Early straps on his guns and goes out to face Grimsells' paid killers in order to save his own and his neighbors' farm lands. Mr. Early sees much action before things are finally settled in the valley but he earns the respect of the settlers and at long last gains the peace he has been seeking.

Science Fiction Plus

A WAY HOME, by Theodore Sturgeon. (Funk and Wagnalls, 333 pgs., $3.50.)

THERE are less than a handful of men writing science fiction who have as their strong point characterization. Many are good at ingenious new inventions or wild and sweeping space operas, fewer can plot a fine, tight novel, and fewest of all can make the people come alive. The last ability is the proud possession of Mr. Sturgeon.

The eleven short stories in this anthology are a good sample of Mr. Sturgeon's work and demonstrate in addition his imagination, not in science, but in situations and characters. The only criticism of the collection would be by the science fiction aficiando, who will already have many of the stories in other anthologies. For others, "A Way Home" is a rare opportunity.

Week's Review Of Business And Finance

HOME BUILDING DIP?

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—BOOMING industry faced up this week to another round of wage increases. Biggest question confronting consumers was: would prices go up, too? The "guaranteed wage" settlement in the auto industry was expected to have immediate and far-reaching effects—particularly in the bargaining talks just getting under way in steel. Strengthening labor's hand in both the auto and steel wage negotiations was the fast pace of business generally.

The week saw stock prices bound repeatedly to new all-time highs. Auto output, throttled down by a rash of wildcat strikes, was still 25 per cent higher than in like week last year. Steel production roared along at an estimated 96.7 per cent of capacity; there was a moderate rise in retail trade.

You could see signs of bullish optimism everywhere. Some economists said there was too much optimism and warned that the boom might get out of hand. There was talk of more inflation.

Others said the boom was sound.

Commerce Secretary's Words.

Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks, reporting a rise of 1,000,000 in the number of Americans employed during May, said prosperity in 1955 is shaping up as "the best ever." Total employment last month, he announced, was 62,703,000; factory employment, which usually tapers off in May, racked up a contra-seasonal increase.

C. Canby Balderston, vice chairman of the federal reserve board of governors, told the Virginia manufacturers association that "business is not only good, it's at an all-time high." Biggest news from Balderston was this: the No. 1 barometer of business—"gross national product" or total value of all goods and services produced and sold—has climbed to a rate of 375 billion dollars a year, the highest ever recorded.

There were other boom signals. In the summer dog days just ahead, the economy could count on a powerful assist from stepped-up business spending. Commerce department experts said spending planned by business men on new plant and equipment would soar in the July-August-September quarter to a record annual rate of nearly 29 billion dollars.

Long-Range Implications.

While economists pondered the long-range implications of the auto wage settlement, trade sources forecast one immediate result: a continued rush to buy cars at present prices.

Word from Detroit was: "No price increases likely right away. But scheduled production cuts will whittle dealers' inventories, and people will be scrambling to buy cars before the new and probably higher-priced 1956 models come out. The present custom of fat discounts and liberal trade-in deals may not last much longer."

Steel labor chiefs were pictured this week as "talking softly but carrying a big stick" when they opened wage talks with the nation's biggest steel producers. The "big stick" had two major components: the wage settlement in the auto industry, and continuing heavy demand for steel.

"Iron Age," national metal-working weekly, said the "generous settlement" in the auto industry puts the steel union "in its best bargaining position in years." Steel labor negotiations "will be a lot tougher than expected," the weekly said. "The United Steel Workers are on the scent of a healthy wage boost comparable to the best in (the union's) history."

Problem of Steel Prices.

What would happen to steel prices? Best guess was that steel users would be paying close to $4 a ton more for basic grades used in the production of automobiles, washing machines, housewares and thousands of other consumer items. Whether retail prices of such steel-containing items would go up, too, would depend pretty much on supply-and-demand, consumer preferences, and general business conditions.

With talk of inflation in the air, new restraints on credit were hinted. Meanwhile there was mounting evidence that the record rate of home building—long a target of criticism by economists fearing inflation—was finally slowing down. F. W. Dodge corp., statistical reporting agency for the construction industry, disclosed that dollar volume of home building contracts awarded east of the Rockies last month was down six per cent from the April total, reversing a prolonged upward trend. The contract award totals, of course, are an indication of future construction; actual new construction of all kinds put in place last month was up eight per cent from the month before and the highest for any May on record.

News in Brief.

Briefly over the business scene:

A bill exempting independent natural gas producers from Federal price regulation squeaked through the House Commerce Committee by a 15-16 vote. . . . American Radiator and Standard Sanitary Corp., the nation's biggest manufacturer of plumbing and heating equipment, established an atomic energy division. . . . Volume of newspaper advertising in the first four months of 1955 was 11 per cent greater than a year ago. . . . Douglas Aircraft Co. will build a commercial jet transport that can fly from Los Angeles to New York in four and one-half hours.

FOREIGN BONDS IN DEMAND; INDEX UP

Market Gets Strength From Inquiry for Convertible Issues.

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—Bonds that are convertible into common stock were in heavy demand this week, imparting some of their strength to the whole corporate bond market.

"Big board" volume soared to $25,674,000 par value in the most active trading since the second week in January. Activity centered on the convertible issues with steels, oils and chemicals attracting the most support. Railroads also moved upward. But investment quality utilities and industrials fluctuated narrowly in cautious dealings.

U. S. Government bonds declined on Monday and spent the rest of the week backing and filling at these lower levels. The 40-year 3s were down 4-32 at 101 9-32 bid as were the 2½s of 1963 at 98 21-32 bid. Victory loan 2½s of 1967-72 lost 12-32 at 96 20-32 bid.

Foreign dollar bonds continue to command more respect in the financial community. This is reflected by the Associated Press foreign bond average, which is currently at its highest level since 1931. German, Japanese, Italian, Latin American, West European and even defaulted East European liens improved this week.

The action of the stock market is coming to have an increasing effect on the bond market. This is particularly so because more and more companies are raising capital through the use of the convertible debenture. Nearly every month, one or more convertible bond issues is admitted to the "big board." And traders in these issues quickly make their price conform to the action of that company's common stock, regardless of the interest rate on the bond.

The Florida State Turnpike Authority this week sold $74,000,000 of 40-year revenue bonds to an underwriting syndicate which, in turn quickly sold the issue to private investors. It was the first sale of toll road bonds this year by a turnpike authority doing its initial financing.

State and municipal financing so far is lagging behind last year's record rate and also behind the 1953 pace. For the first five months, tax-exempt bonds sales total $2,167,256,970 compared with $2,901,230,706 in like 1954 period and $2,186,711,894 in the same 1953 months.

HOG AND LAMB PRICES HIGHER ON WEEK'S TRADE

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., June 11—(USDA weekly review of the livestock market):

Heavy Rain Unwanted in Winter Wheat Belt, Aid to Spring Grain

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP)—Rain hovered over the futures market on the Board of Trade this week like a janus-headed monster. In one direction the downpour gave weather's last crushing blows to the winter wheat crop in Oklahoma and parts of nearby states. It was too late to help the drouth-ridden areas. And where early harvesting had already started the muddy and flooded fields retarded combining and truck movement. Elsewhere the prolonged rainy spell was considered beneficial to the spring wheat crop and to those corn and soybeans areas where planting had been completed. The upshot was that nearby wheat contracts gained and distant deliveries which represent the spring crop lagged.

The week finished with wheat ¾c higher to ⅛c lower than a week earlier, corn was unchanged to 2c higher, oats were ⅛ @ 1⅜c higher and rye was 1@1½c lower. Soybeans ranged from 1¼ @ ⅝c lower and lard was 2@27c a hundred pounds higher.

Corn and soybeans had some day-to-day effects from the rain, but other influences were stronger in the final summation. Corn was benefited by some exports and by smaller amounts going into the Government loan, indicating more was being currently consumed.

The Department of Agriculture reported that farmers had placed 215,700,000 bushels of 1954 crop corn under Government loan up to May 15. A year earlier the total had reached 406,300,000 bushels.

July soybeans carried the most strength, nurtured by a vigorous demand from refiners for soybean oil which sent the cash product to highs for the year. Most distant bean contracts eased as the new crop was reported to be showing steady improvement.

Another cloud on the wheat horizon, starting not much bigger than the proverbial man's hand, grew in importance as the week advanced. A federal wheat crop forecast due to be released Friday turned out to indicate the smallest crop since 1943.

Traders had discounted winter wheat crop estimates to about 110,000,000 bushels less than last year but the Government's figure proved to be more than 150,000,000 bushels less. Prospects had fallen more than 14,00,000 bushels during the month since the previous federal estimate.

Winter wheat is calculated by the Government to total 639,000,000 bushels and spring wheat 206,000,000 bushels. The combined run of 845,000,000 bushels would compare with 970,000,000 last year.

It is on this crop report Secretary of Agriculture Benson was to base the Government's minimum support price for the 1956 crop. It will be at 76 per cent of parity, compared with 82½ per cent on the 1955 crop.

This calculates to a minimum average support price of $1.81 a bushel on 1956 wheat if acreage quotas are approved in the June 25 farm referendum. The 1955 crop carries an average price of $2.06 a bushel.

FIND OUT... how much New Jersey has to offer your business

IN THE MIDDLE OF THE EAST COAST MONEY BELT
When the time comes to open a branch factory or distributing plant on the East Coast, consider the strategic advantages of locating in New Jersey.

WRITE FOR INFORMATION
Free 32-page booklet gives detailed information on all counties. If you desire we can refer you to one of the 100 experts on our Industrial Advisory Board. Inquiries handled in strict confidence.

SENSIBLE TAXATION
Ask your tax consultant to figure how much you could save on both corporate and individual taxes by locating in New Jersey. No state sales tax. No state income tax.

SKILLED LABOR
New Jersey has more industrial workers in relation to its area than any other state. In part this is the result of the most advanced program of vocational education to be found in any state.

UNCONGESTED
Many industries today are seeking rural or small-town sites in conformity with the Government's industrial dispersal program and to better living conditions for their employees. In New Jersey there are many such sites available with excellent transportation to New York and Philadelphia.

IN THE HEART OF THE WORLD'S RICHEST MARKET
Your plant or warehouse in central New Jersey is in the exact geographic center of the World's Richest Market. Within a 250 mile radius 48 million people live and work. Their net spendable income is $70 billion. Nowhere else on earth is so much industrial capacity, so much buying power concentrated in an area that can be covered by over-night delivery. Whether you sell to the consumer or to industry, you can serve your market best from New Jersey.

NEW TOP PRICES ON FOUR OF WEEK'S FIVE TRADING DAYS

Averages Eclipse the Old April 26 High After Ford-Union Agreement.

By RADER WINGET

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—With hard driving persistence, the stock market this week climbed repeatedly to new record high levels. The market has been heading upward for nearly a month following a fall that started a consolidating reaction. This week it erased the last of the old losses and pushed through to new peak marks as registered by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks. The average eclipsed the old April 26 high on Monday and then kept on climbing for two more days to new tops. After a one-day hesitation for profit-taking, it resumed its climb and closed the week at a new high mark of $169.20.

(Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks gained 9.19 points on the week making a new record high of 437.72. Both the rail and utility indexes lost on the week, the former .75 of a point at 160.56 and the latter .20 of a point at 64.21.)

The week's volume was 14,511,531 shares. The previous period (4 days) had business of 9,710,520 shares. Of the 1446 issues traded, 738 were higher, 533 lower and 175 unchanged.

Little to Discourage.

Throughout its record-breaking performance, the market had little to discourage it. Road blocks in the path of progress all were technical affairs. A good boost was given to buying sentiment with the settlement between Ford and the United Auto Workers. The new contract meant no strike and no prolonged halt in production either in the motor industry or allied businesses.

Another meaning was read into the contract by some Wall Street observers. They felt that higher wages meant higher prices and the two together would result in more inflation.

See Labor Problem.

Of course, when the trading week ended, a settlement between General Motors and the union still was pending, and the steelworkers remained deep in discussions with leading steel producers. Any unexpected developments there still could upset the stock market applecart, but rising prices indicated traders didn't think it likely.

Federal Government officials looked at business and found it excellent. Commerce Secretary Weeks said it was possible that 1955 would be the best year the nation ever had seen. The steel industry in May turned out the greatest tonnage of steel in its history and the pace continued with little abatement into June.

The Association of American Railroads reported that 126 major railroads in the first four months of this year enjoyed a net income of $243,000,000, up 54 per cent from a year ago.

Prices Off Rumors.

The market was dragged down on Thursday through a combination of profit-taking and rumors that the Federal Reserve Board intended to raise margin requirements from the present regulation that calls for a 70 per cent cash down payment for stocks bought on credit. It was felt in Wall Street that the threat of higher margin requirements will remain as long as the market is pushing up to repeated new highs on expanded volume of business.

Two previous hikes in margins this year to 60 per cent from 50 per cent and then again to 70 per cent had only a temporary effect on the market. A further boost, even to 100 per cent, wasn't regarded by Wall Street bulls as a cause for alarm.

One other technical consideration worried hair-splitting technicians. The industrial section of the market has been rolling right ahead to new high marks, but the railroads have been laggard so far. When the rails rise to new highs to "confirm" the industrial advance, the technicians will feel that the market is on a firm base.

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock Exchange were Sperry Rand Corp. "when issued" up 1¾ at 27⅜ on 374,900 shares; United States Steel up 4 at 48¼; Kaiser Aluminum up 6 at 37; Pennsylvania Railroad up 1¼ at 29⅝, and Republic Steel up 1½ at 45⅜.

I HAD TO EARN $200 A WEEK

So I sent $6 to The Wall Street Journal

High prices and taxes were getting me down. I had to have $200 a week or reduce my standard of living. Like Alice in Wonderland, I had to run faster to stay in the same place.

So I started reading The Wall Street Journal. I heeded its warnings. I cashed in on the ideas it gave me for earning extra income and cutting expenses. I got the money I needed. Now I'm slowly forging ahead. Believe me, reading The Journal every day is a wonderful get-ahead plan.

This experience is typical. Each day The Wall Street Journal tells you about far-reaching changes taking place in America. New inventions. New industries. New ways of doing business. New opportunities to earn money. The Journal gives you quick warning of any new trend that may affect your pocketbook. The Journal is a wonderful aid to salaried men making $7000 to $20,000 a year. It is valuable to the owner of a small business. It can be of priceless benefit to young men who want to win advancement.

The Wall Street Journal is the complete business DAILY. Has largest staff of writers on business and finance. The only business paper served by all four big press associations. It costs only $20 a year, but you can get a Trial Subscription for three months for $6. Just tear out this ad and attach check for $6 and mail. Or tell us to bill you.

Published daily right in the Midwest to bring you vital business and Washington news immediately. Address: The Wall Street Journal, 711 W. Monroe St., Chicago 6, Ill.

Your chance of a lifetime

WIN A 1955 BUICK RIVIERA

with the purchase of a . . . . .

Capehart TV

Here's News!

Great News!

THIS IS A LOCAL CONTEST

America's most thrilling automobile, a Buick Riviera to be given away—Absolutely Free—to some lucky winner in the most sensational contest ever to hit the St. Louis area. You've heard of television instruments being given away with the purchase of an automobile—but who ever heard of an automobile (and a Buick Riviera, at that!) being given away with the purchase of a television set? But that's just what we are doing! Choose your Capehart TV NOW! THIS IS A LOCAL CONTEST—Greater St. Louis is the first and only community to offer this contest. Judging from past sales, each contestant should have better than 1 chance in a hundred to be a winner!

Free 10 BUICKS to be given away!

1 each in 10 separate contests!

Here's How: When you purchase your Capehart Television instrument, you will receive an official registration form. Attach your letter of 25 words or less on the subject, "I selected a Capehart television instrument because . . ." to the registration form and mail your letter with the form to Capehart-Buick Contest Headquarters, 2315 Olive Street, St. Louis 3, Missouri. There will be 10 separate contests, the first of which starts at midnight, Sunday, June 12, 1955 and closes at midnight, Monday, July 11th, 1955. At this time, the best letter in the opinion of the judges will be awarded a Buick Riviera. In other words, a separate contest lasting 1 month will be started every 2 weeks and a Buick Riviera will be awarded every two weeks starting July 11th. In the event of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded. Contest is open to all persons who qualify by purchasing a Capehart television instrument EXCEPT employees of the Capehart-Farnsworth Company, its distributors, dealers and advertising agencies and their employees, and the families of all exempted persons. Contest is subject to all Federal, State and Local regulations.

No entries will be returned.

As each winner is determined, his name will be announced and posted by all participating Capehart dealers.

Decisions of the judges will be final.

Capehart Polaroid* Filter System makes the difference —and only Capehart has it!

The most revolutionary development since the invention of television is the POLAROID* Picture Filter System and only CAPEHART has it! Now you can enjoy television without drawing blinds or turning off lights—without annoying eyestrain. For the Capehart Polaroid* Picture Filter System eliminates the reflections from light sources outside the picture tube that cause eye fatigue—brings you a clear, bright, sharp picture that is really easy on your eyes.

DETERS, MILLIE C. In loving memory, June 12, 1953.
DAUGHTER, SON, LOVED ONES.

EADS, WILLIAM M., in loving memory June 11, 1954.
WIFE AND FAMILY.

FORMAN, ARTHUR W., passed away Sept. 8, 1953. In loving memory of my dear husband's fifty-seventh birthday.
Time heals all sorrows,
And helps us to forget.
But time so far has only proved
How much I miss you yet.
Sadly missed by loving wife
ALICE.

GIBLER, ANNIE LAURA. In loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away June 13, 1946.
CHILDREN, GRANDCHILDREN.

GUTMANN, GILBERT A., June 10, 1947.
Always remembered by MOTHER and FAMILY.

HIRTH, VIOLA, in loving memory of my dear wife and mother who passed away June 13, 1952.
We know your soul is now at rest and free from care and pain
But this world would seem like
Heaven if we had you back again.
Sadly missed by Husband and Son, Daughter-in-law and Grandson and all who loved her.

KAHLE, CATHERINE (nee Loesch); in loving remembrance of wife, our dear mother. "10 years have passed, as we have loved you, so we miss you." By HUSBAND and CHILDREN.

KILLES, CLARA, in loving memory, June 16, 1946.
Nine years have elapsed since you went away
But in our hearts you will always stay.
Sadly missed by SONS and ALL WHO KNEW HER.

LITSCHEL, FRED, of 1524 S. Third st. In loving memory, who departed this life June 11, 1950.
Because you meant so much to us,
Because we loved you so,
You are in our thoughts and in our hearts
Much more than you could know.
Though on earth you are no more
Still in memory you are with us
As you always were before.
There is never any time, nor any day or season
That we don't long and wish for you
For just this very reason.
Missed so much by WIFE, SON and DAUGHTER-IN-LAW, and the GRANDCHILDREN, CHARITY and DAVID and HIS MANY, MANY FRIENDS.

McCABE, EDWARD IRA, in memory of my dear husband, who passed away June 9, 1945.
If all the world were mine to give
I'd give it all and more,
To see his face I loved so dear
Coming smiling through my door.
Sadly missed by wife,
ELSIE McCABE.

MAENDER, ETHEL E., in loving memory of wonderful wife and mother, who passed away June 10, 1954.
You bade no one a last farewell,
You said goodby to none,
Your loving heart ceased to beat forever, dear Ethel.
Our hearts are filled with sadness,
Our eyes shed many a tear,
God alone knows how we miss
you, dear Mother,
After one long, long year.
Missed terribly by HUSBAND AND DAUGHTER.

MORAN, LULU ROSE; June 14, 1954, 8226 Watson Rd., Mass Tues., June 14 at St. Rock's Church.
May her sole rest in peace,
God grant her eternal rest.
Missed by her true loving friend, EFFIE DOUD and girl friends, NELLIE and ESSIE and all who loved her.

OSTER, IDA C.; in loving remembrance June 14, 1954.
Oh happy hours we once enjoyed
How sweet their memory still
But now there is a loneliness
The world can never fill
Sadly missed by
BROTHER AND SISTERS.

RYAN, SARAH B., in loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, who passed away June 11, 1943.
Dear Mom, your gentle face and patient smile
With sadness we recall.
You had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
Fondly remembered by
SARAH, RUTH and RUDY.

SEIBERT, FRIEDA K., most lovingly remembered June 1, 1950.
We can not ever find again
The joys that used to be
And all the gold that glittered then
Is just a memory
But that is life and that is why
Some things can never last
And now a part of every day
Is taken from the past.
Sadly missed by HUSBAND, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

TOMEK, JENNIE, in loving memory, died June 10, 1953.
Sleep on, sleep on, dear mother,
Oh, how sweet to breathe thy name;
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.
Sadly missed by SON and DAUGHTER-IN-LAW.

TREBILCOCK, FLORENCE C., in loving memory June 14, 1954.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true
There is not a day, dear sister
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by SISTERS AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

Sales Executive Positions

General American Life Insurance Company, one of the largest life insurance companies in America, is rapidly expanding its operations. This expansion creates the need for additional regional group insurance representatives and general agents to head sales offices. The company believes in developing its own sales executives for these positions and has in operation two extensive training courses for young men, without further military obligation, between the ages of 21 and 35, with a college education or its equivalent in experience, possessing character, sales ability, ambition and reasonable intelligence.

Beginning salary of $300 to $400 per month with scheduled increases at regular intervals througnout training period.

Based upon statements made to us by placement officers of large universities, these training courses are the soundest, most comprehensive, specific and appealing offered in the life insurance business.

If you believe you qualify, and desire the opportunity to start your career on a sound basis with an ultimate earnings expectancy of from $10,000 to $40,000 per year,

LET THEM SUFFER!
"CHIPPERS" usually prevent a hang-over, if taken in time . . . but doggone it, we can't find people who can go into bars to sell them and stay sober, themselves! . . . Oh well, let 'em suffer! You probably wouldn't want to have to patronize bars, anyway, even if you could make an easy couple hundred a week, doing it.
P.S.—If you don't have pride . . . but think you have willpower . . . and if you are interested, write Jamison White, Inc., 848 Plymouth Bldg., Minneapolis 3, Minn., and maybe you will start something you will have to work full-time to handle!

AT ONCE

3 intelligent, neat appearing men who desire permanent connection with 50-year-old national organization; must be willing to work 8 hours a day and start at our terms. This means about $75 per week to start. If you mean business, apply at 2950 Washington, 10 a.m. or 1 p.m. only, for appointment for interview.

TARA
A SUBDIVISION WITH ALL THE WARMTH OF THE OLD SOUTH...

CAN YOU IMAGINE???
—196 HOUSES SOLD—

JUST FOUR WEEKS AFTER GRAND OPENING!

Doesn't This Make You Wonder?
Of Course It Does.

AND JUST WHY DID SO MANY PEOPLE BUY IN TARA IN SO SHORT A TIME?

ANSWER THIS QUESTION FOR YOURSELF

3-BEDROOM FRAME, $13,750

Here is the ideal plan for the medium-sized family, requiring a third bedroom. This plan offers the much-desired entrance into the hall from all 6 rooms, a design not readily available in many plans.

2-BEDROOM FRAME, $12,500

This plan designed for the smaller family requiring only 2 bedrooms. Its main features are the exceptionally large kitchen and the living room-dining room combination that is so much in demand.

4 BEDROOMS—2 BATHS

If you're the "big" family man, this plan you must see. It has 2 bedrooms on the first floor and 2 large bedrooms on the second. Also, it offers you 2 full baths, "and you just can't get them no more," in this price range.

DIRECTIONS:
Take Baptist Church Rd. Off Lindbergh to Ronnie's Drive-In Theatre to See 4-Bedroom Home Described Above.

COME OUT TODAY!

Discover the secret of the tremendous volume of sales in this beautiful community. See lovely location—the quality materials that go into the construction of these homes—the superior workmanship that is everywhere you look. Examine the beautiful 7-room Colonial with 2 fully tiled baths that sells for the amazing price of $17,250. See and ask about all the floor plans described in the ad, and you, too, will agree that in TARA you get MORE house for LESS money than anywhere else you may have looked.

DIRECTIONS:
Drive South on Tesson Ferry Rd., 1½ Miles From Gravois, to Musick Rd.; Turn Right to Lavina Drive.

"MISSOURI'S FINEST"
358 ACRES, 200 OF WHICH IS LEVEL TO GENTLY ROLLING PLOW LAND FOR CORN, SOYA BEANS, WHEAT, OATS, ALFALFA AND ALL CLOVERS. THIS 200 ACRES IS ALL IN ONE BODY. Home sits in about the center of this tract; you can see every corner from the yard; no rocks, no erosion, a very easy farm to handle and, brother, it's a producing thing. The growing wheat, barley, oats, corn, grass and clovers will serve as your guide. 158 acres pasture and timber; entire farm fenced and cross fenced; enough water for a dozen farms. It's one of the best located farms in Missouri; 1 mile off Highway 19, 2 miles off U.S. Highway 50, about 5 miles from good town of 3000 population. Electric, city telephone, good TV, all routes, public and parochial schools, etc. Now in addition to being a REAL GOOD farm, I believe I can say it's about one of the prettiest, most impressive set-ups I have seen for many a day. The large, 2-story, stately-looking brick residence will really impress you at first look; it's so nicely placed on a gorgeous, large, level blue grass lawn surrounded by so many beautiful large maple shade trees. Wait until you see the vegetable garden, the flowers, shrubbery, etc. Home has gas heat, running water, large kitchen with about 20 ft. of built-ins; it's modern enough, yet has some old world charm, wide board floors and large ceiling rafters exposed, etc.; two large screened-in sleeping porches, basement loaded with canned fruits, vegetables, meats and an overflowing deep freeze. Large number of farm outbuildings and every one a good one; large machinery storage building and workshop, granaries, corn cribs, metal granary, 2-car garage, chicken and brooder houses; and the biggest, best Dutch barn you have ever seen, metal clad, 92-ft. long, big enough for everything. Now don't go away there's still more; a complete line of new or nearly new farm machinery goes, too; A.C.-W.D. 1953 tractor, 2-row cultivator, plows, '50 model combine, '54 A.C. corn planter, Ford tractor '54, plows, J.D. '53 7-ft. tandem disc, J.D. 11-hole grain drill '53, J.D. 7-ft. mounted mower '53, J.D. side delivery rake '53, New Holland 66 baler '53, 30-ft. grain elevator, '53 Wood Brothers corn picker, '53 fan mill, J.D. hammer mill '53, 2 rubber tired wagons (1 brand new), land roller, manure spreader, all shop tools, hog self-feeders, all chicken feeders and equipment. The following livestock and poultry are included, too: Sow and 9 pigs, 250 New Hampshire laying hens, 300 White Rock pullets, 33-head REAL GOOD White Face cattle, all hay and straw in barn. HOLD ON FOLKS, there's still more: Growing crops to go to buyer if purchased before harvest time, 17 acres wheat, 22 acres oats, 11 acres barley, 14 acres corn, lots of hay and a good portion of plow land now in grass, lots of fruit. Now listen folks, the farm land itself together with all improvements and location is choice, the machinery is just like new, all livestock, poultry, etc., is real good, and it's located in a solid community, best of neighbors, present owner 28 years.
I don't see how you could go wrong with this setup, it's an OUTSTANDING OPPORTUNITY. You'll feel so very sure of yourself in taking over this operation. Remember IT'S SMART TO OWN A FARM. Full price for everything, $35,000, good terms if desired.

Proposed forms of Contract Documents, including Specifications, will be available upon request and will be on file at the office of the St. Louis Housing Authority, 901 Washington avenue, St. Louis 1, Missouri, on and after June 15, 1955.

Copies of documents may be obtained by depositing $15.00 in the form of a CERTIFIED CHECK OR MONEY ORDER with the St. Louis Housing Authority for each set of bidding documents obtained.

ST. LOUIS HOUSING AUTHORITY,
JOHN J. O'TOOLE,
Executive Director.
Dated: June 10, 1955.

INSURANCE BIDS WANTED
The St. Louis Housing Authority will receive sealed proposals for furnishing of Fire and Extended Coverage Insurance for the John J. Cochran Garden Apartments, Low-Rent Housing Project MO-1-3, until 12 noon C.D.S.T. on Friday, June 24, 1955, at which time said proposals shall be publicly opened and canvassed.

All proposals shall be in accordance with "Instructions to Bidders" and on "Proposal Forms" supplied by the Housing Authority.

The Housing Authority reserves the right to reject any and all proposals or waive any irregularities therein.

Copies of the above mentioned forms may be obtained at the Housing Authority offices at 901 Washington Avenue.

ST. LOUIS HOUSING AUTHORITY,
John J. O'Toole,
Executive Director.

THE STEPHEN GORMAN BRICKLAYING CO. will receive sealed bids for face brick to be used in the construction of Low-Rent Housing Project Missouri 1-7, Phase 1, located in St. Louis, Mo., until 2 p.m. (Central Daylight Savings Time) on the 21st day of June, 1955 at 4200 Clayton av., St. Louis, Mo.

Brick, forming the basis of the bid, must meet the requirements of the project specifications available in the office of Hellmuth, Yamasaki and Leinweber, Architects, 825 Locust st.; The St. Louis Housing Authority, 901 Washington av., and The Stephen Gorman Bricklaying Co., 4200 Clayton av. Samples indicating preferred color range are available for inspection at the office of Hellmuth, Yamasaki and Leinweber, Architects.

MENON EXPECTED TO URGE U.S. TO CONCILIATE CHINA

But Most Ideas Attributed to Him Make Little Sense to American Officials.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—India's roving diplomat, V. K. Krishna Menon, is expected to urge President Eisenhower next week to make some conciliatory moves toward Red China. But United States officials are skeptical about his producing any practical proposal.

Menon's meeting with Mr. Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles on Tuesday is one of the most fascinating of a busy week of diplomatic events. The week will also see German Chancellor Adenauer calling at the White House, bring a review of United States policy toward Yugoslavia at the State Department and advance big four conference planning at meetings in New York.

What sets Krishna Menon's mission apart is that despite public and secret reports of what he has been telling people on his way here, no one, from Dulles down, can figure out what practical purpose he hopes to serve.

Announced Flyers' Release.

Menon, Prime Minister Nehru's most trusted envoy and confidant, visited Red China last month and talked at length with Premier Chou En-lai. When he returned to New Delhi two weeks ago he reported on his impressions to United States Ambassador John Sherman Cooper. He announced to newsmen that four American fighter pilots would be released from Red China and they were released.

He talked with reporters about his hopes for improving peace prospects in the Far East. He has also talked with top western diplomats, like British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan, on his way here. He has expressed strong hope that Red China will follow up release of the four airmen by letting 11 others they have acknowledged holding go free, but has taken the line this would be helped if the United States would make some conciliatory gestures.

One report which cannot be traced directly to Menon is that he may seek to raise with Mr. Eisenhower and Dulles the question of whether the United States would accept, however reluctantly, Red Chinese membership in the United Nations at next fall's session.

Other Suggestions.

Other suggestions which have been directly attributed to Menon in dispatches reaching here include these:

1. The Red Chinese believe the United States is holding some Chinese students in this country against their will. The United States should let more of them go. The American Government has announced repeatedly in recent weeks that all Chinese students who wish to go to Red China are free to do so. They may even obtain financial assistance in making the trip.

2. Menon has suggested that probably there are many nonstudents among the large Chinese communities in the United States who would really like to go to Red China and why would the United States not permit them to do so. This makes no sense to United States officials whose impression is that Chinese living in the United States preferred this to China, whether it was Nationalist or Communist, and are here by their free choice anyway.

3. Let the Chinese Nationalist offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu go to the Communists. Menon is reported to have said the Chinese Reds might be quite willing to let the Nationalist troops exacuate the islands instead of requiring their surrender. Mr. Eisenhower and Dulles have several times taken the position that Quemoy and Matsu did not have much real importance for either Communist or Nationalist China and letting them change hands, assuming that to be possible, would not settle anything because the real issue is Formosa.

4. The United States might issue a statement deploring the crash of an airplane this spring in which several Red Chinese diplomats were killed on their way to the Bandung conference of Asian and African nations. United States officials have been puzzled as to what such a declaration would accomplish. Apparently they would be willing to consider taking the step if it seemed useful.

Menon Confers With U.N. Secretary Dag Hammarskjold.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., June 11 (AP)—India's V. K. Krishna Menon spent an hour and a half today in private conversation with U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

Menon, who is foreign policy adviser to Prime Minister Nehru, declined to tell reporters later whether he had given Hammarskjold a report on the views of Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, whom he visited last month in Peiping.

"Mr. Chou En-lai, if he wants to convey any news, will convey it himself," Menon said.

Pressed for something on his talk with the Secretary General, he said, "ask Mr. Hammarskjold."

A U.N. spokesman told reporters Hammarskjold would have no statement on the talk.

Menon said he would attend a meeting of the U.N. Trusteeship Cour il Monday but did not know yet whether he would speak.

Eisenhower Text on Atomic Aid for Free Areas

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa., June 11 (AP).

Following is the text of President Eisenhower's commencement address at Pennsylvania State University today:

COMMENCEMENT speakers, by tradition, scan the future. They strive to predict, in general terms at least, the sort of success that awaits the graduates who properly apply themselves to their jobs and professions—and, of course, follow the advice of the speaker.

But the man who spoke at my commencement did not hint that I should be the first in a half century to receive an honorary degree here. Certainly I could not foresee, by the widest stretch of imagination, that one day the faculty and trustees of this university should consider me worthy of honorary membership in the class of 1955 at Pennsylvania State — the centennial class of this most distinguished school. I am grateful for this honor and delighted by my association with this class. I am particularly grateful that my youngest brother — younger brothers being confirmed skeptics about their elders—raised no objection and in person made the presentation.

Earlier this week I joined in reunion with my own class of 1915 at West Point. Most of us had grown gray and some of us more than a little bald; but these changes were slightly compensated, I thought, by an appearance of wisdom that we did not possess forty years ago. I am sure we all felt privileged, greatly privileged, to have lived in a day of marvels and of tremendous growth in America's stature. Although we were silent about it, I am certain that every one of us envied the men in the class of 1955 as much for the opportunities and discoveries ahead of them as for their youth, their boundless energy, and their idealism. And in this feeling I am doubtless joined by thousands of alumni here as they applaud and congratulate you of this class of 1955.

Art of Human Relations.

Of course, you men and women venture forth into a world where human nature differs little, if all, from human nature in 1915 or in the age of Pericles. Human relations—the art of getting along with the people who work besides you and with those who live thousands of miles away—does not change in its essence with the centuries. But the age of nuclear energy, in its industrial and economic aspects, will likely bear no more resemblance to the age of steam than a jet-powered plane to an old-fashioned box kite. Indeed, the social pattern of living may be transformed beyond recognition, for I think it can be stated almost as an axiom, demonstrated by the history of mankind that:

Out of the use of a new and great energy source, along with boundless opportunities, come new and great human problems that require new and great solutions produced by broadly informed, wisely sympathetic, spiritually inspired minds.

On this campus this morning, I had the privilege of inspecting the first atomic reactor of its kind established under university auspices. This research facility was made possible by the foresight of the trustees of this university who financed the structure and its operation. The Atomic Energy Commission provides only the fuel. In consequence, within several weeks, the atom will be at productive work here at Penn State. Here also the economic and human problems created by this new energy will be simultaneously studied by the distinguished faculties of this institution of learning.

Nuclear energy is too new for any man to chart its limits or predict its course with accuracy. But in ten short years the curtain has been pushed aside sufficiently to afford glimpses that have aroused atomic hopes commensurate with the awful dimension of atomic fears.

Extent of Atomic Power.

The extent of the economic and industrial changes that we can anticipate is indicated by estimates that world sources of uranium potentially available contain as high as twenty times the energy of the known world reserves of coal, petroleum and natural gas combined. But power is only one of the results of nuclear fission. Many engineers and scientists believe that radiation and radioactive isotopes may provide even greater peacetime benefit. They are already opening new horizons in medicine, agriculture and industrial processes.

Our nation has no desire for a monopoly on the knowledge and practice of these possibilities. We want the world to share—as we always have.

Moreover, we know that the human talents essential to the advancement of science are not restricted to this country. Throughout the free countries there are men and women of great ability who, given the opportunity, can help further to advance the frontiers of knowledge and contribute to the peace and progress of the peoples of all nations.

Progress to date in nuclear science is not, of course, exclusively an American achievement. An international co-operative effort broke the barriers and made possible man's use of atomic energy. For maximum progress in the future, we must work for a continued partnership between the world's best minds—in science, engineering, education, business and the professions.

In recognition of these facts, I proposed before the general assembly of the United Nations on Dec. 8, 1953, that governments begin then and continue to make joint contributions from their stockpiles of fissionable materials to an international atomic agency. Although a year later, the United Nations adopted the resolution recommending the formation of such an international agency, the Soviet Union has indicated no willingness to share any part of its nuclear stockpile with such an agency. Our offer still stands.

But we cannot wait on Soviet decisions.

Already we have made substantial progress under congressional authority toward agreements with friendly foreign governments for participation with us in the task of forwarding peaceful atomic progress. Agreements with Turkey, Lebanon, Israel, Italy, Spain, Switzerland, Denmark, Colombia, Brazil and the Argentine Republic have been initialed. Others are being negotiated. Now we move in further action.

We have developed two new programs that I shall submit to the Congress in the conviction that they reflect the spirit and intent of law and of the American people.

First: We propose to offer research reactors to the people of free nations who can use them effectively for the acquisition of the skills and understanding essential to peaceful atomic progress. The United States, in the spirit of partnership that moves us, will contribute half the cost. We will also furnish the acquiring nation the nuclear material needed to fuel the reactor.

Second: Within prudent security considerations, we propose to make available to the peoples of such friendly nations as are prepared to invest their own funds in power reactors, access to and training in the technological processes of construction and operation for peaceful purposes.

If the technical and material resources of a single nation should not appear adequate to make effective use of a research reactor, we would support a voluntary grouping of the resources of several nations within a single region to acquire and operate it together.

Our purpose is to spark the creative and inventive skills latent in the free world, to pool them and to put them to work for the betterment of the conditions under which men must live.

The research reactors acquired under this program will be fertile seeds for progress sown in the receptive soil of the free nations. The cost to the people of the United States will be small indeed when measured against the certain returns, tangible and intangible.

Power-Short Areas.

The second proposal will be of immediate interest mainly to the power-short areas of the world where atomic power may be economically feasible even today. Some of the countries, however, lack the knowledge and experience needed to construct and operate a commercial power reactor. This we can share for constructive purposes with friendly countries without real risk to our national security. Such sharing is expressly contemplated by the new Atomic Energy Act.

Together, these two provisions are designed, within the limits of prudence, to clear away some of the obstacles that have impeded progress in nuclear science and to permit its peaceful application by all who propose to make it serve mankind.

Here is an invitation—to scientists and engineers, to industries and governments—to pool their energies and creative talents that this great achievement of the human mind may bear the fruit of its infinite promise.

The people of the United States instinctively reject any thought that their greatest scientific achievement can be used only as a weapon. Our increasing progress in its peaceful applications is evidence of that fact.

While we build atomic-powered ships for war—because we must—we have the desire, the determination to build atomic-powered ships for peace. And build them we shall. The first atomic-powered merchant ship, and its ports of call, will be a laboratory demonstration that man can harness this unlimited energy for normal, peaceful, prosperous life.

While we design bombs that can obliterate great military objectives—because we must—we are also designing generators, channels and reservoirs of atomic energy so that man may profit from this gift which the Creator of all things has put into his hands. And build them we shall.

The two proposals I have outlined here are the gateway to a broad avenue of world progress in the peaceful uses of atomic energy.

Surely those of the Russian people — who, despite their Communist overlords, still think for themselves and who still retain respect for human dignity — are moved by the same feelings as we.

I still hope earnestly that the Soviet Union may join in an international effort to harness the atom for man's good. But I have such unlimited confidence in the creativeness of free minds and in the capacity of free men that I know we will, with or without the Soviets, achieve a more abundant life for those who join together in this historic venture.

As for the social and political problems that will accompany this development, their outlines can be foreseen but dimly. Their solution will be a task in which you men and women who graduate today will be engaged intensively, probably throughout your lives. Some questions immediately suggest themselves.

Will there prevail the deep desires shared by the vast majority of all people on the earth who want peaceful use of this and all other technical advancements? Can they defeat the designs of those few evil men who would use command of this energy for their control of human destiny? In this question are involved such vital alternatives as war and peace, armament and disarmament, death and life.

Another group o questions is of a somewhat different character. As nuclear and other technological achievements continue to mount, the normal life span will continue to climb. The hourly productivity of the worker will increase. How is the increase in leisure time and the extension in life expectancy to be spent? Will it be for the achievement of man's better aspirations or his degradation to the level of a well-fed, well-kept slave of an all-powered state?

Need for Philosophy.

Indeed, merely to state that question sharply reminds us that in these days and in the years ahead the need for philosophers and theologians parallels the need for scientists and engineers.

These two questions merely hint at the enormous problems and possibilities that will confront your generation. Scores of others will present themselves in the changing picture in agriculture, industry and the arts. The answers can be found only by broadly informed, wisely sympathetic, spiritually inspired minds, the product of general education that properly blends the practical and technical with the liberal and cultural.

In this country we emphasize both liberal and practical education. But too often it is a liberal education for one and a practical education for another. What we desperately need is an integrated liberal, practical education for the same person—for every American youth who can possibly obtain its blessings. Hand and head and heart were made to work together. They must work together. They should be educated together.

In colonial Philadelphia, there was a printer who was likewise a scientist and who was hailed the wisest man of his day—a builder of international understanding and friendship. In nineteenth century Illinois, there was a rail-splitter who was likewise a lawyer and who was hailed a champion of humanity—a builder of freedom for all men. Despite the lack of formal schooling, they were educated men. Education today can nurture for us the possibility of a thousand Franklins and a thousand Lincolns in a generation, where before we were fortunate to have one.

To gain proficiency, sometimes even world acclaim in a specialized skill or profession, knowledge and training are the principal requisites. But to understand how one skill fits into another, how one profession complements and depends on another, how all human enterprises constitute an immense, interdependent society — only education can develop that understanding.

Three Difficulties.

In our modern higher education, we have, I believe, three principal difficulties. First, in its practical aspect, we simply are not providing it to sufficient numbers of young men and women.

Second, we are not as proficient as we should be in providing a broad citizenship education to those who specialize in the many technical fields. And third, even in liberal education, we have permitted it to become too much a specialization, rather than a broad, liberating influence on the mind, the attitude, the character of all students.

What we need is general education, combining the liberal and the practical, which helps a student achieve the solid foundation of understanding — understanding of man's social institutions, of man's art and culture, and of the physical and biological and spiritual world in which he lives. It is an education which helps each individual learn how to relate one relevant fact to another; to get the total of relevant facts affecting a given situation in perspective; and to reason critically and with objectivity and moral conscience toward solutions to those situations or problems.

I repeat: This kind of education is sorely needed in this country—and throughout the world.

The peoples of this earth share today a great aspiration. They all have a common dream of lasting peace with freedom and justice. But the realization of the dream calls for many types of co-operation based upon sympathetic and thorough mutual understanding. In turn, such understanding is dependent on education that produces disciplined thinking.

Throughout the world, mutual suspicions flourish in ignorance and misunderstanding. They can be dispelled only with knowledge and wisdom.

If we are to have partners for peace, then we must first be partners in sympathetic recognition that all mankind possesses in common like aspirations and hungers, like ideals and appetites, like purposes and frailties, a like demand for economic advancement. The divisions between us are artificial and transient. Our common humanity is God-made and enduring.

I know that you who today complete your education at this great university in its centennial year recognize that truth. As you apply it to the problems you meet—as productive leaders, as American citizens, as members of the free world community—you will grow in personal stature and in your contribution to human peace, human independence, human advance.

REGISTRATION FOR SUMMER COURSES AT WASHINGTON U.

Registration for a five-week summer school session at Washington University will be from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. to noon Saturday at the Women's Building, it was announced yesterday.

About 300 regular graduate and undergraduate courses and six workshops for teachers will be offered. The workshops, which begin June 20, are on the subjects of elementary school curriculum, science education, human relations, economic education, developmental and remedial reading, and art education.

An outdoor sketching class in freehand drawing and one in water color will be offered by the School of Architecture for the first time. Art workshops for elementary, junior and senior high school children will be given again. A second five-week session will be held later.

CATHOLICS DEFY PERON IN MASSIVE ARGENTINE RALLY

BUENOS AIRES, June 11 (AP)—Thousands of Roman Catholics, said by a church authority to be the biggest religious gathering in Argentina's history, paraded and shouted defiance today at President Peron's government.

The occasion was a two-day-late celebration of Corpus Christi. The government had barred the traditional outdoor procession for the occasion, requiring the Catholics to meet inside the metropolitan cathedral. Massed thousands defied the bar and marched 15 blocks down wide Avenida de Mayo (May avenue) after the religious ceremony ended.

Argentine police did not try to interfere as the marchers proceeded to the empty national capitol building at the other end of the avenue. Some demonstrators hoisted blue and white flags of Argentina and yellow and white flags of the Vatican atop the twin flagpoles over the House of Deputies and the Senate.

T.B. SOCIETY HEAD NAMES NINE COMMITTEE CHAIRMEN

Appointment of chairmen of nine standing committees of the Tuberculosis and Health Society of St. Louis by Walter L. Metcalfe, president of the society, was announced yesterday.

Chairmen appointed for one year are Peter H. Husch, legal; Arthur Lieber Jr., pension; Edgar L. Roy, personnel, and Wyllys K. Bliss, rehabilitation. Those re-appointed are Dr. Arthur E. Strauss, case finding; John Bracken, health education; Dr. I. J. Flance, medical; William D. Walsh, financial, and Leonard Hornbien, public relations.

SWAMP U.S. GOT FOR SONG YIELDS RICH RICE CROPS

Sharecroppers' Bumper Harvest in Mingo Refuge Makes Farmers Resentful.

By WILLIAM K. WYANT JR.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Wildlife Refuge in Southeast Missouri

Main lake in Mingo Wildlife Refuge looking across several thousand acres of water east of Stanley Creek area. Fish and Wildlife Service of Department of the Interior took control of the area, known as Mingo Swamp, three and a half years ago.

PUXICO, Mo., June 11—Corn and hog farmers whose swampy bottomland the United States Government took over for its new 22,000-acre Mingo Wildlife Refuge, in Wayne and Stoddard counties of southeast Missouri, are watching with interest as land that went for a song yields a bumper harvest of rice.

Some former Mingo swamp landowners never were satisfied with prices paid for their acreage under condemnation procedures of the 1940s. News of harvests on the same land, in wheat, corn and rice, does not make them any happier.

When the Fish and Wildlife Service of the Department of the Interior assumed control three and a half years ago, it called in Soil Conservation Service men to determine the best way of making the swamp produce food for migratory birds, rabbits, squirrels and other animals for which it had been set aside as a sanctuary.

85 Bushels to An Acre.

As an experiment, in 1953, eight acres were put in rice and the average yield was 85 bushels an acre. With rice bringing $2 to $2.50 a bushel, this was impressive.

Last year the Government permitted two men to cultivate 270 acres in rice. They obtained 20,000 bushels and were allowed to keep the entire crop because of land improvements they instituted.

"This is tight soil that holds water well, and what made it bad for corn makes it good for rice," remarked Lyle J. Schoonover, refuge manager. He added that if the adaptability of the soil to rice cultivation had been known previously, land values in Mingo Swamp would have been so high that the wildlife agency could not have acquired the property.

Schoonover, 34-year-old graduate of the University of Minnesota, pointed to a 35-acre field that the Government bought for $12 an acre. He said the field had yielded 3000 bushels of rice last year, grossing sharecropper Neil Hudson of Puxico more than $200 an acre.

In the 15 years before the field went into public ownership, however, it yielded only two crops, one in corn and the other in hay. Schoonover estimated that 7000 to 8000 acres could be irrigated and adapted to rice in a national emergency. As it is now, he would like to put in another 1000 to 2000 acres of rice, and a number of farmers have applied.

Agriculture is carefully supervised. The Fish and Wildlife Service insists on crop-rotation. In some instances, Schoonover said, farmers had grown corn on the same land for 19 years consecutively. The agency now has 33 farmers sharecropping about 2500 acres.

Division of Crops.

Under the arrangement, one-third of the corn goes to the Government's share and is left standing in the field. The Government gets a fourth of harvested small grains such as wheat, rye and oats. This grain is fed to wildfowl. Last winter the refuge attracted 85,000 ducks and 1400 geese. This year those numbers are expected to double.

The corn yield in 1954 had jumped to an average of 25 bushels an acre, compared with seven in 1947, the first year the Government owned the area. Wheat, very little of which was grown in Mingo Swamp formerly, averaged 20 bushels an acre.

While the Fish and Wildlife Service is interested in farming Mingo Swamp only as an aid to developing a haven for wildfowl on the Mississippi flyway, farmers of the area recall vividly the time and trouble and effort that were spent, beginning in 1914, in an attempt to drain the swamp and bare the rich bottomland to agriculture.

The now-defunct Mingo Drainage District was set up and $1,000,000 was expended in cutting a network of drainage ditches that would discharge water more rapidly into the St. Francis river to the south. Land-owners were assessed to meet the expense. For various reasons the venture failed. Much land was given up for taxes.

That is water over the dam, but resentment lingers among farmers who think the Government rode over them roughshod in its condemnation process.

Frank Ross's Experience.

An example is the case of Frank Ross, 70, who lives about eight miles north of Wappapello, on the Wayne county side of the swamp.

Ross and his wife had 240 acres of Mingo Swamp bottomland they bought for about $25 an acre in 1930 and 1933. The land was uncleared. They cleared it with their own labor and were getting, Ross told the Post-Dispatch, about 75 bushels of corn to the acre and three tons of alfalfa, in three cuttings.

When the Government sought to buy in the late 1940s, the Rosses did not want to sell. They had paid $4500 in drainage taxes, Ross said, and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ward, had built a house on the land. They hired a lawyer and went to Cape Girardeau to fight the case in Federal Court. In the end, they received $6000 less attorney fees. That amounts to about $25 an acre.

Ross said he would not have sold to a private purchaser for less than $150 an acre. Others in the neighborhood figured the land should have brought at least $75. The condemnation left Ross with 240 acres of property in the uplands, not enough for a living but enough so that he is not eligible for an old age pension.

"How would you feel if you had spent your life work and earnings in a property and then been gypped out of it?" Ross asked. "I used to think our Government was fair, but I've changed my mind a little."

The Ross land has been sharecropped for two years under Government auspices by Floyd Barnfield, who lives just down the road. Barnfield reported a good yield in beans, wheat, corn and hay. He said it was rich land, subject to flooding.

Within an easy walk of the neatly-kept Ross farmhouse live at least two other farmers who think the Government bilked them in buying their property.

There is no organized effort to obtain redress for alleged grievances, however, and all concerned seem to agree that in the Government's purchase of the Mingo Swamp area there were some who received too much for their land, as well as some who got too little. The condemnations were perfectly legal. Each man, as the lawyers say, had his day in court.

From the public's viewpoint, the Mingo Wildlife Refuge was the perfect adaptation to useful service of a vast tract where farming was for the most part either sub-marginal or non-existent. Everybody expresses a high opinion of Schoonover, who has great enthusiasm and obviously knows his job.

In the past three years, the Fish and Wildlife Service has built 15 miles of gravel road in what formerly was a roadless wilderness. Wheat and rye are sown on both sides of the roads for rabbits and squirrels. Raccoons are abundant. The deer population is growing. Fishing is excellent, and getting better.

Sportsmen are looking forward to the opening this season of the state's Duck Creek Wildlife Area, which occupies 6000 acres adjoining the Government's refuge at the north. About 3600 acres of Federal land will also be opened to shooting, if the need arises.

Schoonover looked out at the silent expanse of marshland and said it was something to see and hear, when 25,000 ducks and geese were there in the autumn, filling the air with their cries.

"It's new yet," he said, "and they'll keep building up each year."

BLIND MAN IN MAPLEWOOD REPORTS GUIDE DOG MISSING

Margie, a German shepherd guide dog, is missing, its blind master, Frank Velcek, 2328 Bellevue avenue, Maplewood, reported yesterday.

The dog, a five-year-old short hair animal weighing about 55 pounds, ran away from home about 11 p.m. Friday, Velcek said. He described it as being light colored with a black nose and wearing a black leather choke collar with two links where tags were recently removed.

The animal has run away several times before, but only for short periods, Velcek continued. He expressed the opinion the dog couldn't find its way home because it lost the scent due to rain. "If she's out in this weather, I'm sure she won't survive," he added.

SWAPS SETS WORLD MARK; NASHUA ROMPS IN BELMONT

DERBY KING TAKES THE CALIFORNIAN

INGLEWOOD, Calif., June 11 (AP)—Swaps of Kentucky Derby fame competed against older horses today and scored a knockout victory in world record time in the $109,800 Californian at Hollywood Park.

Winning by one length over little Determine, the 1954 Kentucky Derby champion, the California-bred Swaps charged across the line in a mile and one-sixteenth battle in time of 1:40 2-5.

The Llangollen Farm's Mister Gus, the pacesetter, finished a close third in the thrilling feature before 50,000 roaring fans.

In pounding out his seventh straight victory, the big, long striding 3-year-old chestnut star clipped two-fifths of a second off the world record set last year by Poona II at Santa Anita.

Jockey Dave Erb, substituting for the sidelined Willie Shoemaker, gave Swaps a perfect ride, keeping him off the blazing pace made by Mister Gus and taking charge at the turn entering the stretch when ready.

The official chart later showed that Swaps was a length and a quarter in front at the finish, with Determine a half a length in front of Mister Gus.

The King Ranch's Rejected was fourth, his usual belated come-from-behind-run either too late or too light.

The triumph was worth $63,700 for Rex C. Ellsworth, the ex-cowboy owner of Swaps, and brought the colt's total earnings to $315,200 in his 12 trips to the post.

The Californian is a weight-for-age affair, with weight penalties added based on money earnings. Under the conditions, by scale, Swaps was on even terms with Determine but spotted Rejected six pounds and nine to the others with his impost of 115 pounds. Determine carried 126, Rejected 120 and the others 117.

Swaps was the odds-on betting favorite. He returned $3.30, $2.60 and $2.10. Determine paid $3.90 and $2.50, and Mister Gus $2.40.

Giants to Move? Corum Says So

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—Owner Horace Stoneham is seriously considering transferring the New York Giants' National League franchise to Minneapolis-St. Paul, the New York Journal-American said today.

"Stoneham himself told me so," Columnist Bill Corum wrote.

Pointing out that Stoneham would be reluctant to move, Corum wrote: "There comes a time when necessity dictates and the Giants are close to the point where that will be the case with them."

Corum said the Giants of last year had everything in their favor with bright new stars, a close pennant race and winning one thrilling victory after another.

"Yet they didn't draw as well as they should in the largest city in the country," he wrote. "And this year with a bad start, the attendance has been even more disappointing. Is it any wonder Stoneham is beginning to ask himself, where do we go from here?

"It just looks as though New York will not support three big league teams any more. Indeed, there are signs it won't support two."

Corum pointed out that the Giants own the Minneapolis American Association franchise. He also noted that there was a team in St. Paul, too.

$7000 Awarded Fan Beaned by Bottle In Cleveland Park

BUFFALO, N.Y., June 11 (AP).

A SUPREME COURT jury awarded James Evanson of Williamsville $7000 yesterday for a beer bottle beaning in a ball park.

Evanson testified he was struck on the head with a bottle wielded by a vendor employed by the Berlo Vending Co., Cleveland, O. The incident took place in Cleveland's Municipal Stadium July 30, 1950.

Evanson in his suit against the Berlo firm said he suffered permanent scars and recurring headaches. The incident stemmed from a dispute over payment for a bottle of beer.

A Manager May Go, But Problems Remain.

CARDINAL fans will have to be patient with Harry Walker and his improved but still young Redbird team. The problems that Eddie Stanky had to cope with still remain, problems that only time, experience and improved pitching can eliminate.

It is true that Ken Boyer, potentially, is the best third baseman the club has had in several decades. It is true that the young outfield of Rip Repulski, Bill Virdon and Wally Moon could develop into a combination to compare with the best the Redbirds have ever had. It is true that because of the new blood, the best crop of youngsters brought up in a long time, the Cardinals can be described as the most improved club in the league.

But good minor league ball players don't become dependable combat troops over night. Young players are fairly certain to make mistakes. Blunders of inexperience have lost several games for the Cardinals. One day a young base runner will misjudge a scoring chance and a run will be lost. Another day a young player will miss a sign and a rally will be nipped. A young infielder will misinterpret a shout from a comrade or what his field vision seems to tell him and trap a fly that he should have caught.

Only experience, a product of game after game after game, will sharpen the young players into winning major leaguers.

Remember that Repulski, in his third season, is the veteran of the outfield. Moon is a sophomore and Virdon is playing his first big league baseball.

Walker has to contend with a similar situation in his pitching staff. Haddix is the only seasoned starter and he's having unexpected and hard-to-explain trouble in his fourth year as a big leaguer.

Strategy Can Be Good, But the Results Bad.

NOR can any new manager be expected to have any magic formula to substitute for plain, sensible strategy. For instance, in the first game Luis Arroyo lost, Walker had to make a decision in a late inning. Arroyo was ahead of the Dodgers by a scant run, with Jackie Robinson at bat and a runner on base.

What to do under those circumstances? Let Arroyo, a left-hander, pitch to the right-handed Robinson, or call in Frank Smith, a right-hander, who is at his best against right-handers? Was Arroyo still the club's best pitcher, even in a late inning? Was he losing some of his stuff? Should confidence-building be considered?

Anyhow, Walker had to make the decision right then. He chose to let Arroyo pitch. Robinson hit a home run and there went a ball game.

You'll always hear second guessers after anything happens. It's easy after the Robinson home run to say that Smith should have been called to the mound. Why did the Cardinals give up Ray Jablonski and Gerry Staley for Smith if they didn't have in mind such relief assignments for the pitcher?

But if Arroyo had retired Robinson and gone on to victory, there would have been no second guess. Walker would have been complimented for keeping a good pitcher in there and boosting his self-confidence.

The point is that Walker made his decision because he considered it the wisest move. He wanted to win that game. He wants to win every game. Every manager does.

Walker should develop into an excellent manager. He works hard at any job he tackles. He was always talking baseball when he was in the ranks, always looking for ways to improve his batting and fielding. His brother, Dixie, finally got Harry to stop talking long enough to show him how to stroke a ball for base hits, instead of trying to drive every pitch out of the ball park. Harry should be able to help the Cardinal hitters. And when this young Cardinal club has had the necessary experience and has improved the pitching staff, the club will move and it could go a long way.

Sportsfolio.

WE haven't heard lately about Charley Dressen giving Walter Alston any advice about how to run the Dodgers. . . Stan Musial told Carl Lundquist of the United Press that too many kids in Little Leagues, Babe Ruth Leagues, Pony Leagues and junior baseball programs were hurting themselves and their teams by all that heavy swinging—trying to hit home runs. The youngsters, Stan said, should learn, first of all, just to meet the ball. . . . And Harry Walker told a Philadelphia baseball writer that it was the lighter bat, rather than a livelier ball, that was producing more major league home runs. . . . "I used to think a 35-ounce bat was light," Harry said. "Now the bats on the Cardinal club average between 30 and 33 ounces and have handles like broomsticks."

Blair, Power Plus Some Putts, Wins State Golf

LOEFFLER BEATEN, 7 AND 5

By Robert Morrison
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff

KANSAS CITY, June 11—Jim Tom Blair III, a youngster whose power golf persuaded his older opponent that after all it was a hopeless cause, eased into his second Missouri Amateur crown over wind-swept Indian Hills Country Club today.

The 23-year-old Blair, who is getting back to the form that made him one of the country's rising amateur stars before he went into service two seasons back, disposed of Ed Loeffler, 7 and 5, in the all-Jefferson City final of the tournament.

It was the largest winning margin in postwar state tournaments except for the 9-and-8 beating St. Louis's Jim Jackson handed Blair at Algonquin four years ago.

Jackson was last year's state winner but did not defend the title here, and the two standouts of Missouri amateur golf will not meet in the Trans-Mississippi championship starting at Des Moines Monday.

No Duel With Jackson.

Blair has not entered the T-M in which Jackson is to defend that title. Instead, Blair said, he will go back to Sacramento to pick up his gear which he left behind after getting out of service recently, and then he is thinking of trying the British Open at St. Andrews in July.

"I'm learning how to play in the wind pretty good now," he remarked about his proposed trip overseas, and he showed it in his final with Loeffler at Indian Hills, where the wind kept black clouds scudding along so fast it never rained.

With three conceded birdies in the morning round, Blair had an approximate medal of 69, one under par, against Loeffler, and Blair was three-up. He thus took care of an early case of bad putting which had put him three down after the first six holes.

Giving the 48-year-old Missouri Amateur its first all-Jefferson City final, Loeffler was just a club golfer of 37 years of age, a small compact man who was good enough to captain the L.S.U. golf team five years ago when he finished his delayed schooling but not now in the same class with Blair.

"It's pretty rough when you know you don't belong in the same match and then you get tired on top of it," Loeffler said at the finish. He began to fade in the morning round, and when he knocked two shots out of bounds on the second hole in the afternoon, the match was as good as over.

No Rally in Sight.

In the stiffening breezes, Blair encountered a little difficulty hitting the greens and Loeffler won three holes in the afternoon. But he never got very close to overtaking Blair.

Blair showed a hot putting touch by sinking a 40-foot birdie putt at the twenty-third hole and a 15-footer at the twenty-fourth to go six-up and make it just a matter of time. Blair also had hole a 15-footer to win the first hole of the afternoon round.

For the day Jim Tom was about one under par in approximate medal. Still young and a bit petulant at times, the son of Missouri's Lieutenant Governor has the makings of a golfing great.

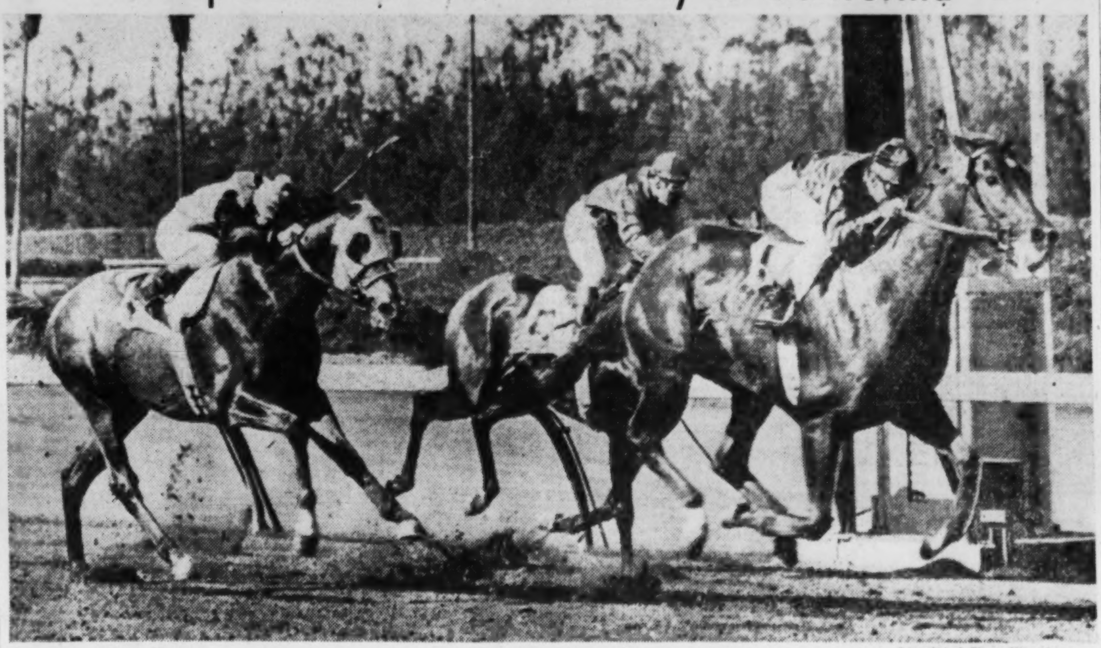
Swaps Strides From Kentucky to California



—Associated Press Wirephoto.

SWAPS, recent winner of the Kentucky Derby, added the $109,800 Californian to his credit with a world record time of 1:40 2-5 for the mile and one-sixteenth race at Hollywood Park. A length behind was another Kentucky Derby winner, DETERMINE, while MISTER GUS, the pacesetter, was third.

Moford in First Start In Cards' Twin Bill With the Giants Today

By Bob Broeg
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

NEW YORK, June 11—Harry Walker, who could use a hard hitter more than a pat on the back, today drew praise from a man who has heard enough about hitting in his time even if he can't swing a helpful bat for the Cardinals.

George Sisler Jr., Rochester general manager and son of the Browns' Hall of Fame first baseman, was in New York en route from a series at Havana and had planned to watch this afternoon's Redbird-Giant game that was prevented by rain.

As a result of the postponement, the contest immediately was rescheduled as part of a Sunday doubleheader in which Herb (1-0) Moford, drawing his first starting assignment, and Harvey (3-8) Haddix of the Cardinals probably will be opposed by the World Champions' top two hurlers, Johnny (5-7) Antonelli, having almost as much trouble as Haddix, and Sal (7-3) Maglie. The Barber's victories have been consecutive.

Rochester Losing, Too.

Young Sisler, who has operated various farm clubs for the Cardinals, shrugged off the Redbirds' record of only four victories in their first 14 games under Walker, suggesting with a smile:

"Then, and this is no reflection on brother Dixie, they'd better send Harry back to us at Rochester because we've lost 10 of 13 since he left."

Having had his joke, Sisler became serious. "I've had clubs with capable managers; for instance, Johnny Keane, George Kissell and Joe Cusick," George said. "Harry Walker was the best. He's aggressive, competitive and has a great knack of communicating with players to get his ideas across and make them believe in him."

While Sisler was talking in a hotel suite, Walker coincidentally was trying to communicate with his ball club in a clubhouse meeting at the Polo Grounds, where the Cardinals had been dressing when the game was called off. The Hat was seeking to correct hitting flaws that have glared at him during 14 games in which the Cardinals have averaged only four runs a contest.

"We could use a home-run hitter in this lineup, "Walker related afterward, "but not the way half our guys are doing now, taking their eyes off the ball and trying to pull outside pitches that can't be pulled. They're jerking their heads and pulling their bodies away, hitting off their heels and on the ends of their bats, dribbling nice easy infield grounders or lifting soft flies."

For a fact, Wally Moon, Rip Repulski, Bill Sarni and Ken Boyer, in particular, have appeared to be swinging for the fences without seeing what they're hitting at—the ball.

Cites Hornsby and Sisler.

"Great hitters like Hornsby and Sisler had the soundest batting theories I've heard of—driving into a pitch, going at the ball to make sure they were seeing it all the way and getting good wood on it," Walker said.

Curiously, the junior Sisler had been saying the same thing at the hotel after listening to a tale of woe about the bashful batting that has hampered the Cardinals, who've lost 16 of their last 22 games while averaging only 3.86 runs a start. Effective pitching has been so shamefully wasted that Walker and Bing Devine, administrative assistant to General Manager Dick Meyer, unsuccessfully tried to regain Ray Jablonski from Cincinnati. Jabbo was available, but the Redlegs reportedly sought both Outfielder Harry Elliott and Pitcher Moford.

Said Sisler No. 2, "Pop always has insisted the way to hit a pitch solidly was to go to the ball and keep the eye on it by not moving the head. He's had a little test he has used. Standing just outside the first base line with a righthander up, just off third with a lefthander batting, he has asked batters to look toward him just after they swing. A lot of 'em have got the point when, taking a cut, they've had to swivel their necks back to see him because they've moved their heads so much."

In an effort to improve Redbird hitting, the 1954 strong point that has become the '55 weakness, Walker used offensive minded Solly Hemus at third base Friday night, moving Boyer to shortstop and benching Alex Grammas.

Tigers Again Pay $35,000 for Rookie! Fifth Bonus Player

DETROIT, June 11 (AP)—For the second time within 72 hours, the Detroit Tigers have shelled out a reported $35,000 to sign a youngster to a major league bonus contract.

The Tigers announced today they had signed James Small, an 18-year-old outfielder from San Jose, Calif.

Only last Thursday, the Tigers signed Pitcher James J. Brady, a 19-year-old southpaw from Jersey City, N.J., to a bonus contract. They also gave Brady an estimated $35,000.

The addition of Small gives Detroit five bonus players on its roster—most of any team in the majors.

The others are Outfielder Al Kaline, Pitcher Bob Miller and Infielder Reno Bertoia.

The Tigers say Small has been clocked in 3.6 seconds running from home plate to first base. He stands 6-1 and weighs 185.

Sid Schwartz Loses.

Praise Follows Kessler Home, But He Directs It to Boxers

By W. J. McGoogan

Harry Kessler, who did an outstanding job as referee of the welterweight championship match between Carmen Basilio and Tony De Marco at Syracuse, N.Y., Friday night, arrived at his home here yesterday still bubbling over with the excitement of the bout.

"That was one of the most exciting nights I ever spent in the ring," said Harry. "The tempo was tremendous and required a lot of extra work. Those kids were in great shape, you know, and I am an old man (Harry is fiftyish.)

"De Marco was a picture fighter until he got inside, then Basilio tore him apart, but I think the most decisive punch which the new champion used was an uppercut. That did De Marco a tremendous amount of damage."

Watching the bout on television you may have noticed that Harry called the doctor into the ring at the end of the tenth round during which De Marco had been knocked down twice, once for a count of six and again for a count of eight.

After a short conversation with Kessler, the doctor permitted De Marco to come out for the eleventh round. And it might be noted here that Kessler got the physician out of the ring during the one-minute intermission, not permitting De Marco any extra seconds of rest as did the referee in a recent match between Willie Pep and Gil Cadilli in California which caused so much criticism.

"The doctor told me that De Marco appeared to be all right. He said, 'I asked him his name and he told me Tony De Marco. Then I asked him if he knew where he was and he answered, yes, I'm fighting for the title in Syracuse and it's the tenth round.'

"After that I naturally thought that it was all right to let the bout go on. Had it not been a title match, however, I would have stopped it after the second knock down but after all De Marco was the champion and he was entitled to every chance to keep it, if he could.

"In the eleventh round he switched to a southpaw stance and actually hurt Basilio with a blazing left hook.

"But in the twelfth, Tony was dazed and hurt. He had reached the point where he could hardly defend himself and Basilio was punching real well. I didn't want De Marco to get hurt and at that point I didn't think he had a ghost of a chance to win except by a knockout and he didn't have the power left to deliver a knockout punch. So I stopped it."

Harry said he took a night train to New York City, then had to run for the plane at La Guardia Field. Arriving here the plane couldn't get down so it went back to Indianapolis to wait until it was clear enough here to land.

Kessler, one of the very few outstate referees to get a license in New York, has been handling more and more of the important matches in New York and his reputation as an official has been growing.

Jimmy Powers, commenting on television, remarked that it was one of the best jobs of refereeing he had seen and it was clear that if Kessler had not kept his head in a couple of spots he could have spoiled one of the best bouts seen on television in many months.

MARGIN OF VICTORY IS 10 LENGTHS

NEW YORK, June 11 (UP)—Nashua romped to a victory in the eighty-seventh running of the $119,800 Belmont Stakes to vault to sixth place on the all-time money winning list as he salvaged what was left of the triple crown after losing to Swaps in the Kentucky Derby. His margin of victory was estimated up to 10 lengths.

Two weeks ago Belair Stud's king of the eastern three-year-olds set a track record in winning the Preakness Stakes, but his chances of joining the eight horses which have swept to glory by taking each of the spring classics were gone forever the day Rex Ellsworth's western champion ran away from him in the stretch at Churchill Downs.

Closest to Nashua at the end of the testing mile-and-one-half race was Barclay Stable's Blazing Count with Clearwater Stable's Portersville third.

Winner's Share $83,700.

But the winner's share of $83,700 belonged to Nashua without the shadow of a doubt once Jockey Eddie Arcaro let him run at the top of the stretch. The victory boosted the husky colt's earnings to $653,690 and left him behind only Citation, Stymie, Armed, Native Dancer and Assault on the list of the turf's greatest money winners.

It was the sixth time Belair Stud's internationally-famed red polka dot and white silks have flashed to victory in this great test of a horse's stamina as well as speed. It was the sixth time Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons saddled a winner and Eddie Arcaro rode one.

Arcaro, who holds the Kentucky Derby and Preakness riding records, now is tied with Jimmy McLaughlin for the Belmont title.

Arcaro let C. V. Whitney's Little Dell set the early pace after taking the lead at the start, but dropped back into second place almost immediately.

The crowd of 32,097 watched the colt it had backed down to 3 to 20 with complete confidence, however, for Arcaro just didn't ask Nashua to do any running until the field hit the top of the stretch.

There he started to "pump" Nashua, rocking back and forth with the horse's motion. The others dropped farther and farther behind as Nashua romped home by the biggest margin he ever has registered in victory. In his first start as a two-year-old he scored by three lengths, but each of his other 11 triumphs were won by less than two lengths with most of them much closer than that.

The colt which now is far ahead of the pace set by Citation in his climb to the top of the money-winning ladder, dashed under the wire in 2:29 flat. It was far off the track record of 2:27 3-5 set by Bolingbroke in the 1942 Metropolitan Handicap but one of the fastest Belmont Stakes on record.

Count Fleet and Citation won the Belmont in 2:28 1-5, while War Admiral, Middleground and Native Dancer scored in 2:28 3-5. Nashua now ranks next with Counterpoint at 2:29.

The crowd bet more to show than to win on Nashau, which paid $2.30, $2.30 and $2.10 across the board in winning his fifth $100,000 added race of the year.

Blazing Count returned $11.40 and $2.10 while Portersville paid $2.10. It cost Belmont Park $14,411.55 to make the show payoffs as required by law.

Jabneh was fourth, with Flying Fury, Little Dell, Mr. Al L. and Retamero completing the field. Uncle Gus was withdrawn yesterday and Rajput and Courtship were scratched today.

Nashua did "the job" with a final quarter in :24 3-5 after getting to the front at the mile in 1:38 2-5. There was nothing in the field which could come close to matching that brilliant burst of closing speed.

Nashua now has won the Flamingo Stakes, the Florida Derby, the Wood Memorial, the Preakness Stakes, and the Belmont Stakes this year to stay ahead of Citation, whose earnings totaled $544,700 after he won the Belmont.

Woodhouse Injured.

Ted Atkinson rode Portersville to third place while Angel Valenzuela handled Jabneh. Hedley Woodhouse was scheduled to ride Jabneh but he fell during the running of the third race when Besomer, a two-year-old starting for the first time, bolted on the Widener course.

In trying to straighten out the colt, Woodhouse crashed to the ground when the saddle slipped as he leaned to his right. Woodhouse was badly shaken up and Dr. Alexander Kaye refused to let him ride in the Belmont although the jockey said he wanted to do so.

Arcaro won his first Belmont with Whirlaway in 1941 and since scored with Shut Out, Pavot, Citation, One Count and now Nashua.

Belair and Mr. Fitz had won with Twenty Grand, Faireno, Omaha, Granville, and Johnstown, their last previous winner in 1932.

It was a long wait for the sixth but a colt as good as Nashua doesn't come along very often.

Bill Veeck Injured By Exploding Jar

SILVER CITY, N.M., June 11 (AP)—Bill Veeck was showered with glass but apparently not dangerously injured today when a paint jar exploded.

A jar unit of his paint sprayer exploded while he was painting on his ranch about 90 miles north of here. Physicians said they doubt any of the numerous lacerations will cause any permanent injury.

Lighted Fields in Parks Still 5 Months Away, Baumes Says

WRAY'S COLUMN

You Can't Be Too Free With Freedom of Speech.

"FREEDOM of speech and of the press" are national privileges. . . . If you are a fight reporter or a sports columnist you are free to call names—provided you can get them past the copy-reader—but you must take the consequences. . . . You get that idea from the announcement last week that former heavyweight title aspirant Lou Nova has just won the first round of a libel suit for $200,000 damages.

No doubt you have read that a Los Angeles jury returned a $35,000 verdict against Vincent X. Flaherty of the Los Angeles Examiner for terming Nova a "coward" in connection with his title fight with Joe Louis 14 years ago—Sept. 30, 1941. . . . A motion for a re-trial might relieve Flaherty of the damages . . . Or . . . it might increase them.

This is not the first suit against a writer for similar name-calling. . . . in one the writer was a prominent New York columnist who charged that a boxer "laid down." . . . In another instance the noted former world wrestling champion Stanislaus Zbyszko was pictured in a cartoon on the editorial page of a New York newspaper as a "gorilla"—and won $25,000 damages.

When the Los Angeles judge at one point in the trial remarked: "If Mr. Flaherty had written his column the day after the fight Mr. Nova would have had to sue a thousand writers," we dashed for the Post-Dispatch file containing our own story of the fight. . . . What had we called Mr. Nova—who now is an actor and whose reputation might have been damaged?

Everything was jake—all we called him was "timid," "cautious" and—in the last round—"courageous."

Nova in a Deep Freeze; Even Louis Was Cautious.

THE ring behavior of Nova, a burly fellow with a rather good background of earlier fights, puzzled Louis. . . . The challenger seldom led and then wildly, our story said. . . . Louis cautiously waited to see what was cooking in Lou's Yoga department.

After nine minutes of next to nothing fighting, Louis decided to get into action. . . . He staggered Nova with a heavy left and then battered Nova soundly for the remainder of the round.

Surprisingly, Joe eased up in the fifth, apparently still wondering if Nova was holding back some secret weapon. . . . When it did not materialize, the champion went to work and in the sixth drove Nova to the resin with a killing right—but it failed to kill.

Nova was up in time. . . . Then began a scene which gave the lie to Nova's lack of courage. . . . And also to the myth that the Bomber was a one-punch knocker-outer.

He battered the Yoga disciple around the ring viciously, throwing his Sunday punches at Lou, who staggered and reeled with hardly a blow in response — but did not go down. . . . He took a terrific pasting but was leaning against the ropes, still upright, when the bell rang as Referee Arthur Donovan was stopping the fight. . . . Nova could have taken the easy way out by hitting the deck—but didn't.

A ringside statistician had kept track of the sixth round blows that followed the knockdown. . . . Louis, he revealed, had landed 21 solid punches, mostly to the head, without being able to floor Nova again. . . . It was at this moment that we used the word "courageous" concerning his effort.

Maybe it was . . . but if so, courage was all he showed us in the ring that night . . . or thereafter, as far as fighting merit goes.

Body Blows May Have Cost Tony His Title.

THERE was no lack of courage on display when Carmen Basilio came from behind to stop the 70-day reign of Tony DeMarco as welter ring champion, last Friday. . . . Video fans saw two fighters who were battling for keeps all the way.

It was difficult, while watching the fight, to figure the outcome, after the first eight or nine rounds. . . . The action was so all-out and sustained that everyone at the TV must have felt that it couldn't last the limit.

As late as the tenth round, our score had DeMarco on top. . . . But he seemed to weaken in the late rounds. . . . No wonder. . . . He had made the pace most of the way and fought furiously from the beginning. . . . Speaking of courage, his nose seemed badly damaged in the first and in subsequent early rounds, the champion was cut up still further. . . . But his attack continued formidably in spite of staggering counters.

"He set too hard a pace and wore himself out," was one comment we heard. . . . But in this writer's opinion Basilio's sustained heavy body-punching cut down Tony—and beat him.

The battle was a fine example of courage and fighting spirit. . . . And, lest we forget, of good officiating by "America's foremost referee" (Harry Kessler of St. Louis—a repetition of the compliment Commentator Jimmy Powers had paid Kessler in previous contests.

DeMarco is still far from being eliminated from the welterweight picture. . . . At his age he should improve.

Soccer Is Likely to Be First

It probably will take about five months before some playing fields are lighted for night games in city parks despite the fact that Mayor Raymond R. Tucker has urged that some projects from the recent bond issue be started as soon as possible, Palmer Baumes, park commissioner, said yesterday.

With the voters having approved the huge bond issue May 16, it was hoped that some fields would be lighted in time for the baseball pay gates late this summer and early fall. However, soccer is likely to be the first sport to be made available for night play.

Although the lighting projects have a high priority among the items to be financed under the bond issue and most of the survey and planning was done last year, Baumes pointed out that considerable time will be taken up by further detail planning by city engineers, advertising of bids, and final okays by the bond issue supervisory committee.

Modern steel poles and underground wiring will be used exclusively for the two baseball and seven softball diamonds to be illuminated at the following parks: Fairground, Carondelet, Forest, Fox and Shaw-Macklind.

$270,000 for Lights.

From the $270,000 provided for lights in the bond issue, along with some $10,000 worth of lamps donated by the Cardinals and other funds that may be available, plans call for lighting the following:

Fairground Park—No. 1 diamond for baseball and soccer, another diamond for softball. Cost $95,000.

Carondelet Park—No. 1 diamond for baseball and softball, with a perimeter lighting setup to provide for soccer. $75,000.

Forest Park—Diamonds 17 and 18 for softball. Also available for soccer. $40,000.

Shaw-Macklind—Two softball fields, also available for soccer. $40,000.

Fox Playground, Ohio and Shenandoah—Complete rehabilitation of the softball diamond, all new lights, steel poles and underground wiring. $20,000.

John Turner, superintendent of recreation, said he was hopeful that one park would be lighted completely to get the night program going, but it was pointed out that the contractor might prefer to work on several fields at the same time.

Fairground Park probably will be the first to be lighted because its fields are preferred for pay gates by the Catholic Youth Council, Khoury and Muny groups.

'Pay-Gate Problem Solved.'

"Lights will end the pay-gate problem," Turner said. In recent years there was a jam of pay-gate dates, especially in baseball. Playoff games and weather postponements added to the problems. Only Fairground Park had suitable stands.

Also recommended by the citizens bond issue screening committee was expenditure of $100,000 for additional athletic facilities, including installation of bleachers, benches, backstops, fencing and portable electric scoreboards.

An additional $138,000 is earmarked for providing hard surfaces on tennis courts at these parks: Carondelet, Francis, Sublette, Marquette, Sherman, Fairground, O'Fallon and Tandy.

Fieldhouses are planned for Forest, Penrose, Fairground and Fox Parks. Fairground Park swimming pool is to be replaced at a cost of $300,000 and Marquette is to be rehabilitated at a cost of $275,000.

A total of $11,000,000 was included in the bond issue for parks and playgrounds.—N.R.

Softball Qualifying Will Start Aug. 2

The metropolitan area tournament to qualify teams for the Western regionals of the Amateur Softball Association championships will be held at Manchester, Mo., starting Aug. 2. Announcement was made by Earl C. Grasser, commissioner of the St. Louis area group.

The men's regional event will be in Great Bend, Kan., and the women's at Omaha. Both metropolitan tournaments will be double-elimination affairs. The Broekers won the Western regional last year and are exempt from qualifying. The same is true of the Kutis girls' club, which took the Omaha event.

One additional men's and women's team will qualify from the following groups: Men—Bay Texaco, Boulevard, C.Y.C., Cerutti's, DeAndreis, Drifters, Ellisville, Happy Hollow, Lucky Eleven, Mallinckrodt, Manchester, Missouri-Pacific, Moloney, Parente's, Pottgen, Sageborn's S.E.C.O., Stag A.C., Supreme and Thurmer's. Women—Canine Center, Manchester, Joe Simpkins.

Doris Hart Wins Title In English Tennis Meet

BRISTOL, England, June 11 (UP)—Argentine tennis star Enrique Morea won the men's singles crown in the West of England lawn tennis championships today by beating Sid Schwartz of the United States, 2-6, 10-8, 6-2, 6-2.

Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., had little trouble beating her countrywoman, Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of Alameda, Calif., 6-1, 6-3, in the final of the women's singles.

The women's doubles final was won by Miss Hart and Mrs. B. Davidson, who beat the Australian pair, Miss D. Seeney and Miss L. Nichols, 6-0, 6-3.

Trabert Takes 40 Minutes to Defeat Flam

BECKENHAM, England, June 11 (UP)—Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, O., won the men's singles crown in the Kent tennis tournament today with a 6-4, 6-2 victory of Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif.

It took Trabert only 40 minutes to dispose of his American rival. Both produced some good attacking tennis in the opening set with the first eight games being shared. Trabert broke through on Flam's service in the ninth game and then held his own for the set.

In the women's final, Louise Brough of Beverly Hills defeated Mary Carter of Australia, 6-2, 6-4.

The men's doubles title was won by Trabert and Gil Shea of Presidio, Calif., who beat the South African team of Abe Segal and Ian Vermaak, 8-6, 6-1.

The women's doubles event was won by Dora Kilian and Mrs. H. Redick-Smith of South Africa, who beat the English pair of Angela Buxton and Pat Hird, 6-2, 6-0.

Auto Accident Fatal To Boxer Johnny Cooke

PHILADELPHIA, June 11 (UP)—Johnny Cooke, 26-year-old welterweight boxer, was killed today when an automobile in which he was riding skidded off a wet highway in Fairmount Park and crashed into a tree.

Cooke suffered head and internal injuries and was trapped in the front seat with the driver, Gerald P. Cummings, 25. Cooke died in Presbyterian Hospital less than two hours later.

Sande, Yesteryear's Hero, Congratulates Arcaro at Belmont

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—Earl Sande, once one of America's greatest jockeys, came down to the winner's circle to congratulate Eddie Arcaro for bringing Nashua home first in today's Belmont Stakes.

The victory was Arcaro's sixth in the Triple Crown classic and tied him with Jimmy McLaughlin, who rode back in the '80s, for the greatest number of Belmont triumphs. Until today, Sande and Arcaro had been tied among modern day jockeys with five victories apiece.

Sande won his fifth just a quarter-century ago on Gallant Fox. By coincidence, that was the first Belmont victory for the Belair Stud, which got its sixth when Nashua won today.

Horse Bolts, Bets Refunded At Fairmount

Fairmount stewards ordered a refund of money bet on a skittish horse in the fifth race last night. Sky Ranch, with W. Stevens up, bolted at the gate and lost his equipment.

The stewards then ordered the $2972 bet on the horse refunded. Re-shuffle, with Larry Gammon aboard, won the event, defeating Coral Princess in a photo finish. The winner paid $20.60 in the mutuels.

The crowd, announced as 6343 paid, got an early thrill when long shots scored in the first two races and resulted in a daily double of $318.60. Dear Moose, ridden by Dale Dew, rewarded its win backers with $26.40 for $2 in the first race and Host Gogi, with J. Rector up, paid $23.40 in the second event.

Kitty League Team Decides to Disband

MADISONVILLE, Ky., June 11 (AP)—Madisonville is dropping out of the Kitty League.

The baseball club's board of directors voted today to suspend operations due to financial difficulties brought about by lack of attendance.

Teams remaining in the league are Mayfield, Fulton, Paducah and Owensboro, Ky., and Union City, Tenn.

Yale-Army Trackmen Tied in London Meet

LONDON, June 11 (AP)—A combined Oxford - Cambridge track and field team held the favored Yale-Army squad to an 8-8 tie today in the thirty-second Anglo - American international track meet.

The Americans won the 440-yard relay, closing event, to gain a tie in the meet, which was scored only on a basis of first places won.

Rain Delays NCAA Baseball Tourney

OMAHA, June 11 (AP)—The N.C.A.A. baseball tournament was set back a day today when all games were rained out.

Tournament officials said games scheduled today would be played at the same times tomorrow.

In the losers' bracket, with the loser eliminated, Colgate plays Southern California at 12 noon, St. Louis time, and Arizona meets Springfield (Mass.) at 3 p.m.

Night games, among Friday night winners, find Wake Forest and Colorado State opening at 7 p.m., followed by Oklahoma A. & M. - Western Michigan at 9 p.m.

Galveston Quits.

GALVESTON, Tex., June 11 (UP)— The Galveston White Caps baseball club folded tonight and Big State League president Howard Green said the Class B circuit would operate as a seven-club loop "at least temporarily."

White Cap President Louis Menotti revealed his decision to give up the franchise over the park's public address system while some 500 fans watched the White Caps play Harlingen in the final game of their series here.

1954 Champion Leads Women in State Archery

Mrs. Garnett Gowan, last year's winner, had a 411 score for her national round to pace the women's division in the annual Missouri State archery championships yesterday afternoon at the St. Louis Archery Club range in Forest Park. Competition will continue today starting at 9:30 a.m.

Others among the top five in the women's event are: Loretta Couse 360, Vera Hennessey 351, Mrs. Kitty Stinson 341, and Clara Hoyt 340.

Leader in the men's division is Earl Hoyt with a 290 score for the first 100 arrows in the York round. Jim Neely is second with 262. Art Couse has 261 for third place and Jack Deutman's 252 is fourth. The former National target titleholder and the 1954 Missouri champion, Bill Glacken, held fifth place with 234.

Jackie Couse, 1953 National champion, had scores of 546 and 543 for her two junior Columbian rounds in the cadet girl class. Jackie was runnerup in the national event last year. John Dohr had 135 in the junior boys' Hereford round. Jerry Couse's 467 and Roger Knaus's 396 were tops in the intermediate boys' division.

Backus Sets Record In Weight Throw

NEW YORK, June 11 — Bob Backus, of the New York A.C., eclipsed his own best-in-the-world record in the 56-pound weight throw by throwing the heavy iron ball 43 feet 5½ inches in the sixty-fifth annual Metropolitan A.A.U. Championship here today.

Backus broke his own year-old record of 42 feet 5¾ inches set in the same meet three times. His other throws were 42-10 and 43-4¼, before he got off his best heave on his next-to-last effort.

The 56-pound weight throw, a peculiarly American event, is not on the official list of world records.

In another record performance little Gordon McKenzie, of the Pioneer Club, ran six miles in 30 minutes 24.7 seconds, winning by more than a lap and wiping out the American Citizen's record of 30:33.4 set by Curtis Stone of the N.Y.A.C. in 1952, as well as the meet record of 30:27.4 set by Lou Gregory in 1932.

The Pioneer Club won the meet, 120 11-15 to 105 1-15 scored by the New York A.C.

BETWEEN ROUNDS

by W. J. McGoogan

Moore Fought Uphill Battle All the Way.

ARCHIE MOORE has a chance of attaining financial independence through boxing in the twilight of his career with two opportunities for big purses coming up this year. He meets Bobo Olson, middleweight titleholder, in defense of his (Moore's) light heavyweight championship at the Polo Grounds, New York, June 22. And, if successful or even if he loses a close decision on points, he probably will get a chance at Rocky Marciano and the heavyweight crown in September.

Moore started his boxing career when he lived in St. Louis on Papin street, east of Jefferson avenue, the same neighborhood which produced Henry Armstrong, triple champion; Monroe Harrison and other boxers.

And Archie's path was not an easy one from the time he started in 1936 until the present time, when at 39 years of age he sees an opportunity for the big purses which have generally eluded him through the years.

Harrison was Moore's first boxing coach and his "big brother" since Matthew Harrison, Monroe's younger brother, brought Archie to the Harrison home from kindergarten.

Archie was hardly six years old when he showed an avid interest in boxing. Then, in common with other boys of the neighborhood, he sparred on street corners for the fun of it with the boys making good showings being rewarded by onlookers with a bottle of soda pop or a piece of candy.

Harrison, too, was busy boxing and was looked up to, as he was a few years older than the other boys and they followed Monroe's lead.

Moore went into the Civilian Conservation Camp near Poplar Bluff prior to 1936 and it was from there that he first appeared as an amateur boxer here, in the first Golden Gloves tournament in 1936.

He was a middleweight then and went to the final round, losing a decision to Courtland Schultz (who later changed his name to Courtland Sheppard and went to Hollywood, Calif.) in a bout described at the time as "very dull."

Winners were to go to the National A.A.U. tournament at Cleveland, but it was discovered that Schultz couldn't go and the boy he defeated in the semi-finals, Jimmy Fields, was chosen. At the last moment, Fields discovered he couldn't make the trip and Moore was selected.

He won his first bout at Cleveland from Peter Urban of Cincinnati, but lost on a technical knockout to Frank Nelson of Davenport, Ia., a boy considerably older and more experienced than Archie.

Moore covered his head with his arms through most of the second round and when he started the same thing in the next round, the referee stopped the match and awarded the t.k.o. to Nelson.

After returning to St. Louis, Moore turned professional and defeated Sammy Christian here in his only bout of that year.

He won from Carl Lautenschlager on a kayo in two rounds at the start of 1937, then went to Indianapolis where his manager, Cal Thomas, had a barber shop.

Move to California.

ARCHIE transferred to another manager, Felix Thurman, who took him to San Diego, Cal., where he did most of his early fighting.

Harrison recalled that through the years, Moore had one manager after another and finally joined forces with Jimmy Johnston in 1944.

Archie had advanced from a middleweight to a light-heavyweight and was out most of the year 1941 because of stomach ulcers.

"He underwent four operations," Harrison recalled, "and things looked pretty bad for him. He finally appeared at our door one morning after having driven from San Diego and told me that the doctors told him he would never box again. He was on his way to see his mother in Pittsburgh. But I encouraged him and the next year he started out again and did much better."

Upon the death of Jimmy Johnston, his brother, Charlie, took over the management of Moore and is still Archie's handler.

Moore had been overlooked for years as an opponent for the light-heavyweight champion whether he was Gus Lesnevich, Freddie Mills or Joe Maxim, but finally so much pressure was brought to bear upon Maxim that he took on Archie at The Arena here, Dec. 17, 1952, and Archie won a 15-round decision.

He has been undefeated since that time, beating Maxim twice more; Bob Baker, Harold Johnson and Nino Valdes, among others.

Archie introduced something new into the fight game in the past winter when he conducted his own advertising campaign for a title bout with Marciano. He has sold many authorities on his right to the match and Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, said recently he felt sure that Moore would get his chance in September if he gets past Olson safely.

If Moore succeeds in his efforts his long, hard working career will have finally brought him the desire which has burned within him since he was a small boy.

Dodgers Win Again On Homers

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—Brooklyn took a 10½-game lead in the runaway National League race yesterday but the New York Yankees' American League margin was clipped to 4½ games.

Duke Snider's eighteenth homer with the score tied in the seventh inning, the Dodgers' fourth homer of the day, provided the 4-3 victory margin for Billy Loes over the runner-up Chicago Cubs.

Junior Gilliam hit his fourth homer, Roy Campanella his nineteenth and Gil Hodges his tenth in the game, delayed at the start by rain and twice interrupted by showers. The Dodgers have hit 86 homers in 54 games with 100 games to shoot at the New York Giants' record of 221 in 1947.

Billy Loes went the route for the Dodgers, his first nine-inning job against the Cubs, to whip Warren Hacker. Loes struck out 11 Cubs, his high for the season, and allowed only five hits. All Chicago runs came on Rookie Jim King's three-run homer in the fourth.

Yankees Lose.

The Yankees blew a 5-0 lead at Cleveland and finally bowed to the Indians, 7-6, when Bobby Avila singled home Jim Hegan with two out in the last of the ninth. Eddie Robinson's three-run homer was the big Yankee blow as they scored five runs in the first. Homers by Al Rosen and Vic Wertz, each with a man on, and another by Hegan knocked out Ed Lopat in the fourth inning when the Indians tied the score. After Larry Doby hit a home run in the fifth the Yankees came back to tie, but Reliever Johnny Kucks couldn't stand off the Indians in the ninth.

Chicago gained a full game on the Yanks by pummeling Washington, 10-0, on Virgil Trucks's seven-hitter. The White Sox trail New York by 4½ games and the Indians are 5½ back. The Sox blasted three Washington pitchers, including Starter Dean Stone, for 14 hits.

Ferris Fain drove in two runs with a double and single as Detroit overcame a five-run deficit to whip Boston, 7-5. Fain's double in the sixth broke a 5-5 tie and his single in the eighth added the extra run to nail down Rookie Dave Birrer's first major league victory. Al Kaline hit a three-run homer for the Tigers in the third after the Red Sox chased Billy Hoeft in the first inning. Leo Kiely was the loser.

Just Misses Shutout.

Vic Raschi, cut loose by the Cardinals early in the season, clung to a one-run lead for his first route-going job for Kansas City, turning back Baltimore, 2-1. The veteran righthander had a two-hit shutout until the seventh when Jim Pyburn's single and Cal Abrams double scored a run. The A's scored two in the fourth off Duane Pillette on Joe DeMaestri's double.

Milwaukee used homers by Eddie Mathews, Bill Bruton and Johnny Logan to knock off Pittsburgh, 7-4, for Gene Conley's eighth victory. Only 1995 watched the game, delayed for 20 minutes at the start by rain.

Kryhoski of A's Sent to Columbus

KANSAS CITY, June 11 (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics today announced First Baseman Dick Kryhoski had been sent to its Columbus farm team to make room on the roster for Pitcher Arnold Portocarrero, who has returned to the active list.

Hawks Buy Murray From Philadelphia

The St. Louis Hawks have announced the purchase of Ken Murray, a veteran of National Basketball Association play, from the Philadelphia Warriors. The purchase price was not disclosed, but the motive was.

Murray was bought to give the Hawks added reserve strength in the backcourt, said Hawks' President Ben Kerner. Murray is 26 years old, stands 6-2 and weighs 190 pounds. The Hawks will be the fourth N.B.A. team to employ him.

He entered the league in 1950, an All-America from St. Bonaventure. He scored 850 points for Baltimore and Fort Wayne that season and was named rookie-of-the-year. He was in service two years, rejoined Fort Wayne at the start of the 1953 season, and was traded to Baltimore last year. When that franchise folded, Murray joined the Philadelphia team.

Soccer Tourney Final.

Meramec Sport Club and the Mike Brehenys will meet in the final match of the summer soccer tournament at Meramec Sport Club field this afternoon. Play will start at 3 o'clock, weather permitting.

Contestants in Welter Bout Left in Stitches

By JESSE ABRAMSON
New York Herald Tribune News Service

SYRACUSE, June 11 — Respected in the hazardous fistic trade as a throw-back to the fighting men of old, Carmen Basilio greeted the world as world welterweight champion today with a happy, though devastated face.

The 28-year-old hatchet-faced son of a nearby Canastota onion farmer, smashing Tony DeMarco into submission in 1:52 of the twelfth round last night, had finally earned the 147-pound crown which he thought he had won 21 months ago in a split-decision loss to Kid Gavilan.

Basilio, never stopped in his 63-bout career, proved the wonderful ruggedness of his chin and body in weathering the defending champion's iron-fisted attack. Basilio battering DeMarco to the canvas twice for counts of six and eight in the tenth round, survived a perilous eleventh round in which the wounded DeMarco turned on Basilio with a desperate all-out attack, and finally forced Referee Harry Kessler to intervene.

They counted their stitches today from a savage, bloody, slugging war. The winner had patches over his right eye and over his lip, with four stitches in each wound. He had welts and bruises and nicks all over his bony face. But the loser was worse.

It took the exhausted loser nearly an hour, stretched flat on his back in the dressing room, to recover his strength sufficiently to take a post-midnight plane back home to Boston after the fight. DeMarco saved his stitching until he returned home. He needed needlework on cuts over both eyes (the 11th-round left-eye gash on the eyelid was the most serious), on his upper lip and on a wide cut under his chin, which somehow escaped notice in the fight itself.

Because of the wounds both winner and loser will be out of action for months.

Tony Down in Mouth.

BOSTON, June 11 (UP) — Tough Tony DeMarco, the "70-day champion," returned to his home town today, beaten in both body and spirit.

Welterweight champion of the world yesterday, DeMarco was just another contender today. And perhaps a contender who would have a long wait for a rematch with newly-crowned champion, Carmen Basilio.

DeMarco, his face cut and battered by the hard-swinging Basilio, was sick on the plane last night returning home. Sick literally and sick at heart.

"He finally fell asleep," one of his entourage said on the arrival at Logan Airport.

Tony stepped from the plane. He waved gamely to clustered photographers. Then, his shoulders slumped, he hurried to a waiting automobile and went home to Fleet Street.

DeMarco, who won the welterweight title from Johnny Saxton in Boston April 1, held the crown only 70 days.

"I just couldn't put two punches together all night," DeMarco said later while being examined by Dr. Richard C. Webster for cuts on his lips and chin and over both eyes.

"I'd sure fight him differently if I get another chance," he said, rubbing his face.

Asked what punch Basilio knocked him out with, the 23-year-old DeMarco replied, "What punch? Seems to me there was a lot more than one."

"I let all my friends down," DeMarco said glumly, "I let them down."

"How many fights were there between Ezzard Charles and Rocky Marciano? What were the dates and who won?" Clarence Caufield, Virden, Ill.

Marciano beat Charles twice last year, the only times they met. Rocky gained a 15-round decision, June 17, and knocked out Charles in the eighth round, Sept. 17, both bouts at New York City.

Was the Shrine Bowl football game ever played on Christmas day? Also on what day, other than New Year's, has this game been held?" James C. Thompson, 512 Andrews.

The history of the Shrine Bowl game fails to show that it was ever played on Christmas, but it has been held on various days the latter part of December and the first part of January. In 1925 and 1927, for instance, it was played on Dec. 26 and in 1952 it was held Dec. 28.

The Shrine Bowl comittee in San Francisco could give you more detailed information.

Jackson Set To Defend T-M Crown

DES MOINES, Ia., June 11 (UP)—Many of America's top amateur golfers, including Defending Champion Jimmy Jackson of St. Louis, tuned up their shots today for the Trans-Mississippi golf tournament.

Jackson had tournament officials worried for a time last week. After he lost in the fifth round of the British Amateur tournament, Trans-Mississippi officials expected to hear from him. But he did not inform officials he would be on hand to defend his crown until he arrived home Thursday.

Jackson was defeated in the British tournament by Lt. Joe Conrad, the 1953 Trans-Mississippi champion. It had been hoped Conrad would play the tournament this year. But after he won the British crown, Conrad decided to play in the French Amateur instead.

Rex Baxter of Amarillo, Tex., the 1954 runnerup, will be on hand to renew his bid for the title. He was an alternate on the Walker Cup squad from the United States and Jackson was a member of the team.

Another top entry was Vince D'Antoni of St. Louis, who won tite National Collegiate title here in 1939.

N. C. Morris of Denver, secretary of the Trans-Mississippi Association, predicted more than 175 golfers will be in the field when the qualifying round starts Monday.

The 36-hole qualifying round will be finished Tuesday with match play starting Wednesday. The 36-hole final will be played June 19.

Ed Furgol, Harbert Keep International Golf Lead U.S. Property

St. Louis Pro Aids With 69

WASHINGTON, June 11 (UP)—The U.S. team tightened its grip on first place in the International golf tournament today as PGA Champion Chick Harbert matched par 70 and U. S. Open champion Ed Furgol of St. Louis broke regulation figures for the first time with a 69.

Australia's Peter Thomson jumped back into the lead for individual honors, posting his second 67 of the four-day tournament. Belgium's Flory Van Donck, who entered the round three strokes up on the 26-nation field, had trouble putting on the rain-soaked greens and shot a 73.

Thomson's three-day total of 208 was one ahead of Harbert and Van Donck. They were trailed by Argentina's Roberto De Vicenzo at 211 and Harry Bradshaw of Ireland, Eric Brown of Scotland and Furgol at 212.

In team totals, the U.S. had 421, three ahead of Australia's entry of Thomson and Kel Nagle. Next were Belgium, 426; Scotland and Argentina, 427; and Ireland, 428.

Harbert and Furgol notched their lowest combined score so far. Furgol, like most golfers on the rain-soaked greens, had difficulty putting. But his chip shots were landing near the pins.

Thomson putted well and was seldom in trouble as he paced the third round with his 33-34.

Bradshaw, who tied the course record of 66 with Van Bronck yesterday, played steady par golf except for a double bogie on the 397-yard second hole. The burly Irishman buried his second shot in a bank and had to take a penalty stroke.

Thomson made two 10-foot putts and a 15-footer. His only bogey was on the 409-yard fourteenth when he hit the bunker on his second shot, knocked his recovery over the green and then chipped back and sank a 15-footer.

Paris in the Summer Can Be Rough —Associated Press Wirephoto via radio from Paris.

14-1 Shot, Blue Choir Captures Balmoral

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP)—Blue Choir, a 14-1 shot, scored a six-lengths victory in today's $58,300 Balmoral Turf Handicap at Washington Park. Smoke Screen was second and Salmon Peter third. Cascanuez, the favorite, finished sixth in the one and three-sixteenths mile event. An early favorite, Mister Black, was scratched. Blue Choir returned $31.20, $13.00 and $8.40.

Stay-at-Home French Golfer Routs Yankee

PARIS, June 11 (UP)—Henri De Lamaze, a 36-year-old Paris business man who knows every knoll and blade of grass on his home Chantilly course, won the French Amateur golf championship today for the sixth time by beating Don Bisplinghoff of Orlando, Fla., 5 and 4.

The burly Frenchman, who never has played in a tournament outside his native country, thus crushed an American bid to sweep both of Europe's leading amateur tournaments. In Friday's semifinals, De Lamaze defeated Lt. Joseph Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., the new British amateur king.

De Lamaze shot a four-under-par 69 for the first 18 holes over the 6608-yard Chantilly course which he knows so well and forged a 5 up lead at the lunchtime break. The 20-year-old Bisplinghoff shot excellent golf on the afternoon round, but the most he could narrow his deficit was 4 down after birdies on the twenty-eighth and twenty-ninth holes.

On the thirty-second hole, a 200-yard par three, the 20-year-old American's tee shot hit the lip of a bunker and bounded back into the sand. He blasted out but required two putts, while De Lamaze put his first shot on the green within putting distance, and was conceded the hole, and the match when Bisplinghoff's first putt missed the cup.

Suburban Stars To Attend M.U.

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 11—Lionel Ferguson, 230-pound University City tackle, and Gordon Bierman, 202-pound Ferguson tackle, are among seven high school graduates who have accepted athletic scholarships to the University of Missouri, Athletic Director Don Faurot announced today. Another recruit is Charles Shelton, 185-pound Rolla fullback who made an all-state team last fall.

The other scholarships went to Larry Hall, 195-pound Raytown guard; Donald Loudon, 202-pound Kansas City, Kan., tackle; Brock Hessing, 190-pound tackle, and George Boucher, 180-pound end, both from Peoria, Ill. The Peoria youths, both of whom will study agriculture, played on their school's first undefeated team in history.

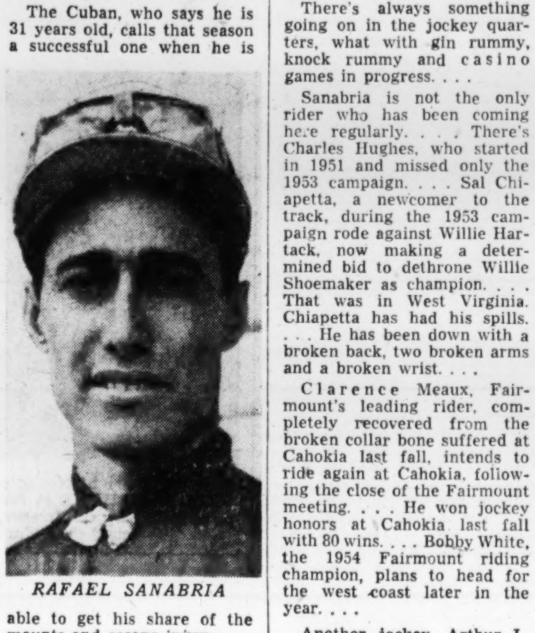
DOWN THE STRETCH

by Herman Wecke

Can't Win 'Em All.

"YOU don't have to win the jockey championship to have a successful season," said Rafael Sanabria, Cuban veteran, during a fanning bee between races at Fairmount recently. . . . And Sanabria likes the Collinsville track. . . . He's been here every year, having missed only two fall meetings since the thoroughbreds began running under the lights in 1950. . . .

The Cuban, who says he is 31 years old, calls that season a successful one when he is able to get his share of the mounts and escape injury. . . .



RAFAEL SANABRIA

Twice he has won the riding championship at the track. . . . In 1950 he had 36 firsts and in 1952 he finished first with 28. . . . He's been in the first 10 in six of the nine meetings. . . . Last year, he had 34 victories at Fairmount and then moved over to Cahokia to ride the same number of winners. . . . This year he is tied for second with 20 trips to the winner's circle.

Sanabria, who hopes to become a citizen of the United States shortly, now makes his home in Miami, Fla., with his wife and 9-year-old daughter, Bertha, and 8-year-old son, Rafael Jr. . . .

The jockey takes great pride in the fact that during the 1950-51 season he rode horses owned by former President Aleman of Mexico. . . . He says he brought more than 50 horses owned by Aleman to the United States, including Rabbit's Foot, which cost $25,000. . . .

Will his son become a jockey? "My wife does not want him to be a rider and the boy is not interested in riding."

Help for Youngsters.

EDDIE GRIFFIN, himself an ex-jockey, says that Sanabria never causes any trouble and that he is always ready to help the younger riders. . . . Griffin, by the way, was up on Siskin in 1910, when that horse finished fourth in the Preakness. . . .

There's always something going on in the jockey quarters, what with gin rummy, knock rummy and casino games in progress. . . .

Sanabria is not the only rider who has been coming here regularly. . . . There's Charles Hughes, who started in 1951 and missed only the 1953 campaign. . . . Sal Chiapetta, a newcomer to the track, during the 1953 campaign rode against Willie Hartack, now making a determined bid to dethrone Willie Shoemaker as champion. . . . That was in West Virginia. Chiapetta has had his spills. . . . He has been down with a broken back, two broken arms and a broken wrist. . . .

Clarence Meaux, Fairmount's leading rider, completely recovered from the broken collar bone suffered at Cahokia last fall, intends to ride again at Cahokia, following the close of the Fairmount meeting. . . . He won jockey honors at Cahokia last fall with 80 wins. . . . Bobby White, the 1954 Fairmount riding champion, plans to head for the west coast later in the year. . . .

Another jockey, Arthur L. Farrell of Malden, Mass., who was the leading apprentice rider at the recent Fort Miami, O., meeting, is scheduled to join the local colony. . . .

TO READER: When Clarence Meaux rode his sixth straight winners at Cahokia last Oct. 6, they were as follows: 4—Subjective ($16.40); 5—Screen Star ($6.40); 6—Imperial War ($7.00); 7—Freedom's Pride ($10.20); 8—Ricco ($6.60); 9—Ripton ($7.00).

Four McKinley Players Make Public High Baseball All-Star Team

Walton Named as Pitcher

By Harold Tuthill

McKinley, runner-up to Champion Beaumont in the recent Public High League baseball race, placed four on the circuit's all-star team, it was announced yesterday by Walter Williams, league manager.

The Bluejackets captured three places and one each went to Washington Tech, Soldan-Blewett and Central for a 10-man squad. A tie for the left field position developed between Charles Miller of McKinley and Curtis Priest of Washington.

This is the second year an all-opponent team has been selected by the players. There were two repeaters from the 1954 team, Beaumont's Rich Rogers, a first baseman a year ago, being named as catcher and Bill Funkhouser, hustling Soldan-Blewett outfielder, being selected for center field. He, along with Miller and Priest and Simon Tobias of Central, the right fielder, complete the outfield.

Fred Walton, who compiled a 5-1 record in the 29 2-3 innings he worked for McKinley, was chosen as the league's all-star pitcher and Robert Wesolich, first baseman, and Jerry Moore, shortstop, were the other Goldbugs named.

Others on the infield were Beaumont regulars, Art Muegler at second and Ron Probst at third.

Individual batting honors went to Wesley Chism of Sumner who hit .524 in nine games. McKinley's Ron Trantham, a catcher, led those who played in all 10 league contests, with an average of .517. Bill Long of Soldan-Blewett, an even .500, was next.

Tom Daniels of Beaumont was the top pitcher with five victories and no defeats in the 27 innings he worked. He struck out 31 and walked only 11.

Williams said the league would start on Friday, April 13, next year and end the Friday before the state eliminations would begin, May 24, 25 and 26.

Three From Chaminade On League All-Stars

Chaminade, the Catholic League champion, qualified three for the All-Star team—Vic Hummert and Robert Pryor, outfielders, and Bud Faron, pitcher.

Phil Finder, Coyle, was the third outfielder, while the infield was made up of Bob Bucher, St. Francis de Sales; Joe Lengyel, St. John's; Ed Wardein, Marquette, and Bob Tedesco, Belleville Cathedral. Ron Lugge of Cathedral was the first-team catcher.

Parochial Baseball Meet Opens Tuesday

The C.Y.C. parochial boys' baseball and girls' softball playoffs will begin Tuesday at Forest Park.

St. Joseph and St. Anthony will meet on diamond 19 and Corpus Christi will oppose St. Stephen on diamond 20 in the baseball games starting at 4 o'clock. Three girls' softball contests will begin at 3:45. St. Edward and Holy Cross play on No. 4, Holy Family and Christ the King on No. 5 and Presentation and SS. Mary and Joseph on No. 6.

BLOOMER GIRL TEAMS WERE TOUGH 50 YEARS AGO---EVEN THREW AWAY GLOVES IN MID-GAME

By Neal Russo

Exactly 50 years ago, the Cardinals were finishing a poor sixth and the Browns a dead last, but baseball interest was high at times—especially when the girls at three department stores organized a bloomer league.

Men's socks sold for 3⅓ cents a pair, women's hose 8 cents. Room rent was $1.50 "to respectable people." Other ads read "Hotel room $1 a week and up, free bath, luggage hauled free." Men's suits were $9.50. Round-trip rail fare to Kansas City was $6.

Salaries were low, too, like that $2-per week (6 days) bundle-wrapping job held down by little Amelia Stockglausner at the May Company (now Famous-Barr).

Miss Stockglausner, at 4-feet 11-inches a first baseman like her idol Stan Musial, was a star at 15 on that May team, and now she is trying to find some of her surviving teammates as well as rivals on the Scruggs and Grand-Leader nines. A golden anniversary reunion is the goal of Amelia, now Mrs. Phil Pfeiffer, 5327 Nagel (FL. 2-7108).

Girls Pretty Tough.

"Yes, we girls were pretty tough in those days," Mrs. Pfeiffer said when reminded about some of the outstanding girl softball players of today. The pocket edition of Kluszewski said she tired of wearing a mitt at times, and thought nothing of tossing aside the glove in the middle of a game.

The triumph of bloomers over skirts wasn't easy, it was recalled by Mrs. Pfeiffer, still a 121-average bowler, tossing a 16-pound ball at Bowling Grand despite her 65 years.

The department store managers called it (bloomers) "undignified." But when the skirts-wearing team lost to the bloomer-wearing nine in the first two games at Magazine Park, it became an all-bloomer league.

One catcher in a snug-fitting brown suit had so much difficulty with low pitches that she stopped many with her high-heeled shoes. Some fielders spread their skirts to gather in fly balls, but the skirts didn't come in handy on slides.

The umpires were caught in the middle. The girls threw kisses at them and hugged them before the game and after certain calls. The men in blue got plenty of arguments, too, but the bloomer girls forgave them after the last out. The girls could take time to comb their hair without being charged with stalling tactics.

Mrs. Pfeiffer, who has grown one inch since her playing days, recalled "large crowds, no concession stands, and no dressing rooms. We dressed at the store, skirts over bloomers, and went to the park on the streetcars."

Outfielders Had It Easy.

Until the girls got the knack of whacking a baseball, the outfielders had an easy time, sitting on the grass frequently, especially with petite Amelia Stockglausner making sensational one-hand catches of drives toward first base.

Most of the early games turned into slugfests—Scruggs 24, May 17; May 17, Grand-Leader 14—and the umpires frequently ruled a "TKO" after four or five innings. But the girls' efforts were appreciated, especially at the Cards' and Browns' games when the home teams were faring poorly. Then the inevitable cry was "Put in the bloomer girls."

After that 1905 season, the bloomer-girl league faded out, but Mrs. Amelia Pfeiffer, whose hunband, Phil Pfeiffer, was a Trolley League catcher, has plenty of fond memories to share with other former bloomer girls.

Mrs. Pfeiffer has four children. There are seven grandchildren, too, who will hear a lot about the feats of a great first baseman who turned in her mitt about 40 years before Stan the Man put one on.

County Jaycee Golf Tourney Tomorrow

The Junior Chamber of Commerce state tournaments in golf and tennis will be held at Marshall, Mo., this week and four St. Louisans have qualified to compete in each.

Qualifying play for St. Louis County Jaycee golfers will be tomorrow at Crystal Lake Country Club.

Starting at 7:30 a.m., Ed Heyman, Ollie Bauer and Tom Fischer will tee off in the first threesome. Following at 7-minute intervals will be 21 other groups, some of them in foursomes.

An awards banquet will be held at the clubhouse tomorrow at 6:30 p.m.

Four qualifiers from the St. Louis Jaycee tournament will join the County winners at Marshall. The four city tourney winners are: Jack Delahunt, Ray Meyer, Sid Saloman III and Charles Ziegler.

Similar competition is going forward in tennis. Four tennis players will be selected from two divisions of the tennis competition, tomorrow and Tuesday. Rodney Susman and Chuck McKinley will play at Marshall in the up-to-15 bracket, while Neil Drury and Dick Horwitz will be in the 15-18 tournament. Earl Buchholz, who is national champion in the Jaycees' up-to-15 event, will not play in the state tournament, which is a qualifying affair for the national. Buchholz is automatcally qualified.

Girls May Attend 'Basketball School'

The "Pop Meyer School" for girls' basketball will open at St. Mary Magdalen Gym, 4354 South Kingshighway, tomorrow night, and will continue each Monday until the opening of the regular fall season. Classes will be from 7 to 9 o'clock.

John W. Love and his assistants will drill the girls in fundamentals of the game, using men's rules. Members of the Simpkins Girls team, rated No. 2 in the nation, will demonstrate. No basketball experience is necessary for girls enrolling in the school.

Italy Victor in Davis Cup Upset

Danes Eliminated; French Lead Swedes

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—Italy knocked Denmark out of the running, France led Sweden, Belgium led Chile, and rain today halted play in the decisive match of the England-India series in the European Zone Davis Cup tennis quarterfinals.

Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola, two of the crop of young Italian stars, won a tough first set and had easy sailing after that as they defeated Denmark's Kurt Nielsen and Torben Ulrich 16-14, 6-3, 6-1. The victory gave Italy a 3-0 lead in the best-of-5 series and made Sunday's closing singles matches meaningless. No matter what happens, Italy will meet the winner of the England-India series in the European zone semifinals.

The Italians' opponents will not be determined, however, until tomorrow afternoon, when England's Tony Mottram and Naresh Kumar resume their singles battle. The match was halted by rain with Kumar ahead two sets to one and the series tied at 2-2 in matches.

Roger Becker had kept England's hopes alive earlier in the day by defeating Ramanathan Krishnan, 13-11, 6-3, 6-3, to square the series.

Kumar took the first set of the decisive match 6-2, but Mottram won the second 9-7 with the aid of two drives that skidded past Kumar on the damp court. Undismayed, Kumar came back to take the third set 6-4.

France took a 2-1 lead over Sweden, setting up a surprise equal to Italy's conquest of Denmark, when Paul Remy and Marcel Bernard outlasted Sven Davidson and Ulf Schmidt of Sweden 6-4, 5-7, 6-4, 1-6, 6-2.

The winning country will meet the winner of the Belgium-Chile series in the other European zone semifinal.

The veteran Belgian pair of Philippe Washer and Jackie Brichant put their country ahead, 2-1, by defeating Andres Hammersley and Luis Ayala 6-4, 0-6, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

Bright Outlook on Squirrels and Frogs.

THE OUTLOOK is generally good for the squirrel and frog seasons, both of which open July 1, Missouri Conservation Commission representatives have told Outdoors.

"There may be local exceptions, but, based on reports from the field, squirrel hunting should be good this year," Dunbar Robb, commission biologist, said.

"The supply of squirrels is plentiful. The large number was very noticeable in the early part of the year."

One reason for the optimistic prediction is that last year's mast crop was good. The mast, in general, is the determining factor in the physical condition of the breeding stock.

If the mast is better than normal, parent squirrels will produce a large number of young the following season. If the mast is poor, production will fall off.

Despite several successive years of drouth, the mast has not been seriously affected in Missouri, although nut crops were smaller in some sections of the state.

However, the extreme dryness did make hunting in the woods difficult. This condition will not exist for this year's opening.

Break for St. Louisans.

Last year was reported to be a fairly successful one for squirrel hunters. This season the best outlook is for the southern and eastern Ozarks region—favorable news for St. Louis sportsmen.

Shooting of bushytails ranks third in popularity with Missouri hunters. Rabbits are first and quail second.

In an average season, about 1,500,000 squirrels are bagged in this state. The number of hunters generally is about 65,000, although the total has been much higher in some years.

It was not unusual for a man to shoot 100 squirrels in a day in the early 1800s. A sportsman who can bring down 100 in a season now considers himself most fortunate.

Fox squirrels represent more than 60 per cent of the kill. Gray squirrels, which are somewhat smaller, make up the remainder of the bag.

Today's habitat, especially in North Missouri, favors the fox squirrel, which thrives wherever there is an interspersion of farmland and forest.

The more active grays are generally found in heavily wooded areas, common to the Ozarks in the southern section of the state.

Earlier Season Years Ago.

Several years ago the squirrel season in Missouri opened May 30. The shooting period was then changed to start July 1 to prevent too heavy a take of nursing female squirrels and very young bushytails.

Squirrels breed throughout the summer, but the commission has not limited shooting to the late fall, because this would defeat the hunter's objective in bagging young squirrels, much tastier than the older animals.

Usually the fox—or red—squirrels will give hunters the longer shots because of their preference for more open cover.

Most sportsmen "still hunt" for bushytails. This is true early in the season when mulberries are ripe, later when the squirrels are in the cornfields and, then again, in early fall when hickory nuts provide the food.

Under Missouri regulations, bushytails may be taken by pistol, rifle and gun between sunrise and sunset. A dog may be used in hunting.

The limits for squirrels and frogs are the same—six daily and six in possession. The season for both also extends until the end of November, although there is a 10-day closing for squirrels starting Nov. 1.

The holder of a hunting permit may take frogs by means of a .22-caliber rim-fire rifle, pistol, bow and arrow, hand or hand net.

A fishing permit allows one to take frogs by hand, hand net, gig or hook and line. An artificial light may be used as frogs are legal game on a 24-hour basis during the season.

Heine Meine League May Sport a Tie

Lefty Stan Turek will try to pitch Hoffmeisters (4-2) into a tie for first place with McNearys (5-1) in a Muny Heine Meine League baseball game today at 2:30 at Porky's Field. Manager Roy Fleddermann will send Dave Lauck, right-hander from Rockhurst College, against Hoffmeisters, the only team with a victory over the leaders.

At Meine Field, also at 2:30, the Rebels (2-4) will oppose the Carondelet Advertisers (1-5), last season's champions.

Kutis North, defending champion and back on top in the North Side League with a 5-1 mark at Fairground No. 1, faces Union Printers (3-3) at 3:30. Borbein-Young (3-3) and Polish Falcons (1-5) play at 1.

Kimacks (5-1) will try to add to their lead in the South Side League at Carondelet Park when they meet Gravois (1-5) at 3:30. Carondelet Sunday Morning Club (4-2) and Kutis South (2-4) play at 1.

Miss Herpel Married To Thomas E. Conroy

Miss Marilyn Herpel, Missouri state and St. Louis district women's golf champion, was married yesterday to Thomas Edward Conroy at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer G. Herpel, 233 South Bemiston avenue, Clayton. The Rev. Delvis B. Roberts officiated.

Conroy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Conroy, 9936 Watson road, Crestwood. The bride's father is the golf professional at Algonquin.

SOCCER SHOTS
by Dent McSkimming

Plans are nearing completion for the formation of a new St. Louis County Summer Soccer League to open July 11, it was announced last night by Organizer Walter Giesler.

Four clubs have already entered and Giesler is confident at least four more will file. He has entries from the Jones Club, St. Louis County A.C., Richmond Heights and Overland, and has tentative okays from St. Philip Neri and Pastures.

Play will be on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings, starting at 6:30, at Fee Fee Gardens in the county.

"We would welcome the entry of Kutis or Simpkins or both," said Giesler. "This league should provide a fine opportunity for the managers of senior clubs to experiment with younger players and new methods. In that way, they would be better prepared for the opening of the regular season in the fall."

Giesler is receiving entries at PA 7-8344.

The largest cash gate in the history of soccer in Spain was recorded two weeks ago when 80,000 fans paid 6,000,000 pesetas to watch as Spain defeated England in Chamartin Stadium, Madrid. That figures roughly at $160,000.

A national soccer organization under the direction of the Catholic Youth Organization will be in operation next fall, it was announced by Bob Guelker, athletics secretary of the local C.Y.C. A survey conducted by Guelker in which he contacted Catholic youth organizations in 128 cities and towns received such a favorable response that Msgr. Joseph Schieder, director of the National Catholic Youth organization, with headquarters in Washington, D.C., approved formation of a soccer department.

Encouraged by the showing of its players in the game with the French club, Sochaux, last Wednesday night, the C.Y.C. plans to bid for other such attractions in the coming seasons, Guelker reported.

At Possum Trot Farm

Up Early to Keep Abreast of Harvest

By Leonard Hall

FARMING in a year of fairly normal rainfall is as different from farming during drouth as day is from night. It isn't that you work harder, for during drouth the farmer must scrabble and scratch to keep something growing in his fields to fill the stomachs of his animals and his family; while in good weather he works from sunup to sunset to keep abreast of the harvest. The difference is one of state of mind. In order to be a farmer at all, one must be both philosopher and optimist, taking the good with the bad. But also to be a farmer, one must take a natural satisfaction in tending the soil and watching it produce abundantly, in seeing his livestock thrive on lush and fertile pastures. These are things which come with the good seasons.

A LEADER OF THE AWAKENING CHORUS.

Our day at Possum Trot follows the lengthening season. Each morning, without benefit of alarm clock, we seem to wake a few minutes earlier; generally in time to see the sun come climbing above Buford. This is an enchanted time of day, filled with the songs of awakening birds, the crowing of roosters and cawing of crows.

One advantage of early rising is that it gives us an hour to work in the vegetable garden before the real tasks of the day begin. And this year, for a change, there is inspiration to battle weeds and bugs because the vegetables are growing. The potato patch is a jungle, with flowers handsome enough for a corsage; we were afraid we'd put too much high-nitrogen fertilizer on it and might have no potatoes. But now the ground in the hills is beginning to crack open and we've dug a few messes of new potatoes, finding more small tubers at the end of the underground stems than ever before. Peas are filling their pods, beans and squash have started blooming, and okra is surviving the bugs which used to let okra strictly alone. Thus prospects for the summer are altogether encouraging.

● AT ABOUT 6:30 when the vegetable gardening and morning milking are over, Matt joins us for a second cup of coffee and we make a quick round of the farm to be sure all is well with the cattle. Some of the older cows, which catch up a month or two each year on producing their calves, are now turning out a crop of youngsters in May and June, so that we must inspect them every day. There's one old girl that has already presented us with two sets of twins in years past and if she doesn't duplicate this feat again within the next few days, we're going to be vastly surprised. Each morning we go out expectantly and each morning so far she has disappointed us; meanwhile four heifers and one of the old registered cows have dropped fine calves.

Weather has been ideal for haying and the first cutting is in the barns without a bale having gotten wet. The new brome and alfalfa made 50 bales to the acre, a fine yield, as did the clover and orchard grass in a little creek bottom field at the back of the farm. Generally Matt starts the mowing at about 8 o'clock and I take over at noon when he goes to dinner, so that no time is lost. This is an easy and pleasant task with the new Ferguson mower which, for the first time in 100 years, eliminates the "Pittman rod" that drives the sickle-bar and operates from a counter-balanced crankshaft with no more vibration than a sewing machine. Then along in afternoon, I take over with the second tractor and the side-delivery rake, rolling the hay into an endless windrow, round and round the field ready for the baler.

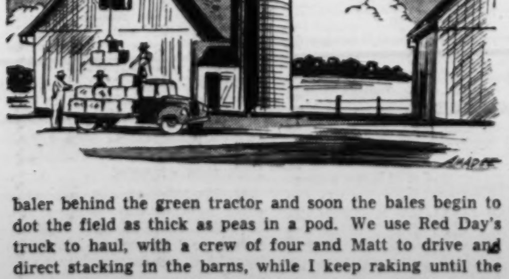
● DESPITE THE FACT IT'S HARD WORK, there's no finer job on the farm than making hay on a June day. The swallows come dipping down over the swaths of newly cut grass to hunt for insects, often swooping to within a foot or two of your head. You keep a constant watch for young cottontails to give them a chance to bounce away over the cut hay to safety, and for nests of meadowlarks and bobwhites which can generally be saved by raising the sicklebar and leaving a tuft of unmown hay.

On the morning after raking, as soon as the dew has dried, Ern and Lovell arrive with the big New Holland baler behind the green tractor and soon the bales begin to dot the field as thick as peas in a pod. We use Red Day's truck to haul, with a crew of four and Matt to drive and direct stacking in the barns, while I keep raking until the field is done. About 800 bales a day can be picked up and stored in this way and it is seldom that we have to leave bales on the ground overnight.



This year, for the first time in several seasons, the young grass and clover sowed last autumn with barley as a nurse-crop have survived and made good stands. Thus while a farm doesn't recover overnight from three years of drouth and crop failure, we've made a start and will keep pushing ahead. And there's one thing of which we are more convinced than ever; that the fertility which we built up and stored away in the fields during the good years is a tremendous help in the rebuilding process. This is good to think about as we sit on the east terrace in the evenings, resting tired muscles, watching the last sunlight fade from the mountain and listening for the first whippoorwill to start calling.

ROBOT DETECTIVE

New Electronic Device Known as Inspectoscope Helping to Save Government Big Sums in Duties That Would Otherwise Be Lost— Ferrets Out Smuggled Articles

OBJECTS DISCOVERED IN A SHOE BY THE INSPECTOSCOPE.

By Virginia Irwin

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 11.

THE small wooden box spotted by United States Custom inspectors in the cargo being unloaded from the big trans-Atlantic Scandinavian Airlines plane at New York International Airport looked innocent enough. Made of three-quarter-inch pine and marked "fragile," the box, according to the import declaration, contained a $20 cut-glass water pitcher and two matching drinking mugs.

Two customs men whisked the small crate away. Working quickly and using a little-known electronic device called an inspectoscope, they peered into the crate. Then without having so much as pried off its lid or broken its seal, they returned the box and waited for it to be claimed.

In due time, a Bronx business man and his wife, to whom the box was addressed, called at International Airport, paid the duty on the glassware, which had been properly declared, and were promptly placed under arrest. The box with its $20 water pitcher and mugs also contained 2000 carats of cut and polished diamonds, worth almost $250,000.

Customs men seized the huge diamond cache and put a stake-out on the couple's home. The next day two more arrests were made when a German and a woman, both immigrants, called at the business man's home. Arraigned in Federal Court, all four were charged with smuggling and conspiracy to smuggle. If convicted, in addition to forfeiture of the diamonds, they face jail terms of two to five years.

"Using the inspectoscope, we were easily able to spot the hollowed out pockets in the end boards of the box where the diamonds were concealed," Thomas G. Duncan, agent in charge of the Special Customs Racket Squad explained.

SEIZURE of the diamond-laden box and the arrest of the four suspects brought to an end an investigation which had been carried on here and abroad for several months. The customs men knew from gossip and complaints from New York's great diamond center that quantities of diamonds were being smuggled into the United States. They ran down lead after lead, kept close watch on shipments sent to American citizens who had recently visited Europe, and on suitcases and boxes of household goods following recent immigrants to this country.

With the aid of postal authorities, they watched incoming registered airmail envelopes from certain cities in Europe and with the co-operation of the international air carriers kept a close check on all cargo manifests from certain points of origin.

After four months of examining records, customs men noted that the Bronx business man had been receiving regular monthly packages from Frankfurt, Germany. The packages, declared as either glass or porcelain ware, were marked "gifts." Suspicion of the business man was heightened when it was learned that he was the brother of a man who had once been in the diamond business in Manhattan.

When the next "gift" arrived, customs inspectors had their inspectoscope ready and the electronic gadget quickly confirmed their suspicions.

"The inspectoscope, as this case shows, is a valuable means of detection," said Supervising Customs Agent J. H. Page of the United States Treasury Department. "It helps to save the Government hundreds of thousands of dollars in customs duties that would otherwise be lost. Also it is a faster and more economical means of inspection.

"Suppose for instance, we want to examine the heel of a shoe or a suitcase we believe might have a false bottom. Before the inspectoscope we had to literally tear shoes and baggage apart when we were looking for smuggled goods. It was all right if we destroyed a man's shoes and baggage if we found something in them, but if we didn't find anything, he had a claim against the Government."

In use for only the past year, the inspectoscope had already figured in some $200,000 of seizures of smuggled goods and if forfeiture of the diamonds is ruled in the present case, the electronic device will have turned up almost a half million dollars in profit for Uncle Sam.

THE inspectoscope, which looks like two metal lockers with a passageway between, is a two and one-quarter ton device manufactured to customs specifications. In one end of the $9000 machine, sensitive electronic instruments are housed. In the other end, an observer sits in a lightproof booth and watches a screen on which a fluoroscopic image of everything that passes through the center passageway can be observed. With the inspectoscope, a trained observer can pick out something as small as a wedding band hidden in the heart of something as big as a bale of cotton.

THOMAS DUNCAN, LEFT, HEAD OF SPECIAL CUSTOMS RACKET SQUAD, AND HARRY EDWARDS, ALSO OF THE CUSTOMS OFFICE, EXAMINING LUGGAGE AND CORSET IN WHICH A GERMAN WOMAN TRIED TO SMUGGLE SWISS WATCH MOVEMENTS INTO THE UNITED STATES.

So far only two of the tricky X-ray instruments are in use here. One is permanently installed in the customs appraiser's office. The other, a mobile unit, is employed largely on the docks where ships tie up or depart at the rate of one every 20 minutes. A third machine is in the process of being housed in a permanent installation at International Airport.

NOT long ago the inspectoscope figured in the arrest of a woman who arrived aboard the Queen Elizabeth with $10,000 in Swiss watch movements concealed in two traveling cases and on her person. Her baggage had been examined in the routine check on the pier and was being placed on a baggage truck by a porter when alert customs men noticed the porter straining under the weight of the traveling cases.

Using the inspectoscope, the inspectors saw at a glance the reason for the unusual weight of the woman's baggage. In the false sides of one traveling case 408 watch movements were concealed. In the mock bottom of the other, 351 more watch movements were visible.

The woman, from Munich, was taken to the headquarters of the Customs Racket Squad and a further check showed 167 more watch movements sewed into the black corset she was wearing and 26 more in her handbag.

The woman, who had arrived in this country for a visit with her aunt who lives on New York's upper East Side, said she had been paid $125 to deliver the watch movements to a man who would call at her aunt's apartment. Customs agents, keeping the apartment under surveillance, a week later arrested the man and charged him with receiving smuggled goods. The woman received a six-months' suspended sentence, was placed on probation and sent back to Germany. The case against the man is still pending.

"For our money, the woman was just dumb," Duncan said. "Anyway, in view of the assistance she gave us and because she was an acute diabetic and suffering from cancer we did not press the case against her."

SINCE the tariff on watch movements was doubled last fall, the attempted smuggling of them into this country is on the increase. Recently, a big wooden case arrived from Europe billed as chinaware. Looking through the case with the inspectoscope, layer after layer of neatly wrapped watch movements were plainly visible to the customs agents. Duncan estimated that the case contained $45,000 worth of undeclared goods. Investigation has indicated that the person to whom the shipment was consigned is a non-existent individual. Agents are now searching for a man who, acting for the non-existent consignee, took delivery of another shipment in the same name.

Customs men had one of their busiest days not long ago when they used the inspectoscope to check the baggage of passengers arriving on an Italian liner. The inspectoscope turned up about a ton of prohibited salamis.

The gadget that tattles on salami cheaters as well as international diamond smugglers is the invention of Henry Sicular, a San Francisco X-ray engineer. It is used for screening all visitors at California's big San Quentin prison and at the end of World War II was a big help in inspecting the souvenir packages sent home by GIs by the thousands. In New York and San Francisco post offices, workers were able with the inspectoscope to screen thousands of packages a day.

Working with the electronic tattletale, a customs inspection crew can now check from 16 to 20 tons of baggage cases a day. Supervising Customs Agent Page thinks that the greatest worth of the electronic eye lies in its ability to enable customs men to determine what is in a package without poking into its insides.

"Say we spot something with the inspectoscope," Page suggests. "There's no need to open the case. We just put a watch on it. But if the case had been opened for inspection the consignee might notice it and not take delivery. With the inspectroscope a smuggler may think he's outwitted us until he finds himself under arrest."

Better Be Nice To Kids

By Stan Delaplane

SAN FRANCISCO.

HAVE you considered the vast amount of talent available to the average man now that vacation time is on us?

I am offered a spindly-shanked grass cutter, fresh from high school, at summer rates. But who am I hiring? Maybe my boy will corner the market on General Motors only a few years hence.

He may pitch a no-hitter in the world series. Or break the bank at Monte Carlo.

My 16-year-old baby sitter may grow up to be the new Marilyn Monroe. And I would never recognize her with the braces off her teeth.

What I mean, you never know what you are getting in the summer jobber. Be nice to him. He may be Collector of Internal Revenue some day.

Now when I was seeking summer engagements, it seemed to me my prospective employers suffered mental myopia. They could not see the wealth of talent I paraded before them.

I wish I could remember the names of some of them. Generally, they were filled with bluff, heavy-handed humor.

"So you want to get in the oil business, eh, young man?"

"No, sir. I just want to work in the gas station for the summer."

I SOON FOUND this honesty was not well repaid. Even though you are working only for the summer, your interviewer requires a sniveling approach. Full of gratitude and Horatio Alger, Jr. remarks.

"Sir, it has been my earnest ambition to start at the bottom of the grocery business at an extremely low salary and, by industry and honesty, work my way up to be third assistant manager like you."

This cynical technique put me into a number of ill-paid summer jobs.

I delivered groceries one foggy summer, leaving odd assortments of corn flakes and soap chips at the wrong doorways and recovering them valiantly after the complaints came in.

The only high point I remember was when the owner tried to behead a chicken with an ax and hit himself in the foot. He said it was because I made him nervous. And I expect I did.

The next summer I told a sober shoe store owner of my life-long ambition to sell shoes.

He let me sweep out the store mornings and, at times, fit poorer customers with the wrong size.

I got $8 a week and was permitted to buy 10-cent shoe laces at the wholesale rate of five cents. I also learned some suspect techniques of fitting size 6 ladies with size 7 shoes and assuring them that they were wearing 5 AAA.

By my third summer, I was ready for the big league. I secured a job which was advertised to me as assistant manager of a moving picture house.

I always felt that I was betrayed by the title. It turned out that the assistant manager swept out the house in the morning while the manager slept. In the afternoon, I collected tickets at the door and directed customers to the ladies' and gentlemen's lounges. It required practically no brains.

THERE WAS ONE ADVANTAGE to the job. I was permitted to keep all loose change that fell among the popcorn bags and candy wrappers. This was particularly rewarding on Saturday children's matinees.

Small children usually keep their candy change in their hot little fists. Being poorly co-ordinated at that age, they often lose their grasp. They would then come whining to me in a dismal way and I would go down and search the front rows with my flashlight.

Sometimes I would find the lost dime before they did. I always considered this fair and free enterprise.

Ah, well, I recall these days with fond memory. For eventually I got out of school. At this point, it seemed to be expected of me that I go to work all the time and regularly. And to tell the truth, sometimes I wish I were back in the summer job market again. It was poorly paid. But instructive.

Whole Tribe Attends

Four-Day Ball for Apache Debutantes

By Hal Boyle

MESCALERO, N.M., June 11 (AP).

LEAVES FROM A TOURING NOTEBOOK: Many a Park Avenue father heaves a sigh at the cost of throwing a debutante ball for his daughter. But he'd break down in tears if he had to foot the bills for introducing her to society on an Apache Indian reservation.

A debutante ball lasts only a single evening under the white man's wan idea of what makes a good party. The Apaches have a more muscular and red-blooded approach.

When an Indian father announces he has a daughter who is ready to set up tepee-keeping, it isn't just a shindig for a few close friends of the family. The whole tribe shows up and the feasting and celebrating goes on for four days and nights. When the Apaches have themselves a ball, they like to bounce some real echoes off the mountain.

The "coming of age ceremony" of an Apache maiden, usually held when she is 12 to 14 years old, in the old days was a time when the nomadic tribes fulfilled their religious as well as social obligations. The rites drew the wandering groups together, gave them an occasion to swap tall tales of the hunt, exchange gossip and renew their ancient beliefs by the mutual performance of rituals.

In the simple past when buffalo were plentiful the warriors in the Indian maiden's family usually found it reasonably easy to provide meat for a four-day feast. But with the price of beef what it is today the situation has changed. Few Apache fathers now could pick up the tab for a daughter's debut. So the tribe itself throws the party.

● ONLY ONE GIRL, Iva Lee Enjady, 14, will go through the social wringer at this year's annual festival, July 1-4. As of old, she will have her own ceremonial tepee. Her hair will be washed with yucca root suds. She will wear a buckskin dress and two tail feathers from a female eagle, signalizing her entrance into womanhood. If she itches she must use a wooden scratcher, as she mustn't during the entire four days scratch any part of her body with her fingernails.

She also must not look up at the sky or be disobedient in any way, for fear of bringing rain clouds. To assure her of a good appetite through life she will be fed wild fruit marked with a cross of yellow pollen. She will also be anointed with the pollen.

The maiden, whose buckskin dress is adorned with tiny tin bells, will perform ceremonial dances inside her tepee before a group consisting of her family, close friends, and the more religious-minded members of the tribe. Each night young braves will perform the traditional "dance of the mountain gods."

● DURING THE ENTIRE PERIOD little Ivy Lee must wear a grave, dignified expression. She must particularly beware of excessive laughter. The Apaches have a theory that too much laughing causes premature wrinkling, a theory that now also seems prevalent among many lady palefaces who never saw a reservation.

In other days at the conclusion of the ceremony the happy father presented attendants and medicine men with four valuable gifts—usually a male horse, a saddle, a fine piece of buckskin, and some tobacco.

The gifts will probably be different now. Many Apaches, once among the hardest-riding of Indian tribes, no longer would know quite what to do with a horse. They prefer to ride herd on their cattle with a jeep or a pick-up truck.

Business of Borrowing

By Christopher Billopp

BORROWING is the request for an object from persons who promise they will return it.

They have to borrow because they have not been foresighted and realized their need, or have not been industrious and obtained the object for themselves, or have been careless and lost or injured the object which they once had.

In short, the people who ask to borrow are irresponsible, or else they would not have to do so. And, since they are irresponsible, the question is whether they can be trusted when they promise to return the object.

The answer is that of course they cannot be trusted. Being irresponsible, they will forget. They will postpone. Then the object will stay with them so long they will come to look upon it as their own property. Not only will they fail to return it, but they will regard it as officious on the part of owners to request the object back.

IT IS SAD, TOO, that borrowing starts out affording an opportunity for generosity on the part of the owners and ends by showing them up in a bad light. It reveals that they think more of their worldly goods than they do of human relationships.

It brings out the fact that they are fussy. It discloses that they do not take into account the ordinary wear and tear on an object. They therefore make the unreasonable demand that the object be returned uninjured and as good as when it was first borrowed.

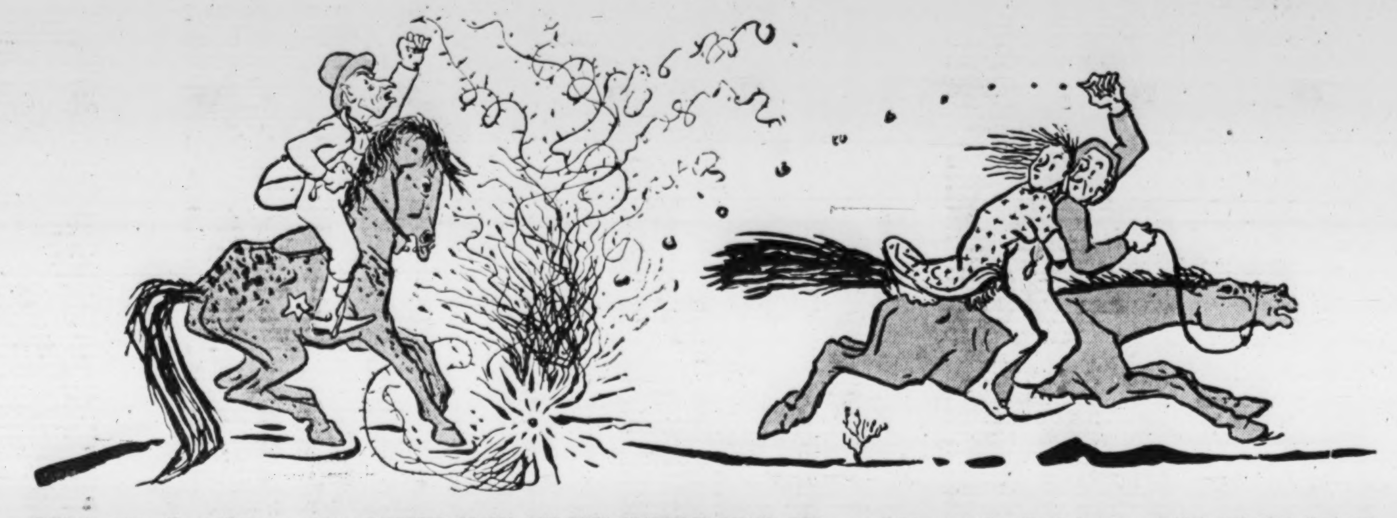
FROM ALL OF THIS it may be seen that borrowing is a pernicious operation demoralizing to the owners as well as to the borrowers.

Persons who wish to avoid this pitfall and continue to be regarded with admiration and respect by their fellows have a simple way of achieving it. When borrowers come asking for an object, they have only to end the matter by replying: "Here. Take it and keep it."

The Devil's Pretty Daughter



THEY SCATTERED GRAVEL AND THEY SCATTERED BRIARS, BUT THE OLD DEVIL HE KEPT ON A-COMING.

She—Ruthie-Ma-Toothy—Ran Off With Farm Hand Named Alf, but It Took a Lot of Doing—From New Collection of Ozark Folk Tales

(Editor's note—The author, who has taught at the University of Kansas and written scenarios for Hollywood, has one true love, geographically speaking: the Ozarks. The following are stories from his fifth Ozarkian book, "The Devil's Pretty Daughter and Other Ozark Folk Tales," recently published by Columbia University Press, New York. He calls the stories "true lies" because they represent the folk lore of the area.)

By Vance Randolph

ONE time there was a man lived in a fine house, and he owned a big scope of land. Some folks thought he was the Devil, and they used to call him that behind his back.

But all the young fellows for miles around wanted to get a job on his place, because he had a pretty daughter named Ruthie-ma-Toothy. The old Devil hired everybody that come along and worked 'em till they was nothing but skin and bones.

But nary one of them boys ever got next to Ruthie. She just laughed and never paid no mind to what they said at all.

There was one fellow named Alf Knight worked there seven years, and he bantered Ruthie-ma-Toothy to run off with him. She says he better shut up, because the big black rooster can talk and tell the Devil everything that is going on.

So Alf kept out of the rooster's way after that. But he went right on abantering her to run off with him. Finally Ruthie saddled two horses, and then she give the big black rooster a bushel of corn.

"Let's hit the mountain right now," she says. "Soon as the rooster eats all the corn, he'll tell Pap we're gone."

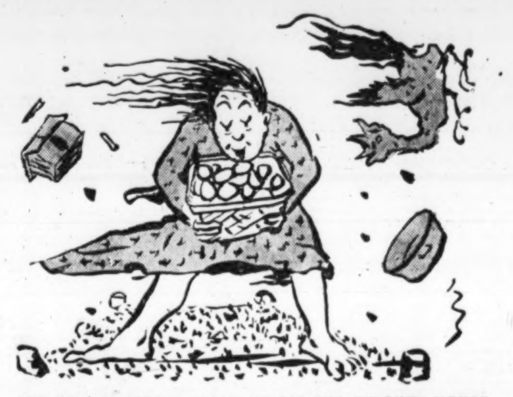
ALF and Ruthie rode fast as they could, but pretty soon they looked back, and there came the old Devil on his big black horse. He was smelling their track just like a tree-dog follers possums.

It looked like the old Devil was going to catch them sure, but Ruthie-ma-Toothy pulled some bramble-briars out of her pocket. "Throw them down in the road behind us," she says, and Alf done it.

The bramble-briars took root and growed a mile a minute. They kept on growing till the valley was plumb full, and it looked like a high level prairie. The old Devil had to ride a thousand miles out of his way to get around that briar-patch.

Alf and Ruthie kept on a-riding, and after while they looked back, and there come the old Devil still follering the trail. It looked like he was going to catch them sure, but Ruthie-ma-Toothy pulled some little gravels out of her pocket. "Throw them down in the road behind us," she says, and Alf done it.



SHE WAS STANDING RIGHT WHERE THE CHICKEN HOUSE USED TO BE, A-GRINNING.

The little gravels took root and growed a mile a minute. The whole country was covered with loose gravels and quicksand 50 feet deep. There was long chat-piles everywhere, like what they got up around Joplin, only bigger. The old Devil had to ride 2000 miles out of his way to get around that gravelbar.

Alf figured they had the old Devil beat this time, but Ruthie knowed better. So they kept on a-riding, and after while they looked back, and sure enough there come the old Devil.

It looked like he was going to catch them after all, but Ruthie-ma-Toothy pulled out a bottle of water. "Pour it down in the road behind us," she says, and Alf done it.

The water took root and growed a mile a minute. The creek busted out of its banks and run all over the country. There was big barns a-floating off down stream, and haystacks with chickens a-riding on 'em. The old Devil cain't cross running water, and he had to ride 3000 miles out of his way to get around that flood.

Alf and Ruthie kept on a-riding, but along the next evening they looked back, and there come the old Devil. He was a-moving pretty slow now, but he was still follering the trail. It looked like he was going to catch 'em soon or late, no matter what happened.

Ruthie-ma-Toothy pulled a little Bible out of her pocket. "Throw it down in the road behind us," she says, and Alf done it.

The little Bible took root and growed a mile a minute; the whole country was full of paper with holy words on it, and everybody knows the old Devil cain't stand Bibles.

He couldn't get through and he couldn't go round, so finally he just give up and went back home.

ALF and Ruthie kept on a-riding, and pretty soon they come to the place where his folks lived. So they went in for dinner, and everybody liked Ruthie-ma-Toothy fine. A preacher come along and her and Alf got married without no more foolishness.

She took up piecing quilts and making soap and having babies, and never mixed in no devilment. Everybody for miles around thought Ruthie was wonderful. Alf, he thought so too, and him and her lived happy ever after.

The Stolen Wedges

ONE time there was a preacher named Lorenzo Dow, and he held big camp meetings all over the country.

An old timer kept complaining about how somebody has stole his iron wedges, that they used to split rails with. Preacher Dow says never mind, just give me a wedge like the ones you lost, and I will find out who is the thief.

So that night, right in the middle of the meeting, old Dow had 'em all shouting and praying. All of a sudden he pulled out a big old iron wedge, and waved it over the pulpit like he was going to throw it.

"May God carry this straight to the head of the man that stole Brother Ralston's wedges!" he yelled.

Most the people just looked kind of surprised, but a fellow in the second row ducked.

"That's the guilty man!" says Preacher Dow. So then everybody begun to sing and pray louder than ever.

The thief confessed right there, and got religion, and gave the wedges back, and begged everybody to forgive him.

Some of them old-time preachers was awful handy when it come to things like that.

Bessie and the Eggs

ONE TIME there was a girl that wasn't right bright, but she was always trying to help her maw.

Bessie done pretty near everything wrong, though. She would bust the dishes when she tried to wash 'em, and maybe throw the dishwater right on the floor instead of out in the yard.

One time she put carpet tacks in the pickles, instead of cloves. The only thing she could do good was gether the eggs. It seems like Bessie knowed eggs was easy broke, and she never cracked a one.

But she couldn't get it through her head that dishes was easy broke, too. And there was nobody could learn her nothing, because she wasn't right bright.

The sky got terrible dark one evening, and Bessie's maw told her to get fetch the eggs before it set in to raining. So Bessie put on her fascinator and taken the basket, and then she started for the chicken house. It was out by the barn, and the barn set back quite a piece from the cabin.

All of a sudden the wind begun to roar like a freight train on the Chadwick Branch. Then here come hay and branches and shingles and milk crocks, and a lot of things you couldn't tell what they was.

Bessie's maw knowed it was a cyclone, and she run and opened the door to holler Bessie back. "Lord a mercy!" she says, and the door was blowed clear off'n the hinges and went a-kitin' off through the woods along with the other truck.

Bessie's maw give up when she seen that. She just went in the setting-room and prayed. Pretty soon the roaring eased off, and the wind kind of died down. Then it got lighter in the southwest, and the cyclone was over.

The old woman was a-crying all this time, because the barn was plumb gone, and she figured poor Bessie must have got blowed away off somewheres so they'd maybe never even find what was left of her.

But Bessie wasn't hurt a bit. She was a-standing right where the chicken house used to be, a-grinning like she was real pleased about something, with the egg basket in her hand. "The chicken house flopped its wings and took off like a buzzard, Maw," she says. "But I sure held onto these here eggs, just like you told me. There ain't ary one of 'em cracked, neither!"

Good Dogs Cost Money

ONE time there was a fellow from Kansas City come a-driving along in his big car, as he was going fishing down in Arkansas somewhere.

When he got into the rough country south of Branson he come around a curve pretty fast, and all of a sudden he run over a red bird-dog. The fellow stopped and got out of his car, but the setter was plumb dead.

There wasn't a house in sight, but he seen a mountain man a-standing by the road, with a big Winchester rifle in his hand.

Men that hunt with bird-dogs don't carry rifles, and the city fellow was kind of uneasy.

"Well sir, I'm afraid I run over your dog," he says. "I'm mighty sorry it happened. Being a bird hunter myself, I know that good dogs cost money nowadays."

The mountain man just nooded, and shifted the Winchester to the slack of his arm. The fellow from Kansas City pulled out a wallet and counted out five $10 bills.

"Take this $50," says he, "it will help you to get another dog." The mountain man grinned a little. "That's all right, Mister," says he. "I didn't figure on huntin' today, nohow. I was just goin' down the holler a piece, to shoot that egg-suckin' dog."

ESTHER WILLIAMS wanted to try to swim the channel instead of flying from London to Paris, but husband Ben Gage screamed "No!" . . . On the BBC-TV show honoring Greta Garbo, they wanted a tape recording of her voice. Went so far as to write her a letter; then didn't mail it with a "what's the use!" attitude . . . And over there Orson Welles is quoted as saying, "Rita (Hayworth) married a prince, so I'm entitled to a countess." His new bride is Countess de Girfalco—known in the theatrical profession as Paola Mori . . .

Robert Cummings and wife Mary have called off the trip to Britain to make "Bewitched." They'll settle instead, they told me at a Frank Sennes's party for Noel Coward, for two trips to Hawaii . . . Same soiree, Jack Benny told me his radio show next season will consist mostly of former taped shows. . . . . Noel Coward sang a song and remembered all the words, that he wrote for me, when I was a budding star for C. B. Cochran in London, quite a few years ago. He'll be making his television debut in this country, Noel told me, in the fall with Mary Martin.

Arlene Dahl, a late arrival at the Coward festivities, wore the best-looking of black straw sailors. I've never seen her look so pretty.

'If I Had My Life to Live Over . . .'

By Mary Margaret McBride

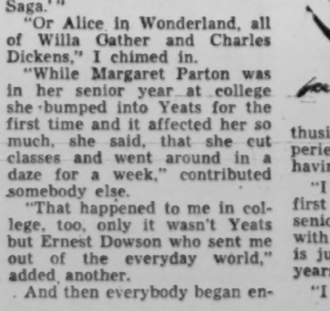
THE game started accidentally the other night when members of a group were discussing books they had particularly liked.

"I wish," said somebody suddenly, "that I'd just learned to read. Imagine having the fun of discovering John Buchan, Arnold Bennett's 'Imperial Palace' and Galsworthy's 'Forsyte Saga.'"

"Or Alice in Wonderland, all of Willa Cather and Charles Dickens," I chimed in.

"While Margaret Parton was in her senior year at college she bumped into Yeats for the first time and it affected her so much, she said, that she cut classes and went around in a daze for a week," contributed somebody else.

"That happened to me in college, too, only it wasn't Yeats but Ernest Dowson who sent me out of the everyday world," added another.



And then everybody began enthusiastically listing pleasant experiences he wished he might be having for the first time.

"I wish I were taking my first love to the high school senior dance," mused the man with the serious blue eyes who is just back from a lonely two years in Africa.

"I wish I still had to go for my first ride on the Staten Island Ferry with my best girl and catch that lower Manhattan skyline from the deck," contributed a long happily married man.

"I wish I'd never before planted a seed—not even grass—so that I'd have the brand new thrill of watching germination and growth," said the garden enthusiast.

Even the next day I kept on thinking about good moments I've had that I wish by some miracle I could now know for the initial time: to smell orange blossoms and honeysuckle; to taste chocolate mousse; to hear a violin player by a master. . . .

Then I suddenly realized that almost all these experiences are really just about as much fun the millionth time as the first. And if some of the ones that used to thrill me have lost a little favor, I can always try experiencing some other wonderful thing for the first time.

Marriage

How Not To Catch Husband

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

WHEN a girl is trying to sell some young man the idea of matrimony, she needs to apply the principles of salesmanship. If she were trying to sell him an automobile or washing machine, she would not proceed by keeping the floor samples out of sight and taking him off somewhere else while she kept the conversation as far as possible from her business interests. If she wants to interest him in having a home of his own, she ought to show him some attractive samples. One of my young friends has just been telling me of his experience.

"I went with a girl for more than six months," John related, "and at the outset I really thought I wanted to marry her. I do want to marry somebody. I'm getting mighty tired of bachelor life and restaurant meals. I had some reason to suspect that Elaine was just as anxious to marry as I am, but the way she played her cards always baffled me. Every time I called at her home, she was ready, even had her coat on. She never invited me inside the door. We'd go out for a pleasant evening together, and I'd say goodby at the front door at the close of it.

"I began to think that she wasn't much of a homebody. Maybe she was the kind of a girl that thought home was just a place to get away from, and that all the interest in life was outside. I couldn't see the slightest evidence of any other feeling on her part. I was scared out. The last thing I wanted was a wife who looked on our home merely as a place to get out of. Don't you think I was right, Dr. Popenoe?"

MIGHT BE, JOHN. Many a girl makes the same mistake, a fatal mistake to her chances of a good marriage. If she wants any man to regard her as a possible wife and homemaker, she should help his imagination by letting him see her in such roles.

Elaine should have let John see her in the house frequently. She should have suggested an occasional inexpensive evening at home. She should have let him watch her in a dainty apron making hot chocolate or sandwiches with him in the kitchen to help her. If she had done so, she would now have a husband.

A. That's too big a job for this column. Write me (with stamped, self-addressed envelope) for free reading list of good books and inexpensive pamphlets on improvement of personality.

Q. Is it certain that a girl will learn to get along better with boys, if she goes to a co-educational school?

A. Nothing is certain except death and taxes. Psychologist Frank E. Moreton questioned 4000 school teachers. Of those co-educated, a large majority had found the experience helpful in their associations with the other sex. Of those educated at boys' or girls' schools, a large majority said they found their education harmful in this respect.

Q. MY SON and his bride-to-be have been shopping for furniture—report all salesmen tried to foist twin beds on them. Why should they do that?

A. They get twice as much money from selling twin beds as from selling one double bed. Isn't that enough?

Q. My mother, age 65, has an offer of marriage from a man 38 years old with five children from a previous marriage. Should I encourage her to accept?

A. No!

Q. I am 70 years old, a new bride, and just can't get my husband to praise my cooking.

A. Let him do the cooking for a while.

Q. How can I get my husband to come home from the office at least one afternoon a week instead of wasting his time at the local hotel?

A. Make your home more interesting and attractive than the local hotel, and yourself more interesting and attractive than the bartender.

Try and Stop Me

THE great comedian, W. C. Fields, notes Scott O'Dell, had a phobia about being caught without funds; induced no doubt by the fact that in his youth he knew the pangs of utter poverty. As a result, when he became rich, he began depositing large sums in banks all over the country, to guard against any one of them shutting its doors.

BANK BOOK
W.C. FIELD$

In fact, Fields had so many accounts—many opened under the fantastic nome de plumes he was fond of inventing for himself—that he lost all track of his holdings. To this day there may be many thousands of his stashed-away dollars lying around unclaimed in bank vaults of the U.S.A. and Europe.

Henry Ford, O'Dell goes on to say, once forgot that he had a savings account in a Canadian bank—probably because the total deposited was such a piddling sum: $3,000,000.

Non-existent bank accounts—not forgotten ones—are my trouble!

Chicagoan Is Making a Good Thing of Importing Strange and Exotic Foods to American Markets —How About Fried Grasshoppers for Breakfast?

By John Keasler

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

CHICAGO, June 11.

BEFORE we launch right into the subject of eating fried grasshoppers we should like to report what might be an exclusive, for all we know. Pretty soon food stores might stock chocolate-covered ants and canned humming bird tongues.

Back to fried grasshoppers. They come from Japan where they are prepared in deep fat. They come in little round cans. Frying grasshoppers makes them black, and crisp. They taste sort of grasshoppery. They are distributed by a concern here owned by a man who seems well on the way to proving that the American buying public, or segments thereof, will devour just about anything and ask for more.

He is Max Ries, a 54-year-old German-born food merchandiser with a hatful of novel twists in what ordinarily is not a particularly exotic business. Loaded with ideas, he's built up a huge volume of business since he came to this country in 1939—he is a gourmet who travels the world in search of fancy food items, some of them peculiar enough to cause the non-gourmet, or steak and potato type, to turn a pale shade of off-green. (Fried agave worms, anyone?)

These days his concern is housed in spacious offices and warehouses here, and handles hundreds of products from relatively prosaic sardines to buffalo steak. The name of it is Reese Finer Foods (he changed the spelling so folks would get the pronunciation right) and it's a busy, bustling outfit. It used to be housed solely under his hat.

Ries is an energetic, fast-traveling man who started his business in this country with an unpredictable automobile and an unlikely idea—importing cheese to Wisconsin, which at first glance would seem roughly similar to peddling salt in Siberia.

But not so. Ries reasoned that people who knew cheese best would appreciate cheese—his imported cheese with holiday packaging caught on. He still remembers how huge his first $1000 order appeared to him—he and his staff, which consisted solely of his wife and mother-in-law, made the boxes themselves and did their own loading.

He added olives to his cheese line. He added more and more items.

HIS formula for selecting a food item to market is simply this: "Does it taste good? If it has taste appeal why not put it on the market?"

Quite evidently, the formula checks out. His concern now handles 1500 items, and the volume is still on the increase.

"Americans are becoming more adventuresome in their eating habits," he says, and added that he gets orders for foodstuffs that even he hasn't heard about.

He is his own chief buyer, but relies heavily on Ralph S. Lowenstein, second in command of the organization. Both make lengthy scouting tours of Europe; both keep alert for word of a food item popular any place in the world.

Take the grasshopper. Japanese exporters were highly doubtful that American's would drool in joy over fried grasshoppers. After all, they had managed to get along well without them. Ries figured differently and ordered an initial shipment of 10,000 tins. They sold.

On this item, as is the case with several of the more startling foods, the chief buying factor seems to be a yen for novelty existing in many shoppers. Hostesses of a certain type live for the chance to serve something new. Then, too, there is a certain quiet joy available in owning a can of fried grasshoppers of your very own; one can say offhandedly: "Have a fried grasshopper? Delicious!" The reactions are manifold.

Cast an eye down the line of products distributed by Ries, across the rows of cheeses and shrimps and oysters and familiar things like that, and, with great regularity, up pops a surprising item which causes you to wonder how in the world he got the idea of marketing it. Like buffalo.

WORKERS PACKAGING MINIATURE PICKLED CORN COBS.

GAIL BURKE, AN EMPLOYE, SAMPLING HER FIRST FRIED GRASSHOPPERS.

It developed, upon asking, that Ries had heard of a fellow who was finding it difficult to auction off some buffalo. Ries bought them, sought the advice of a buffalo-versed chef, and now his catalog includes (canned) buffalo in red wine, buffalo pot roast and buffalo stew.

THERE is also bear steak, elk meat and antelope meat. The strangest order he ever received was for termite eggs. He obtained them. From South America. The way to serve termite eggs is to salt them and eat them like caviar. (This is a good example of conditioned tastes: Termite eggs? Ugh! Fish eggs? Ah, wonderful!)

Mrs. Ries just about swooned away when Ries first offered her some fried agave worms from Mexico, but Ries came up with a line of comfort: "It's all in the mind," he told her. "They taste like anything french-fried." There is a considered statement to provoke thought in anyone who has eaten at some roadside diners.

Lowenstein, showing us around the warehouses, pointed out the stacks upon stacks of shipping crates, piled high to the ceiling — pointed out the machinery-laden upper floor where workers pack many different foodstuffs such as tiny corncobs.

These are grown, along with other peculiar items, on the Ries farm in Wisconsin; they are pickled and eaten whole, corn, cob and all. (To borrow from Ries, they taste about like anything pickled.)

His interest in corn led to one of his newest products. Corn silk prepared in garlic. He just hated to see all that corn silk go to waste. We might as well report right here that he also grows tomatoes about the size of grapes and the idea is to use these in martinis. So if anybody finds a tomato in his martini, stay calm.

BACK during World War II days, when imports slowed to a trickle, Ries concentrated on domestic items, and proved that this country isn't precisely short on the exotic, either. Whole guinea fowl, whole pheasant, whole mallard duck, partridge, quail and squab are on his listings. (His boiled quail eggs come from Japan.)

Preserved rose buds taste like artichoke, Lowenstein announced, firmly.

"Why are American eating habits becoming more adventuresome?" we inquired.

"It's due in part to the fact that people are traveling more and more," Lowenstein said. "They are getting out of the habit of eating only the things they are familiar with. Snails, for instance. Why should anyone who enjoys oysters be unable to enjoy snails as well?"

We kept our own counsel.

"Go ahead, eat a fried grasshopper," said Lowenstein, popping a couple into his mouth. We didn't hear him, and looked steathily around for snails. None in sight, fortunately. There was some canned muskrat, however.

Muskrat taste like nutria. Nutria are rat-like animals. Not long ago Ries heard from the Purebred Nutria Association in California, which raises the animals for their pelts. Did Ries want to buy the carcasses?

Ries went out to California and ate some nutria barbecued, fried and broiled and forthwith stated: "Outstandingly delicious. Tasted just like muskrat." Result: canned nutria.

(What Ries doesn't like is raw oysters. We've always felt they were no worse than snails, personally, but it takes all kinds.)

THE food concern now has an office in Paris and it handles products like frog legs in jelly, whole goose liver, snail service accessories, and on and on like that.

Just for a quick run-through of what Adventursome American Eating Habits have come to, check off these:

Kangaroo-tail soup, diamond-back rattlesnake, shark's-fin soup, baked lentils in goose fat, barbecued crab legs, baby Japanese clams in cottonseed oil, smoked Denmark mussels in olive oil, Baltic eel in aspic, bird's-nest soup, turkey sausage, champagne-flavored sauerkraut and those damnable grasshoppers.

As for the hummingbirds tongues mentioned at the outset, the idea doesn't seem so startling after a tour of Reese Finer Foods, Inc. In an announcement recently, Ries said he'd like to set someone up in business breeding hummingbirds—he said he would buy up the production so he could add the canned tongues to his line.

As for the chocolate-covered ants, Lowenstein said they might become a reality any time now.

As distributor of odd foods from over the world, Max Ries has come a long way since he first headed down the highway to sell cheese in Wisconsin—as long as people cherish the desire to try something different in the way of food he would be the last person in the world to deprive them of the chance.

We came across the fact that Ries last year brought back two white donkeys from Sicily and, it having already been a rather trying day, what with those grasshoppers, this advisement gave us a rather severe jolt.

But he didn't bring the donkeys back to can them; he brought them for his young son, Michael, to play with. We were glad.

A quodlibeterian is an expert on quodlibets, naturally. Now what's a quodlibet? It is a discordant fantasia often the work of two composers like Gilbert and Sullivan who are not speaking to each other at the time. It is also a moot subject or debatable point.

FACTS NOT WORTH KNOWING finds only 16 pages of Qs in a dictionary of 2756 pages in all. The dictionary weighs 17 pounds on the hoof. It is 10 inches thick and is a tome. That's a book that is too heavy to borrow.

Therefore F.N.W.K. states Q is the scarcest letter in the alphabet. There is a letter missing in the Washington list of lettered streets. Is it Q?

And if it is, what do you care? Facts Not Worth Mulling Over finds the roa is a brown kiwi.

Helped Wipe Out A Killer

By Frances Levine

(Editor's note: A discovery promises defeat for a dread children's disease; the public clamors for the treatment and acclaims the discoverer. That was the story of the Salk vaccine. But it was very different for the man who helped wipe out diphtheria, once a far greater killer than polio.)

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP).

WHAT is the next great need in medicine's fight on polio? Dr. Bela Schick, who discovered the skin test for diphtheria susceptibility 42 years ago, believes it is a similar test for polio. It would tell whether an individual is immune to the disease, and thus would help solve the immediate shortage of Salk vaccine.

"It would be nice, but you cannot order such things," Dr. Schick said in an interview. He added that researchers already are hard at work on such a test. But he fears that the nature of the polio virus will make the search more difficult than it was in the case of diphtheria.

"I was lucky," he smiles.

Now 78, a jolly, smiling man, stooped, bushy-browed, he is still a practicing pediatrician. Dr. Schick's 1913 discovery is rated a major milestone in the research which has almost wiped out diphtheria as a child killer. In New York in the 1920s, there were as many as 11,000 diphtheria cases a year, 700 of them fatal. Last year there were 20 cases, two fatal.

But there is one great contrast between the Salk and Schick contributions to medical history: where the polio vaccine was widely accepted almost instantly, it was 15 years before the diphtheria test received widespread recognition and use.

BOTH DR. SCHICK and Dr. Jonas Salk used the building blocks of other scientists, then neatly dropped in the keystone. Parents all over the world were eagerly waiting for the reports of the Salk vaccine test.

By contrast, there was little interest in immunization in Austria, Dr. Schick recalls. It remained for the United States, his adopted home, to take up the challenge and lick diphtheria. Even so, the physician had to personally join a campaign to educate the public.

"Many people were against it," he says. "Many people were afraid."

DR. SCHICK, who held Louis Pasteur as his idol, was an assistant in a clinic in Vienna when he devised the test. He had to teach on the side to help support himself.

The diphtheria bacillus had been discovered by bacteriologist Edwin Klebs in 1883. A year later, Frederick Loeffler had isolated it and demonstrated its growth in culture. In 1890, Emil Von Behring discovered an antitoxin to combat the disease. Later, Von Behring worked out an immunization with a mixture of toxin and antitoxin. But this mixture was difficult to evaluate at first and Von Behring refused to permit its general use unless it could be administered under clinic control. At that time, Schick recalls, it was not practical to think of widespread immunization with the Von Behring toxin-antitoxin.

DR. BELA SCHICK . . . FEW PEOPLE PAID ATTENTION.

Dr. Schick discovered that by the injection of a minute quantity of diphtheria toxin into the skin, it could be determined whether an individual is susceptible to diphtheria. No reaction at the place of infection means immunity against the disease.

HIS TEST was noted in medical circles. "For five years it was perfectly quiet, few people paid attention," Dr. Schick smilingly recalled in his New York office. Nothing was done on a large scale until the 1920s.

By that time, Dr. Schick had come here to head the department of pediatrics at Mount Sinai Hospital in New York City. In 1924, a year after Dr. Schick's arrival here, Dr. G. Ramon of the Pasteur Institute in Paris, discovered that the weakening of diphtheria toxin with formaldehyde made possible immunization against diphtheria. The way was clear and safe for the mass immunization—and Dr. William H. Park, New York City health commissioner, took on the job, assisted by Dr. Abraham Zingher.

Within three years, they had launched a campaign to wipe out the disease.

NOTICE

Two weeks ago, The General Electric Theater was well under way when a transmission failure cut the picture off the air. The show starred EZIO PINZA, who is too good to miss. And we are certain that only half of HALF-PROMISED LAND is hardly enough. Therefore, tonight, the show is rescheduled — a repeat performance of everything, we hope, but the picture failure.

New Variety Hour To Salute Air Age

VARIETY HOUR, with Charlton Heston as host, tonight will take over as the summer replacement for Comedy Hour, on KSD-TV at 7. Headliners on the opening program, which will be a salute to the air age, will be Vera Ellen, Richard Arlen and James Stewart. There also will be film clips from one of the earliest air age pictures, "Wings," and one of the latest, "Strategic Air Command." Paul Mantz, veteran motion picture flying ace and film photographer, will recall his part in the filming of "Wings." Also on tonight's program will be singer Sarah Vaughn, comedian Johnny O'Brien, the Dagenheim Pipers, and the acrobatic Chadulis.

VERA ELLEN . . . DEBUT GUEST ON KSD-TV'S NEW VARIETY HOUR TONIGHT.

Because transmission difficulties deprived viewers of the final one-third of the CBS Television Theater play, "The Half-Promised Land," two weeks ago tonight, the play will be repeated tonight. Ezio Pinza is starred. The program is carried by KWK-TV, at 8.

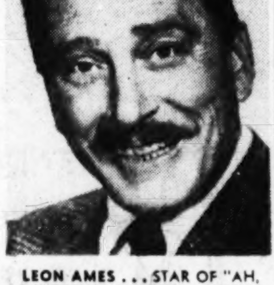
Guests on the Milton Berle Show on KSD-TV at 7 Tuesday night will include Steve Allen and Art Mooney.

Ed Sullivan on his Toast of the Town on KWK-TV at 7 tonight will present an All-Army Show. His guests will be finalists in the second All-Army talent contest at Fort Dix, N.J.

The premiere of the Sacred Heart television series, "Who Is the Sacred Heart?" will be presented by KTVI at 8:30 Friday night. The Rev. Eugene P. Murphy, S.J., of St. Louis will be the moderator.

KSD-TV Program Changes

A number of changes are being made in the KSD-TV program schedule starting this week. The Texas Bruce (Harry Gibbs) Wrangler's Club at 5 p.m. Monday through Friday will be extended to a half hour and will become the Wrangler's Cartoon Club. Zippy the Clown will move from the 5:15 spot to 12 noon. At 5:30 p.m., Superman will be shown on Monday; The Lone Ranger, Tuesday; Captain Gallant, Wednesday; Wild Bill Hickok, Thursday, and Rin Tin Tin, Friday. The 5:45 p.m. Telenews is moving to 6:05, following Howard DeMere's weather report which goes from 5:40 to 6. Bob Ingham's Sportsview moves from 5:30 to 6:20.



LEON AMES . . . STAR OF "AH, WILDERNESS" ON KWK-TV WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

Comment and background documentary news programs, will be added to KSD-TV's Sunday listenings, to run alternately at 12:30 p.m.

Front Row Center, on KWK-TV at 9 Wednesday night, will present Eugene O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness." Leon Ames, the Father Day in "Life With Father," will play the role of Nat Miller, played in the past by George M. Cohan, Will Rogers, Lionel Barrymore and Walter Huston.

KETC Summer Schedule

KETC's 13-week summer schedule, with nine new programs, will go into effect tomorrow. Telecasting will start at 7:15 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and at 7 on Tuesday's and Thursdays. Among the new programs are The Teenager, to be devoted to problems of this youth group, at 8:30 Friday nights, and Intermezzo, a program of music, poetry and painting, at 10:15 each night. Other new programs: Children's Corner, 7 p.m. Tuesday; Chez Mimi, 7:15 p.m. Wednesday; New York Times Youth Forum, 9 p.m. Wednesday; From the Mind of Man, 8:30 p.m. Thursday; Of Men and Ideas, 9 p.m. Thursday; and People, Places and Politics, 9:30 p.m. Friday. The Finder, formerly presented at 5 p.m., will move to 7:30, Monday through Friday.

Violet Heming, wife of the late Senator Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri, will appear as the wife of Rudy Vallee in "Taste," on KWK-TV's Star Tonight at 2 this afternoon. This will be Miss Heming's first appearance in a television drama.

Radio Highlights

NBC 'Monitor' Program Starts This Afternoon

THE NEW NBC weekend radio service, Monitor, designed for steady listening from early Saturday until late Sunday, will be introduced in a special radio and television program this afternoon. KSD will carry the program from 3 to 4, and KSD-TV will present a half-hour telecast, starting at 3:30. KSD then will carry Monitor through to 11 tonight, except for its own news periods at 5:30 and 10 o'clock, Opera Previews at 9, and the Fibber McGee and Great Gildersleeve programs between 9:30 and 10. When the full Monitor programming begins next Saturday, KSD will carry most of it from 9 Saturday mornings until 11 Sunday nights. In this afternoon's program, Sylvester L. Weaver Jr., president of NBC, will explain the concept of Monitor, which will provide a flow of news, sports, weather reports, music, comedy, drama, public affairs discussions and special features. NBC personalities specialized in these various fields will be in charge of the program. Today's program will include a jazz concert at Hermosa, Calif., a report from inside the San Quentin prison walls, a report on the departure of a trans-Atlantic plane from Idlewild Airport, an interview with a baseball fan in a New York tavern, and a pickup from Bucks County Playhouse at New Hope, Pa., for a dress rehearsal of a play starring Victor Jory.

SYLVESTER L. WEAVER . . . NBC PRESIDENT WHO WILL EXPLAIN 'MONITOR' TODAY.

Catholic Hour Time Change

Catholic Hour, formerly heard on KSD at 10:15 Sunday nights, is moving to the 1 p.m. time, beginning today.

In Television Half Her Life

Robin Morgan, Now 13, Was On Juvenile Jury at Six

By Wayne Oliver

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP).

A TELEVISION newcomer might do well to consult Robin Morgan for pointers. She's been in the medium more than half her life.

That sounds like a long time, since TV is still in its infancy, but Robin is only 13. For the past six years she has been portraying young Dagmar Hansen on CBS's Mama, with Peggy Wood.

Even so, Robin wasn't exactly a novice when she began her TV career at age 6 as a regular panelist on "Juvenile Jury." She had been conducting a kiddies' disc jockey show on a local radio station here for more than a year. And she had been a child model since she was 3.

It should surprise no one, then, that Robin's ambition is to continue her career as an actress—preferably in TV.

She also likes the stage, where she has had some experience, and the movies, in which she hasn't.

"I LOVE them all," she says, "and as long as I can act in any one of them I'll be happy.

"But television really is my medium. It has a warmth and coziness no other medium has. It brings you right up to your audience."

Robin is a study in contrasts. One moment she speaks with the gravity and poise of the professional actress. The next she bubbles with the childish enthusiasm of any normal girl of 13.

"I don't go out on dates yet—I don't think I'm old enough," she says.

But then she confesses there is one special boy, now attending an eastern prep school.

"I have a whole crowd of girl friends my own age," she says, "and we do crazy things like having old fashioned taffy pulls and getting it in our hair."

ADDS her mother, Mrs. Faith Morgan: "She fills up the apartment so with kids I don't know where to go."

ROBIN MORGAN . . . WANTS TO PLAY SCARLETT O'HARA SOME DAY.

In the next breath Robin will tell of her work on the junior committee of the City Center Art Gallery and how she bought some Du Pont stock that since has gone up $60 a share.

"It's a real blue chip," she sagely observes.

Nevertheless Mrs. Morgan, now divorced from Robin's father, a major in the Army Medical Corps, says Robin's life offstage is very much like that of any normal girl her age, and she hopes to keep it that way.

In six years as Mama Hansen's youngest child on the weekly TV show, Robin says she has come to feel she has two families. But there's no confusion on her part between fictional and family relationships.

ALTHOUGH I love Miss Wood very much and admire her as a great lady of the stage, my own mother always is first in my life," Robin said thoughtfully while her mother was away on a telephone call.

Robin was born in Lake Worth, Fla. the Morgans moved to New York when she was three and she joined a model agency. She did kiddie fashion commentaries at four, and at five started her stint as a radio disc jockey. She also started on Juvenile Jury when it was on radio only, and followed when it moved to TV.

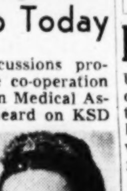
While she has made Dagmar Hansen her career, Robin also has done a number of dramatic roles on such shows as Danger, Studio One, Kraft Theater and Robert Montgomery Theater. The most recent was as the frightened little girl who had seen a murder take place, on Robert Montgomery's production of the "Tall Dark Man."

What role would she like best to portray?

"Some day, I'll just have to play Scarlett O'Hara."

Medical Panels Among Programs On Radio Today

TWO panel discussions produced with the co-operation of the American Medical Association will be heard on KSD from 10:30 to 11 this morning. The first, "Frontiers in Medicine," will feature Dr. Austin Smith, editor of the A.M.A. Journal; Dr. Cornelius Rhodes of the Sloane Kettering Institute, and Dr. Charles V. Marple of the American Heart Association. The second will be "Psychiatry Here and Abroad," with participants being Drs. James L. McCartney of Garden City, N.Y., C. N. Baganz of Lyons, N.J., and R. F. Bookhammer of Philadelphia.



Bidu Sayao

Two fights will be carried on radio this week. KXOK at 9:15 Wednesday night will broadcast the bout between flyweights Raol Macias and Billy Peacock. On Friday night at 9, KSD will carry the Ralph "Tiger" Jones-Ernie Durando middleweight bout.

Cardinal baseball games on KMOX: Against the New York Giants, 12:55 today; Pittsburgh Pirates, 7:55 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday; and against the Brooklyn Dodgers, 7:55 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Gobel's Views on American Womanhood

Anybody here who hasn't seen George Gobel? He's one of the brightest new stars on TV. But taking quill pen in hand, Gobel has set down some thoughts on one of the oldest subjects extant—American womanhood.

By George Gobel

HOLLYWOOD, June 4 (INS)—I've been requested to give my impressions of American womanhood.

Now I may not be the leading authority on this subject, but I'm probably the shortest and, if nothing else, this should give me an interesting angle.

Actually, I didn't become aware of American womanhood until I emerged from American boyhood. This happened suddenly one cold December day back in Chicago while I was running an errand for my father who owned a grocery store.

I was delivering a pound of summer sausage to a family of destitute Hungarians.

Just as I was rounding an icy corner I slipped and fell. Stunned and bruised, I slowly picked myself up only to see a lovely lady pluck my package from the sidewalk, throw me a ravishing smile, and then run like a thief down the street with my summer sausage.

This taught me my first lesson: When delivering summer sausage in the winter, always wear gym shoes.

GEORGE GOBEL WITH JEFF DONNELL, HIS WIFE IN TV SERIES.

THE THING that impresses me most about American womanhood is that it always appears when you least expect it.

Like, take my wife Alice. She's American womanhood, I guess. And she always appears when I least expect her.

Like, when I got married. I wasn't expecting her. I was expecting her sister, but she could not make it . . . and I had already paid the minister.

To this day, Alice continues to appear when I least expect her. Like, she'll be at the door when I come home late at night. Or she'll be at the door when I'm ready to sneak out for a game of golf early in the morning. Or she'll be at the door when the mailman comes with my check.

But I don't want to restrict my comments on American womanhood to Alice. After all, she's just one woman . . . although a very active one. What I started to say is that women are doing more things that they didn't used to do. Naturally not all women are career women. Many are content to be good housekeepers or good mothers to their children. Some are even content to be good wives to their husbands.

MANY OF these are the "woman behind the man" type, which means that the man has got to watch himself every step of the way.

In my case, of course, no woman could ever get behind me without my knowing it because with my size she'd be bound to cast a shadow. I believe that when judging a woman you should not look to surface elements, like beauty, grace or charm.

The things you should want to know about are: Does she understand Freud? Has she read "War and Peace" in the original Russian? Does she know the capitals of all the states of the union? Can she separate the philosophies of Plato and Aristotle?

If the answer to all these questions is "yes," then your next move is clear.

Move on.

Television Letter Box

I HAVE just finished watching the Mister Peepers show in which the story behind Wally Cox was given. I am positive that thousands must feel as I do that it is a great mistake to stop the Mister Peepers show and have Cox as another variety-show M.C. As a small-town teacher he and the whole cast of his show have given viewers more laughs than any other program on TV. I hope the sponsor reconsiders and changes back to the Mr. Peepers story. To replace it with another routine variety show would be tragic.

BOB PHELAN.

I object to the fact that you don't start Ding Dong School until Miss Frances is nearly through singing. My children, and I'm sure many others, look forward to hearing the bell ring. Small children need the familiarity of the same routine each day, and the ringing of the bell is very important to them.

MRS. RAY STANFIELD.

In answer to R. Fox, who "couldn't describe in so many words how disappointed he was in having Rev. Tanimoto as the subject of This Is Your Life": I think it was a disgrace on the part of the program even to think of putting the pilot in a bad light. Can't R. Fox remember Pearl Harbor, the kamikaze, Bataan Death March and other atrocities? Many of our own innocents died then. Of course, nuclear bombs are horrible things, but to try to win a war that was not of our starting kept many more of our innocents from being bombed. Those who start with the sword, perish with the sword. If R. Fox wanted to find fault with This Is Your Life, let him start with the Lillian Roth and Clyde Lamb stories. Exploiting alcoholism, crime, etc., with a fairy godmother or godfather to pick up the pieces certainly isn't helping our youth start on the right track and staying there.

HARRYETTE G. PAUL.

My sincere thanks to KSD-TV for keeping Liberace on through the summer months. Naturally these thanks are also extended to the sponsor of his program. Liberace, the best on TV, concert stage and now the movies!

May I express my appreciation to KWK-TV for "The Great Crusade" program each Sunday. Not only does it give an explanation of a religon, but it must bring comfort to many who know little of God but are seeking security, comfort and love which knowledge of God brings.

STANLEY BARNES, assistant Attorney General in charge of the Anti-Trust Division, will be the guest on Youth Wants to Know on KSD at 1:30 this afternoon.

The American Forum, celebrating its twenty-seventh anniversary, will have as its guests today Leonard Hall, Republican National Committee Chairman, and Paul Butler, Democratic National Committee Chairman. They will discuss "Who Will Win in '56?" The program will be on KSD-TV at 12 noon.

As Crosby Sees It

Quotes Network Head On Program Research

By John Crosby

NEW YORK, June 11.

I AM opposed to research as a method of determining what form any art should take. A distinguished opponent, for whom I have nothing but respect, but with whom I recently took issue, has written me a letter on the subject, and I think—since I expressed myself rather violently—that his views should be heard here. On the subject of sounding out the public on what they want to see, here is Frank Stanton, President of the Columbia Broadcasting System:

"I agree thoroughly that it would be unfruitful to set up a committee of amateurs to determine what particular television programs the public likes. In my opinion, you are quite right about what such a committee would come up with after due cerebration.

"Despite the fact that I made a living out of public opinion and audience research, I would be the last one to ever suggest that it could be substituted for intelligent and imaginative leadership or management. Just as I believe that Kettering was right when he said a committee could not have flown the Atlantic, so I believe consumer studies would not have invented the self-starter, or audience research created 'see it now.'

BUT THAT isn't what I had in mind in my proposal. As I said in my talk, the study would not be of 'what the public likes in the way of programs, so that the public could just be given more of it.' Rather, what I had in mind was a systematic study which might disclose to us the general things for which the public looks to television in the way of fulfilling its needs, its hopes and its aspirations.

"For example, one of the things on which I believe we have inadequate data is whether, in fact, some or all of the public is receptive when it turns on its television sets to what, for want of a better label, could be called 'straight enlightenment.' Does this fulfill a personal need of viewers, or do they regard the television set as a home entertainment center and resent what they might think of as an intrusion of a teacher when they want entertainment?

"THE PURPOSE of the committee is not to obtain the answers after consulting themselves and each other. The University of Chicago inquiry on the freedom of the press is an example of what this study will not be. I am not interested in having a committee try to decide how many angels can stand on the head of a pin. Rather, the purpose is to formulate appropriate areas of inquiry dealing with what role the public does, in fact, expect the television broadcaster to fill. Having formulated these areas—a difficult job, I confess, but one which should be within the competence of such a committee—the questions will then be turned over to a skilled research organization to obtain the public's answers.

"As I tried to make clear in my talk, I am by no means certain that we will get all the answers. But I think it's worth a try . . . I am certainly in agreement with you that the actual creativeness and drive must come from the broadcaster. We cannot expect the public to do our programming for us. But we do need some more systematic and orderly method of making this tremendous medium a two-way street."

Scottish Fantasy, 'Brigadoon' Next at Muny Opera

PRINCIPALS OF "BRIGADOON," MUSICAL FANTASY LAID IN THE SCOTTISH HIGHLANDS, WHICH OPENS AT MUNICIPAL OPERA TOMORROW NIGHT. FROM LEFT, TENOR EARL WILLIAM AS CHARLIE DALRYMPLE, VIRGINIA OSWALD AS FIONA MacLAREN AND DAVID ATKINSON AS TOMMY ALBRIGHT, FRANK MAXWELL AS JEFF DOUGLAS AND JOAN KIBRIG AS MEG BROCKIE, AND, LOWER CENTER, LIDIJA FRANKLIN, CHRISTINE MAYER AND DAVID NILLO.

"BRIGADOON," a musical fantasy about a village in the Scottish Highlands that comes to life one day each 100 years, will be Municipal Opera's second production of the season, opening tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock for a week's run.

It will be the Forest Park theater's second presentation of the musical play with music by Frederick Loewe and book and lyrics by Alan Jay Lerner. It was previously done in 1950. First produced on Broadway in 1947, it ran 581 performances, and was seen here at the American Theater in 1949 and 1950.

The cast will be headed by Virginia Oswald as Fiona, a girl of the village, Brigadoon, and David Atkinson as Tommy Albright, the American tourist who falls in love with her. Miss Oswald was understudy to Marion Bell as Fiona in the Broadway production, and played the role at Muny Opera in 1950. She is currently in "The Merry Widow." Atkinson, first seen at Muny Opera in 1950, played in "The Girl in Pink Tights" on Broadway and in the New York City Center revival of "Carousel" during the past season.

ALSO IN THE CAST will be Frank Maxwell as Tommy's American friend, Joan Kibrig in the comedy role of Meg Brockie, Lidija Franklin as Maggie Anderson, John C. Becher as Mr. Lundie, David Nillo, Earl William, as Charlie Dalrymple, a role he did at Muny Opera in 1950, Christine Mayer, Christine Palmer, Eugene Dorian, Robert Eckles, Oliver Cliff, Norman MacKaye, and Lewis Bolyard. Miss Kibrig and Miss Franklin played in the original Broadway production, and Becher played his role 425 times. Maxwell, who recently was Stewpot in the New York City Center revival of "South Pacific," played Happy in "Death of a Salesman" both in London and New York.

Among the song hits of Brigadoon" are "Almost Like Being in Love," "Come to Me, Bend to Me," "The Heather on the Hill," "I'll Go Home With Bonnie Jean," "Waitin' for My Dearie," "There But for You Go I," and "From This Day On." The dances, designed for the original production by Agnes De Mille, are an important part of the show. Unusual effects are planned by the opera for the sudden materializing of Brigadoon out of the Highlands mists.

The opera's opening production, Franz Lehar's "The Merry Widow," will have its final performance tonight. Janet Medlin and George Gayner are featured.

'Y' Tryouts

Tryouts for the "Y" Players production of Shakespeare's "As You Like It," will be held at the Downtown Y.M.C.A., 1528 Locust street, at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow. The production, "in the round," will be presented on the rooftop of the Y.M.H.A., 724 Union boulevard, July 30 and August 1 and 2.

At the Movies

By Myles Standish

THE BRIDGES AT TOKO-RI—James Michener's novel of Naval fighter action in Korea has been made into one of the finest pictures of the year. With tense drama and touches of tenderness and comedy, it searches deep into the psychology of a bitter jet pilot fighting a war nobody wants, who nevertheless goes to his death with quiet courage and wry fatalism. The fighter attack scenes are terrifically exciting, the final fire-fight in a Korean ditch is grimly real. Excellent performances by William Holden, Fredric March, Grace Kelly, Mickey Rooney. FOX.

THE PURPLE PLAIN—An absorbing, well-made English film about an R.A.F. flyer in Burma, made desperate by the death of his wife, who finds regeneration in the love of a Burmese girl. Gregory Peck gives an intense performance as the Mosquito pilot, and Win Min Than has a delicate, cameo-like loveliness as the girl. There are some striking close-ups. Also TWIST OF FATE, hammy melodrama with Ginger Rogers and her new husband, Jacques Bergerac. LOEW'S STATE.

THE COUNTRY GIRL—Poignant, gripping, devastatingly candid drama about an alcoholic actor, his gallant wife and an arrogant director. With shattering performances by Bing Crosby, Grace Kelly and Bill Holden, and George Seaton's fine direction and script from Clifford Odets's play, it is the year's outstanding film drama. Third week. ST. LOUIS.

DOCTOR IN THE HOUSE—Sixth week for the merry, wacky, zestful and funny British piece about five years in a London medical school. Kenneth More, Dirk Bogarde, head an adroit cast. SHADY OAK.

MAMBO—Italian-American soap-opera, with Silvano Mangano as a poor Venetian woiking-goil who is exploited by her rascally boy-friend (Vittorio Gassman), seduced by a noble rake (Michael Rennie) and finds solace in dancing in a jazz ballet run by Katherine Dunham and Shelley Winters. Lots of suffering, all of which left me cold. In English. PAGEANT and RICHMOND.

KISS ME DEADLY—Mickey Spillane's hero, Mike Hammer, is played unconvincingly by Ralph Meeker in another cheap peddling of sex and sadism. ORPHEUM.

CINERAMA HOLIDAY—Sights of Paris, Switzerland and the United States. AMBASSADOR.

Jascha Horenstein to Conduct Little Symphony Friday Night

JASCHA HORENSTEIN, internationally known conductor, will take over the podium at the Little Symphony concert, second of the season, at 8:45 p.m. Friday in Washington University Quadrange. It will be his first appearance with the orchestra.

Horenstein, born in Russia in 1901, and a naturalized American citizen, has conducted the New York Philharmonic, the symphony orchestras of San Francisco, Cleveland and Cincinnati, and the National Orchestra in Paris and LaScala in Milan. He spent the winter season conducting the Colonne Symphony Orchestra in Park and on a short South American tour.

The program will be headed by Mozart's Prague Symphony in D Major (K.504) and Handel's Concerto for Viola and Orchestra in B Minor, with Edward Ormond as soloist. Ormond has added his own original cadenza. The concerto, unpublished, was discovered by Henri Casadesus, founder of the Society of Ancient Instruments.

Also to be played will be "Music for Strings," by the late Karol Rathaus, professor of music at Queens College in New York, and Mozart's Three Pieces for Orchestra ("Organ Grinder," "Canary Bird" and "Sleigh Ride.")

'Children of Paradise'

"Children of Paradise," the 1946 French film starring Jean-Louis Barrault and Arletty, will be shown at the Cinema Guild, 455 North Boyle avenue, at 7 and 9:30 p.m. Friday, Saturday and next Sunday. It has English sub-titles.

Arts and Artists

The Whitney and Its Plans

By Howard Derrickson

EXHIBITIONS of postwar painting and sculpture have opened at the Museum of Modern Art and the Whitney Museum of American Art, New York, 22 Europeans being represented at the Modern Museum and 35 Americans at the Whitney. Both shows opened an the same day and will close Aug. 7. The Whitney group already has been booked for display here next spring at City Art Museum.

From concurrence of the New York shows and the fact the Whitney in its new quarters adjoins the Modern Museum, mistaken notions have arisen among New York and St. Louis artists. Quite natural, perhaps, are fears for independence of the Whitney, as the smaller of the two, and for possible abandonment of American art by the Modern Museum, now that it has in the Whitney what has been taken to be an American wing.

Both conjectures are unfounded in fact, it was emphasized in interviews given the Post-Dispatch in New York. In the act of hanging the European show at the Modern Museum, Andrew Carnduff Ritchie, director of exhibitions, pointed out that the bulk of the Modern Museum's collections are devoted to American art.

"Of course we will continue to be interested in all vital phases of American art," he said. "It's safe to assume, too, that differences of opinion will be as healthy as ever."

JOHN I. H. BAUR, Whitney curator, was in agreement; as was Miss Margaret McKellar, executive secretary of the Whitney. Only collaboration of New York museums that she cited was exchange of information on dates of projected shows, a plan on which St. Louis places of exhibition, by the way, have made faltering starts.

"We are two entirely different institutions," Baur said, referring to the Whitney and the Modern. "Each goes its own way. Once in a long time we may collaborate, as in the current dual show.

"At the Whitney, dedicated to American art, we are glad the Modern will not give up this field. Because of differences in attitudes and tastes, the problem of overlapping is not so important as sometimes considered. Being devoted exclusively to American art, we can cover the ground more thoroughly than they.

"THERE ARE so many good painters today in the United States that American art is immense. The Twentieth Century alone, to which we now restrict our collection, already offers considerable range. And we will continue to organize older historical shows for travel, such as our Hudson River School survey.

"In the spring of 1957 we will show here the nineteenth century Karolik collection from the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. Under terms of its acquisition, it could not be lent for five years, but in 1957 it is to circulate to half a dozen museums.

"For this September we are organizing a Reginald Marsh exhibition, for January a Charles Burchfield retrospective. Burchfield, best known for representation work, has a strong vein of fantasy and imagination running through his early and very late phases.

"Thus in exhibits and publications accompanying them we hope to highlight little known aspects of well known figures. The Burchfield show will travel, we know so far, to Los Angeles, San Francisco, Baltimore and Washington.

"For our purpose, most important of all will be our projected biennial presentations of new talent. Each of these will displace one of our regular annuals, either the fall show of paintings or the spring exhibit of sculpture, water colors and drawings.

"FOR THIS NEW talent work, we will follow our regular system of viewings, with the four-member directorial and curatorial staff inviting a new group of artists to submit work each six or eight weeks and assigning them individual ratings from A to C.

"A brief account of each artist's life and achievements is read as his works are viewed and as ratings are written down by the judges, who do not confer during the viewing.

"On the basis of the composite ratings, two files, one active and the other inactive, are made up, with photographs of paintings and sculptures considered for exhibition.

"Extensive card files thus compiled will be thoroughly reviewed for the new talent shows, as they are for the regular annuals. With galleries multiplied 100-fold since the early 1900s, and with modern American art being widely shown, the Whitney's function is not merely to give artists a chance to exhibit their works.

"Our primary obligation is rather to concern ourselves with topmost quality in each of the many different idioms in which talented American artists are expressing themselves today."

Code Censor Trying to Curb Movie Violence

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD, June 11 (AP). THE man who is trying to put a restraining hand on movie violence is square-built, English-born Geoffrey Shurlock.

Last year, the 60-year-old Shurlock, succeeded Joseph Breen as Hollywood's Production Code administrator. That means he and his staff survey most of the scripts and all of the finished pictures and advise studios on censorship matters.

If films conform to the production code, they get a seal certifying them to be shown in American theaters. Rarely do producers try to sell movies without a seal. "The Moon Is Blue" was one of the few exceptions.

"We saw this coming last November," Shurlock said. "There was a notable increase in the amount of violence in scripts being presented. Those are the pictures that are in release now.

"We cautioned the producers that too much violence would bring a reaction from the public. I think we are making some headway in convincing them that violence should be toned down. But the results will not be evident in the theaters for another six months.

"One of the reasons I foresaw this trend toward violence was the Academy awards. The top winners two years in a row were two extremely violent films—'From Here to Eternity' and 'On the Waterfront.' It was inevitable that others would follow."

How does the code authority gauge the public's reaction to film content?

"The audience is our partner in this business," said Shurlock, veteran of 23 years with the code. "We watch the reaction carefully, through the Catholic Legion of Decency, the 13 womens' groups that review pictures, the Protestant film council, plus the important trade and newspaper reviewers."

How does the code govern violence?

"We have no hard and fast rules. Rules would kill this industry. We can only do what Joe Breen suggested 'Let's make pictures that are reasonably acceptable morally to reasonable people'."

One thing the code does prohibit: youngsters with guns.

He cited "Blackboard Jungle," which has been much criticized for its treatment of juvenile delinquents. "But nobody pulled a gun in the picture and nobody got killed," he said.

Shurlock said he and his staff are looking more closely at scenes of violence in current scripts. One of the suggestions he has made to producers is to have actual beatings "off frame." In other words, lead up to the violence and show the result, but leave the blows to the audience's imagination.

Liberace Starts Film—Love Story of Pianist

HOLLYWOOD, June 11—Liberace went before the cameras last week in his first starring role in films and "loved every minute of it." The picture is "Sincerely Yours," described by Warner's as the "love story of a pianist who is not Liberace."

A sketch from the script of the film's hero, Anthony Warrin, however, bears more than a passing resemblance to Liberace. It describes Warrin as a "concert pianist whose piano recitals have made him a household word throughout America. His ambition is to become a master of the concert stage and play at Carnegie Hall."

Liberace's first scene in the film takes place in the Chicago Theater where he is giving a recital for a full house of 150 extras as audience. He is accompanied by a 24-piece orchestra.

There was no candelabra or brother George in sight but to put Liberace at ease, Director Gordon Douglas hired a character actress, Lulu Mae Bohrman, who bears an astonishing resemblance to the pianist's "Mom." She was in the front row of the audience grinning at Mr. Liberace who smiled broadly back at her.

With Summer Here

Husband's Roving Eye Annoys Wife

By Martha Carr

Dear Martha:

I AM a mother with three lovely children and I work hard to keep a nice home. I don't feel or look the same as when I was 16 but I always try to look my best. I have a wonderful husband who is proud of me and loves me. However, now that summer is here and he sees girls in shorts, you should see him and hear the comments he makes. If we're driving he'll look in the rear-view mirror at them. I don't begrudge men a glance but do they have to act so silly? I feel this is an insult to me. I don't hang my head out the car window, make all kinds of remarks, flutter my eyes when I see a young fellow. Maybe that's what our husbands need. We should show them what poor taste they have. Then we could tell them, "You can't kill me for looking," like they tell us. LUCY.

This is just a juvenile habit that's a hangover from high school days. Most men, fortunately, outgrow it and learn to act like sensible adults. Some, like your husband, still think it's smart and worldly and sophisticated to notice audibly, every attractive woman they see. You say he loves you and is proud of you. So you know he isn't really interested in anyone else. He's just showing off. Don't take it too seriously and don't make the situation worse by stooping to the same brand of behavior. You'll get further by laughing it off.

Dear Martha:

● PLEASE TELL ME what this old world is coming to. Every night one of the girls in our block is driven home from work by her boss who is married and has four or five children. One of the neighbors asked the girl's mother about this and the reply was, "I encourage it. My daughter may marry into money." Why do people stoop so low? WONDERING.

That's a question that's often hard to answer, and I can understand your disappointment in anyone who would take this attitude, but, honestly, what can be done? This must be the decision of the girl, and her mother must decide to support her in it or object—as she certainly should. Each of us is responsible only for his own actions and attitudes, and even though we disapprove violently of another's conduct, we seldom have the right to speak up.

Dear Martha:

● I TOOK MY AGED FATHER into my home, and my husband and I have been quarreling ever since. My father does things my husband doesn't like and my husband keeps nagging me all the time. My father has no place else to go and I can't reason with him because he is 87 years old. I think I am going to have a nervous breakdown. Shall I tell my father to leave or shall I leave my husband? We have been married 32 years and have one son. WORRIED.

You're facing the same problem which has confronted many married people, the divided loyalty between parent and husband or wife and the reluctance to hurt either. As devoted as you are to your father and as much as you want to care for him, you also must be fair to your husband and son. Your father should not be permitted to break up your marriage and unless you can reason with him and show him how he has the obligation to be co-operative it would be better to find another place for him. That doesn't mean to kick him out into the street, but a private room will be better for him as well as for your own family to whom you also are responsible.

Dear Martha:

● I HAVE BEEN MARRIED FOUR YEARS and have one child. My husband loves us but I am not happy. For one thing, I don't like to do housework. I like to go out and have fun and I know I made a mistake by getting married. But what can I do now? We are separated and I am planning to get a divorce. The child is in good hands, being cared for by my mother. My husband and I get to see him on weekends. I love my child very much. I don't love my husband. PUZZLED.

You say you love your child, yet you're willing to deny him the security of a home and the love of a father just because you don't like to do housework and would rather run around than accept responsibility for maintaining your home. You say your husband loves you and the child. Be grateful for that and do what you can to save your marriage. I'd like to suggest that you and he go together to a marriage counselor and discuss your problem. Maybe, with your mother as an occasional baby sitter, you and your husband can get out to dinner or a dance so you won't feel like a household drudge. But don't make the mistake of divorcing your husband on such feeble grounds as this.

Dear Martha:

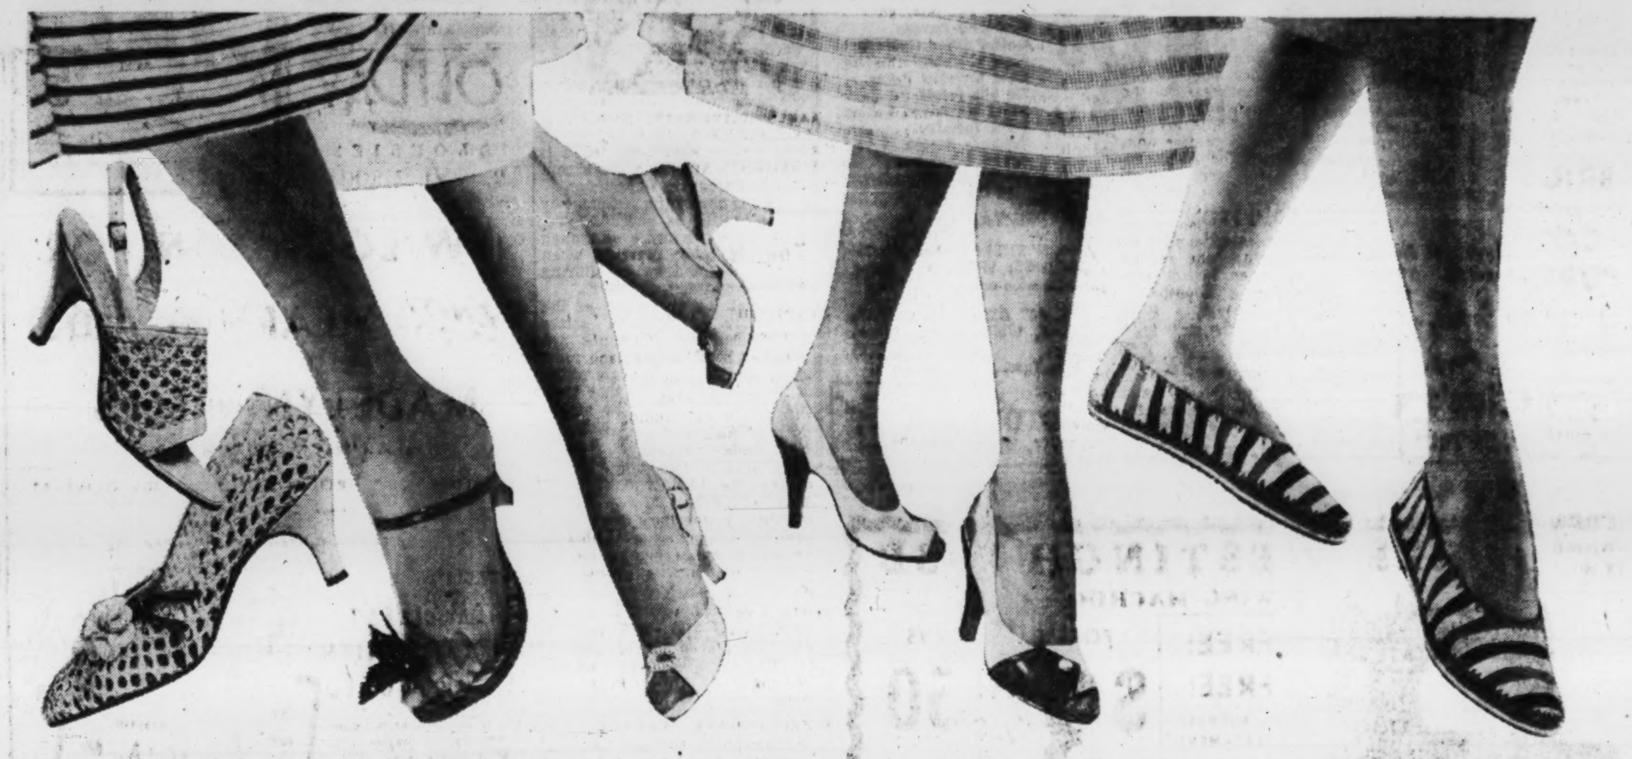
● MY DAUGHTER is going steady with a nice young boy and I am sure he's in love with my daughter, but I have a terrible feeling he is not the right one for a future husband. He has some very big ideas of how to make money, but meanwhile he doesn't have a job and isn't trying too hard to get one. True, he's still in college but many boys hold jobs and keep up with their school work. The fact that he is so willing to take money from his parents and use their car as though it were his own just doesn't show a lot of character. Am I all wrong? I haven't talked to my daughter as I don't want to hurt her feelings. I have asked my married daughter to talk to her but am told to leave her alone as it will all work out. I know you can't say how things will turn out, but am I wrong in thinking as I do? My husband doesn't want her to go steady. He wants her to go to college and get a degree.

You certainly aren't wrong in wanting the right kind of husband for your daughter, but she must make the choice and if she is so much in love with him that she can't see his faults, I doubt that you could make her take your misgivings seriously. Perhaps if you can persuade them to postpone marriage until after the boy graduates, they will decide that it wasn't such a good idea after all. Your husband is right in wanting your daughter to go on to school and if you can interest her in college she will have an opportunity to meet other boys who might be better husband material. Maybe an out-of-town school would be the answer. However, if they are determined to marry, try not to be too fearful because most young people can work out their own problems and a boy, faced with the responsibility of maintaining a home, usually will find a job in a hurry.

Martha Carr is glad to answer your questions. If you wish a personal reply, please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. She cannot answer problems of a medical or legal nature.

Gayly Colorful Footwear for Summer Season

Fashions Provide Maximum of Novelty, Minimum of Foot Coverage—Material From Calico to Goatskin



A RAFFIA SUMMER SHOE BY TAICHER HAS SOFT KID TRIMMING AND MAY BE CHOSEN IN PASTEL SHADES AS WELL AS NATURAL STRAW TONE.

MAXIMUM OF BARENESS IS FEATURED IN THIS CAPEZIO MODEL WITH FELT BUTTERFLY HIDING THE THONG THAT HOLDS THE SOLE TO THE FOOT.

PINK LUSTER LIZARD IS USED BY CARMELLETES FOR A PUMP WITH OPEN TOE AND HEEL. TINY WHITE DOTS ADORN THE VAMP.

THE SPECTATOR PUMP IS DECORATIVE THIS SEASON. THIS DELMAN MODEL ALSO HAS OPEN TOE AND HEEL.

GUSTAVE'S NAUTICALLY STRIPED LATEX SHOE IN JEWEL SHADES IS DESIGNED FOR BEACH WEAR. SOLES ARE LAYERS OF LAMINATED COMPRESSED FOAM RUBBER.

By Sylvia Stiles

TO be fashionable this summer every woman needs at least one pair of gayly fantastic footwear in her wardrobe. It doesn't matter whether there's much to the shoes in addition to the sole and heel but whatever there is must be handled in a glamorous manner. A sprig of forget-me-nots or a swatch of colorful silk over the instep will do the trick, unless the wearer prefers a braided straw or hand-painted leather ankle band.

The more whimsical a shoe is this summer, the better chance it has to take the first step in the fashion parade. Any material from calico to goatskin is in vogue, especially if the designer of the shoe knows how to create a surprisingly and truly original effect. The boudoir type, commonly referred to as the "mule" has become one of the most glamorous modes in the hands of the ingenious designers. There's a flair, also, to the once-humble thong sandal which now appears with glittering decorations.

Both American and foreign designers are responsible for the summer styles that provide a maximum of novelty with a minimum of foot coverage. From Italy come some of the most striking models made of raffia. These are handmade and feature a variety of different types. Taicher, for example, has introduced both pumps and very open effects. Flat-heeled models as well as high-heeled ones are included, and there are pastels, red and black combinations, and the natural raffia tone. Some of the casual modes are made in Haiti. These are washable and have unique raffia fringe as trimming.

The "naked foot" emphasis is seen, too, in a collection of unusual leather sandals that are made in Italy. These look pretty in petal pink and lilac tones with flower and rosette trimming on the narrow straps that hold the sandal to the foot. Another group of casual shoes designed by Gustave of the Virgin Islands are called "butterfly slippers." Made of leather with contrasting stitching, the moccasin-like shoes have compressed foam rubber soles. Another group, made entirely of hand-crocheted straw are available in children's as well as women's sizes.

Capezio, creator of fashionable young shoes that are distinctive and are noted for lower heels, has attained a new record for unusual designs this summer. Some models have matching bags, the clutch style of bag being the one featured most extensively with the soft Capezio shoe. Whimsical, to the extreme, is one uncovered sandal made of black patent leather. It consists of only the slim heel, sole, narrow instep strap and a thong that is hidden by a glittering felt butterfly. Another shoe, called a pump but providing the minimum of pump coverage is completely open at the front and has a suspender strap crossed over the top of the foot.

Even the spectator sports pump, a classic type that has returned to popularity this summer, has a more open cut and more decorative aspect. There is a sling version featured by Delman which has an envelope fold on the vamp. One side of the envelope is tan while the other side and the rest of the shoe is of white suede. Another spectator pump by Town and Country has a lower heel that is shaped in a slender line.

Colorful leathers and new construction contribute to the impressiveness of many of the summer footwear fashions created in St. Louis. Luster calf is used extensively and is available in so many different shades that it is easy to match costume hues. The pastel shades of pink and blue are especially popular. Pastel lizard also is employed for open sandals and pumps that look pretty with summer clothes.

The "no-back" shoe as designed by St. Louis manufacturers represents a new principle in construction. This construction which originated in the St. Louis market has a foot-hugging feature hidden in the sole of the shoe. In outward appearance the only difference from other bare-backed shoes is the slightly up-tilted toe. This is necessary to make the shoe follow the foot in motion. When on the foot in a standing position, it looks like any other sandal.

Brooke Cadwaller, noted for his handsome designs used for scarf fabrics, is contributing to the gayety of summer footwear with his printed leathers. Exclusive patterns for both pumps and sandals are included in the collections of leading American designers.

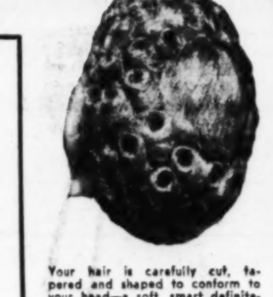
It's a fact not a boast and women who know a good haircut are flocking to the Ragsdale Shops from all over St. Louis. Now is the time you most want your hair to look naturally curly. Our Snap Curl Cold Wave gives you the perfect base for casual but lasting curls.

EXPERT HAIRCUTTING _ _ $1.00
EVERY KIND OF STYLE FROM THE FEATHER CUT TO THE BRUSH CUT
THE SHINGLE TO THE NEW DEEP WAVE CUT
To get the best haircut in town spend only 10-15 minutes at Ragsdale's . . . If your hair-do doesn't stay in or doesn't comb out right it isn't always the fault of the hair styling technique. In many cases improper hair shaping is the cause. The purpose of professional hair shaping is to keep your hair at the length that is best for you. Shaping will give you maximum satisfaction with your particular hair style. A finished hair dress no matter how skillfully styled; can be no better than its foundation and the foundation, of course, is correct hair shaping and expert permanent waving. Let Ragsdale's highly experienced operators shape and style your hair to your individual personality.
We have pleased thousands—we will please you.

PRICE LIST
EXPERT SHAMPOO & SET, $1.00
THE BEST SHAMPOO AND SET IN TOWN . . .
Using OIL TONIC SHAMPOO helps prevent and relieves all normal cases of dandruff.
Your hair is priceless. Protect it with Oil Tonic Shampoo
It takes only 40 minutes to an hour to get expert hair styling at Ragsdale's . . . We guarantee to use the best shampoo soaps obtainable for your particular type of hair and one of our expert hair stylists.
Most beauty shops sell exactly the same quality cold wave permanent for $10 to $20 . . . Our price: $3.95, $5.95, $6.95. No better waves at any price. Why pay more? All permanents guaranteed.
To give each lady better and more equal service, no tipping or sales talk permitted.

EXPERT OIL BLEACHING _ $3.95
Will add new life and highlights to your hair.
EXPERT HAIR TINTING _ _ $3.95
any shade
You can depend on Ragsdale's Hair Tinting for perfect results.
We treasure your confidence. The reason Ragsdale's have gained such a widespread reputation for excellent beauty shops is that our main concern is seeing that you are perfectly pleased with every detail of our service. This means that you are always sure of complete satisfaction on each visit and every service.
No Tipping or Sales Talk Permitted
Free Manicure Self-Service to All Customers



Your hair is carefully cut, tapered and shaped to conform to your head—a soft, smart definitely becoming effect, not too short—not too long, but just right, and so easy to manage. Try it, you'll find your hair a joy to look at—a joy to look after with a Ragsdale cold wave permanent.

Gracefully shaped to your head . . . Delightfully easy to manage. All eyes turn to the coiffure—sleek, short and beautifully groomed. The secret of that well-groomed look is expert cutting and styling by Ragsdale's hair stylists . . . Then a Ragsdale Permanent . . . that's just right in tightness of curl.

PROPER HAIR CARE:
Almost every lady has had difficult problems . . . Ragsdale's has these suggestions for normal hair care:
Brushing . . . your hair should be brushed thoroughly at least once daily, preferably twice. Use long, firm strokes with a stiff brush.
Shampooing . . . One GOOD shampoo a week with all of the soap completely rinsed out of the hair is normal. If your hair is oily or inclined to have dandruff, a good shampoo every five days is better.
Dandruff . . . Most cases of dandruff is simple scalp shedding of dry, dead skin. A good shampoo will remove this type of dandruff and more frequent shampoos often cure it.
The two important things to watch in all shampoos . . . first, be certain that only top quality soaps are used, and second, have all soap rinsed out of the hair. Ragsdale guarantees to use the best shampoo soaps obtainable.
Permanent Waves . . . The best permanent wave will grow out in three to six months, depending upon how fast your hair grows. For best results your permanent should be shampooed and styled every week. If it is impossible for you to get a professional shampoo and style weekly and you do your own hair, then we suggest the following:
You will get better service from your permanent if you pin up your hair after each shampoo. Normally you will need one or two light hair shapings between each permanent. This will keep your hair at the proper length.
A Snap Curl Cold Wave is the best for all types of hair because there is no heat to dry your hair. The curls are one to one and one-half inches closer to scalp than many types of permanents and the final result can hardly be told from naturally curly hair. Your hair, like your skin, requires proper care and treatment if you wish it to look its glistening best. If you want your hair to look right, and be easily managed, it should receive proper hair shaping. If your hair is tinted or bleached it takes only a little extra care to keep it looking natural.
It takes 3 to 10 years of practical beauty work to become an expert hair dresser. Our average operator has between 8 and 9 years' experience. For the last 15 years we have given many, many thousands of permanents each year, so it is just natural that we would have more knowledge of permanent waving than someone who gives one or two permanents a week—Got a hair problem? Go to Ragsdale Beauty Shop.
P.S.: For the best hair results get Professional treatment as often as you can, and give yourself the best possible home care. . . . A professional permanent wave or hair style will improve your appearance and morale more than any other one thing can possibly do . . . When you do get a professional permanent wave (and you will) go to a Ragsdale Beauty Shop.

All the softened flattery and graceful lines of the latest hair fashions. You will love that "extra-something" in this fashionable hair-do. A hair style that can have a "brushed look" for casual hours or the dressed-up look for party-going. Our SNAP CURL Creme Oil Cold Wave is the secret of its success. And remember, all of our permanents are guaranteed.

ONE OF OUR LARGE MODERN SHOPS — No appointment necessary

This Feather-Cut Creme Oil Cold-Wave Permanent (with Lanolin) is desirable and flattering on any lady or child.
For a lovelier wave—a longer-lasting wave—a fail-proof wave—go to Ragsdale Beauty Shops. Little girls want lovely curls, too, and a Ragsdale Snap Curl Cold Wave (with Lanolin) is so pretty—soft and natural looking, it will last from 3 to 6 months. Only $3.95.
ONE PRICE ONLY—$3.95, includes all tonic shampoo, haircut and test curls.

Yes, it's true—we sell as we advertise
Always courteous and efficient operators to serve you . . . Why bother at home—take no chances—get your next wave at Ragsdale. Yes, we have over 90% repeat business—there must be a reason.
60 of St. Louis' leading hair stylists to serve you.
You get a lot of pride and pleasure, of course, out of any good permanent any time, but see how Ragsdale's permanents keep you happier longer—and right now is an especially good time to get your Ragsdale permanent.

Answers to Housewives' Questions

By Dorothy Brainerd

"PERHAPS you or some of your readers might be able to help me," E.M.S. writes hopefully. "I have a lovely dark blue nylon tricot slip that fades on my lingerie when worn. During the washing process this slip 'runs' badly and discolors any article with which it comes in contact. Is there anything that will set the color?"

I'm afraid not, Mrs. S. To the best of my knowledge there is nothing that can be done, except to profit from the experience.

This is one of the reasons why labels should be checked carefully before we buy, even though it is hard to be practical when we are tempted by an alluring piece of clothing.

As clothing specialists of the University of Missouri points out, consumers sometimes are justified in returning such merchandise to the store from which it was purchased so that they may in turn contact the manufacturers. This is the only effective way in which women can register complaints and get unsatisfactory merchandise off of the market.

FROM FRANKLIN, ILL., Mrs. C.R.G. sends this request: "Would it be possible for you to furnish me with a recipe for liver paste which frequently is served as an appetizer? I have tried to make it using chicken livers, but it is too dry and I do not know what liquid to use to moisten it."

Here is a Chicken Liver Pate recipe which recently was developed by home economists of the Poultry and Egg National Board. Incidentally, they are quite proud of this recipe because the consistency is moist but not wet and the color is good. Hope you like it.

Ingredients: Two tablespoons lemon juice; two tablespoons catsup; two tablespoons mayonnaise; one tablespoon minced onion; six drops tabasco; one tablespoon fresh grated horseradish; two tablespoons soft butter or margarine; one-fourth teaspoon ground pepper; one-half teaspoon salt; one-half teaspoon dry mustard; one pound cooked, chopped chicken livers.

Place ingredients in blendor. Blend at low speed for about five minutes or until a smooth, thick consistency is obtained. Store in covered container and refrigerate several hours to mellow. Yield: One and one-third cups.

SOMETHING NEW has been added to the field of pressure cooking — an electric pressure pan. This 1500-watt unit, which may be plugged into any convenient outlet, is in line with the definite trend toward controlled heat appliances, both major and small. An extremely accurate thermostat, which takes over to control exact temperature at the selected five, 10 or 15 pounds pressure, makes it possible to use electricity for this type of cookery.

However, the versatile appliance is more than just an electric pressure saucepan. It also has a temperature control which may be set for browning meats, boiling, or keeping foods warm when the pan is used without pressure and so may be used to steam, braise, boil or simmer. Since it operates largely on stored heat, there is an appreciable saving in fuel.

"DO YOU have a recipe for a hand lotion consisting of glycerine, alcohol, rain water and fragrance?" asks Mrs. B. H. She continues, "Also, I had a floor wax made of paraffin and kerosene but I don't remember the exact measurements."

Sorry, hand lotions are out of my line since this column does not deal with beauty problems. Only homemaking, we repeat.

Paste wax sometimes is made with one-fourth pound beeswax, one-fourth pound paraffin and turpentine. Melt the beeswax and paraffin in a quart jar by setting it in a pan of hot water over low heat. When the wax is melted add as much turpentine as the jar will hold. Stir thoroughly until mixed and let cool.

However, I hesitate to recommend this since turpentine is highly flammable and one should therefore be very careful not to work near an open flame while stirring it into the melted wax.

With the excellent and reasonably priced commercial floor waxes now on the market it seems foolish to take the chance, don't you think?

MRS. V. G. wants to know what to put on wallpaper to make it washable.

There are on the market special wallpaper waxes which you wipe on with a soft cloth, lacquers which you brush on, and lacquers which come in spray cans for easy application. These may be purchased in paint stores or departments.

Warning—sometimes the very nature of colors in wallpapers will cause them to either brighten or darken when such products are applied. So be sure to test in an inconspicuous spot first, to make certain that the colors will not run or change.

Any homemaking problems bothering you? If so, write to Dorothy Brainerd in care of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. She will either answer your questions or publish them and see if other readers have the answers for you.

How to Eat an Artichoke

Know how to eat an artichoke? Pull off a leaf, dip in the accompanying sauce and eat the tender end of the leaf. Go on enjoying the leaves in this way until they are all stripped off. (Pile the leaves as you finish with them at the side of your plate.) Cut away the choke and eat the succulent heart, dipping pieces of it in the sauce. Use browned butter or Hollandaise sauce for the dip.

Gallery Notes

NEW TALENT, an exhibition of paintings, prints and drawings by young St. Louis artists, will open Friday at 6:30 p.m. at the new quarters of Greenwich Gifts gallery, 4304 Olive street. The show, which will last a month, inaugurates a projected series of exhibits at the gallery, formerly at 459 North Boyle avenue.

Directors of the gallery are Vivien Luedde and Leslynne Benson, active in productions of the St. Louis Community Playhouse, 455 North Boyle. Gallery hours are 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Outstanding entries in last month's Children's Art Bazaar at Famous-Barr department store will go on public display Wednesday at City Art Museum. In the show are 46 pictures selected by Mrs. Edwin Grossman, member of the museum's educational staff. The exhibit will close June 29.

Current museum exhibitions include "Goya: Drawings and Prints," closing July 4; Chinese gold and silver in the Carl Kempe collection, June 30; paintings by the Studio Group and Mildred Stone as guest exhibitor, June 27, and selections from a St. Louis private collection, through Aug. 1.

Fish Fillets Martha

Ingredients: One and one-half tablespoons butter, one and one-half tablespoons flour, three-fourths cup milk, one and one-half cups grated cheddar cheese (lightly packed), salt and pepper, four to six servings broiled fish fillets, chopped green scallion.

Method: Make a white sauce of the butter, flour and milk. Stir in cheese over very low heat until melted; add salt and pepper to taste. Serve hot sauce over broiled fish fillets; top with chopped scallion. Makes four to six servings.

RED CROSS TAKES CUSTODY OF GRIM NAZI PRISON FILES

The New York Herald Tribune-Post Dispatch Special Radio.

BONN, June 11—Custody of one of the grimmest legacies of World War II—the files and records of the Nazi concentration camps and Gestapo prisons — was formally transferred here this week from the now-defunct Allied High Commission to the International Red Cross.

Under agreements signed by the West German Government, the Red Cross and eight "interested governments"—the United States, Britain, France, Belgium, Luxembourg, The Netherlands, Italy and Israel—the Red Cross will remain in sole charge of the documents for a five-year period. During that time, the Red Cross will continue to operate, and the West German Government will finance, the International Tracing Service, which since 1945 has been engaged in the task of providing information and seeking to locate victims of Nazism.

The concentration camp records list the names of some 5,000,000 individuals who passed through the Nazi prison system, the vast majority never to come out alive.

CHILDREN'S HOME PICNIC

The annual fund-raising picnic of the General Protestant Children's Home will be held today from 2:30 to 10 p.m. on the home's grounds, 4447 Natural Bridge avenue. A roast beef dinner will be served from 5 to 7 p.m.

MRS. JEANETTE WINDEGGER HEADS EASTER SEAL GROUP

Mrs. Jeanette Windegger has been elected president of the recently organized Easter Seal Auxiliary, an organization devoted to helping physically handicapped children and the St. Louis Society for Crippled Children.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Evelyn Clodfelter and Mrs. Anita Toff, vice presidents; Mrs. Joseph Donohoe, recording secretary; Mrs. Ralph D'Oench, treasurer, and Mrs. Arthur Finkel, corresponding secretary. Trustees elected are Mrs. Earl Hibbert, Mrs. Robert Thompson, Mrs. Neva Beavers and Mrs. John Raleigh.

The group, active during the society's Easter Seal appeal this year, will work through the year on projects to help handicapped children cared for by the society. The auxiliary has more than 90 members.

THE REV. MAURICE J. ZERR A MARYKNOLL MISSIONER

The Rev. Maurice J. Zerr, son of Mrs. Olivia Zerr of 121 West Monroe street, Kirkwood, will be among 57 Maryknoll Missioners for whom a departure ceremony will be held today at Maryknoll, N.Y.

Father Zerr will be assigned to missions in Africa. He attended St. Louis University High School and Eugene Coyle High School before entering Maryknoll in 1940. After his ordination to the priesthood in 1951, he was assigned to special studies at Manhattan College in New York City.

ADMINISTRATION BLAMED BY CIO FOR SPECULATION

Labor Publication Says Stock Boom Trends Resemble Those Before 1929 Crash.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 11—The CIO has placed responsibility for stock market speculation squarely on the Eisenhower Administration, asserting that Republican fiscal policies have "had the effect of boosting the demand for stocks and making it easier to speculate."

In the current issue of its publication, Economic Outlook, the labor organization warns that economic trends which led to the present rise in stock prices bear an "unfortunate resemblance" to conditions which caused the 1929 crash.

A Senate Banking Committee report on the stock market criticized the Federal Reserve Board last month for not curbing excessive speculation sooner. However, the report was not directly critical of the Administration. Although the market generally has continued a steady advance, the CIO analysis was confined largely to 1953 and 1954.

Despite 'General Decline.'

Despite a general decline in the country's economy in the last half of 1953 and throughout most of 1954, stock prices "continued to boom," the publication states.

In that period, total production of goods and services declined by 2 per cent, national income dropped 2 per cent and business sales were down 4 per cent, the magazine says. At the same time, unemployment rose from 1,500,000 to 2,800,000.

"Despite these overwhelming indications of softness in the national economy, Standard and Poor's price index of 480 stocks rose 35 per cent" in the same period, the article continues. "By March 1955, this index of stock prices was 48 per cent higher than in the second quarter of 1953."

Examination of personal income between the middle of 1953 and the end of 1954 shows "the growth of an unhealthy and unbalanced development—a rise in the personal income of upper income groups, while the incomes of lower and middle income groups declined," the CIO contends.

1929 Crash Recalled.

A similar imbalance occurred before the 1929 crash, the publication declares. At this point it quotes a Fortune magazine article on causes of the stock market spiral in the 1920s. Two reasons behind the 1929 crash, Fortune said, were:

1. "The concentration of income in the upper income groups actually increased, especially in the latter half of the '20s.

2. "Between 1920 and 1929, profits, interest and rent—which went largely to upper income groups—increased 45 per cent, whereas total wages and salaries—which comprise the bulk of the income of the lower and middle income groups — rose only 13 per cent."

Policies of the Eisenhower Administration have led to the same lack of economic balance, the CIO publication states. It adds:

"For over two years, the trickle-down economic philosophy of the Andrew Mellon era of the 1920s has been the outspoken view of Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey and other leading Administration spokesmen.

"The economic policy, philosophy and programs of the Administration have consistently emphasized the need to protect and advance the income position of the top income groups—the investors—while doing little or nothing for the benefit of the great mass of American families in the low and middle income groups."

Investors' Income Boosted.

When the Eisenhower Administration instituted a "hard-money" policy early in 1953 by increasing interest rates, it increased the incomes of investors, those owning stocks, and gave them additional money with which to speculate in the stock market, the CIO says.

At the same time, the Administration lowered the margin requirements on stocks, meaning that investors could make a smaller down payment when buying, the article continues. The two actions "had the effect of boosting the demand for stocks and making it easier to speculate in the stock market," it adds.

The Administration also encouraged large corporations to speculate in stocks by giving them various tax benefits, including rapid tax amortization of new facilities, Economic Outlook says.

These tax benefits enabled big companies to accumulate large surpluses in cash and Government securities with which to finance capital construction. Consequently, they did not have to float new stock issues for expansion, and the result was that the supply of stocks became scarce, the article says.

As a result, "the rising demand for big business stocks has pressed against a market in which stocks are relatively scarce," and speculation followed, Economic Outlook concludes.

50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Batt, 4920 Bonita avenue, will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary Tuesday at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Mat Pousch, 69 Lemay Garden drive, Lemay. Batt, a retired machinist, is 76 years old and his wife, 74. Mrs. Pousch is their only child.

BRIDGE TOURNAMENT OPENS WEDNESDAY

Leading Players of U.S. to Compete Here—Events Announced.

Leading bridge players of the United States will be among the contestants in the nineteenth annual Mississippi Valley regional tournament which opens Wednesday at Hotel Statler.

Notables will include David C. Carter, St. Louisan who had the best tournament record in the country last year; Oswald Jacoby; John Gerber, and John W. Hubbell. There will be 13 events, in five of which red master points will be awarded in addition to trophies.

Opening event will be the mixed pair championship, to be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday. The men's and women's pair championships will be decided in sessions starting at 1:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday. Play in the team-of-four contest will begin Friday at 8 p.m. and continue Saturday at 1:30.

The master's individual championship contest, in which players with 20 or more master points will compete for the Bierbaum Bowl, will be held in sessions at 8 p.m. Friday and 1:30 p.m. Saturday. The open pair contest will consist of qualifying sessions at 8 p.m. Saturday and 1 p.m. next Sunday, with the final session at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Seven pair games have been arranged for players who prefer one-session contests. The schedule: Scott Field Pairs, Thursday at 8; Hotel Statler Pairs, Friday at 1:30; Belleville Pairs, Friday at 8; St. Louis Pairs, Saturday at 1:30; Little Egypt Pairs, Saturday at 8; Jefferson City Pairs, Sunday at 1; J. C. Baird Pairs, Sunday at 7.

Defending champions are: Mixed pair, Mr. and Mrs. Milton W. Bierbaum; women's pair, Mrs. David C. Carter and Mrs. R. A. Jervis; men's pair, Milton W. Bierbaum and Barrett Stephenson; team-of-four, James Epstein, Earl Ochs, Charles Wiley and Robert M. Woodworth; open pair, Milton Q. Ellenby and Gloria Turner; master's individual, Mrs. Bierbaum.

MODEL AIRCRAFT MEET TO BE HELD NEXT SUNDAY

A model aircraft meet sanctioned by the International Academy of Model Aeronautics, will be held next Sunday at Parks Airport by the Cloudhounds, model aircraft club of Parks College of St. Louis University.

The site of the meet is just off the college campus at the junction of Illinois Routes 3 and 157, three miles south of East St. Louis. Events are grouped under PAA load events, free flight events and control line events.

Pan American World Airways prizes for the PAA load events will be presented by George Gardner of New York, director of aviation education for Pan American World Airways.

44 PLAYGROUNDS, 7 POOLS FOR SUMMER

City Recreation Facilities to Be Open From June 20 to Sept. 1.

Forty-four city playgrounds and seven swimming pools will open June 20 and will be operated through Sept. 1, Park Commissioner Palmer B. Baumes announced yesterday.

Sixteen playgrounds will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.; nine will be in operation from noon to 8:30 p.m., and the remainder from 9:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Playground staffs will vary from two to four persons, depending on neighborhood requirements.

Swimming pools will be open from 1 to 5 p.m. daily, with the exception of cleaning days. Adams pool and Tandy pool will be open for men and boys on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, and women and girls will use these pools on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Buder pool and the Cherokee pool will be open for men and boys on Monday, Wednesday and Friday and women and girls on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. These indoor pools will be closed on Sundays and holidays.

Fairgrounds and Vashon outdoor pools, will be open for men and boys on Wednesday, Friday and Sunday and women and girls on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. Both Fairgrounds and Vashon will be closed on Mondays for cleaning.

Marquette pool will be open for men and boys on Monday, Thursday and Saturday with women and girls using the pool on Wednesday, Friday and Sunday. The Marquette pool will be closed on Tuesdays for cleaning.

Special attractions planned by the Parks Division will be a tournament for participants in a city-conducted golf clinic, in August; a water show at Marquette pool, next month; a bicycle rodeo at Sherman Park, in August, and an exhibit of work done by recreation center art classes, to be held in Forest Park next month.

The annual track and field championships for playgrounds participants will be held at Sherman Park Aug. 24, while the singing and dancing classes will present a pageant at Kiel Auditorium the following day.

Additional information relative to the summer park program may be obtained at Room 330, Municipal Courts building.

AID OF CONGRESSS IN AIR POLLUTION PROBLEMS URGED

WASHINGTON, June 11 (UP) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare proposed today that Congress pass legislation authorizing it to help states and cities solve air pollution problems.

The recommendation was based on a report of an interdepartmental committee which made an investigation for Secretary Oveta Culp Hobby.

The committee opposed government interference in pollution matters as an invasion of state's rights. It said, however, the Government could help the states and communities with research and technical advice.

It said frankly that there is widespread ignorance about the specific chemicals that contribute to pollution. Therefore the Government should do everything possible to co-operate.

55TH WEDDINNG ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Ikemeyer will celebrate their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary next Sundad with an open house for friends and relatives at their home, 4645 Elmbank avenue.

Ikemeyer, a retired tuckpointer, is 79 years old. His wife is 76. They have three children and eight grandchildren.

$200,000 RECEIVED IN GIRL SCOUT DRIVE

$500,000 Sought to Double Camping Facilities to Meet Need.

Contributions and pledges totaling $200,000 have been received in the $500,000 Girl Scout capital fund drive. Edward J. Hopkins, chairman of the campaign, announced yesterday.

Hopkins said the goal is the "absolute minimum" necessary to enlarge camping facilities in line with present needs. More than 400 girls were turned away from the camp last summer, he said.

"Success of the campaign will mean that we can double present camp capacity," Hopkins declared. "The facilities now in use were built 28 years ago when there were only 1500 Girl Scouts in the St. Louis area. Today there are 21,000 and the number in growing every year. Last year's enrollment increased membership by 22 per cent."

This is a capital fund campaign, Hopkins said, and not a yearly drive. The Girl Scouts have never before asked the public for money to make capital improvements, but the present need to expand camping facilities is urgent, he added.

Miss Ruby Maurer has been named director at Camp Cedarledge for the summer session, July 3 to Aug. 27, and Miss Norma Maynard was named her assistant. Both are teachers in Moline, Ill. Members of the staff of 40 persons will arrive at the camp June 26 for a week's pre-camp training period.

Thirteen members of Mariner Ship 695 of Clay-due district will leave Wednesday to train on the Joseph Conrad for a week at Mystic, Conn. The program will include learning ship routine, sailing and swimming. The group will be accompanied by Miss Rose Evertz, leader; Mrs. Katherine W. Kruse, assistant, and Miss Ann Vose, who will serve as life saver.

Information about opportunities for staff positions at the 1956 Senior Roundup for girls and women 18 years or older can be obtained by calling Mrs. Tivie Wilkins, TAylor 1-2054.

Wing Scout Troop 283 of Fenton made a tour of the Naval Air Station at Lambert-St. Louis Field yesterday in connection with their study of aeronautics. Mrs. June Evers of the Women's Flying Organization, a troop committee member, was consultant on the tour.

Members of the cookie committee will meet tomorrow at the council office to evaluate this year's cookie sale, which exceeded the goal.

Brownie day camp site training will be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Tuesday, at Ground No. 3 at O'Fallon Park. Persons interested in helping at the day camp have been asked to call Mrs. George Spahn, COlfax 1-4311, or Mrs. Vito Spinelli, COlfax 1-4054.

Members of 19 troops will spend three days within a period of nine days, beginning today, at Camp Cedarledge. Each troop will be accompanied by a licensed camper, and swimming will be included in the activities.

Mary Sue Muckerman and Genevieve Sobczak, members of Troop 607, will receive the curved bar award at their troop's session at the camp Wednesday to Saturday.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Preparations are being made this week for the opening of the 1955 long-term summer camping season of the St. Louis Boy Scout council. More than 6000 boys are expected to attend camps operated by the council this summer, and several hundred will attend private troop camps in this area and Philmont National Scout Ranch, near Cimarron, N. M.

A nine-week season at Irondale Scout Reservation and an eight-week camping session at Camp May will start next Sunday. A capacity of 350 boys and leaders can be accommodated each week at the 150-acre Irondale Reservation and 280 at Camp May.

Lion's Den Reservation, which has a capacity of 175, will open June 26 and Ranger Camp will offer a special western style riding, canoeing and camping program for 50 Explorers weekly starting July 24. The council will operate the state-owned Camp Pa-He-Tsi from Aug. 21 to 28 for the annual Sea Explorers regatta.

Scouts who received Eagle rank last year and their families will be guests of the Eagle Scout association at the first annual Eagles' recognition day at 3 p. m. today at Beaumont Scout Reservation. Army Capt. Edwin Kalbfleish will be principal speaker.

Twelve merit badge subjects will be taught at summer camps this year. Swimming, life saving, camping, pioneering, cooking, soil and water conservation, archery, basketry and nature will be available at all camps. Marksmanship will be taught at Lions' Den, horsemanship at Ranger Camp and fishing at Irondale and Beaumont reservations.

The new Boy Scout Troop is being sponsored by Carr Square village under the direction of Charlie Dooley, Scoutmaster. Troop 381 has been reorganized under sponsorship of the Robertson Fire Protection District.

A nature merit badge class for Scouts and Explorers of North Star district will begin Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon in the parish hall of St. Augustine's Catholic Church, 2558 West Hebert street.

Parents' night will be held by Troop 248 at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Christy Memorial Methodist Church hall, 4601 Morganford road. Seven flags will be presented to the troop, sponsored by the church.

Eagle rank will be presented in ceremonies this week to Douglas Reiner, member of Troop 344, and Wayne and Raymond Burlew, brothers, of Troop and Post 144.

In ceremonies last week Eagle rank was received by George C. Smith, explorer advisor, his two sons, Thomas and Dale, and Michael McDonough, member of Troop 187. Smith and his sons are members of Troop 380.

AREA VETERANS MAKE 739 LOAN APPLICATIONS IN APRIL

St. Louis area veterans of World War II and the Korean conflict submitted 739 applications for Veterans Administration guaranteed loans in April, it was announced yesterday by J. F. Kelley, acting manager of the St. Louis VA regional office.

The figure represented an increase of 300 loans, or 68 per cent, over April 1954, Kelley said. The applications are submitted on behalf of the veterans by private lenders making the mortgage loans. The VA then guarantees repayment of a portion of the loan.

FEDERAL OFFICE BUILDING PROGRAM TO BE STEPPED UP

WASHINGTON, June 11 (UP)—The building industry is about to get a boost in the form of stepped-up construction of federal office buildings.

This kind of construction is just a small part of the current 40-billion-dollar-a-year construction boom. It has been almost undetectable in recent years. But the Government's new lease-purchase program holds promise of a possible $80,000,000 worth of building in the near future, or more, if Congress is willing to authorize it.

The program incorporates a private business practice of long standing. The person (in this case, the Government) who wants to buy the building pays for it in installments, very much like rent. When the installment payments equal the building's price, the buyer takes over ownership.

Congress authorized lease-purchase last fall, five years after it was first proposed. With the exception of a few major projects now in the works, such as new headquarters for the Atomic Energy Commission and the Central Intelligence Agency, most of the Government's future office space will be financed the new way, at least for the next few years.

Russians Admire 2 New Auto Models, but Can't Buy Them Yet

Production Scheduled Next Year — All Have Curved, One-Piece Windshields — Power Increased.

By CHARLES KLENSCH

MOSCOW, June 11 (INS)—Automobile-conscious Russians are getting their first looks at two brand-new Soviet models—the Volga and the Moskvitch.

The Russians, who crowd around embassy-owned foreign cars at every opportunity, find the Volga and Moskvitch on preview at the All-Union Agricultural Exposition.

But they can't buy yet. The cars, the first Soviet models with post-war design, are scheduled for production in 1956.

The Volga is a five-seat, four-door sedan resembling the Studebaker. It's the first Soviet car to have automaic transmission. The Moskvitch is a four-seat, four-door sedan.

Both new Soviet cars have curved, one-piece windshields. Radios and heaters are standard equipment.

Production in Gorky.

The Volga will be manufactured by the Molotov auto plant in Gorky. It has about the same dimensions as its predecessor, the Pobeda, but the engine has been considerably improved. Power has been boosted to 70 horsepower and gas consumption reduced. It has a reported top speed of about 80 miles on hour.

The Pobeda, styled somewhat on the lines of the 1940 Ford, has been the mainstay of the Soviet taxicab fleet. It has been sold in limited numbers to private persons.

The Soviets have also exported a limited number of Pobedas and Moskvitches. But the obsolete designs have hampered sales outside satellite countries.

The new Moskvitch, produced by Moscow's low-powered automobile plant, will also have a more powerful—35 horsepower—and more economical engine than its predecessor. It will also be somewhat roomier.

Engines by November.

The old Moskvitch has been stamped from the same pre-war dies as the Opel, the German Chevrolet, which the Soviets took as war reparations.

The new Moskvitch engines are to begin rolling off the line in November. The plan is to put the new engine in the old bodies until new bodies are produced "in the first quarter of 1956."

Prices of the current Pobeda and Moskvitch are 16,000 and 9000 rubles respectively, $4000 and $2225 at the official exchange rate.

According to reports here, prices of the new models will be about one-third higher.

Another new car, for back-country use, goes into production later this year. It is the M-72, also manufactured by the Molotov plant at Gorky.

The M-72 will be a Pobeda in appearance, but with a reinforced frame and body and added front-wheel drive to cope with country roads.

CIVIL DEFENSE TEST PLANS ANNOUNCED

Exercise to Be Held Wednesday, Thursday—Public Not Involved.

Plans for local official participation in a national Civil Defense exercise next Wednesday and Thursday were announced yesterday. It will be for members of the civil defense services, without any sounding of sirens or participation by the public.

The purposes are to promote training, test communications and co-ordination of local plans, and provide experience in operation of a control center.

An atomic blast on the ground at Eleventh and Pine streets will be assumed at 2:45 p.m. Wednesday, following a simulated yellow warning at 11:07 a.m. Protection from radioactive fall-out is included in the problem, in which activities theoretically covering nine days will be telescoped into 26 hours.

Quarters for an information filter center of the Air Force ground observation squadron have been leased at 9003 Manchester road, Brentwood. Eight hundred civilians are being recruited for duty there two hours a week, under Air Force supervision.

Observers in 400 posts over 100,000 square miles of Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Iowa will send in reports on all aircraft in the air.

Anyone interested in taking part may obtain more information by calling VOlunteer 3-6360, Extension 228.

Miss Wade's Engagement To Jonathan T. Isham Is Announced Today

Late Afternoon Wedding Set for July 23 at St. Peter's Episcopal Church—Reception to be at St. Louis Country Club.

MRS. CRUNDEN WADE, 7 Dartford avenue, University City, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Chittenden Wade, to Jonathan Trumbull Isham, son of Col. Ralph H. Isham of New York and Mrs. Persifor Frazer of Newport, R.I.

There has been no announcement party, but late this afternoon Miss Wade and her fiance, who is in St. Louis for the weekend, will receive the congratulations of a few friends invited to the home of Mrs. Patterson Bush, 26 Portland place.

The wedding will take place at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, July 23, at St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Ladue. The reception will be given at the St. Louis Country Club.

Miss Wade, whose father was the late Festus J. Wade Jr., is the sister of Festus John Wade III and a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Payne Crunden and the late Mr. and Mrs. Festus J. Wade, all well known St. Louisans. She is the niece of Mrs. Wallace Cole of St. Paul, Minn. The bride-elect, a former student at Mary Institute, was graduated from Foxcroft School, Middleburg, Va., and attended Vassar College. She is a member of the Junior League in New York

Miss Elizabeth Carroll Engaged To Robert Thornton Hensley Jr.

THE engagement of Miss Elizabeth Tarvin Carroll, younger daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Grayson Carroll, to Robert Thornton Hensley Jr. was announced Friday night at a buffet supper at the Carroll home, 13 Kingsbury place.

Guests were invited to meet Miss Michaela McLane of Englewood, N.J., Miss Carroll's former roommate at Wheaton College, Norton, Conn., who arrived Wednesday. They were entertained both indoors, where supper was served, and in the garden, where small, hurricane-lighted tables were set up.

Miss Carroll was graduated from Mary Institute and spent two years at Wheaton. She is completing her studies at Washington University where she joined Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. She has just finished the provisional membership course for the Junior League. She was a maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball of 1952 and was presented to society that year at a tea at her parents' home. Sister of Mrs. Shelton Campbell Voges (Gaye Carroll), she is a granddaughter of Mrs. A. T. Hayman and the late Dr. Hayman and the late Rev. Dr. and Mrs. W. Irving Carroll.

Mr. Hensley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Hensley, 701 South Warson road, Ladue, was graduated from Country Day School in 1950, studied for two years at the University of Virgina and was graduated last January from Washington University where he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity,

Miss Mauze Is Married To Graham B. Barefoot Jr.

NOT ONLY relatives and family friends but the several hundred members of the congregation were invited to Central Presbyterian Church last night to the wedding of Miss Suzanne Cameron Mauze, daughter of the minister, the Rev. Dr. J. Layton Mauze Jr., to Graham Ballard Barefoot Jr. of Wilmington, N.C.

The guests were escorted down the center aisle which was lined with hurricane-shaded candles in tall candelabra, down which the bridal party walked in the procession, and were seated facing the candle-lighted altar decorations. Branch candelabra marked the ends of the altar rail and stood in pairs at either side of the altar itself which held arrangements of white blossoms. Woodwardia fern concealed the choir stalls.

A musical program included the singing of the Lord's Prayer by Girard Bauer Jr., and "Because," by Charles Kanter.

The bridegroom, son of Dr. and Mrs. Graham Ballard Barefoot of Wilmington, both of whom were here for the wedding, had his father as best man. Ushers, leading the wedding party, were the bride's brothers, James Francis and George Mauze; the bridegroom's brothers, Napoleon Bonaparte, Duncan Murray and David Caldwell Barefoot; his cousins, John J. Burney and Wilbur Corbett; Frederick Block, Donald Sneeden, Robert Williams, Richard Dunlea and Raeford Trask, all of Wilmington except Napoleon Barefoot who lives in Wake Forest, N.C., and the bride's cousin, Frank Conley, Columbia, Mo.

Nine young women clad in mauve-pink taffeta attended the bride. They were Miss Helen Foster, Kansas City, Mo., maid of honor, and Mr. Barefoot's sisters, Miss Roxana Barefoot, Wilmington, and Mrs. John J. Lilley, Waverly, Va.; his sister-in-law, Mrs. Napoleon Bonaparte Barefoot, Wake Forest; the bride's cousin, Mrs. Henry Longley, Wilmington, and four St. Louisans, Miss Georgia Lee Berkley, Miss Bettie Bush Schroth, Miss Mary Mosby and Mrs. John Stuart Israel, bridesmaids.

Their dresses were ballerina length and made with wide round necks bordered in finely tucked taffeta yokes, cap sleeves and skirts of unpressed pleats over crinoline. Their flowers were white split carnations except those of the maid of honor who wore a few rosebuds in her hair

THEIR ENGAGEMENTS HAVE BEEN MADE KNOWN

Miss Falk Married to G. H. Stout

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 11.

MISS VIRGINIA FALK, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Geismer Falk, and George Hubert Stout of St. Louis were married here tonight at the Park Lane apartments where the Falks live. The ceremony was performed by candlelight by Dr. Joseph L. Fink in a setting of white snapdragon and blue delphinium silhouetted against blue delphinium. A reception followed.

Mr .Falk gave his daughter in marriage. She wore the wedding gown of her sister, Mrs. Victor D. Rosen of Oakland, Calif., who was matron of honor at tonight's wedding. Of ivory satin, the gown was made with long sleeves and a square neck bordered with rose point lace which belonged to the bride's great-grandmother. More of the lace edged her tulle veil. She carried a prayerbook.

Mrs. Rosen and Miss Amie Block of Buffalo, a cousin, bridesmaid, were dressed alike in pale pink lace and wore blue delphinium hair ornaments and corsages. Ralph M. Krause of Scarsdale, N. Y., was best man and Edwin Merz of St. Louis was usher for Mr. Stout who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Dumas Stout, 5153 Westminster place, St. Louis. His mother was Miss Nan Taussig, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hubert P. Taussig of an old St. Louis family. Both of his parents were here for the wedding.

Mrs. Falk wore navy blue taffeta, the bodice front and full skirt edged with matching lace. Mrs. Stout was in wedgewood blue mousseline de soie, lace-trimmed.

Mr. Stout and his bride will spend their honeymoon on a camping trip in the Adirondacks. They will occupy an apartment in Cambridge, Mass., where both are studying for their Ph.D. degrees in the field of organic chemistry, she at Radcliffe College, he at Harvard.

The bride is a graduate of Buffalo Seminary and Cornell University and holds a master's degree from Radcliffe. Mr. Stout, whose father is associate professor of English at Washington University, St. Louis, is a graduate of St. Louis Country Day and already has two degrees, a B.A., summa cum laude, and a master's, from Harvard. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma XI and the National Speleological Society.

Peterson-Magee Church Wedding

THE wedding of Miss Ruth Clarice Magee, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles D. Magee, to Reuben Walter Peterson Jr. took place last night at Grace Methodist Church, with the Rev. Dr. Wesley H. Hager officiating. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben W. Peterson of Galien, Mich., who were here for the event.

The bride's gown of white nylon taffeta was designed with a wide square neckline outlined with a wide lace band embroidered with seed pearls. Her fingertip veil fell from a close-fitting cap trimmed in pearls and clear beads, and her bouquet was of white gardenias with sprigs of ivy. Miss Phyllis Ann Magee was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids included the bridegroom's sister, Miss Phyllis Peterson of Evanston, Ill., Mrs. William G. Alexander, Miss Merna Lazier and Miss Marjorie Copher. Their dresses, in white for the honor attendant and in mint green for the others, were of nylon organza and featured sashes in a deep shade of green. They had bandeaux of ivy in their hair and carried pink carnations and ivy.

Ernest J. Honigmann was best man for the bridegroom whose ushers were Jack B. Frank of Benton Harbor, Mich.; William J. McNabb and Allen R. Carlson, both of Chicago; Walter James Cooney of Niles, Mich.; William G. Alexander and James W. Craig of St. Louis.

A garden reception was held later at the Magee home, 48 Berkshire, Richmond Heights.

The bride and bridegroom, who are motoring to Colorado on a wedding trip, will live at 6188 McPherson avenue, on their return. The former Miss Magee is a graduate of John Burroughs School and Sweet Briar (Va.) College; Mr. Peterson received both his B.S. and M.A. degrees in chemical engineering from the University of Michigan.

Miss Suzanne Barney, Lt. R. M. Sydow Plan Summer Wedding

MR. AND MRS. ROYAL K. BARNEY, 617 Bompart avenue, Webster Groves, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Miss Suzanne Barney, to Second Lt. Robert M. Sydow, of the Marine Corps Reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Sydow, 725 Greeley avenue, Webster Groves. The wedding will take place late this summer.

Miss Barney, a graduate of Webster Groves High School and Deaconess Hospital School of Nursing, has been on the hospital's nursing staff for the past two years. She has two sisters, Miss Judith Claire and Miss Ruth Ellen Barney.

Lt. Sydow, whose father is executive vice president of Big Bend Bank in Webster Groves, attended Washington University, was graduated from St. Louis University in 1953 and attended St. Louis University Law School. His brothers are Carl E., Dan and David Sydow. On June 18 the bridegroom-to-be will report at the Marine Base in Quantico, Va., for active duty.

Installation of Officers.

The Women's Traffic Club of Metropolitan St. Louis will have election and installation of officers and board of directors at their regular dinner meeting to be held Thursday at the DeSoto Hotel. Miss Clara L. Ziegler, first vice president, has been nominated, unopposed, for the office of president, succeeding Miss Louise R. Gauchat. William F. James, who is to be a guest, will receive a check for the proceeds from a recent card party for the benefit of Boys Town of Missouri.

MISS MARY GREGG HOWELL
—Jules Pierlow Photograph.

Mary Gregg Howell Is Bride-Elect of Robert W. Gorman

MR. AND MRS. CARROLL S. HOWELL of St. Charles, Mo., announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Gregg Howell, to Robert Weltin Gorman. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mrs. J. Weltin Gorman, 7565 Lindbergh drive, Richmond Heights, and the late Mr. Gorman. The wedding will take place July 1 at St. Charles Borromeo Church in St. Charles.

The bride-to-be was graduated cum laude from Maryville College on May 31 with a bachelor of arts degree. She was president of the senior class and president of the student council, and received the Advisory Board Award for general achievement. Miss Howell is also an alumna of the Academy of the Sacred Heart, St. Charles.

Mr. Gorman is a graduate of Notre Dame University, class of 1948. He has one brother, Richard Gorman.

Barbara Jo Sharp To Be Married to Spencer T. Gould

THE engagement of Miss Barbara Jo Sharp to Spencer Tatman Gould was announced Thursday night at a buffet supper at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. George W. Sharp, 7504 Gannon avenue, University City.

As a centerpiece for the buffet table a pair of china cupids held a pink satin ribbon inscribed with the names of the couple, thus revealing the news. Small bouquets of pink roses and baby's breath completed the decorations.

Miss Sharp, who has completed her sophomore year at Carleton College, Northfield, Minn., will enter Washington University in the autumn and will major in chemistry. She is the sister of Miss Nancy Jane and Miss Sally Ann Sharp and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Wesley Wheeling of Beatrice, Nebr.

Mr. Gould, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Spencer Gould, 408 Way avenue, Kirkwood, studied business administration for one year at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Tex., where he became a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity. He served two years in the Marines and studied four years at Carleton College majoring in government and international relations. Lacking a few credits for a degree, the prospective bridegroom will complete his studies at Washington University. Mr. Gould is the grandson of Mrs. Bernal Leslie Tatman of Kirkwood.

Miss Hoyt Bride Of Robert H. Weil

THE marriage of Miss Suzanne Kate Hoyt to Robert Hofflin Weil took place Thursday at the Essex House in New York. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hamilton Hoyt of Short Hills, N.J. Mr. Weil's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer K. Weil, 815 South Bemiston avenue, Clayton, went east for the ceremony accompanied by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. Warren Agatstein.

Dr. Clifford E. Barbour, president of Western Theological Seminary in Pittsburgh, Pa., performed the ceremony. Matron of honor was Mrs. Charles Orcutt Hoyt of Short Hills, the bride's sister-in-law, and best man was the bridegroom's father.

The former Miss Hoyt wore her mother's wedding gown of princess lace over mousseline de soie designed with a fitted bodice and three-quarter length sleeves. Her veil of matching lace was stiffened to form a coronet and fell to her shoulders. She carried a spray of lilies of the valley and tiny white orchids. Her attendant was in a white organdy gown trimmed with turquoise blue ribbon.

Mr. Weil, a graduate of Clayton High School, is an Amherst College student. His bride, who attended Finch Junior College, New York and Mount Holyoke, is an alumna of the Beard School, Orange, N. J.

MISS SALLIE JOSEPH, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Joseph of 22 Brookwood Acres, Topping road, St. Louis county, and Ronald Walter Payne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Payne of Munster, Ind., were married Friday night. The double-ring ceremony was performed at Ladue Chapel by the Rev. James F. Neill, assistant rector.

Maid of honor was Miss Nancy Silbens; bridesmaids included two former roommates of the bride at Principia College, Elsah, Ill., Miss Sherrill Seeley of La Canada, Calif., and Miss Mary Crane of Glencoe, Ill. Miss Mireille Clark of New Orleans was also a bridesmaid.

A gown of lace and nylon tulle with a square neckline and lace-trimmed sleeves was worn by the bride. The expansive tulle skirt was designed with delicate lace flounces. Her veil, which was attached to an open crown, was dotted with lace medallions. The former Miss Joseph carried an armful of white gladiolas. Her attendants were dressed alike in ballerina-length gowns of white embroidered crystallette and tulle, and they held deep red gladiolas.

Richard C. Talbot of Joliet, Ill., was best man. Serving as ushers were Elbert Eric Bates Jr., also of Joliet; Douglas M. Stuart of Munster and Rene Wernicke of Dalton, Ill. The young men are Phi Gamma Delta fraternity brothers of Mr. Payne at Purdue University.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph gave a reception in Fellowship Hall of the church after the ceremony. Mr. Payne and his bride will live in San Francisco where the bridegroom will be stationed with the Navy.

Miss Johnson, R. W. McCallum Are Married

MISS MARY EUGENIA JOHNSON, daughter of Mrs. Lyle Webb Johnson, 19 York Hills, Brentwood, was married last night to Robert Warren McCallum, son of Mrs. Charles Alexander McCallum of Boston and the late Mr. McCallum. Delmar Baptist Church was the scene of the wedding ceremony which was performed by the Rev. Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg before an altar banked with blossoms and woodwardia fern. The bride, whose father is not living, was given in marriage by her uncle, Dr. Harold Julian Choate of Cartersville, Ga.

Imported ivory silk taffeta fashioned the gown worn by the bride. Brussels lace outlined the deep scalloped neckline and edged the wrists of the long sleeves. Her veil of matching lace over tulle was secured to a narrow-brimmed cloche. The bride's only jewelry was a diamond sunburst, worn on a gold chain, which belonged to her maternal grandmother, the late Mrs. Julian Choate. With her lily of the valley bouquet the former Miss Johnson carried an heirloom lace handkerchief made by her paternal grandmother, the late Mrs. Matthew Webb Johnson.

Miss Lois Owen of Bronxville, N.Y., cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, with Mrs. Albert Bielitz of Hartford, Conn., the bridegroom's sister, as matron of honor. Mrs. Charles B. Wright, Mrs. William M. Fittge and Miss Jane Griesedieck, all of St. Louis; Miss Joan Wittemore of Mayfield, Ky., and Miss Alice Lasseter of Birmingham, Ala., were bridesmaids. Their full-length dresses were of blue silk organza and their shower bouquets were composed of pink roses.

Dr. Charles A. McCallum of Birmingham served as best man for his brother whose ushers included Mr. Wright, Robert Siemens, Walter Winius, Douglas Hallett, all of St. Louis; James Kennedy of Hinsdale, Ill., and Edward Duncan of New Britain, Conn.

A reception was held in the Carribbean room of the Congress Hotel after the ceremony. The receiving line was formed in front of a pink garden figure banked on each side by a hedge of podocarpus trees. The flowers, the satin table coverings and the candelabra further emphasized the pink color scheme.

Mr. McCallum and his bride have gone to North Carolina on their wedding trip.

Suzanne Bourdet Is Married To T.K. Costello Jr.

MISS MARY SUZANNE BOURDET became the bride of Thomas Kendrick Costello Jr. yesterday at the Old Cathedral (St. Louis King of France Church) in a setting of white flowers and candlelight. Afterward the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andre Jules Bourdet, Larimore road, St. Louis county, gave a breakfast at Missouri Athletic Club.

Bouquets of white chrysanthemums and gladiolas decorated the high altar, which was illuminated with clusters of white tapers, and were arranged against woodwardia fern in the candlelighted sanctuary. Tall white candles, entwined with greenery, marked pews along the center aisle down which Mr. Bourdet escorted his daughter and gave her in marriage. The Rev. James E. Hoflich performed the ceremony.

Mrs. James Lambert Trout (Beverly Bourdet) was matron of honor for her sister; Miss Patricia Costello, sister of the bridegroom, and the bride's cousin, Miss Mary Anne Geraghty, were bridesmaids. Mr. Costello, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas K. Costello, 5 Stacy lane, Heather Hills, Olivette, was attended by Lt. Paul J. Herzwurm, Kansas City, as best man. Ushers were Mr. Costello's brother-in-law, John J. Eddy; Andre Jules Bourdet Jr., Joseph J. Howard and Mr. Trout.

The bride's white satin gown was designed with a fitted bodice, the net inset at the V neckline embroidered with crystal and pearls in a leaf motif. Unpressed pleats provided fullness in the skirt, which extended into a cathedral train. The long illusion bridal veil was gathered to a pearl-encrusted tulle coronet. The bride carried a prayer book covered with white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Her attendants were in pale pink nylon dresses styled with pin-tucked bodices and terrace-length skirts falling in sunburst pleats from pink velvet sashes. The young women wore small pink net hats trimmed with pink rosebuds, and held cascade bouquets of pink roses and blue delphinium.

White spring blossoms and white candles in silver candelabra decorated the bridal table at the club and smaller tables, covered with pink cloths, were centered with white flower clusters.

Mrs. Bourdet chose a blue linen dress and a matching blue straw hat. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue costume and a white hat. Both mothers had corsages of pink cymbidium orchids.

On their return from a wedding trip to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. Costello will live in St. Louis.

Golden Wedding Reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Phillip Crook, 9206 Pavia avenue, celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary last Sunday afternoon. Approximately 300 friends and relatives attended a reception in their honor at Concordia Hall. Two musicians who played at the Crook wedding in 1905 in Waterloo, Ill., were among the guests.

Annapolis Wedding For Virginia Herder

MR. AND MRS. RAYMOND F. HERDER, 143 West Jewel avenue, Kirkwood, have returned from Annapolis, Md., where they attended the wedding, June 3, of their daughter, Miss Virginia Herder, to Ens. Gerald L. Jones, who was graduated Wednesday from the United States Naval Academy.

The ceremony was performed at Trinity Methodist Church by the Rev. Charles Kirkly, after which an informal reception was held in the church parlors.

Miss Hildegarde Buhning of Kirkwood served as maid of honor in a gown of aqua net over taffeta with which she wore a matching headband and carried pink carnations and rosebuds.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white lace and tulle. With she wore a fingertip veil and carried roses and lilies of the valley.

Ens. Jones, son of Mrs. G. William Clubb of Cape Girardeau, Mo., and N. Leon Jones of Darien, Conn., had Midshipman Ben J. Kinney as best man. Ushers were the bride's brother, William Herder, who attends Wentworth Military Academy, Lexington, Mo.; Midshipman William Omberg and Midshipman John Phillips.

Miss Herder, who has been teaching in Annapolis for the last two years, is a graduate of Kirkwood High School and Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau.

Ens. Jones attended Southeast before going to the Academy. He will take his bride for a honeymoon in the Pocono Mountains, Pa., before reporting for duty at Pensacola (Fla.) Naval Air Station.

Miss Ann Lindholm Married at Church To R. O. Krewinghaus

THE marriage of Miss Ann Christine Lindholm to Richard Omer Krewinghaus was an event of last night at First Congregational Church of Webster Grooves. The Rev. Dr. Ervine P. Inglis performed the double ring ceremony. Afterward the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur William Lindholm, 213 South Maple avenue, Webster Groves, gave a reception at Le Chateau. Mr. Krewinghaus's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Omer Krewinghaus, 520 Garden avenue, Webster Groves.

White spring flowers were arranged on either side and at the back of the gold cross on the altar and white candles illuminated the altar and the center aisle. Mr. Lindholm and and his daughter were preceded to the altar by Miss Carol Porter, maid of honor; Miss Carol Sue Lindholm, the bride's sister, junior bridesmaid, and Miss Phyllis Berens, Miss Rosemary Dysart and Miss Carol Jameton, bridesmaids. The bride's cousins, William and Samuel McClure, Sedalia, Mo., carried the rings.

George Pittman was best man for Mr. Krewinghaus whose ushers were the bride's brother, Robert McClure Lindholm and Richard Boeneker, Russell Simmons and Thomas Dudley, Oklahoma City.

The bride wore a white embroidered organdy gown made with a V neck and an empire waistline. The skirt was tiers of gathered organdy which swept into a chapel train. Her illusion veil was secured to an embroidered organdy cap and she carried a small Bible adorned with white orchids and stephanotis.

Dresses for the bride's attendants were designed by Miss Jameton, who was graduated last week from Washington University School of Dress Design. Of white embroidered organdy over pale pink taffeta, they featured wide pink taffeta drapery which crossed the shoulders at back, looped under the arms and met at the waist to form streamers down waltz-length skirts. The young women wore pink roses in their hair. The honor attendant carried pink roses and the others, pink and white roses and white daisies.

After a brief wedding trip the bridegroom will continue his studies at St. Louis University School of Dentistry where he is a junior. He and his bride will live in Webster Groves.

MRS. BERNARD HENRY MARKS

Home Wedding For Miss Burns, Dr. B. H. Marks

MISS MARGUERITE FRANCIS BURNS became the bride of Dr. Bernard Henry Marks Wednesday night, a few hours after his graduation from Washington University School of Medicine. The home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Xavier Burns, 66 Berry road park, Webster Groves, was the scene of the ceremony at which the Rev. Dr. G. Curtis Jones, pastor of Union Avenue Christian Church, officiated.

The bride and her attendants descended the curving staircase in the octagonal reception hall and walked the length of one of the two living rooms leading from the foyer to an improvised altar. A white trellis, over which vines and white carnations trailed, provided the background for white chrysanthemums and tall white tapers. The entire balcony and staircase in the reception room were garlanded with carnation-studded greenery.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride had as her maid of honor, Miss June McGaghey. Miss Katherine Jones, Miss Mary Thompson and Miss June Hanchett were bridesmaids. Dr. Marks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Marks, Hot Springs, Ark., was attended by his father as best man. Ushering guests to white-covered chairs were two of Dr. Marks's classmates, Dr. John Higgins, Hot Springs, and Dr. J. T. Morgan, Memphis, Tenn., and his brother, Robert Marks.

After the service, during which a string orchestra played, the bridal party proceeded to the second living room to greet guests before the mantel which was converted into a bower of white spring flowers. The reception table in the dining room was adorned with white larkspur touched with pink roses and small tables on the two porches and the sun deck were centered with hurricane lamps set in wreaths of pink daisies.

The bride chose a sheer white embroidered organdy gown made with short sleeves and a V neck filled in with organdy folds. The skirt was in two tiers, each finished with a wide accordion pleated organdy flounce. The former Miss Burns bought her long princess lace veil, which was gathered to a lace cap, in Brussels when she was in Europe last summer. Her bouquet was white roses and lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids were in pink silk linen princess dresses, styled with short sleeves, scoop necklines and waltz-length skirts held wide by crinoline. They wore veiled-trimmed pink velvet half hats and carried bouquets of miniature pink carnations and roses. Mrs. Burns was in a pale gray organdy dress, complemented with a corsage of deep red roses, and the bridegroom's mother wore a rose batiste gown and a corsage of sweetheart roses.

Dr. and Mrs. Marks went to Mexico City for their honeymoon. They will live in Norfolk, Va., where he will intern at a hospital operated by the United States Public Health Service.

Marlene Farbstein Prospective Bride

MR. AND MRS. LEO FARBSTEIN of Springfield, Mo., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marlene Joan Farbstein, who lives at 6648 Washington avenue, University City, to Stephen Bruce Spiegelglass. The news was told recently at a dinner party given by the prospective bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Spiegelglass, 500 East drive, University City. The Farbsteins were in St. Louis for the occasion.

Miss Farbstein and her fiance are planning an autumn wedding. Both are former University of Missouri students. She is a member of Phi Sigma Sigma sorority and he belongs to Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity.

Margaret Pillow Is Married to Philip A. Muth

UNION AVENUE CHRISTIAN CHURCH was the setting last night of the marriage of Miss Margaret Ann Pillow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Pillow, 328 Melville avenue, University City, to Philip Arthur Muth. The Rev. Dr. G. Curtis Jones officiated. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Merlin A. Muth, who formerly lived at 233 Spencer road, Webster Groves, and the late Mr. Muth. Mrs. Muth, who resides temporarily at 131 Plant avenue, Webster Groves, plans to spend the summer at her summer home at Harwichport, Mass., on Cape Cod.

—Martin Schweig Photograph.

MRS. PHILIP A. MUTH

The bride was gowned in white satin and re-embroidered alencon lace. The dress featured a portrait neckline and bouffant skirt, both trimmed in matching lace applique. The smocked half-hat, which secured her veil, was dotted with seed pearls. White roses and orchids were combined for the bridal bouquet.

Maid of honor was Miss Amelia Jane Felts of Carbondale, Ill., and bridesmaids were Miss Anita Wilson of Jackson, Mo., Miss Valentia Ann Wagner and Miss Patricia Sue Collins. The young women were in yellow tulle and lace frocks worn with bolero jackets. They carried baskets of white daisies, with larkspur for the honor attendant.

The bridegroom was attended by his two brothers, John Fraser Muth of Pittsburgh, Pa., as best man, and Richard Muth of Chicago as usher. Other ushers included William Troy Feltsill of Carbondale, Clark Heidtke of Menasha, Wis., Ernest Hazel III and James Mohler.

Guests attended a reception later in the ballroom of the Gatesworth Hotel.

The newly-married pair will live at 240 South Forest avenue, Webster Groves. In the early fall they plan to vacation in Cape Cod.

The bride was graduated Wednesday from Washington University where she became a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. Her husband attended Washington and Columbia universities. This summer he will began an assignment as interim minister of South Webster Congregational Church. In early October he will resume his studies at the University of Chicago Theological Seminary.

Jack Schultz,
Adv. Dept., St. Louis Post-Dispatch
Dear Jack:

We can't understand why some women take a chance with their expensive furs. . . trying to store them at home.
Especially when proper humidity and constantly moving cool air is so vital to both fur and leather. And no moth can survive in our safe, modern cold storage vaults.

Our cleaning and glazing is so beneficial to the pelts in a fur garment, restoring life, and the ability to withstand wear, to the fur.

Now is the time for women to take advantage of our saving prices to have their furs brought up-to-date style-wise — in many cases having old fur coats made over into fur capes, stoles, etc.

Our furrier will come to your home to give an estimate.

MISS DOROTHY JANE KRAEMER and Carl Frederick Thrun were married yesterday evening at St. Andrew's Lutheran Church in University City. The Rev. Ernest Gerike officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Kraemer, 3552 Wismer avenue, St. Ann, who gave a reception afterward at the Gatesworth Hotel. Mr. Thrun is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Thrun of Detroit.

Miss Frances Kraemer, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor; bridesmaids were the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. James V. Heard of Pontiac, Mich., and Miss Mary Elizabeth Lee of Williamsville, Mo. Mr. Heard was best man. Martin Taddey, Robert Huelse and Martin Mueller of Milwaukee and Herman Holste of St. Louis were ushers.

With her floor-length gown of white embroidered organdy the bride wore a fingertip veil which fell from an organdy coronet trimmed with lilies of the valley. She carried a cascade of stephanotis and orchids.

After a honeymoon in Michigan, Mr. and Mrs. Thrun will make their home in Aberdeen, S.D. When they return to St. Louis next year, the bridegroom will study toward his master's degree in education at Washington University.

Miss Lacey Married At Church Service

MISS MARILYN ARLINE LACEY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sumner Lacey, 629 Dougherty Ferry road, Kirkwood, was married yesterday evening to Ens. Larry L. McMullen of the Navy, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. McMullen of Kansas City, Mo. The candlelight ceremony was performed by the Rev. Alfred B. Seccombe at Emmanuel Episcopal Church in Webster Groves.

The bride was in a gown of French silk taffeta, trimmed in alencon lace with which she wore a tulle veil attached to a matching lace juliet cap. White orchids and cascading sprays of stephanotis covered her prayer book.

Mrs. Robert E. Buroff of Rome, N.Y., was her sister's matron of honor with Miss Mary Lou Riggs as bridesmaids. The bride's cousin, Judith Klick, was flower girl. Anthony J. Sweeney of Kansas City was best man and ushers included Lt. A. Lee Bland, St. Louis, and Paul D. Yeoman, Lt. John F. O'Brien, Isaac N. Skelton Jr., all of Kansas City.

Relatives and close friends attended a reception afterward at the home of the bide's parents. Assisting were Miss Carolyn Clark, Mrs. Bland and Mrs. George T. Gale.

Ens. and Mrs. McCullen have departed for Long Beach, Calif., where he is stationed.

To Tour Europe.

Mrs. Burt E. Christopher, 438 Edgewood drive, Clayton, has sailed from New York on the Constitution for Naples where she will be joined by Miss Helen Thompson, 742 Trinity avenue, University City, who is to fly from New York May 23. After touring Europe they will return to this country early this month.

Miss Mauze Married To G. B. Barefoot Jr.

and had sweetheart roses in her bouquet.

J. Layton Mauze III escorted his sister to the altar where their father performed the ceremony. They were preceded immediately by two flower girls, the bridegroom's nieces, Mariana and Beth Lilley, age 5 and 6, respectively, who wore white organdy over pink taffeta, held out by crinoline, and pink satin sashes. They carried pink and white nosegays.

The bride's gown was ivory duchess satin combined with guipre lace. The snug-fitting lace bodice had a round neck, long lace sleeves and a satin skirt, elaborately overlaid with lace, which flared wide into a train over which her French illusion veil cascaded from a lace and satin cap. The bride's flowers were stephanotis and white orchids.

The large reception which followed the ceremony was held in the Great Hall of the church where greenery and white flowers provided a background for the receiving line. Three refreshment tables had pink centerpieces and pink candles. The wedding cake, on a separate table, was also adorned with pink blossoms.

Mrs. Mauze was gowned in arcady blue peau de soie appliqued with lace, and a corsage of yellow-throated white orchids. The bridegroom's mother was in filmy gray net over pink, the bodice jeweled. Her flowers were white orchids with lavendar throats.

There were many out-of-town guests, among them the bride's uncles and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. Dan H. Penton Jr., Wilmington; Mr. and Mrs. Basil Horsfield, Florence, Ala., and Mrs. Sanford Conley, Columbia, Mo., mother of an usher, with her other sons, Michael, Dudley and Layton.

Mr. Barefoot and his bride have departed on a southern honeymoon, its destination a surprise even to the bride. They will live in Wilmington.

You'll suddenly seem to have grown an entirely new and flawless skin!

Lanolin Plus®

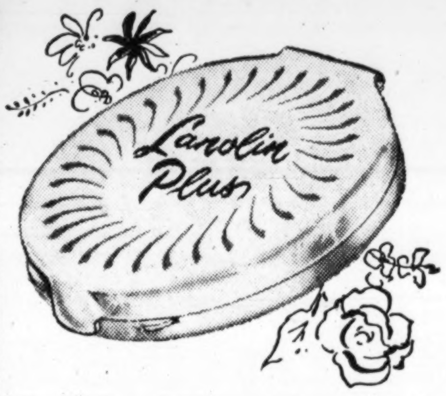
Liquid Make-Up

Lanolin Plus
LIQUID MAKE-UP

Lanolin Plus®

"Powder-Plus"

Pressed Face Powder



You will be startled when you see yourself—your friends will be startled when they see YOU—and oh, how envious they will be!

And now comes a truly NEW liquid make-up that virtually wipes from your face the things you don't want to see. LANOLIN PLUS Liquid Make-Up really covers. Those tiny lines and imperfections you so thoroughly hate, vanish from sight. So amazing is the covering power of this heavenly liquid, you could, if you wished, use a shade lighter than your own skin and still have a perfect new-skin look. But it does two more beauty wonders for you:

1. It instantly imparts a kind of youth-giving radiance that is completely new. That is because all its shades are the living colors of young skin. They LOOK alive. The living shade most flattering to you is easy to find, too, as you will discover when you see them all.

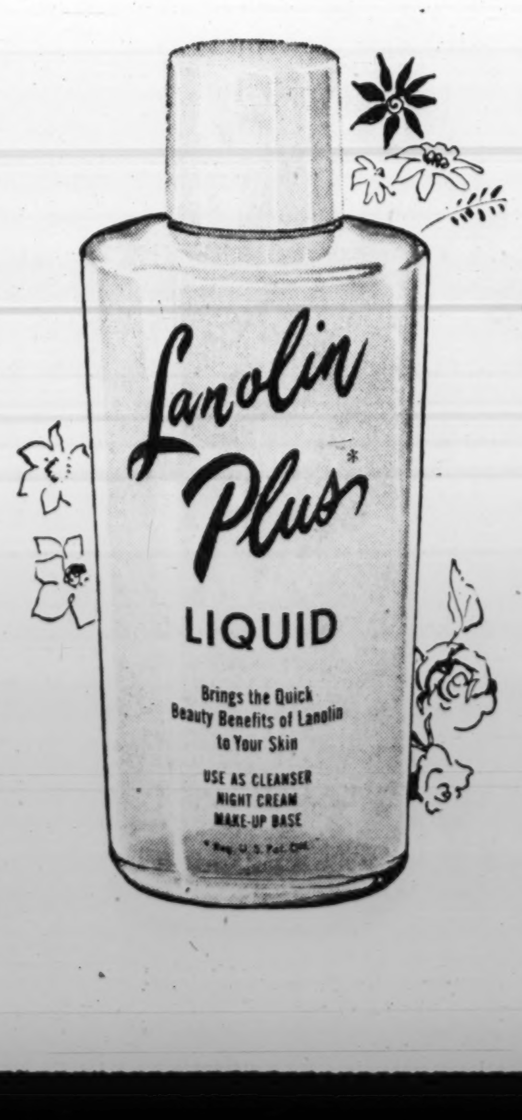
2. LANOLIN PLUS Liquid Make-Up containing pure LANOLIN PLUS Liquid helps to soften and smooth your skin every minute you wear it.

Imagine a make-up that not only gives you the appearance of having instantly grown a new, flawless and younger-looking skin, but that also makes skin softer feeling and smoother looking. $1 plus tax wherever cosmetics are sold. Indeed, there is nothing in all the world like LANOLIN PLUS Liquid Make-Up. It is a complete make-up in itself, or the identically matching shade of LANOLIN PLUS "POWDER-PLUS" may be used over it to achieve a completely matte finish.

Instantly your skin seems touched with flattering candlelight even in Brightest Daylight

If you crave a new kind of softer, more romantic look—no matter what the hour, this sensational new pressed face powder is for you. New LANOLIN PLUS "POWDER-PLUS" is exactly what its name implies . . . beauty PLUS. By absorbing instead of reflecting light, new LANOLIN PLUS "POWDER-PLUS" acts as candlelight acts—it flatters your skin, instead of accentuating little lines and "crow's-feet." Instantly your skin seems bathed in candlelight!

But more . . . all the while you are wearing LANOLIN PLUS "POWDER-PLUS" your skin, underneath, is basking in the rich, continuing benefits of the LANOLIN PLUS Liquid this new pressed powder contains. If your skin is such that you don't need a foundation, you'll find LANOLIN PLUS "POWDER-PLUS" a really beautiful complete make-up. If however, your skin needs more coverage, use the identically matching shade of LANOLIN PLUS Liquid Make-Up as a base. LANOLIN PLUS "POWDER-PLUS" comes in a lovely-to-see compact with puff and mirror to complete the picture, $1.25 plus tax, wherever cosmetics are sold.



Both these make-ups contain skin softening Lanolin Plus Liquid

LANOLIN PLUS Liquid is probably the most quickly effective skin softener ever created. Its presence in both LANOLIN PLUS Liquid Make-Up and LANOLIN PLUS "POWDER-PLUS" makes either of these two make-ups perfect for either dry or normal skin. If you do have dry skin, DO THIS:

Apply a tiny bit of penetrating LANOLIN PLUS Liquid to your skin before retiring and tissue away the excess. When you awaken tomorrow morning and see and feel your skin, you will believe that an angel had touched your face with a magic wand while you slept. All skin dryness will be gone and you'll find your dry skin worries will be over as long as you use LANOLIN PLUS Liquid regularly. $1 plus tax, wherever cosmetics are sold.

Remember, there is only one genuine LANOLIN PLUS!

A BRIDE of last Sunday was Miss Helen Jean Rothman, whose marriage to Pfc. Norman Harold Flegel took place at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. David Rothman, 8033 Davis drive, Clayton. Pink flowers provided a setting for the ceremony performed by Rabbi Samuel Thurman.

The bride wore a ballerina length gown of point d'esprit and chantilly lace. Her veil was held by a pearl-studded bandeau; she carried a Bible marked with orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Nathan Platt, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor and Miss Elaine and Miss Sally Rothman, sisters of the bride, and Miss Mary Chalme were bridesmaids. Gowned in sheer white over pink, they carried pink carnations matching their headpieces.

Mr. Flegel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Flegel, 7273 Dartmouth avenue, University City, had his brother, Chester Flegel, as best man and Mr. Platt, his son, Brent Platt, and Martin Katz as ushers.

Out-of-town guests and members of the families were entertained at a dinner reception.

Lierley-Brooks Chapel Wedding

LT. (jg) MARTHA FRANCES BROOKS of the Navy and Army Capt. Dayton Westley Lierley Jr., both stationed at Fort George G. Meade in Maryland, were married May 30 in the post chapel. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gunter Brooks of Springdale, Ark. The bridegroom's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Dayton W. Lierley, 7132 Mardel avenue, went East for the ceremony.

The chantilly lace and tulle wedding gown was worn with a fingertip veil held by pearl-trimmed satin crown. The bride carried a prayerbook marked with white orchids. Miss Mary Virginia Brooks, her sister, was maid of honor and Lt. (j.g.) Nancy Cresswell was bridesmaid. They wore lace gowns and hats, in white and blue, respectively, and carried bouquets of carnations.

Maj. Richard E. Donahue, was best man and ushers were Ens. William Tucker, Lt. Thomas Crafton, Lt. (j.g.) Charles King and Capt. William Carter.

After a reception at the Officers' Club, the bride and bridegroom departed for a wedding trip to a southern seashore resort. They will live in Riverdale, Md.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Arkansas. Capt. Lierley is completing work toward his degree at the University of Maryland. He served with the Army in Europe during World War II and holds the Combat Infantry Badge, the Bronze Star and the Medal for Humane Action.

Ludwig-Vorhof Church Wedding

MISS JACQUELINE ANNETTE VORHOF became the bride yesterday of William Arthur Ludwig at Mary Queen of Peace Church in Webster Groves. A background of dogwood trees, white summer flowers and greenery provided a setting for the ceremony performed by the Rev. Joseph M. O'Toole.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Elmer E. Vorhof, 433 West Glendale road, Webster Groves, and of Elmer E. Vorhof of the Missouri Athletic Club.

The former Miss Vorhof wore for her wedding a chantilly lace and tulle gown with a full skirt. Her fingertip veil was held by a pearl-studded coronet and she carried white orchids.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attended by Mrs. Norvel Jarvis, sister of the bridegroom, matron of honor, and Mrs. Patricia Johnson, Miss Marcia Fricke and Miss Margaret Teepe, bridesmaids. They wore net gowns, with tiered skirts, and pearl-trimmed lace caps. Their flowers were moth orchids centered with purple orchids.

Mr. Ludwig, son of Mr. and Mrs. William John Ludwig, 511 South Holmes avenue, Kirkwood, had Whelon Schoenky as best man. Ushers were Richard A. Vorhof, brother of the bride; Mr. Jarvis, Bernard McDonnell, William Nitzsche and Gerry Merz.

The reception was given at Norwood Hills Country Club. Mr. Ludwig and his bride, who did not reveal the destination of their wedding trip, will live in Hathaway Meadows.

sisters, Mrs. Barrett H. Weber (Elise Broun) and Mrs. John Francis McMahon (Janet Broun), twins, and Mrs. Thomas Fallon of Kansas City. Miss Pamela Hollis and Miss Susan Carlson, sister and cousin, respectively, of the bride, were junior bridesmaids.

Mr. McMahon was best man for his brother-in-law. Another brother-in-law, Dr. Weber; Bernard C. MacDonald Jr., Dr. Jefferson R. Edwards Jr., and Dr. Theodore Dubuque, all of St. Louis; the bridegroom's cousin, William Howard Arnold Jr., of Princeton, N. J., and Dr. Walter Bringaze of New Orleans, were ushers.

The bride was in a white organdy gown over taffeta styled with a deep round neck finished with a wide shirred organdy band which extended over the upper arm. The skirt, made of connected organdy tiers, fell from a molded bodice into a wide train. The former Miss Hollis wore the rose point wedding veil sent by the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. William H. Arnold, from Salzburg, Austria, for Mrs. Weber's wedding last July. The bridal bouquet was white orchids and stephanotis.

The matron of honor and bridesmaids wore pale blue cotton dresses designed with high wide necklines and ballerina skirts gathered to long tight bodices. They held nosegays of pink carnations, blue delphinium and baby's breath and wore some of the flowers in their hair. The junior attendants were in white organdy frocks tied with blue sashes. They wore flower bandeaux and carried small old fashioned bouquets of pink carnations and blue delphinium.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Hollis gave a reception and breakfast in Stipp's Cypress room. The punch and cake table had a centerpiece of white flowers surrounding a small fountain. In addition to the bridegroom's parents, his brothers-in-law and sisters, those from St. Louis were his aunt, Miss Janet Cocke and Frederick Niemeyer. Mrs. William H. Arnold Jr., accompanied her husband from Princeton.

After a wedding trip in Canada, Dr. and Mrs. Broun will live in Boston.

where she lived for two years until recently.

In the 1948-49 season Miss Wade made her debut with Mrs. Stuart Carothers, then Miss Helen Dozier Conant, Veiled Prophet Queen, at a dinner dance at the St. Louis Country Club.

Mr. Isham was graduated from St. George's School, Newport, and attended Yale University, leaving there in his senior year for duty in the Air Force, in which he served four years. He was attached to the Office of Special Investigation in London. His Yale clubs were Aurelian, honor society, and Brezelius. He is a member of the Yale Club of New York.

At her wedding Miss Wade will be attended by her cousin, Mrs. Paul Walter Guenzel of Winnetka, Ill., matron of honor, and a younger cousin, Wendy Cole, the Crunden Coles' daughter, flower girl. The usher list is incomplete.

Miss Vilberg Engaged.

The engagement and forthcoming June 25 marriage of Miss Ruth Helen Vilberg to Robert F. Bartholomew has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Vilberg, 6034 Childress avenue. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Bartholomew, Fayetteville, Ark. The wedding will take place at Unity Lutheran Church.

Luck and Genius of Australians Resulted in Fabulous Jet Plane

Took American Frame and British Engine and Built Avon Sabre, Claimed to Be Finest Fighter in Service.

By JOHN RANDOLPH

NEWCASTLE, Australia, June 11 (AP)—A warning sigh, a low moan. . . . Then the sky splits with a scream and thunders as it crashes back together.

A silver fury hurtles over Williamtown Air Base and the earth trembles from its blast.

It is a Sabre jet—the same swept wings, the same high Korea's MIG alley ever had that deep, sustained, full-throated roar . . . that long, smooth, unstrained note of power.

This is the Avon Sabre, the hybrid masterpiece of Australian aviation genius, which took an American airframe, an English engine and a British-German gun and blended them into a plane that some call the finest active service fighter in the world today.

"We think it is the finest Sabre flying," says Air Marshal Sir John McCauley, chief of Australia's air staff and the country's highest air officer.

"If this Sabre had been ready for Korea, it would have given Allied pilots a plane that could have kept up with the MIG in every way," says Air Vice Marshal E. C. Wackett, Australia's top aeronautics adviser.

Korea Experience Recalled.

Wackett referred to wartime flyers' complaints that the old Sabre could not match the MIG's extreme altitude performance. The United States Air Force ran up a 14 to 1 victory margin over the MIGs in the Korean war, but most of the credit went to pilot ability and to some of the old Sabre's other virtues.

An American opinion was given by United States Air Force Maj. James F. Martin, of El Paso, Tex. Martin, a former squadron commander in Korea, is American liaison officer with the Avon Sabre program. His MIG record was one kill, one probable, six damaged.

"The Avon Sabre is a much better plane than any I flew in Korea," says Martin. "I cannot speak for the new F-86Fs, which I have not flown, but it has a third more power than the old Sabres. . . . It has a shorter takeoff. . . . Its rate of climb is fabulous. . . . It gets upstairs in half the time of the old Sabres. . . . It has a top altitude I can't talk about.

"And," Martin added with a grin and some newly acquired slang, "when it gets up there, it's still got lots of chuff!"

The flow of power from the Rolls Royce Avon engine has apparently answered the only major criticism American MIG-fighters ever had of the Sabre—sluggish climb and soggy high altitude performance compared to the lighter, livelier MIG.

Comparing It and the MIG.

The Sabre, with its sturdy airframe, its protective pilot armor, its superb electronic gear and radar gunsight, and its extra fuel reserve, weighs almost twice as much as the leaner MIG. To keep up, it needed more power, and this is what the Avon delivers.

Even against the Avon Sabre, the MIG retains some advantages from its low weight. It can still turn and maneuver quicker. But it can no longer zoom away so fast, or open the battle with a built-in altitude advantage.

The MIG is more lightly built than the Sabre—it is made to come apart a lot quicker under gunfire. American officers believe that if its power is stepped up much, the MIG will have to be strengthened—and that any Red attempt to match the Sabre's other superior fighting qualities will only boost the MIG's weight and reduce its nimbleness.

The Australian designers made their own power boost with only the most trifling increase in weight—a mere 163 pounds. Outside, the Aussie Sabre looks much like the Yankee version. The difference is "under the hood." Thirty per cent of the basic Sabre was redesigned—almost all of it inside the fuselage—so the plane could take the big Avon engine. Details are secret, but one of them is believed to be strengthening the wing roots to withstand the snap of the new power thrust.

Other Countries Busy.

Australia is not alone in trying out new engines in the Sabre. Canada has already developed its own version, using another powerful British empire jet engine, the Orenda. The United States Air Force itself now has an even mightier British Powerhouse—the Armstrong-Siddely Sapphire.

But the Australians say their version is hotter than Canada's and that using a more powerful engine than the Avon will force so much redesigning that the result will no longer be a true Sabre.

The Aussies seem also to have dodged one hidden danger that might have made their experiment useless — increased fuel consumption. The Royal Australian Air Force claims its new Sabre has the same fuel capacity and range as the old one.

The Aussies, after changing engines, took another big plunge and switched from machine guns to two big 30 mm. automatic cannon.

If the guns are a success, the Avon will pack the biggest wallop of any fighter plane made. Of course, the weight of the shells cuts down the number of rounds that can be carried, and this is a major objection to putting cannon on fighter planes.

Maj. Martin on Cannon.

Maj. Martin hesitated to come down hard one way or another on this matter, but he is certainly not anti-cannon.

"After all, remember I damaged six MIGs that got away in the Korean war," he said. "If I had hit them with the 30 mm. shell, I can't imagine any of them getting home."

The Aussies have less than a dozen of the Avon Sabres in actual squadron service. Even when the program is complete, Australia will have only one Sabre wing with 48 fighters and a few spares.

The project has cost much more than buying ready-made American planes. The only chance for profit would be for Australia to supply other nations that have a lagging jet program of their own—and this is not likely. The United States is now matching or even overpassing the Avon Sabre. The British have had trouble with some of their new designs but are probably too deeply committed to turn back. Canada has its own Orenda Sabre, which is pretty good. France is making its own jets, and the smaller allies would probably prefer to buy standard American models—or get them free—to paying Australia for its souped-up "sport" model.

How It Came About?

Why, then, did Australia do it? When Australia began rearming the R.A.A.F. the Korean war was sopping up all American production.

Australia's first thought was to buy the Sabre design from North American Aviation Corp., build it in Australia, and use engines imported from America. But with the Korean war on there were no engines to be had. It was up to Australia to build its own.

This raised the question of "What engine?" After long consideration the Aussies gambled on making the Avon.

The Aussies' luck in turning a possible ugly duckling into a swan, is all the more amazing when one considers the size of Australia's aviation industry—a mere 10,000 men and women working in one government and two private plants in Melbourne.

Only the future can tell whether the venture was a good investment in pounds, shillings and pence.

SHRINERS TO PARADE DOWNTOWN JUNE 27

March Will Be Preview to Circus Which Opens 2 Days Later.

A parade of 2000 uniformed Shriners, complete with bands, floats, and gigantic balloons, will march through the downtown area on the evening of June 27, as a preview of the annual Moolah Temple Shrine Circus and fireworks display which begins two days later.

The eight floats and 14 large animated balloons will depict comic strips and cartoon characters. One 100-foot balloon, representing a family of six elephants, requires 24 men to handle it. Uniformed groups from Moolah Temple, including the mounted Blue Lancers, will total 900 marchers, while 400 will parade from Ainad Temple, East St. Louis.

The parade will start at 8:30 p.m. at Thirteenth and Washington streets and move east on Washington to Sixth street, south to Olive street, west to Twelfth boulevard, south to Chestnut street and then west past the reviewing stand at Soldiers Memorial.

The annual Shrine circus will be held June 29 through July 4 at Public Schools Stadium. It will have 65 acts, including trained bears and elephants and daring aerial performers.

Scientist Says Alcoholic-to-Be Has 'Predisposing Personality'

Some Findings of 14 Yale Researchers Who Have Been Studying Excessive Drinking for 15 Years.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 11 (AP)—It takes more than drinking to make an alcoholic, says a Yale University research specialist.

To become addicted to drink, says Leon A. Greenberg, one must have certain personality inadequacies which make it difficult or impossible for him to meet not only marked emotional problems, but even situations of mild stress in constructive and socially acceptable ways.

Greenberg is associate director of Yale's Laboratory of Applied Physiology, out of which grew the university's Center of Alcohol Studies.

He maintains that persons who are to become alcoholics have a "predisposing personality" even before they take a drink.

Thus, he says:

The alcoholic is a victim not only of the bottle, but of his own inadequacy. In his inability to meet problems, he uses alcohol as a personality crutch.

"Naturally," explains Greenberg, "if this sort of person never uses alcohol he cannot become alcoholic.

"But if he doesn't meet alcohol, he may seek escape from his problems by turning to other drugs such as cocaine, morphine or sleeping pills, or by neurotic behavior."

Some of Their Conclusions.

A staff of 14 researchers has been studying the problem at the Yale center for more than 15 years. Here are some of their findings.

In the United States there are about 4,000,000 alcoholics—persons who can't control their drinking and are suffering thereby.

Less than half are seriously disturbed or skid row types. More or less, the others form a cross-section of the population. Only about one in seven is a woman.

There are about 1,650,000 problem drinkers in business and industry.

The cost of impaired service from these people to business and industry is estimated at a billion dollars a year.

To combat this loss, the center has developed the Yale plan.

In industry, it involves the voluntary education of top management in the problem. Then a company may set up and direct its own treatment or rehabilitation facilities or pioneer in establishing them in the community.

In Connecticut, the State Commission on Alcoholism grew out of the experience of the Yale Center. The commission, supported by liquor permit fees, now operates six outpatient clinics and a Hartford hospital.

Similar clinics have been started in 22 other states.

Objectives of Clinics.

Selden D. Bacon, director of the Center, gives this explanation of how the clinics operate:

"The basic theory of the Yale plan clinics is that the alcoholic is a sick person. He has immediate symptoms, social, emotional and often physical. He has chronic social and perhaps psychological ills. He has a pattern of excessive drinking.

"The purpose of the clinic is to make him a person who is more acceptable to himself and to his community without ever using alcohol.

"To accomplish this, three major approaches are used.

"First, relieve the immediate problems which trigger his drinking.

"Second, give him a greater understanding of his problems and his drinking either on a simple, common-sense level, or, if necessary, through psychotherapy.

"Third, help him to adjust his usual way of life, both by working with him and with the people in his environment.

"Above all, the principle seems to be to so help the man that he can help himself. Medicine, psychiatry, social work, Alcoholics Anonymous, psychology and religion all can play a part in this process."

Alcoholics Anonymous is a group of ex-alcoholics who try and help alcoholics get well.

No Absolute Cure.

Do the clinics cure?

There isn't any cure, in the sense that the alcoholic can ever be a social drinker again. "The cured alcoholic," explains Greenberg, "is a person who can't ever touch a drink again. If he does — bang! He'll go back."

The fact that many persons are beginning to regard the alcoholic as a sick man, in need of understanding and treatment rather than condemnation, is largely a result of the work at the Yale Center.

Ten years ago, Bacon says, an alcoholic would have been told: "Buck up, boy, use a little willpower."

Suppose he does. Suppose he tries to cure himself, without help, change his drinking habits, cut down a little.

"It's no use," says Bacon, "he's just following down the road thousands of alcoholics have traveled."

Stages of Alcoholism.

Bacon says there are roughly eight stages an alcoholic goes through:

1. With increasing frequency, he begins to drink more than do his friends. He may even try to hide this by sneaking and gulping drinks.

2. Hangovers get worse. They become tinged with remorse, anxiety and guilt. The drinker may suffer temporary amnesias or blackouts.

2. More and more often after he has had one drink he continues to drunkenness. He can't stop.

4. Social disapproval becomes evident. His friends don't invite him over any more.

5. He discovers the marvelous cure for the hangover, the morning drink, or two, or three.

6. He starts solo drinking. He's hiding from criticism, real or imagined.

7. He seeks help. He tries to change his pattern of drinking, or he goes to his minister, a hospital, a clinic. If these don't help, there is the last stage.

8. The binge.

About this time he's apt to get fired, or divorced, or have an accident, or get sick.

GOLDEN WEDDING GATHERING

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Schulte will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary Wednesday with a family gathering at their home, 6411 Lansdowne avenue.

Schulte retired in 1948 after 43 years employment with Anheuser-Busch, Inc., as a machinist. They have two daughters and five grandchildren.

AGENCIES SEEK STUDENTS AS SUMMER VOLUNTEERS

College students willing to do volunteer work for health, welfare and recreation agencies during the summer months are urgently needed, Mrs. Justin Cordonnier, chairman of the volunteer service bureau of the Social Planning Council, said yesterday.

Volunteer assignments available are as occupational therapy and psychiatric aids, as leaders in art and craft activities for young people, and as coaches in athletic programs.

College students willing to devote several hours a week to such volunteer work can secure more information from the bureau's director, Miss Betty Bone, 505 North Seventh street. The telephone number there is Garfield 1-2600.

50TH ANNIVERSARY PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Johnson, 6225 Greer avenue, Pine Lawn, will hold a reception for friends and relatives Saturday at 8 p. m. at their home to mark their fiftieth wedding anniversary. They were married June 17, 1905.

Johnson, 75 years old, is a retired lumberyard saw-filer and maintenance man. His wife is 69. They have seven surviving children, 17 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

2 FILMS TO BE SHOWN AT CIVIL LIBERTIES MEETING

Two motion pictures will be shown at the annual meeting of the St. Louis Civil Liberties Committee at 8 p. m. Tuesday at the County Y.W.C.A., 140 North Brentwood boulevard.

One film will present Edward R. Murrow's television interview with J. Robert Oppenheimer, the atomic scientist. The other will show what happens at a security hearing where a person "on trial" is denied the right to confront and cross-examine accusers.

The meeting will be open to the public. It will be preceded by a brief business session.

MAYOR URGES ST. LOUISANS TO DISPLAY FLAG TUESDAY

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker, in a proclamation, urged St. Louisans to observe National Flag Day Tuesday by displaying American flags at their homes and places of business and observing the day in an appropriate manner.

He proclaimed Tuesday as "Flag Day in St. Louis," and noted in the proclamation that June 14 is the anniversary of the adoption of the nation's official flag by the Continental Congress.

Gov. Phil M. Donnelly proclaimed last week as "New Glory for Old Glory Week" in Missouri, in co-operation with a national campaign of that name sponsored by the American Legion. The governor also urged citizens to display the flag Tuesday.

REUNION OF 1925 CLASS

The Cleveland High School class of 1925 will hold a reunion at 7 p.m. Saturday at the Gatesworth Hotel for class members, their wives and husbands and special guests. Earl Batz is chairman of the reunion committee. The class had had a reunion every five years since graduation.

AIR ACADEMY STARTS TRAINING CADETS IN JULY

Select Class of 300 to Undertake Airmanship, Academic Educational Program.

DENVER, June 11 (AP)—The United States Air Force Academy starts this summer on its mission of training career officers for the nation's air arm.

The first class of 300 cadets—chosen from among 6300 nominations—reports next month to Lowry Air Force Base here, temporary site for the academy.

"This will be the most select, highly qualified group of young men ever entered in any institution of higher learning in the United States," says Brig. Gen. Don Zimmerman, dean of faculty.

The cadets have passed rigid mental and physical tests. They have been found to be of "good character." None has been married. All are between 17 and 22 years old.

They are the beginning of a cadet wing that in about eight years will total 2496—the number presently authorized by Congress. The academy's operations will be steadily enlarged until it is producing 600 officers annually.

Hard Core of Officers.

Lt. Gen. Hubert R. Harmon, superintendent of the academy, says the Air Force hopes the academy "will be the motivation for a lifetime career in the Air Force." The academy was founded, Harmon said, with the aim of providing the Air Force with "a hard core of professional officers."

Establishment of the academy follows recommendations of an Air Force Academy Planning Board appointed Aug. 16, 1948, to investigate the need for a third service academy. Congress authorized the academy in 1954 and appropriated $126,000,000 for its establishment.

One million dollars was spent to rehabilitate buildings and construct additional facilities at Lowry for temporary use until the academy's permanent home seven miles north of Colorado Springs is ready in the fall of 1957.

Fifty-eight million dollars will be spent on the construction of the academy. Flying facilities at the academy will require another $31,000,000. The other $36,000,000 will go, the Air Force says, "For support elements for the entire operation."

17,500-Acre Tract.

Construction started this spring on the permanent buildings on the 17,500-acre tract in the foothills of the Rocky Mountains. The western edge is bordered by the Rampart range, which rises 7000 feet above the academy area. The altitude of the site ranges from 6235 to 7900 feet above sea level. Five streams wind through the grounds.

A complete community is being created for the academy. It will be a city of 8000 to 10,000 inhabitants with a college, an Air Force base and a military training and maneuver area. There will be business offices comparable to a major command.

The academy's program will be similar in some respects to that of the United States Military Academy at West Point, and the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. Staff and faculty of both co-operated in planning the Air Force institution.

Harmon describes the curriculum as "evenly divided between technical or scientific courses and what are referred to as the social-humanities group. All of our technical courses are directed toward aeronautical engineering."

There are two major phases to the academy's program: (1) airmanship under the direction of the commandant of cadets, Col. Robert M. Stillman, and (2) academic under the supervision of the dean of faculty, Gen. Zimmerman.

Airmanship Program.

Stillman says the airmanship program will train the cadet in piloting of light aircraft, in the composition, administration and control of military forces.

Cadets will receive navigation training on the ground and in the air during four years at the academy. Full scale pilot training in the Air Training Command follows graduation.

Air force officials say it's "hoped" all cadets will qualify as pilots. However, the service has need for qualified officers in all branches and non-pilots also will find career opportunities.

The military training phase of the airmanship program starts on the cadet's arrival. It includes basic military training, weapons and equipment familiarization, basic infantry drill and tactics. Military training continues throughout the academic year.

In the summer months the cadets will participate in activities at selected Air Force, Navy and Army installations.

EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCE ON GROWTH OPENS TOMORROW

The seventh annual educational conference for students in education and home economics on developmental concepts in childhood and adolescence opens tomorrow at St. Louis University and continues through Saturday.

The purpose of the conference is to acquire a knowledge of the growth and development of the whole child, spiritually, physically, and emotionally.

Among the lesturers will be Sister Mary deLourdes, R.S.M., head of the department of child study at St. Joseph College in West Hartford, Conn. She will speak on "The Philosophy of Child Training in the Home" at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow.

U.S. Goes Two Ways at Once With Housing

By WILLIAM KERWIN

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Senate and the Administration moved in completely opposite directions last week on housing.

On the one hand, the Federal Housing Administration sent out a new warning to FHA field offices on the possible danger to the economy of overproduction of new housing.

And on the other, the Senate passed Democratic legislation providing a vast expansion of the public housing program which could have the effect of boosting home building by at least 10 per cent.

Industry groups termed the development an example of "political confusion," but public housing advocates contended that while the supply of high and middle-income housing has eased, there is still a shortage of homes for low-wage workers.

Far From Serious.

Administration leaders said they were hopeful the House would vote a sharp curtailment in the Senate bill which would authorize 145,000 low-rent public housing units annually for four years.

House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, said "We will be very fortunate" if the House approves President Eisenhower's program of 35,000 units annually for two years.

Meanwhile, Deputy FHA Commissioner Charles E. Sigety reported the Government's study into the question of an oversupply of housing "will continue indefinitely."

Although most officials believe the problem is far from serious and confined only to a few areas, Sigety advised FHA officials to take appropriate action where necessary to avoid either a surplus or a shortage of housing.

Sigety advised local FHA offices: "The creation and maintenance of a surplus housing supply in a locality would create a danger to the soundness of mortgage market conditions in that locality, by undermining the value of the inventory of existing construction and the marketability of new housing."

Urges Middle Course.

The FHA official laid down this policy: "the continual exercise of sound judgment by local insuring offices is required ...to assure that a desirable middle course in market conditions is maintained."

He said this should result "in neither maintaining a tightness in the market as to impede the consumers in a suitable opportunity to exercising selection in the choice of housing accommodations, nor, on the other hand, developing such a surplus condition that the soundness of mortgage and property investments or the vigor of the home production industry is impared."

Sigety commented that both FHA and Veteran's Administration officials should work on the problem "with a common understanding" since the two agencies have "substantial influence" over local housing conditions.

He added: "in a period of prosperity, it is relatively unlikely that a general surplus of housing will develop in the nation as a whole, if alert attention is directed to the current conditions in individual localities, and if prompt action is taken to adjust FHA and VA administrative practices for correction of local surplus conditions."

SONNENFELD'S LEASES SPACE IN NORTHLAND

The management for Sonnenfeld's, ladies' and childrens' ready to wear store in Downtown St. Louis, signed a lease last week for a two-story store in the new Northland shopping Center, West Florissant avenue and Lucas and Hunt road, Jennings, G. J. Nooney & Co., developers, report.

The lease signed by Consolidated Retail Stores, Inc., N.Y., owners of Sonnefeld's, makes a total of 30 stores and shops already leased in the new 62-acre shopping center, which is scheduled for completion later this summer. The center will contain some 40 stores and shops.

Sonnefeld's store will contain 16,500 square feet on two levels, connected by an escalator. Store frontage on each level will be 54 feet. This will be the largest store in the shopping center dealing in ladies, misses, and children's ready to wear. A full line of merchandise similar to that carried in the downtown Sonnenfeld's store at 610 Washington avenue, will be carried in the Northland store.

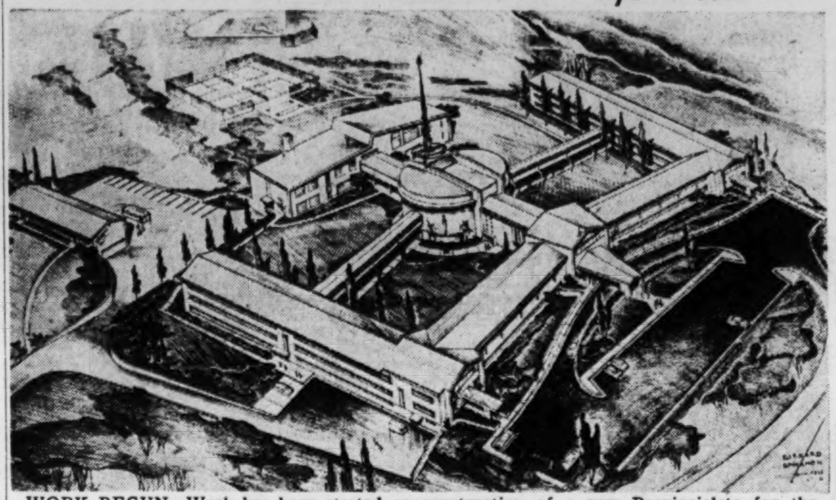
A spokesman for Consolidated Retail Stores said the company expects the Northland Sonnenfeld's to do the largest volume of any ladies ready-to-wear store in the St. Louis area outside of the downtown district.

The store will be air conditioned and modern in decor, will have fixtures with controlled lighting to display merchandise to best advantage.

First buildings of Northland are expected to open in August with others to be completed shortly afterwards, G. J. Nooney said.

Major construction work has been finished on five of the center's seven buildings, and interior decoration and fixture installation is under way in many of the stores. Surfacing of the parking area for 5000 cars is in an advanced stage and will be completed shortly. Traffic flow at the center is expected to be 20,000 customer vehicles daily.

Sketch of New Provincialate On Geyer Road



WORK BEGUN—Work has been started on construction of a new Provincialate for the Sisters of Mercy, Mother M. Bernard, R.S.M., the provincial, on an 87-acre tract on the west side of Geyer road, just south of the Country side Lane subdivision in the Village of Frontenac. Sketch is from Architect Bernard McMahon, who has designed the property. Buildings will be a Provincialate, Novitiate and Juniorate and a school for Sisters, all surrounding large circular chapel which will be connected to various buildings by aluminum passageways. Power house and help's quarters will adjoin. On high plateau, surrounded by natural woods, property will be approached by 1000-foot drive from Geyer road. Harland Bartholomew and Associates, Louis Krasner, Rebmann & Gay, and Van & Vierse, engineers, have collaborated with McMahon. John B. Gutmann Construction Co. has general contract.

Wage Guarantee To Affect Home Prices, Belief

The introduction of a limited guaranteed annual wage plan in the automobile industry will act to confirm "a long-term upward trend in the cost of housing," a top savings and loan official declares.

Addressing the North Carolina Savings and Loan League in Roanoke, Va., Norman Strunk of Chicago said "now that the door has been opened, it is probably only a matter of time before this program spreads to many other American industries."

Strunk is executive vice president of the United States Savings and Loan League, a nationwide trade organization representing more than 4200 savings associations and co-operative banks.

"Inevitably, some of the industries affected by the guaranteed wage plan will include those producing materials and equipment involved in home building," said Strunk. "Just as eventually this program is bound to have some impact upon the price of autos, it is also sure to have some effect, directly or indirectly, upon the prices of many things that go into the building and furnishing of our homes."

The League official emphasized that he did not envision any kind of a dramatic rise in building costs, or that any increases would take place overnight.

"It will take several years, perhaps many years, before we fully understand the many ramifications of this program," he added.

Strunk predicted that so far as home financing organizations are concerned, the spread of the guaranteed wage concept may result in increased pressure upon the federal government to tone down its mortgage insuring and guaranteeing operations.

He declared that the United States Savings and Loan League has been disturbed for some time over the inflationary character of the federal government's continual and repeated liberalization of home mortgage credit.

Strunk added that even without adoption of the guaranteed wage formula, inflation "storm warnings" had already been posted in many sectors of the economy.

"The present national Administration is dedicated to a philosophy of economic expansion based on stable prices," he said. "While this policy has worked with admirable success to date, its most crucial tests may be just ahead."

REALTY BOARD PLANS JUNE OUTDOOR INFORMAL DINNER

The St. Louis Real Estate Board's annual outdoor informal dinner dance has been scheduled for Wednesday, June 15, at the Norwood Hills Country Club. Invitation to board members, their ladies and guests has been extended by Quentin P. Alt, head of the entertainment committee of the board.

Dinner is to be served at 7:30 p.m. with dancing on the terrace to follow. Herb Mahler's orchestra has been retained. Tables are to be set for groups of six or larger, C. C. Lang, executive secretary of the board, said.

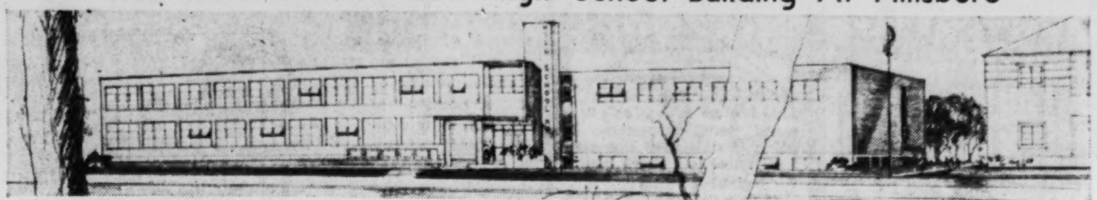
REALTY WOMEN TO MEET

The Women's Division of the St. Louis Real Estate Board will meet Wednesday at the Congress Hotel, President Mrs. Jayne H. Pulliam reports. Because this will be the last meeting for the summer, "Vacation Time" will be the theme.

A motion picture film on foreign travel will be shown by Owen J. Lenihan of the Cunard Steamship Co., Ltd.

Miss Bettie J. Russell is program chairman, assisted by Miss Alice Swantner and Miss Edith Rogers.

Contracts Let For New High School Building At Hillsboro



HILLSBORO PROJECT—Sketch from Architects Bonsack & Pearce of St. Louis of new Hillsboro High School building to be erected at Hillsboro for Reorganized School District R-3 under bond issue voted last Feb. 15 for $350,000. General contract went to Mueller & Becker, DeSoto Contractors, on base bid of $315,000.

Groundbreaking At Crestwood Plaza Shop Center

MAKING IT OFFICIAL—Large group of St. Louis County dignitaries, representatives of Sears, Roebuck & Co., the Kroger Grocer Co., and others who will have stores in the new Crestwood Plaza Shopping Center, together with the Zorensky Brothers, who are promoting the development, take part in formal groundbreaking. Russel Savage of Sears wields the shovel with a right good will while County Councilor Luman F. Mathews stands at his left lending encouragement.

Ground Broken For New Stores Center on 66

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the new 31-acre Crestwood Plaza Shopping Center were held late Thursday at the building site on Watson road, Highway 66 and Sappington.

Principal speakers were Mayor Oliver Wilkins of Crestwood, County Supervisor Luman F. Mathews, and Executive Director of the County Planning Commission, M. Eugene Baughman.

They praised the co-ordinated

RADCLIFFE, NEW SUBDIVISION BEING OPENED

The first section of a new subdivision called Radcliffe is to be opened formally today by the Federer Realty Co.

Radcliffe is partly in the Village of Frontenac and partly in the Village of "Town and Country." It lies along the north side of Clayton road, at Bopp road, in the west county's more exclusive area of country clubs, private schools and luxury-styled homes.

The whole of Radcliffe will be a considerable acreage. Streets and utility service installations have been completed in the first section, Federer said. This section is in Frontenac. The second section, in Town & Country, won't be opened before next year.

Houses all are to be luxury quality in top price ranges, architecturally styled and somewhat controlled to "conservative contemporary" thinking by an architectural control committee of which Architect William H. Mills Jr., and Ralph J. Crause, Federer's promotion agent for the development, will be members. A "conservative contemporary" field office has been erected and a home styled by Mills is being built in the area now by the Walter Bach Construction Co.

Contracts Let For New School At Hillsboro

Contracts have been let and work is expected to get under way immediately on construction of a new high school building at Hillsboro (about 25 miles from St. Louis) for the Hillsboro Reorganized School District R-3.

Architects Bonsack & Pearce, Inc., of St. Louis have designed the school and the general contract has been awarded to Mueller & Becker of DeSoto on a base bid of $315,000. The school and its furnishings are to be paid for from a $395,000 bond issue passed by voters last February. Cubic foot cost figures 66 cents, said to be unusual for concrete frame structures.

The building is to be reinforced concrete frame, completely fireproofed, with exterior of buff brick, with a terra cotta panel at the main entrance. A concrete entrance canopy, to cover bus loading, is a feature of the design. Second floor corridor will have glass block top lighting, stairs will have aluminum handrails.

The backup of walls on the interior will be hard-burned tile, plastered, with glazed tile wainscot in corridors, and with glazed tile wall finish in kitchen, locker and shower rooms and toilets. Floors will be finished, for the most part, with asphalt tile. Ceilings will be accoustically tiled. There will be built-in cases and cabinets.

Oil-fired heating and forced air ventilating systems will be installed, with automatic controls in each room.

There are to be four classrooms, rooms for general science, commercial studies, a study hall and stackroom, a homemaking studies room, teacher's room, administration suite with public and work space, private offices and the board room, to-

Building Award Total for May Third Highest

NEW YORK—May's dollar volume of Dodge reports of contract awards for future construction in the 37 states east of the Rockies was up 13 per cent above the contract total for May 1954 and was the third highest of any monthly total recorded in the history of F. W. Dodge Corp., Dodge reports. The total was $2,185,065,000.

The five-month total of $9,727,562,000 set a new high record and was 29 per cent above the corresponding figure for last year which reached the previous high mark.

For the second successive month the Dodge residential classification topped the billion mark; at $1,011,310,000, residential building contracts were up 23 per cent above the total for May 1954. Last month's residential total was the second highest in Dodge history, exceeded only in April of this year.

The weight of these figures on the national economy can be measured by the fact that residential dollars total almost half of the construction as carried in the Dodge reports.

Non-residential building totaled $725,755,000 last month, up 8 per cent over May 1954. Public works and utilities totaled $448,000,000, up 5 per cent over May 1954.

For the five months the classified totals were:

Non-residential building, $3,289,895,000, up 20 per cent over the first five months of 1954; residential building, $4,505,626,000, up 38 per cent; public works and utilities, $1,932,041,000, up 28 per cent.

Incidentally, the front entrance to laundry makes it very handy to the kitchen area as well.

Bedrooms are located at one side of the house for maximum privacy. You will notice especially the excellent wall space provided in each of the three bedrooms. Closets are roomy. The bathroom is large with built-in vanity and linen closet. Because this model has no basement, storage space has been well planned and amply provided, for instance; storage space in laundry room; closet near kitchen; linen closet in hall near bedrooms; large storage room in hall near heating area; storage for garden tools off terrace; plus your built-ins and guest closet! Exterior construction is of split field stone, brick and wood trim —ideal for the would-be-country gentlemen!

Complete blueprints for this design No. H-363 St. Louis are available for $7.50 first set, $18 for three identical sets on same order. Conversion Detail Guide which shows how to convert home into brick, block or frame construction is $1.25. Material lists are $1 each. Send name, address and check or money order direct to Homograf Department, Post-Dispatch, 11711 East Eight Mile road, East Detroit, Mich. Don't forget to include plan number. A new Homograf plan book of 68 designs also is available for 60 cents including postage and handling charges.

CHURCH ACQUIRES ALL FRONTAGE IN BLOCK OF JOLIET

The Church of St. Paul The Apostle, Roman Catholic, completed acquisition last week of all the frontage on the north side of Joliet avenue between Jennings Station road and Council Grove avenue through purchase of two 30-foot lots. The lots run 157 feet deep.

The church purchased, in the name of Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter, property owned by Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Linnertz, on which there is a vacant two-story frame house, and property at the Joliet-Council Grove corner where Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Mattern, the owners, reside in a two-story frame house. Mr. and Mrs. Mattern are to give possession when they have found another home property.

Both deals yere arranged by the Stemmler Realty o. Stemmler said it was the plan of the church to raze the frame buildings to create a site for a new convent for sisters who teach in the parish school. They now reside in a building that faces Jennings road.

Consideration in the transactions was indicated to total $18,000 for the ground, which adjoins the school.

The Rev. Arthur White is pastor.

gether with sanitary facilities in the "classroom wing" of the building."

In an "auditorium-gymnasium wing" there are to be a combined gym-auditorium with stage and seating for 600; a music department, accoustically treated, together with practice rooms; cafeteria and kitchen for present and future needs, locker and shower rooms and sanitary facilities for boys and girls in the gym area.

Provisions also are made for expansion of this wing later. Ground has been purchased for this and for football, baseball and other playing fields.

School board members are Irvin Emerson, president; Howard McKinney, Martin Linhorst, George Huskey, Dwight Schubel, vice-president; George Kayarian, J. L. Hall, treasurer; Clara Shubel, secretary. Warren M. Black is superintendent of schools. Fred Whitehead was a board member when the program was started.

Plans were prepared in consultation with Dr. George Englehart, director of school building services for the state department of education at Jefferson City. H. J. Vonder Bruegge, Maplewood, is structural engineer.

OFFICERS' CORRECTION

Due to inaccurate information given to the Post-Dispatch, names of officers of Stilwell-Standard Photo, Inc., a consolidation of two firms reported last week, were incorrect. Officers of the new corporation are Jack Rother, president; William Haarstick, vice president; Blanche Haarstick, treasurer; Robert B. Rother, secretary. Charles G. Rother is chairman of the board.

Foreclosures Few.

Although the number of savings associations reporting real estate on hand at the end of 1954 increased slightly over the end of 1953, foreclosures were at "a very low ebb," with the amount of real estate on hand comprising only a very small proportion of the total, the United States Savings and Loan League reported.

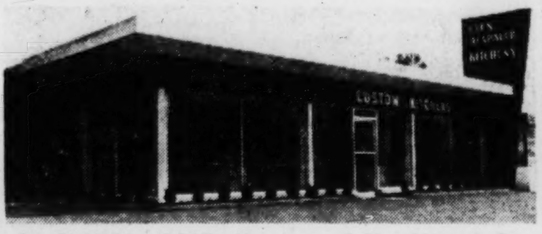
Bank Moves In Tomorrow

THIS IS A BANK—Though it doesn't look much like the average conception of a bank building, this is the new home of the Chesterfield Bank, into which operations will be moved tomorrow at Highway 40-61 and Baxter Road. Architect Marcel Boulicault designed Williamsburg colonial structure and interior is finished Early American, hickory and pine. Bank Building & Equipment Corporation was builder. Alfred H. Kerth Jr., cashier, said all departments of bank will be in new building and some personnel will be added. There's off-street parking area.

New Clayton Building Finished



ON CLAYTON ROAD—New home of Glen Alspaugh Custom Kitchens, completed and occupied June 1, is at 9808 Clayton road. Firm moved from 8151 Delmar boulevard, taking new quarters under 10-year lease. Building was erected for an unidentified investor represented by the Edward L. Bakewell Real Estate agency, with the R. K. & A. Jones Construction Co. as general contractor. Edward Schilling was the architect, designing the store especially for Alspaugh's use. There are 2200 square feet of display floor, partially lighted with sky domes; 1000 square feet of warehouse area with dock facilities, parking area for 30 cars. Alspaugh covers eastern half of Missouri and southern Illinois, functions as distributor for nationally advertised kitchen equipment.

Property On City Corner Sold

TWELVE-FAMILY BUILDING—Property at northeast corner of Spring avenue and Lafayette sold for the B.B.G. Investment Co. to Maurice and Jean Newman in transaction negotiated by the Bender-Ghertner Realty Co. Three-story brick building has 12 apartments of five- and six-room sizes, basement, but no garages. There are entrances from both streets.

FORMAL OPENING TODAY FOR NEW SUBDIVISION

Formal opening has been scheduled for today of a new subdivision called "Southview" on the east side of Buckley road beginning about 200 feet south of Lemay Ferry road. The Smith Co., Realtors, of Chippewa street (there are other Smith companies in real estate) has been named promoter of the development. John Hubatchek Construction Co. is to do the building in the area and both construction and permanent financing is through Modern Mortgages, Inc.

Three display houses have been erected. Houses are to be three-bed brick ranchers in a medium price range.

There are two concrete paved streets called Jonel Drive and Darding Drive, which connect in a curve at the rear of the 29-acre tract. Sanitary and storm sewers have been installed as separate systems.

GEORGE R. HUNSCHE McCUNE GILL

. . . vice-president and president, respectively, of the Title Insurance Corporation of St. Louis, whose portraits, painted by Artist Charles Galt, are to be unveiled at a ceremony in their honor next Thursday. A. P. Kaufmann, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Metropolitan St. Louis, is to officiate. Open house and reception have been set for 4:30 to 6 p.m. that day. Both men have been in real estate, mortgage banking and title service more than 50 years.

Heads Wolff's

ALEXANDER M. ROSS

. . . who has come to St. Louis from New York City to succeed Harvey Kopp as president of Wolff's Clothiers, Inc., Seventh and Olive streets. Ross was on the executive staff of Wallach's in New York, previously about 23 years with Wanamaker in Philadelphia, learned the clothing business through the woolen trade of Scotland, where he grew up. Wolff's principal line is Hart, Schaffner & Marx.

Ground Broken For New Water Process Plant

Breaking of ground on a third plant for the St. Louis County Water Company, the South County Plant, was begun last week by Woermann Construction Company at a location near the Meramac River and north of Gravois road in south St. Louis county.

Costing an estimated $1,500,000, this newest plant will have a capacity of 15,000,000 gallons per day and will raise the company's total capacity to 136,000,000 gallons per day by June 1956, scheduled completion date.

The new North County plant of the company, near Charbonnier road, began operation last week with one-half of its 36,000,000-gallon-per-day capacity and is scheduled to start operating the other half in July. The Central plant, near Olive Street road, now has a capacity of 85,000,000 gallons per day.

Production facilities of the new South County plant, including softening, settling, coagulation and filtering basins, will be constructed on a 90-acre tract slightly more than a mile from the river. Intake pumps for the plant will be located on the east bank of the Meramec, south of Gravois road, with an 8000-foot-long transmission main leading under Gravois and carrying river water to the purification plant.

The plant will feature revolutionary new metal, above-ground, filters especially designed by the County Water Company for this installation. The South County plant, which will be the smallest of the three plants, has been designed so that the capacity can be raised as the demand for water in the county increases.

Architect-engineers for the plant are R. W. Booker & Associates. The Woermann company is also doing the construction work on the new North County plant.

TRIANGLE STORE BUILDING LEASED TO WHOLESALER

The triangular shaped store building at 3300 North Florissant avenue, at the juncture of Florissant, Natural Bridge and Palm avenues on the near North Side, has been remodeled and leased for a long term to a whole operator, the Glick Real Estate Co. reports.

All but four sections of the display windows and the glass doorway in the front have been removed and bricked up to provide more inside wall space. The one-story building will provide 10,000 square feet of floor space and there is a parking lot in the rear. It is expected to be ready to open July 1.

The new concern coming in is the Harrison Wholesale Company of Chicago, distributor of automotive and electrical supplies and parts. Alfred Scott Kilpatrick is the lessor, represented by the Glick company in the transaction through his lawyer, E. C. Hartman.

Check Heating Plants.

Calling all heating plants for servicing! If your heating plant hasn't been cleaned and checked, better make arrangements to have this done immediately, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau warns. Boiler, burner and controls should be checked to forestall the possibility of trouble during next winter.

LUMBER FIRM BUYS ANOTHER

The Baker Lumber Co. of Madison has purchased the Mexico Lumber Co., on highway 54 east, in Mexico, Mo., from the Louisianan Lumber Co. which had owned it, and has taken possession, Real Estate Dealer Harry Callison of Clarence, Mo., reports. Marion Page will continue to manage the Mexico company, Callison said.

PAVING COMPANY BUYS GROUND FOR PLANT IN CITY

The Bridges Paving Co. has purchased from the Hydraulic Press Brick Co. a tract of about 306,000 square feet (seven acres) on the west side of Kingshighway just north of McRee avenue and the site for a new paving operations plant.

Consideration in the transaction wasn't reported, though it was believed to be something in excess of $150,000. The ground was sold as part of Hydraulic Press Brick's program of liquidating excess realty holdings, according to the Carl G. Stifel Realty Co., which was agent in the transaction.

There is a two-story brick building, 30 by 35, housing air-conditioned offices, on the ground, together with several brick warehouse structures. The ground lies between Frisco Railroad tracks on the north and Missouri Pacific Railroad tracks on the south. Bridges's development of the site as a plant for handling asphalt and other paving materials will put the concern in central position with reference to much work anticipated through developments being engendered through St. Louis bond issue planning.

LENNOX ALL SEASON Aire-Flo AIR CONDITIONING
FOR THE AVERAGE HOME . . . At Reasonable Cost!

DESIGNED FOR RESIDENTIAL USE

If you own a home with central warm air heating, you can have LENNOX All Season Aire-Flo Air Conditioning at reasonable cost. And it makes no difference if your home is new or old—big or small.

For 58 years LENNOX has specialized in home comfort, and builds a residential air conditioning system to exactly fit your home. LENNOX Systems are especially designed for attics, basements, closets, crawl spaces, garages, or utility rooms. Each refrigeration unit guaranteed 5 years.

Let us show you how you can have LENNOX Air Conditioning in your home.

The LENNOX "Flat-Top" Air Conditioner fits directly over the furnace in your closet. Available in 2 and 3 ton sizes. Refrigeration unit is guaranteed 5 years.

The LENNOX "Stowaway" can be installed along with your present Stowaway-type furnace in either your attic or crawl space. Or it can be added in the ductwork of your regular furnace. Available in 2 and 3 ton sizes. Refrigeration unit guaranteed 5 years.

The LENNOX "Flat-Top" Air Conditioner is installed in a reverse flow furnace in utility rooms or closets. Available in 2 and 3 ton sizes. Refrigeration unit guaranteed 5 years.

LENNOX Combination Heating and Cooling Systems

The LENNOX All Season Aire-Flo is a combination heating and cooling system. Available in 3, 4, 5 and 6 ton sizes with twin refrigeration units to give "stand-by" extra cooling for hottest weather. Five year guarantee on refrigeration units. Gas-fired heating unit with capacity for any home.

NEW CORPORATION ACQUIRES THE GREBE MOTOR COMPANY

A new corporation called the Grebe-Fischer Oldsmobile, Inc. has purchased the Grebe Motor Company, Olds dealership at 3400 South Kingshighway.

The Grebe company has been operated by four brothers and, as the name indicates, the operation will continue to be in the Grebe family. Ott Grebe Jr., president of the new corporation, is a son of O. H. Grebe Sr., one of the four former owners, and Wil Fischer, who is vice-president of the new corporation, is a son-in-law of O. H. Grebe Sr.

The Grebe new car showroom, the service department and the used car lot occupy a full block of South Kingshighway frontage. The agency is said to be the oldest Oldsmobile agency in St. Louis.

Ground Broken

efforts of the developers in bringing a readily accessible shopping center to the Southwest County, whose phenomenal growth has attracted considerable attention.

In addition to the public officials present for the ceremony were Russel L. Savage, manager of Sears-Roebuck & Co.'s retail operations in St. Louis, J. S. Roberts and J. A. Halloran of the F. W. Woolworth Co., R. A. Hughes, Kroger branch manager and C. D. Neel, Kroger branch manager and C. D. Neel, Kroger Real Estate department head, and other retail store executives planning stores in the center.

Sears Expands Plans.

The original smaller Sears-Roebuck store announced for the center some weeks ago has now been expanded considerably into a major department store At the ceremoney, an announcement of the expanded Sears store was made jointly by Sears officials and LouisI. Zorensky and Milton L. Zorensky, owners and developers of the 31-acre plot. The new department store will occupy more than 115,000 square feet in the heart of the center, while provisions will be made for an additional 50,000 square feet for expansion. The complete department store will have a 12-car service station plus an additional area for outside selling.

The Sears-Roebuck Co. has taken a continual survey in recent years and their study shows that the regional center will serve the needs of a vast trade area surrounding the Crestwood Plaza site. Thousands of new homes are now being added to those which have already been built in recent years. Their study shows that the trading area includes all of the heavily populated Kirkwood, Webster Groves area as well. The Sears store planned in the center was found to be too small even before construction started, so will be exanded in the beginning into a major department store in size

In addition to the expanded Sears department store, plans call for an F. W. Woolworth store that will have 19,125 square feet of floor space, a 23,000 square foot Super Kroger Grocery and 40 other stores and service shops.

These store officials stated that the Crestwood Plaza Shopping Center was selected for large units of their company's stores because it offered an excellent location to meet the needs of the Southwest St. Louis County's expanding population. They said they felt the concentration of many stores in one center with maximum customer services would offer the ultimate in one-stop shopping.

The Millstone Construction Co., Inc., is the general contractor and the R. and M. Construction Co. has been awarded the excavating and grading contract. Horner and Shrifrin, engineers, prepared the site plan.

NORMANDY SUBDIVISION WILL BE OPENED TODAY

A new subdivision in Normandy called Bermuda Manor, off Bermuda avenue north of the Normandy Wedge from Florissant road, is to be opened formally today. The Sidney Jacobs Realty Co. is promotion agent and the M. C. Construction Co. is doing the building.

Brick and redwood houses of conservative contemporary styling are being built with attached garages in a medium price range. The development has both storm and sanitary sewers.

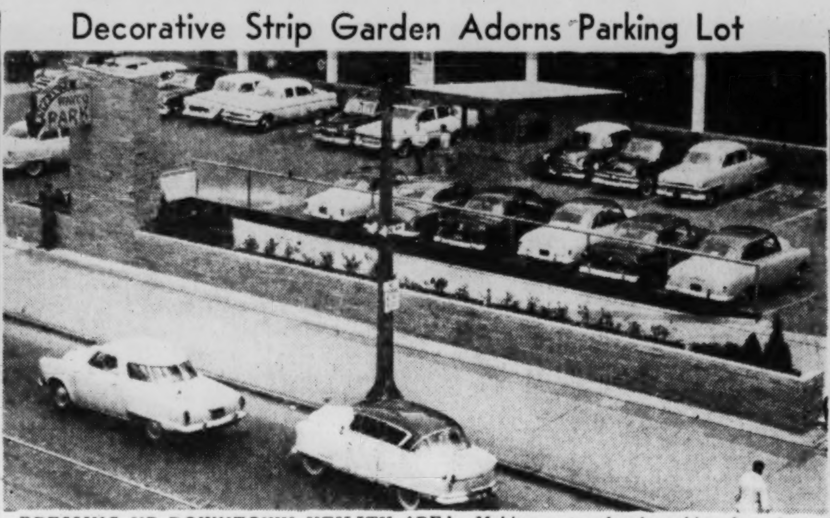
Decorative Strip Garden Adorns Parking Lot



DRESSING UP DOWNTOWN UTILITY AREA—Making a two-level parking lot of an ugly hole in the ground, where steel and concrete of an old store foundation marred the scene, involved establishment of a ground (or street) level floor, a ramp to the basement area, and the operators dressed the place up by adding a "strip garden," which hides the ramp somewhat. Modernization, which doubled parking capacity of the lot, at Broadway and Washington, cost about $130,000. Slabs of Colorado red granite, together with evergreen shrubs and red, pink and yellow floribunda roses mark the planting area. The Wayco Co. operates the lot, one of 16 lots and garages in it's downtown chain. Investors represented by G. J. Nooney & Co. own the property.

Auto Makers Jockey Into New Positions

By FRANK SNYDER

DETROIT (INS)—Apparently everyone except Willys Motors is producing more passenger cars than last year, but General Motors and Ford aren't getting the same huge cut of the market as in 1954.

Ward's Automotive Reports says that G.M. and Ford currently are posting production gains of 41 and 24 per cent, respectively, over last year. But their increases aren't comparable with those being made by Chrysler, Studebaker-Packard and American Motors.

Chrysler, in its amazing rebound from last year's nearly disastrous decline, is 116 per cent ahead to lead the pack. American Motors has posted an increase of 113 per cent, and Studebaker-Packard is 93 per cent above last year's output at this time.

Ward's says these hikes have trimmed G.M.'s slice of the passenger car melon to 49.3 per cent against 51.5 per cent at this time last year, while Ford has dropped from 31.5 per cent of a year ago to only 26.6 per cent now.

Chrysler's slice has been increased from 12.7 per cent a year ago to 18.6 per cent now, while American Motors has risen to 2.5 per cent from 1.7 per cent last year. Studebaker-Packard is up to 2.8 per cent from 2.1 per cent. Willys' decline is from 0.5 per cent last year to 0.2 per cent.

Farm Research Center.

A farm machinery research and engineering center has been opened in Birmingham, Mich., by the Ford Motor Co. tractor and implement division.

The new, multi-million-dollar facility is a major step in Ford expansion in the "full line" farm machinery business. A test track for farm machinery also is planned for the same location near the division's general offices.

The U. S. Rubber Co. has announced a new pneumatic mounting band which it claims makes it easy to mount tubeless tires without removing the wheels from an automobile.

After the deflated tire is placed over the wheel rim the mounting band is put over the outside of the tire. When the band is inflated, the tire beads are forced into a seal against the rim. The tire is then inflated and the mounting band is deflated simultaneously by turning the valve cap.

Company officials say the pneumatic unit weighs only five pounds, has no moving parts, and one size fits all passenger car tires.

Car Mileage Doubles.

According to an automobile credit company, America's passenger car mileage has just about doubled in the last 15 years.

In 1954 United States motorists traveled a record 475 billion miles. The Universal C.I.T. Credit Corp. reports, compared with 240 billion in 1940.

More than half the mileage on passenger cars is for business purposes, indicating that more and more persons are driving to work instead of depending on public transportation.

Crashes on Highways.

A survey shows that many more fatal accidents occur on straight roads than any other kind. The survey, covering 22 states, says that 78 per cent of the fatal motor accidents were on straight roads, 14 per cent on curves, and only 8 per cent on sharp turns.

A timely summer hint on car operating economy: always park your car in the shade to cut down gasoline evaporation. You can avoid additional evaporation by always keeping the gas tank more than half-full.

Clean-Up Wisdom.

As son as a painting session is finished, always clean your brush, roller or spray gun thorouhgly with the proper solvent.

NEW YORKER COMES TO CITY TO MANAGE BIEDERMAN UNITS

Mr. Edelman

New Yorker Sol Edelman has been brought to St. Louis by Biederman's Furniture Co. to be general manager of the whole Biederman operation, which includes stores in both Missouri and Illinois. William Beiderman, president of the stores, said Edelman's job is one newly created in connection with the current expansion of Biederman operations. Biederman recently opened a new St. Louis area branch store at the Normandy Wedge, already has units at Alton, Ill.; Cape Girardeau and Springfield, Mo., as well as its main business establishment in Downtown St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Edelman and daughter plan to reside at 7451 York Drive, in Clayton. Edelman was in St. Louis last week in a series of conferences with store personnel as he began taking up his duties. He has long been active in retail furniture trade in the East.

LEAVES From a GARDENER'S NOTEBOOK

By Eleanor B. McClure

Among the most accommodating of summer flowers is the gladiolus. Given minimum care, a good corm (bulb) is almost sure to produce a good bloom. Although glads do respond to special pampering, they flower cheerfully in any type of soil from almost pure sand to gummy clay, and they are fairly drouth-resistant.

By making succession plantings, it is possible to have glads in flower through a very long season. Corms planted in the next three or four weeks will provide colorful blooms for the autumn border. By careful selection of varieties, flowers can even be timed to mature for next September's Horticulture Society Harvest Show. Some varieties take as long as 90 days to flower, but the "early" types usually mature in from 60 to 75 days.

The gladiolus does need abundant sunlight and will not flower well in partial shade. It is essential, too, to protect the plants from thrips by spraying or dusting with DDT at about two-week interval.s

For top-size blooms, bulbs should be planted in deep rich loam and given plenty of water. The size and quality of the florets can also be improved if a light side dressing (one pound to 1000 square feet) of a balanced chemical fertilizer is spread along the row just as the spikes are developing.

After the blooms have been cut a more generous feeding (two to three pounds to 100 square feet) will help produce a bigger and better bulb for next season. It gees without saying that the leaves of the plants should not be out back during this critical period when the glads are working so busily on the new bulbs.

Glads make such fine and long-lasting cut flowers that they are usually planted in the cutting garden. However, groupings of six to a dozen of a single kind can make glowing accents of color in the perennial border.

To avoid disturbing the roots of nearby perennials, individual holes may be made for each bulb with a long, slim trowel.

Hybridizer's Award.

At the recent meeting of the American Rose Society a Gold Medal award was given to an English hybriizer who originated a fine floribunda rose called Frensham. I was particularly pleased, for I liked the catalogue descriptions of this rose, and admired it even more this spring when I met it in two St. Louis area plantings.

The Frensham floribunda has bright red blooms of nice form and foliage that looks exceptionally clean and healthy. The plants seem very sturdy, and they were among the first to bloom. In one catalogue a gardener reported that though other roses were killed by frost, Frensham continued to flower. The writer asked, "What is he, anyhow—a polar bear?"

It will be interesting to see if Frensham lives up to this fine first impression. After a season or two we'll know how well this English-bred rose can grow in our midmestern climate.

Although it isn't a new rose, I've been admiring the springtime bloom of another floribunda, Pink Bountiful. This rose has clear pink blooms that resemble small hybrid teas and are borne in truly bountiful profusion. It is highly recommended for planting in mixed borders, for groupings of three plants can add almost continuous spots of May-to-frost color.

For size, floriferousness and dependability, Peace is still the outstanding variety among the hybrid tea roses. This spring, in Cape Girardeau's new test garden, Sun Valley was the top yellow rose, with Buccaneer and Debonair also giving fine performances. It seems that Picture was the best pink, but Tiffany, Queen Elizabeth and Lilibet were also much admired. The first red rose to bloom was Christopher Stone, but Bravo and Nocturne have been favorites of the visitors.

Although the hybrid teas are most impressive, I am also very fond of some of the very small roses. China Doll is a winsome dwarf variety with pink blooms. I must admit that I prefer Pigmy Gold to Pigmy Red, which has flowers that fade as they mature. Another pint-sized rose, called Charlie McCarthy, has a trim habit of growth and sparkling white flowers. The foliage of Cinderella is decorative, and the blooms look like plump white buttons flushed with rose.

Tomato Problem.

A St. Louis gardener has a tomato problem. Last summer, even though his patch was mulched, fed and watered regularly, most of the blossoms wilted, the stems cracked, and result was—few tomatoes!

As a matter of fact, it was the exceptional gardener who had a good tomato harvest last summer. Undoubtedly excessive heat was a factor. On some of those torrid days the pollen was literally cooked right on the blossoms.

I'm wondering, too, if home gardens, like orchards, may not be suffering from lack of pollinating insects. Blanket applications of DDT have wiped out so many friendly insects (and especially the bees) that orchardists now rent hives of bees and put them in the orchards during the critical bloom stage.

Tomatoes will bear fruit even though the blooms have not been pollinated, when they are sprayed at the proper time with a synthetic hormone solution. Although this spray treatment produces earlier crops (and almost seedless tomatoes), there is some evidence that the quality of the fruits may not be quite so high.

FLUORESCENT COSTS LESS

Fluorescent lighting is less expensive to operate than is incandescent lighting. A fluorescent lamp lights a greater area than does an incandescent bulb of equal wattage.

"Blast aphids before they blast buds!"
Aphids and other sucking insects love to cluster on the tender young growth of roses, shrubs, trees, flowers and vegetables — every kind of plant you grow. These tiny insect pests curl the leaves and deform the buds, fruit and shoots, and often spread virus diseases too. The sure way to control sucking insects is to spray with Black Leaf 40, America's best-known insecticide.
Always use BLACK LEAF 40®
Mix one teaspoonful of Black Leaf 40 with a gallon of soapy water to make a spray that kills insects quickly by contact and by fumes. It destroys sucking insects, young chewing worms, and scale insect crawlers, even rose slugs and leaf miners. Black Leaf 40 gets rid of major insect pests without burning plants or discoloring foliage or flowers. Spares bees and predatory insects.

Rexall Drugs Consolidating Manufacturing

The Rexall Drug Co. reports it will move its Boston manufacturing to St. Louis in a $1,465,000 expansion.

James Knowles Jr., vice president of Rexall, said all of the company's toilet goods manufacturing is being moved from the East.

In addition to plans to expand present plant facilities for the increased operations, previously reported here, Rexall also will build a new warehouse. It will be the firm's largest, a one-story building with 150,000 square feet of space on the main floor and 15,000 square feet of balcony space for offices.

The vice president in charge of Midwest sales will have offices in the new building. The sales district will cover Chicago, St. Louis and Fort Worth.

The St. Louis plant currently manufactures and distributes its products to dealers in the territory and supplies eight other warehouses. After the new warehouse is completed, bulk merchandise will be sent to branch warehouses from the manufacturing plant, and direct shipments to local dealers will be halted, it was explained.

From 150 to 200 new employes will be added, and Knowles said the expansion would bring total production to 85,000,000 packages a year.

Knowles said St. Louis was the "most convenient and economical point for the firm to operate from because it is a rail and trucking center.

STANDARD OIL UPGRADES ITS HOSPITAL PLAN

The Standard Oil Company here reports the making of several changes in its basic employe benefits program designed to increase protection given employes. R. W. May, St. Louis sales division manager, said that, effective July 1, the new provisions will include:

The company's group hospital plan will now pay full hospital room charges for 150 days up to a maximum of $12 a day, with an $8 minimum. Previously the amount paid was $8 a day. As at present, the plan will pay the pay slightly more—$1 perm onth hospital services. But it will also pay 75 per cent of these charges on the next $3900. At present, the plan applies only to the first $2000 of charges for special hospital services. Employes will pay slightly more—$1 per month for complete family coverage, for example—toward the cost of added benefits.

Employes retired after July 1, 1956, will be guaranteed minimum payments of $25 a month above the minimums now guaranteed.

Employes who retire early because of disability will get higher payments than at present. Some employes already retired will get additional payments from the company to make up for the 1954 increases in social security benefits they will not receive.

An employe who retires early may, by continuing his own payments, keep his full group life insurance until he is 65 without taking a medical examination.

An employe, when he reaches 65 may, if he wants, convert all or up to half of his group life insurance to an individual policy. He will not have to take a medical examination for this conversion. If an employe does not convert more than half, he will also be covered by a policy of reduced amount paid for entirely by the company.

An annuitant's life insurance will be paid upon his death to anyone he designates. In the past only dependents were eligible to receive these benefits.

Annuities for future service with the company are to be financed by trust arrangements and guaranteed by Standard Oil Company itself. In the past, part of the annuities had been handled through a trust fund, part through an insurance company.

ROSE SOCIETY TO PRESENT SHOW AWARDS TO MEMBERS

The June meeting of the Rose Society of Greater St. Louis is to be at 8 p.m., Friday, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Stöcke, No. 2 Conway road. Trophies and ribbons won by members of the local society in the recent American Rose Show, held at Shaw's Garden in connection with the American Rose Society convention here, will be formally presented. Francis R. McMath, Webster Groves, was chairman of the show.

DAHLIA SOCIETY HOLDING PLANT SALE FOR SHOW FUND

The St. Louis Dahlia society started yesterday and is continuing today its plant sale to amateurs to raise funds for financing it's fall show. The sale is at the home of M. Solomon, 4017 Castleman avenue, from 9 to 5 p.m. The society held its regular June meeting at the Cabanne Branch Library last Friday night.

NURSERYMEN PLAN SUMMER OUTDOOR MEETING SCHEDULE

The July meeting of the Landscape & Nurserymen's Association of Greater St. Louis is to be at the Westover Nursery on Monday, July 12; the August meeting at the Houlihan Nursery, Aug. 8, and the September meeting at the Forest Keeling Nursery in Elsberry, Mo., on Sept. 12, E. P. Larson, secretary, reports.

The June meeting, tomorrow night, is to be at the American Legion Hall, 7800 Olive street road, University City. Several committee reports are to be heard.

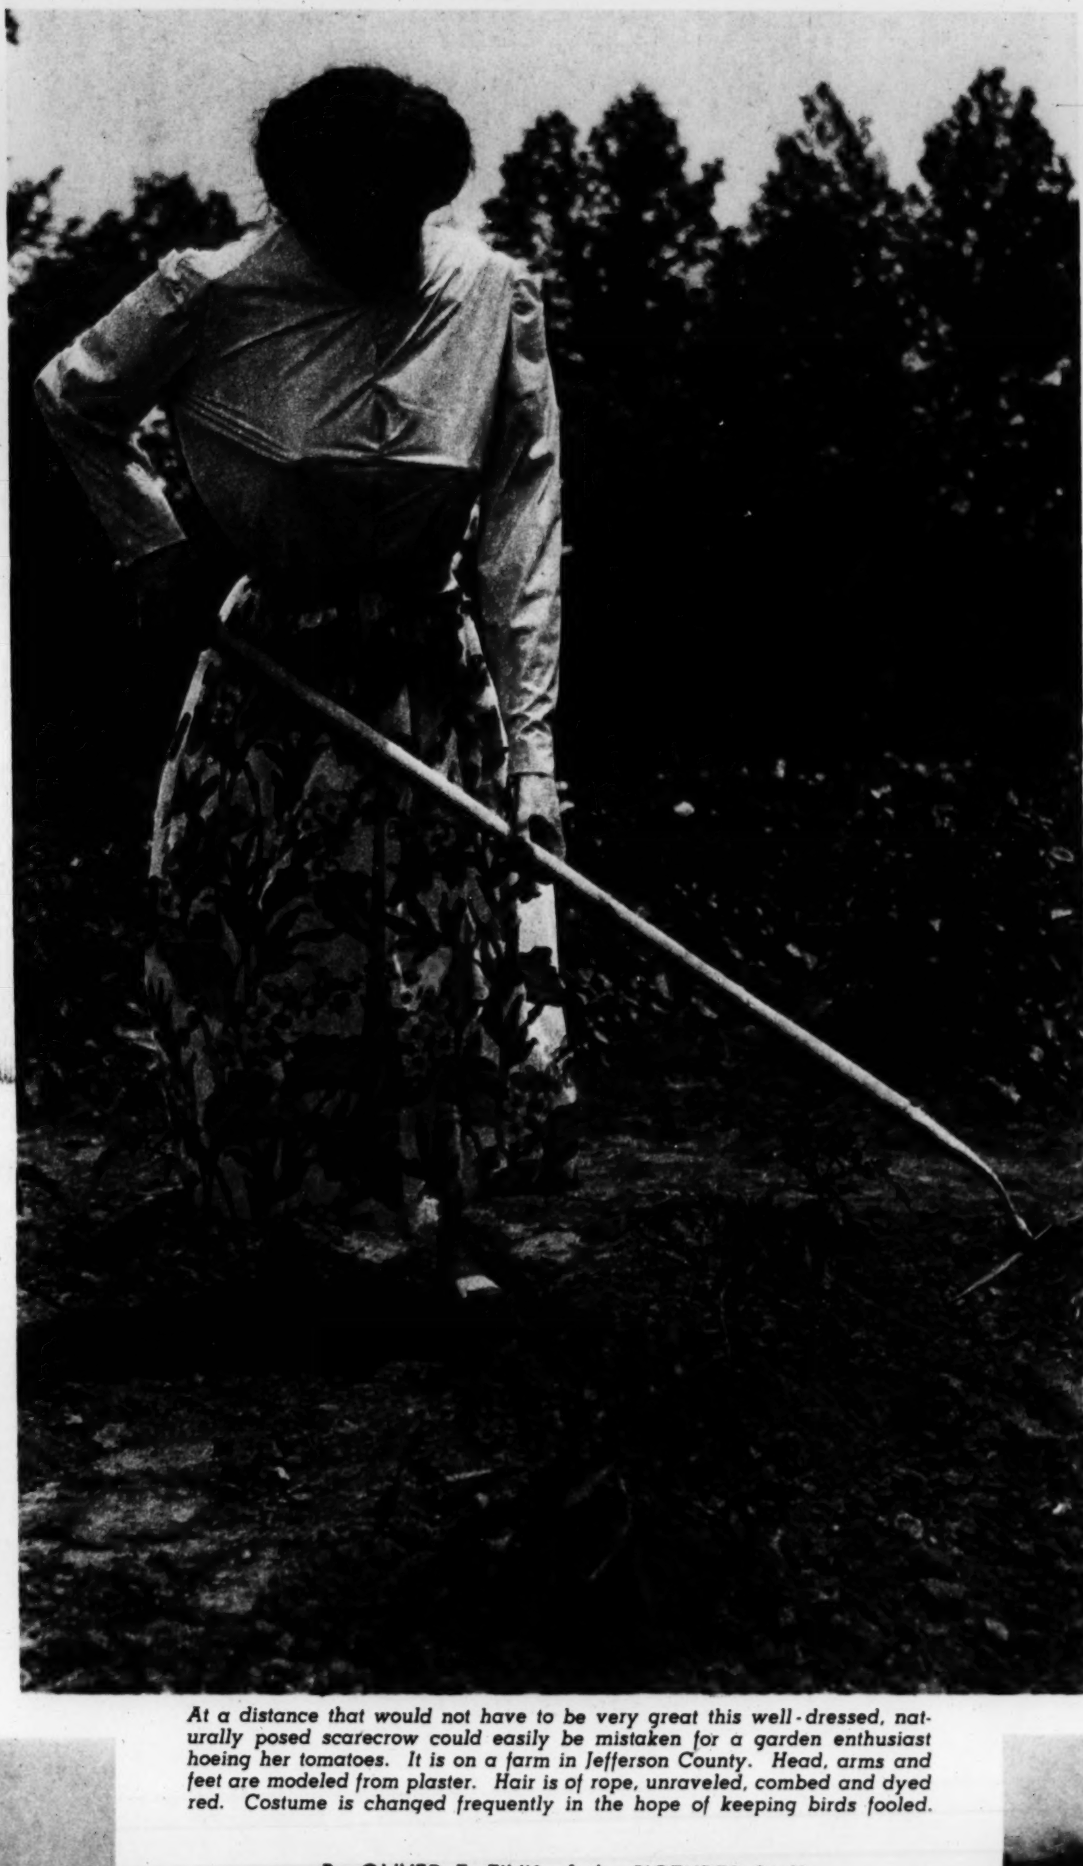
SCARECROW FASHIONS

Bird Chasers in St. Louis Area Are Often Colorful, Fanciful—Most Are Dressed as Men but Feminine Influence Is Evident

This Washington County scarecrow's stance, reminiscent of a tippler hailing a taxi, was necessitated by the use of a diagonal rail in the "skeleton," but the over-all effect is a bit on the modern design side. Head under fringed straw hat is a pail.

A simple cross is the framework of this guardian of a cabbage patch in Washington County, but the dashing blue outfit is arranged to resemble an angular giant stalking across the garden.



At a distance that would not have to be very great this well-dressed, naturally posed scarecrow could easily be mistaken for a garden enthusiast hoeing her tomatoes. It is on a farm in Jefferson County. Head, arms and feet are modeled from plaster. Hair is of rope, unraveled, combed and dyed red. Costume is changed frequently in the hope of keeping birds fooled.

Somewhat on the Frankenstein side in appearance, a somber scarecrow stands watch over a back yard garden in North St. Louis. The skull-like face is made of paper, the hands are devised of paper bags that dangle and wiggle from ends of the sleeves.

A sack draped over a post and topped by a cap has only a remote resemblance to a person, but strips of paper for "arms" help fulfill a prime requirement for scarecrows—motion. This is in St. Louis County.

Scarecrow lady-of-fashion graces a farm in St. Francois County. Scarecrow fanciers seem to lean toward male garb, female attire is rather unusual.

By OLIVER F. FINK of the PICTURES Staff

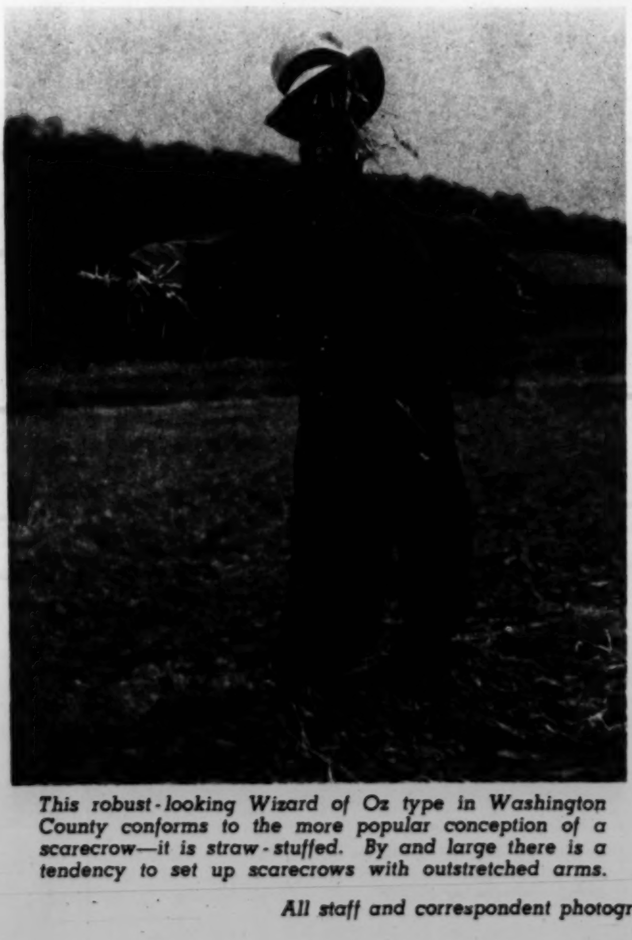
THE SEASON OF GROWING CROPS IS HERE, and fields and gardens are tempting feeding grounds for feathered folk. Some farmers and gardeners just let the birds feed, some who happen around at the right time yell "shoo" and wave their arms, some hang up can lids, blown-up paper bags, tinsel streamers or pinwheels, and others put up that old standby, the scarecrow.

That traditional scarecrow, roughly resembling a human figure, still has its adherents, despite the scoffing of some sceptics that it doesn't help. It has not yielded to such modern innovations as revolving mechanical blades—invented by a Frenchman—wailing noisemakers, or bird distress calls on records to be played in field, orchard or garden. After all, the old-fashioned scarecrow does have the backing of long tradition. It is within reach of anyone with odds of discarded clothing, and it offers a chance for a bit of creative work. That a scarecrow doesn't have to be just a ragged coat and hat on top of a post, but may be realistic, fancy and fashionable is evidenced by the array of scarecrows on this page. They were photographed in St. Louis and a four-county surrounding area.

Scarecrows are aimed at scaring not only crows but blackbirds, grackles, starlings, bluejays, and all other birds nibbling up the produce and profits. Though less plentiful than several generations ago, they still may be found in back yard or country kitchen gardens, berry patches, orchards, truck farms and even grain fields. Sometimes they arouse a sort of area "keeping up with the Joneses" rivalry—one dressily outfitted scarecrow will lead to others even better dressed, until something of a scarecrow fashion display is under way.

Agricultural experts do not belittle the effectiveness of scarecrows as such, but advise they should have some movement. For instance, something on the figure that flaps or sways. Or else changing the appearance or position every few days, lest the birds accept the scarecrow as part of the landscape and use it as a lookout for sighting tidbits.

Photos by SAM CALDWELL of the PICTURES Staff



This robust-looking Wizard of Oz type in Washington County conforms to the more popular conception of a scarecrow—it is straw-stuffed. By and large there is a tendency to set up scarecrows with outstretched arms.

In sporty red shirt, yellow straw hat and blue jeans, a guardian of the garden gives a spot of brilliant color to the Jefferson County landscape. Most scarecrow designers use a framework that will sway in a breeze.

Londoners lined up for a bus

Londoners are queued up at a bus stop as the British capital's transport system struggled with the additional burden thrust on it by the strike-bound railroads. Thousands of London commuters who normally used trains turned to other means. Busses, subways and trollies were jammed. Car pools were hastily arranged, trucks transformed into passenger vehicles, boat "taxis" put in service on the Thames River. Bicycles, motor scooters and motorcycles blossomed in increasing numbers. Many staid Britishers resorted to hitchhiking. Some commuters reported it required three hours or more for a 30-mile trip to or from the suburbs. Nearly 2000 policemen from other parts of Britain were sent to London to help cope with the vast traffic congestion in the world's largest city.

BRITAIN'S RAIL STRIKE

Trucks, Busses, Automobiles Used to Move Goods and People—Some Dock Workers and Seamen Also Walk Out

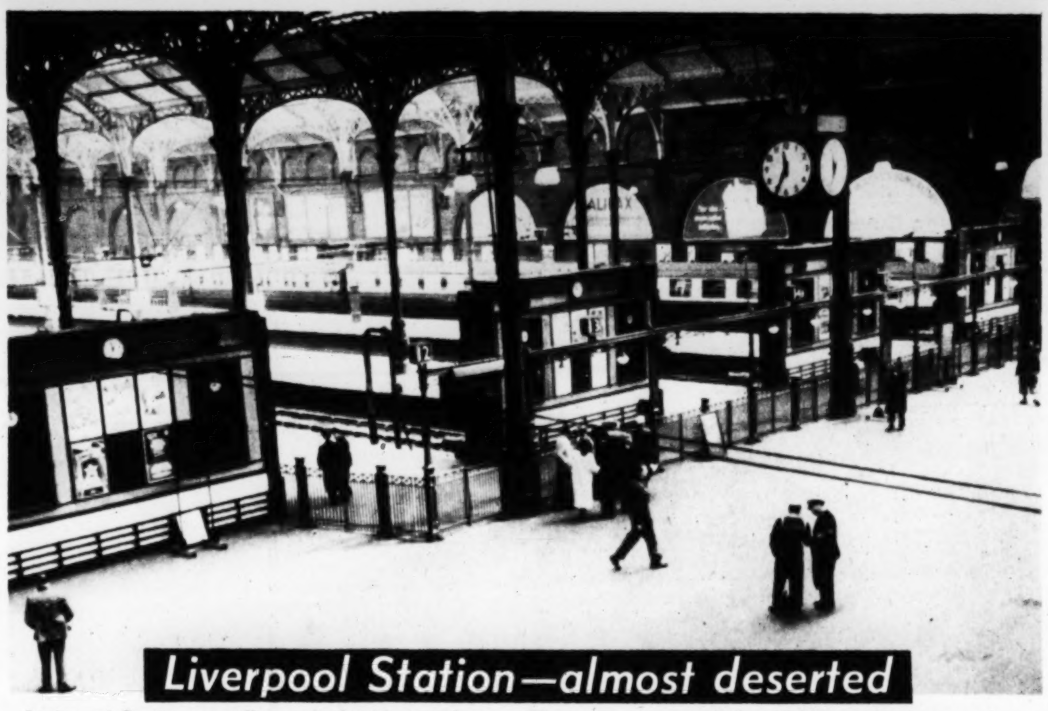
A PARALYZING RAILWAY STRIKE brought Britain its worst labor crisis in 29 years. By last midweek, faint prospects of settlement in the 11-day-old walkout of 70,000 locomotive engineers and firemen appeared, but there seemed little hope of ending two other major strikes involving dock workers in six ports and seamen in two others. The wave of labor unrest was tightening the nation's economy and the relative prosperity which helped sweep Prime Minister Eden's Conservative party to power in last month's national election. Not since the general strike of 1926 had Britain faced so grave a labor situation.

With supplies of raw materials dwindling, a general shutdown of Britain's vast industrial plant was imminent. Thousands already had been thrown out of work, and up to 1,000,000 factory workers faced a layoff by this weekend. A vast fleet of trucks, busses and automobiles was marshalled to move goods and workers for essential services, supplementing the few trains that continued to run. London was jammed with pedestrian and vehicular traffic, and the usually crowded railway depots were virtually deserted.

By tying up six big trans-Atlantic liners in Liverpool and Southampton, the wildcat strike of 800 ship stewards dealt a heavy blow to Britain's multi-million-dollar tourist trade. Thousands of Americans were stranded. The unrelated strike of 20,000 stevedores, which began a week before the rail walkout, added to the island's transport troubles; tons of goods piled up in the six affected ports, and 196 freighters were immobilized.

The railway firemen and enginemen struck in support of their demand for restoration of the wage differential they traditionally held over nonskilled railway men, most of whom are members of another union. The differential was narrowed in an industry-wide pay boost last January. If the strikers' demands for a $1.12 weekly wage raise are met by the nationalized railroads, the other union has stated it will seek the same for its 380,000 members. Chief demand of the striking seamen, whose union condemned their walkout, is for a reduction in their 10-hour working day. The dock shutdown is a jurisdictional affair between the small union of striking stevedores and a big union of dock workers which has bargaining recognition in most ports.

United Press Photos except as noted



Liverpool Station—almost deserted

Liverpool Station, usually packed with travelers, was almost deserted because of the strike. Britain's rail system normally operates 24,000 passenger and 16,000 freight trains a day. About 7000 trains, mostly carrying freight for vital industries and services, continued to run despite the strike. They were manned by 17,000 enginemen and firemen who are members of the National Union of Railwaymen which represents some 380,000 railroad workers. The 70,000 strikers belong to a rival union, the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen.

On truck and by foot

With conveyances unable to accommodate the throngs, thousands fell back on the basic means of transport, walking. Some accepted the situation lightly and looked on their struggles getting to and from work as a lark; most, however, found it a grim business. Queen Elizabeth, who canceled her June birthday fete because of the strike, proclaimed a state of emergency, ordered Parliament to reconvene a week early to deal with the situation.

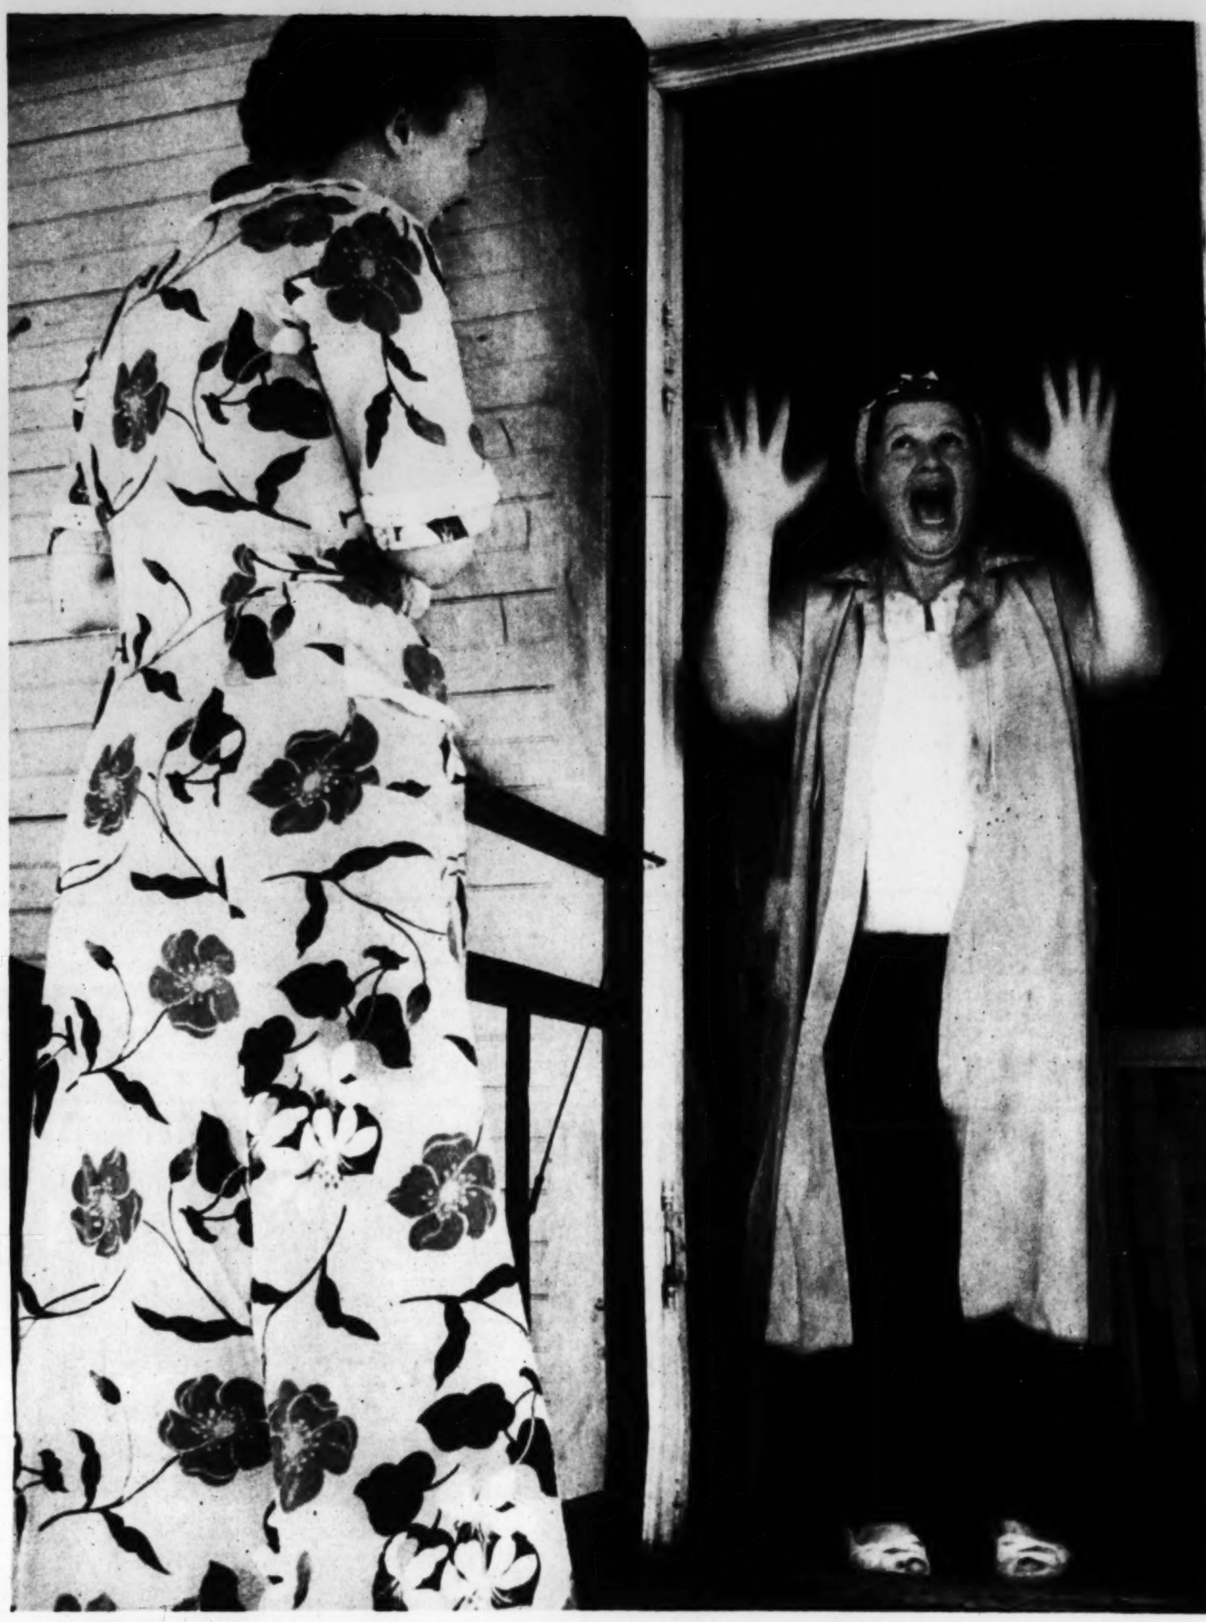
Come-As-You-Are Party

Surprise Breakfasts in Missouri Town Raise Money for Church by Fining Women for Each Piece of Apparel They Take Off or Put On

Starting her roundup of club members in Everton, Missouri, for come-as-you-are party, Mrs. Vernon Simmons (left), chairman of the affair, catches Mrs. Russell Mayfield on tractor when she delivers oral invitation. Mrs. Mayfield, dressed in work clothes, put head on steering wheel, cried, "Oh, no!" Everton is 28 miles northwest of Springfield.

Mrs. Ray Grant displays singular good humor on being awakened by two invitees previously called on by the chairman—Mrs. Cecil Wycuff (left) and Mrs. Richard Gayer.

Mrs. Gayer and Mrs. Mayfield find Mrs. Doyle Toler cleaning out chicken house in old jacket, blue jeans and boots. The come-as-you-are rule is relaxed if it might cause discomfort or embarrassment, but a fine of 5 cents for each item the guest removes or adds is imposed. Mrs. Toler paid 25 cents to take off jacket and boots, put on shoes.



In curlers and pajamas, Mrs. Wycuff exclaims, "Good heavens!" on answering knock at door, finding fellow club member Mrs. Virgil Oglevie there in housecoat. Members pay 25 cents for coffee and doughnuts served at the breakfast; money left over after expenses, plus fines collected for violations of come-as-you-are rule, is donated to Everton's Sinking Creek Church, a nonsectarian institution that needs a new roof.

Mrs. Gayer, who had been about to get into bathtub when she heard door bell, hides an embarrassed laugh as she discovers the callers are Mrs. Mayfield and Mrs. Simmons.

THAT VENERABLE SOCIAL INSTITUTION known as the come-as-you-are party is enjoying a renewal in popularity, and in Everton, Missouri, the local chapter of the Dade County Extension Club has put a novel twist on it. Invitations are delivered personally by the party chairman, rather than by telephone, and guests must promptly leave for the affair, under escort. Calling in person at each member's house is no problem. All 19 members of the D.C.E.C as well as Everton's other 281 residents live within the proverbial stone's throw.

The D.C.E.C. is an organization of housewives, and its come-as-you-are parties are breakfast affairs. At the club's regular monthly business meeting, a chairman and hostess are named for the next social party, and they secretly decide on the date. To catch the members at their best, or worst, the chairman starts the roundup about 7 a.m. on the chosen day. As she proceeds from house to house, the number of party-goers grows.

The sight of a large group of women traipsing about Everton early in the morning in varying states of dishabille no longer creates a stir. Everyone knows D.C.E.C. is having another of its come-as-you-are breakfasts.

Photos by SAM CALDWELL of the PICTURES Staff

Mrs. Clifford McBride, secretary-treasurer of the club, is caught by the delegation while hanging out laundry in her back yard.

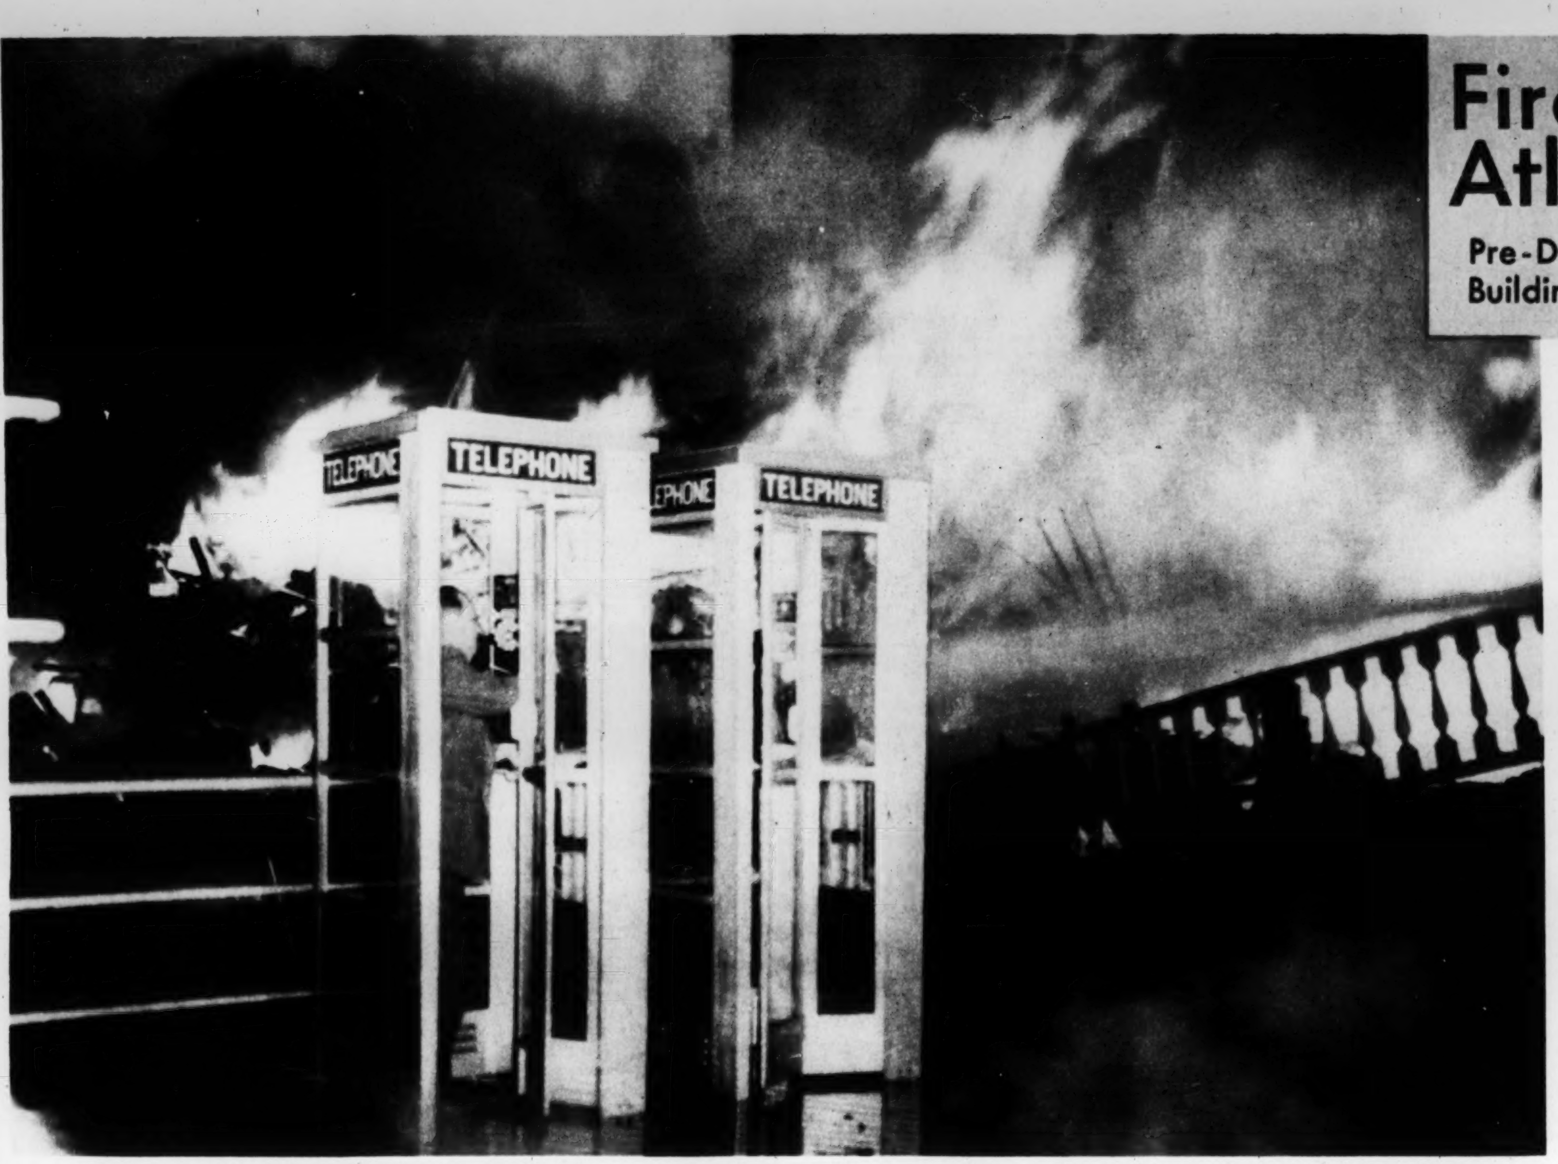
Feeling that she had "to put something on," Mrs. Gayer decided to dress completely and pay the penalty. Here she pays 50-cent fine to Mrs. Simmons. Mrs. Gayer is president of the club.

On their way to home of hostess, Mrs. Billy Grant, the assembled club members cross Everton's main street, exhibiting high good humor and a variety of attire. Only two of the club's 19 members were not at home to answer the summons.

Members catch up on small talk at the breakfast. Around the table in foreground are, from left, Mrs. Albert Cole, Mrs. Harry Huber, Mrs. Joe Lindley Jr.

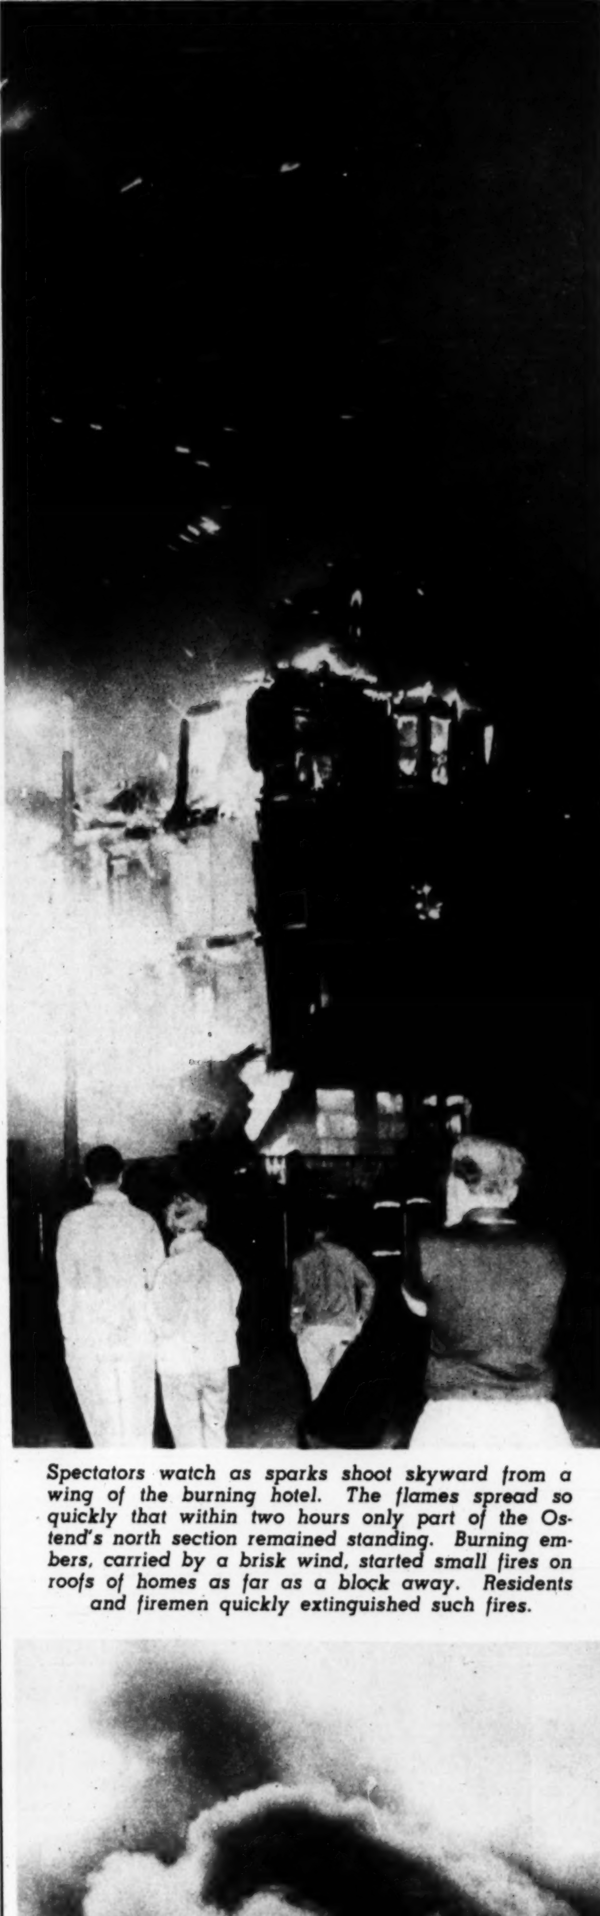
Fire Takes an Old Atlantic City Hotel

Pre-Dawn Blaze Levels 220-Room Wooden Building on Beach Near Resort's Boardwalk

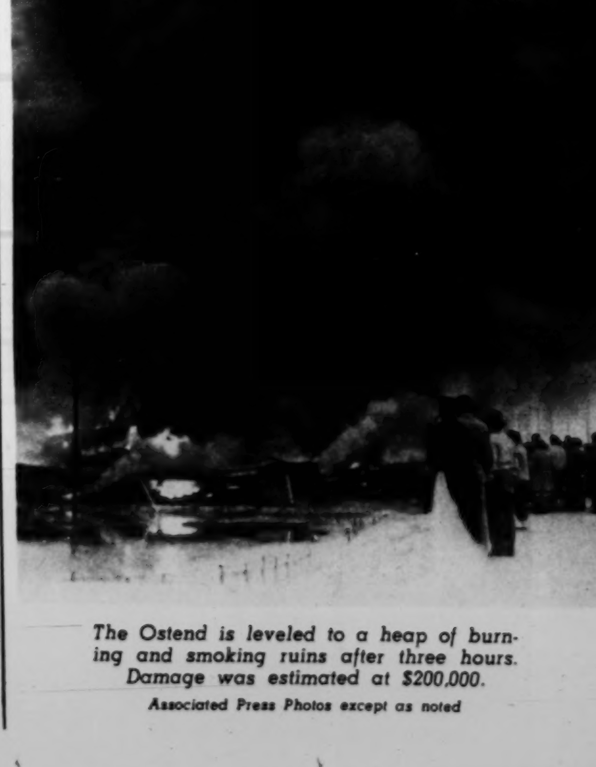


With a burning Atlantic City hotel as the backdrop, an unidentified news reporter phones the story of the fire from a public booth on the Atlantic City Boardwalk. The hotel was the six-story, 220-room, 56-year-old wooden Ostend. In the pre-dawn fire of undetermined origin three firemen, a 72-year-old woman guest and one employe were slightly injured. Six guests, the two women owners of the hotel and four employes fled to safety after being awakened by the fire. The structure was being renovated.

United Press Photo



Spectators watch as sparks shoot skyward from a wing of the burning hotel. The flames spread so quickly that within two hours only part of the Ostend's north section remained standing. Burning embers, carried by a brisk wind, started small fires on roofs of homes as far as a block away. Residents and firemen quickly extinguished such fires.



The Ostend is leveled to a heap of burning and smoking ruins after three hours. Damage was estimated at $200,000.

MOST SENSATIONAL DISCOVERY IN 40 YEARS FOR BETTER BAKING AND FRYING!

FIRST ALL-NEW SHORTENING!

It's RICH! It's YELLOW!

Procter & Gamble's Golden Fluffo

Golden
Fluffo
FOR PERFECT BAKING AND FRYING
PURE SHORTENING
ARTIFICIALLY COLORED

Golden Fluffo is pure shortening — not a table spread

What a cake it makes!

RICHER-LOOKING...
BETTER-TASTING...
MORE APPETIZING!

Yes, Fluffo cakes are the highest, lightest, most delicious golden-rich cakes you can possibly bake!

Why? Because fabulous new, easy-to-mix Fluffo blends into smooth, rich batter never possible with any other shortening! Glorifies chocolate and yellow cakes . . . gives delicate moist richness to your white cakes, yet leaves them gloriously white!

©1955, The Procter & Gamble Company

EASTERN ILLINOIS BAKING CHAMPION,

Mrs. Marcella Stolte, says:— "I was proud of my chocolate cake that won first prize at the fair—but I'm even more proud of the cakes I'm making now with Fluffo. They're really terrific—so moist and rich, yet so light! My family thinks they taste better than any cakes I've ever made. I make my frosting with Fluffo, too — and it's wonderful. So rich and smooth!"

"No white shortening ever gave me a cake like this!" says this maker of the prizewinning chocolate cake in Illinois Cake-Baking Contest.

Like cooking champions, you'll be truly excited about golden Fluffo! It gives you high, light, delicate cakes such as you've never been able to bake before . . . richer-looking and better-tasting, by far, than any you can get from white shortening!

That's because Fluffo is different! Even its color is different – yellow from pure carotene.

And Fluffo is such fun to work with! Use it in all your recipes that call for shortening – and see what happens! Without changing a single measurement, you'll get the flakiest, tenderest golden-brown piecrust possible . . . wonderfully tender-crisp, golden-brown fries that are so digestible!

Yet Fluffo costs no more than leading white shortenings! It's available in most areas. Get a can and use it for richer-looking, better-tasting cooking!

CHILD CARE TRAINING

High School Girls Get Practical Experience as Part of Class Work

With a mischievous smile, a lad adorns his part-time mother with a clay mustache of his own making. Students try to guide children's play so that it is both friendly and expressive. The girls keep notes, make reports on how they have handled their charges.

Preparation of a casserole dish for lunch is watched with interest by a small boy. Home economics classroom is designed as a three-room apartment. Classes attempt to follow normal routine of a household with children. Students sew, cook, do the dishes and the laundry while caring for their charges.

A CHILD CARE PROGRAM has been introduced into the home economics department of the high school at Suffern, New York. In a simulated home setup, the students care for children while doing other practical tasks related to homemaking.

Youngsters of pre-school age are "loaned" by mothers of the town, which has a population of 4010 persons and is about 40 miles north of New York City. The high school girls use the moppets as subjects from 10:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. each school day for a week. While studying the finer points of basting in sewing and cooking, the students also gain experience in solving problems of small children—temper tantrums, refusing to eat, thumb sucking, shyness and boredom.

Three Lions Photos

Lunch is cooked by the home economics students and served to the youngsters in the school's apartment-classroom. While the students are learning how to be mothers, children from one-child homes are given training in how to get along with others of their age. The actual mothers of the children have more mid-day free time as a result of the arrangement with the school.

A student, working in the bathroom of the classroom apartment, acquires first-hand experience with the aversion most small boys have for soap and water. The girls keep the children neat, organize games, lead group activities, encourage individual expression and assign duties.

Story time finds a child and two students absorbed in the world of Snow White. Children are worked with singly and in groups. The girls, during the course, gain self-confidence and a capability for managing children.

An abstract design of streaks and splotches is a medium of self-expression for a small artist during an art project session. For added diversion, students and children play games on school grounds. Course is designed to prepare the girls for the responsibilities and problems of adulthood.

END OF THE FAST OF RAMADAN

At the sound system-equipped Juma mosque in Delhi, India, many hundreds of Moslem elders kneel and touch foreheads to the ground in the Namaz-Moslem prayer. It was the last step in the ritual celebrating the Feast of Eid-Ul-Fitr which occurs on the last day of the month-long Ramadan fast. Ramadan is also the name of the ninth month of the Mohammedan calendar, when it is believed that God sent down from seventh heaven the Koran, or Mohammedan scriptures, so Gabriel could pass it on to Prophet Mohammed. The severe fast calls for total abstinence from food and drink from sunrise to sunset on each of the 30 days. Children are not required to participate.

OLDEST MAN CANDIDATE

Javier Pereira, left, believed to be the world's oldest living man, is given stethoscopic examination by doctors at San Vincente De Paul Hospital in Medellin, Colombia. One doctor has conservatively estimated Pereira to be more than 120 years old, but it is reported there are indications the man may be 150 or even older. Pereira may be brought to New York for further tests.

SOUNDPROOFED DERRICK

An oil derrick operating just outside Maracaibo, Venezuela, is wrapped so that the roar of drilling operations won't disturb the neighboring residents. The soundproof "shirt" is painted in gaudy red and white stripes for a reason—to warn airplanes using nearby Maracaibo airport. The rig was set up on the city outskirts as an experiment. If oil is discovered, the oil boom may spread to within the city limits.

PLANT "DOCTOR" ATTENDS "PATIENTS"

White-coated Hans Gruhn, whose specialty is diagnosing diseases of plants, waits on a boy who has brought a patient to his office in Frankfurt, Germany. Other plant owners with problems await their turn. Gruhn, who represents the sixth generation of a family of garden experts, charges no fees since he is paid by the city. Often he sees as many as 100 ailing flowers, bushes or vines a day. Sometimes he performs an emergency operation on plant roots, other times he may keep a plant "hospitalized" long enough to provide a change of soil and treatment.

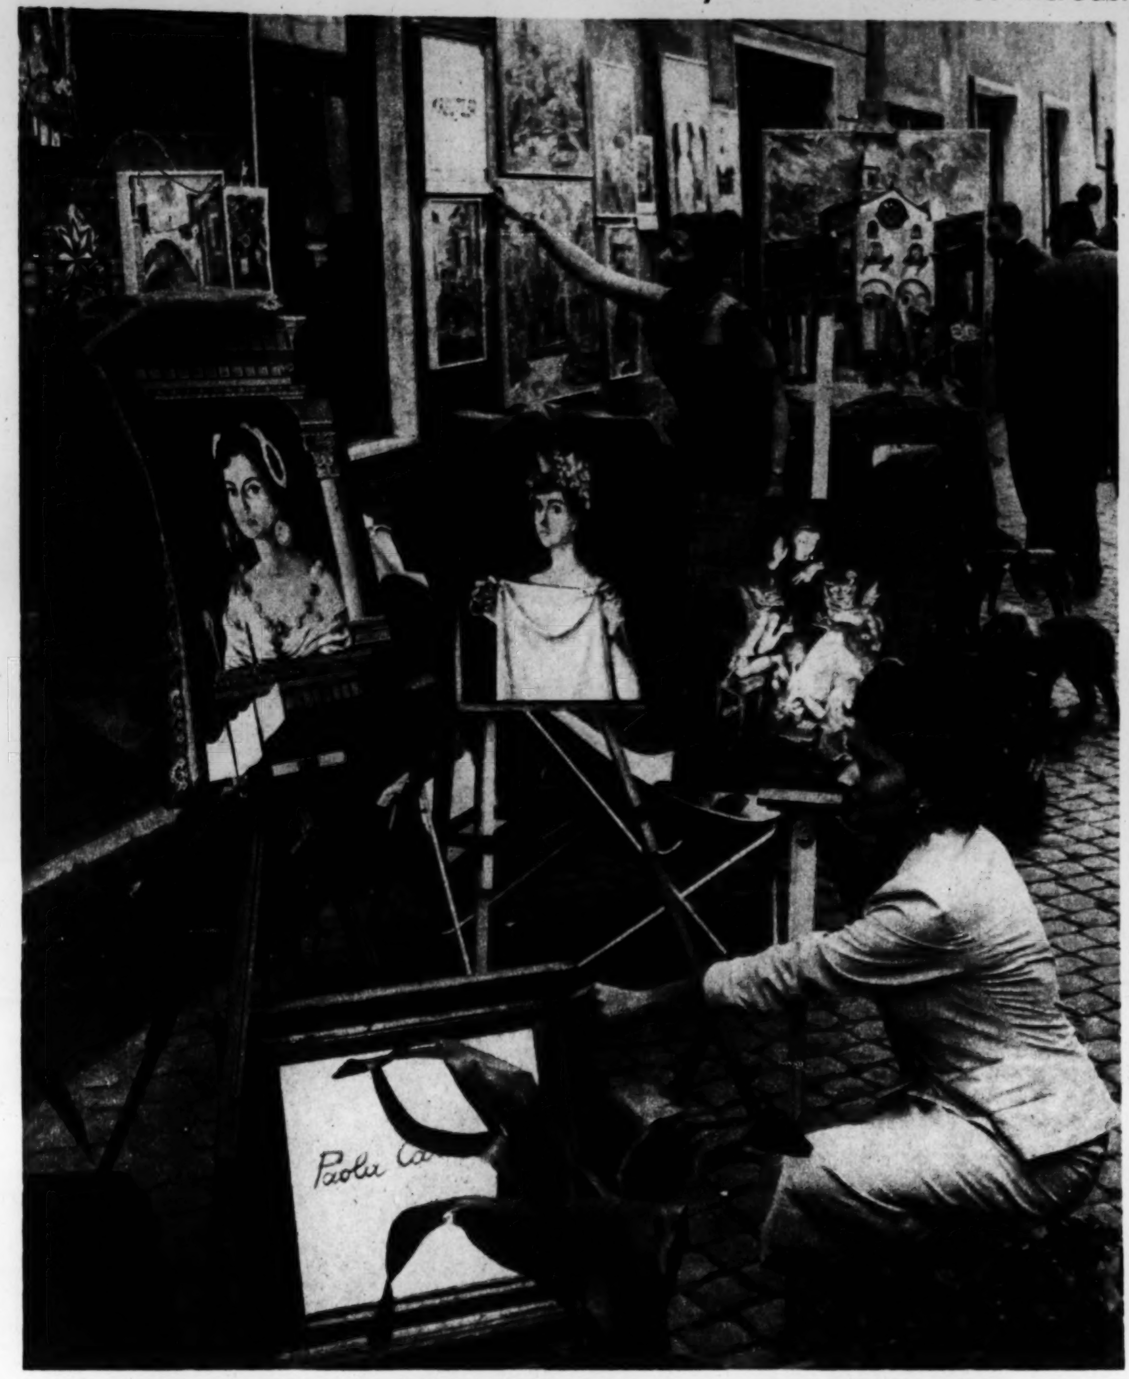
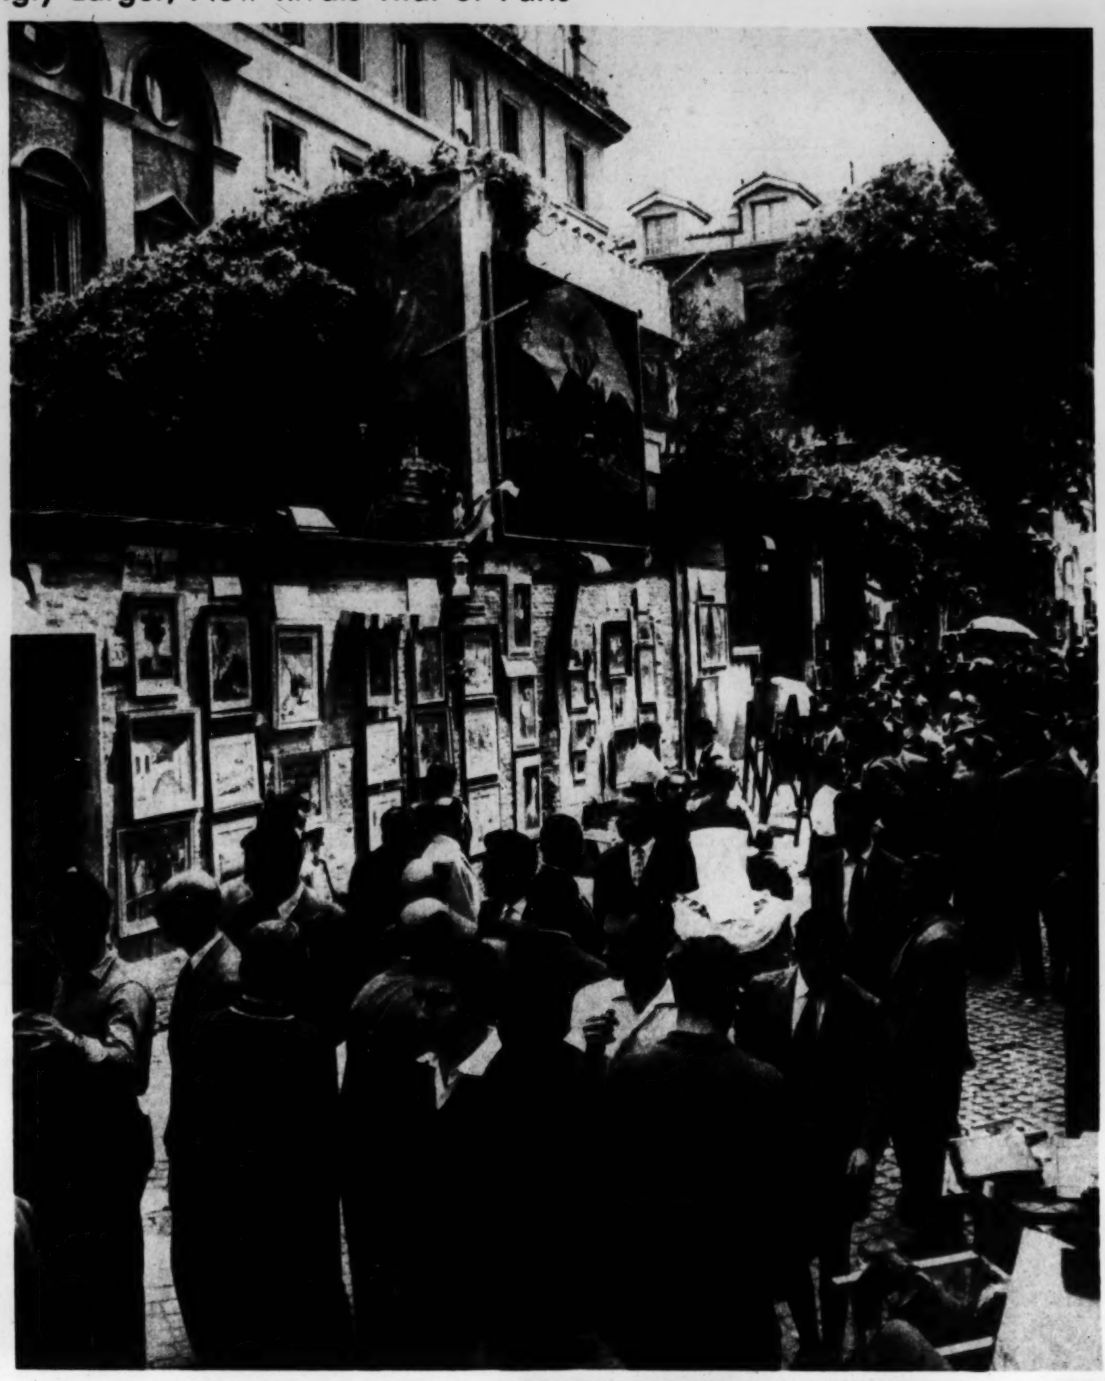
Artists' Colony at Rome Becomes Increasingly Larger, Now Rivals That of Paris



With wall space at a premium during the outdoor art show along Via Margutta, some of the works have to be exhibited on easels placed on the cobblestones. The pictures clustered here are by an Italian painter, Paola Caracciolo. Exhibits also spill over into shadowy alleys that intersect the street and nearby sunny courts.



Curious passers-by, students and artists gather in clusters along Via Margutta. The street is a quarter of a mile long.

ALONG WITH BECOMING the focal point of such postwar Italian activities as fashion, automobile, furniture designing and movie-making, Rome has acquired a flourishing artists' colony that rivals the famous Latin Quarter of Paris. Hundreds of American and other non-Italian artists have set up their easels in the Eternal City. The foreign painters there are actually more numerous than in Paris, although the Paris colony is larger because of the many French painters.

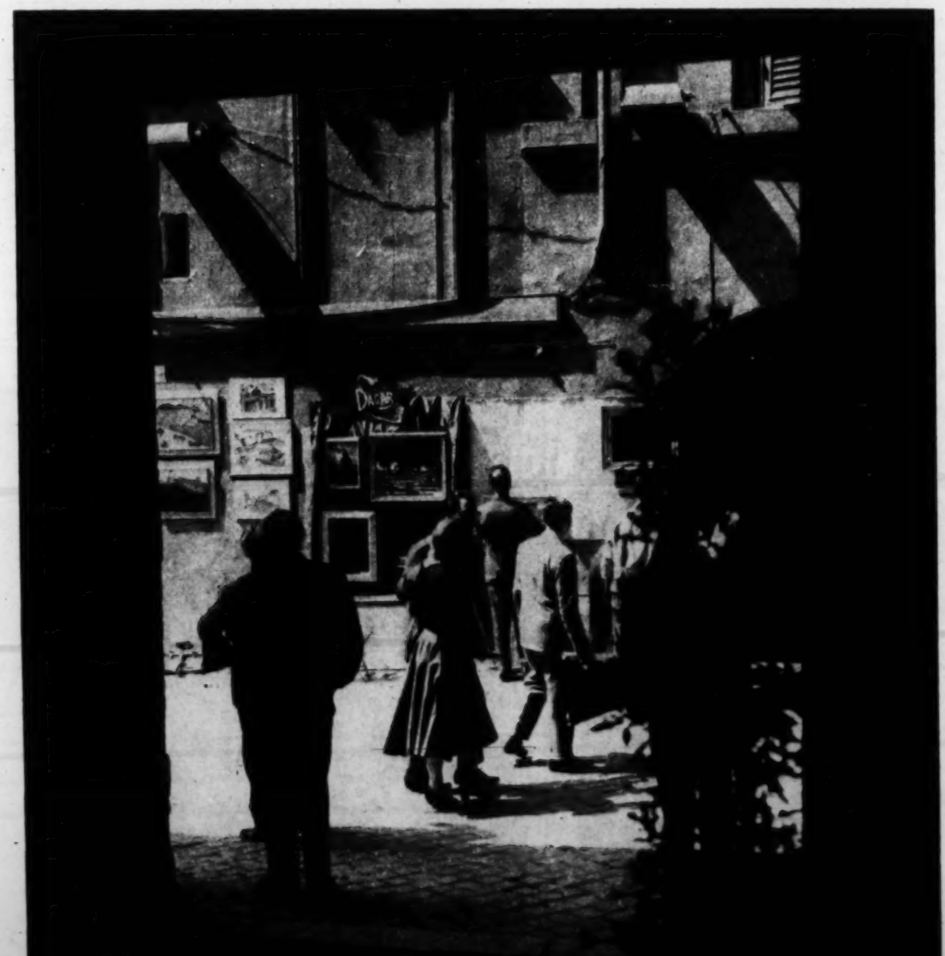
Principal crossroad of Rome's new artists' world is Via Margutta, a narrow, cobblestone street lined solidly with art shops and studios. At this time of year Via Margutta is turned into a street gallery. Artists and sculptors move their creations outdoors, the better to get them before the eyes and the money of tourists and visiting art connoisseurs.

Among factors that have lured artists, amateur and professional, to the city on the Tiber are low studio rents, food and general living costs. The city also enjoys more warm months, bluer skies and brighter sunshine than Paris. Then there is Rome itself. Close to Via Margutta are clusters of such necessary adjuncts of artist life as restless little bars and sidewalk cafes. Nearby, too, are the city's art galleries, its Accademia de Belle Arti, its Spanish Steps, where artists and writers have gotten inspiration since time immemorial.

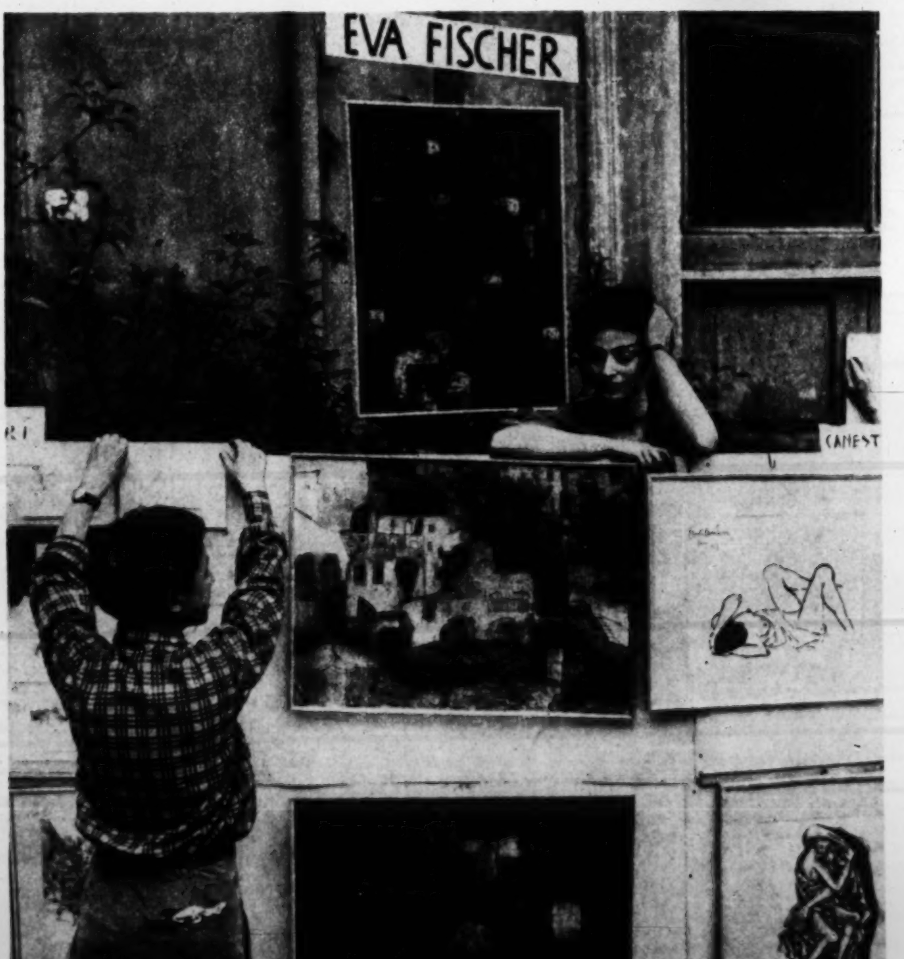
Within easy reach are Rome's vast cultural fortunes, its treasures of art and history, its baroque churches, its museums, all of which give artists the feeling of being close to the fountainhead. Many painters and sculptors view the growing art colony as a return to the city that centuries ago contributed so much to their particular medium of expression.

United Press Photos

A woman artist finishes a sign that says "Works on show are on sale, too." A number of the exhibitors sell their works on the installment plan, so much down, so much a month. Among artists now residing on Via Margutta are some who moved there from Paris' Left Bank and Montmartre.



Looking across Via Margutta from inside entranceway of one of its crowded buildings. In building across the street are 50 studios. This year's outdoor show exhibited some 3000 paintings and pieces of sculpture representing the work of about 400 artists.



Eva Fischer, Yugoslav painter, watches from her exhibit space (the three paintings down the center of photo are hers) as Ottone Macri, another painter, prepares his display. Paintings in this year's art show ranged from miniatures to huge canvases. Most schools of painting, ranging from the abstract to classical, were represented.

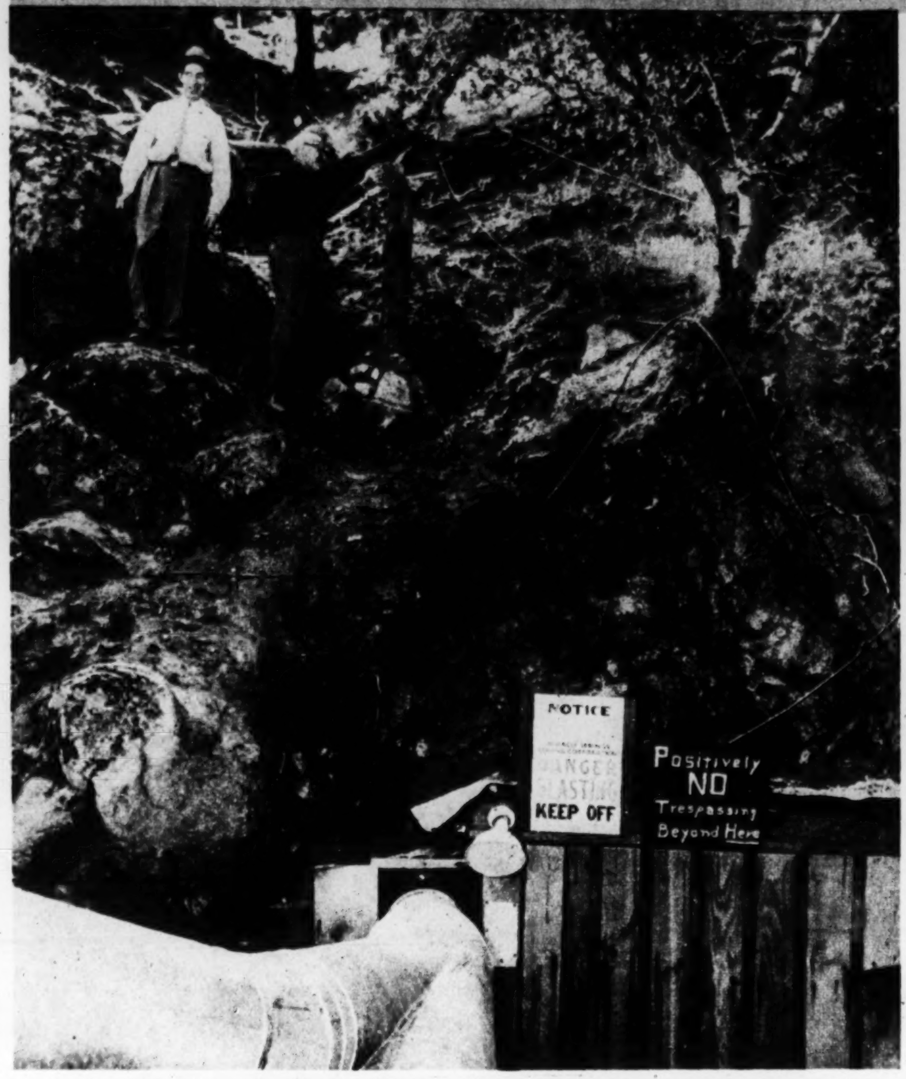
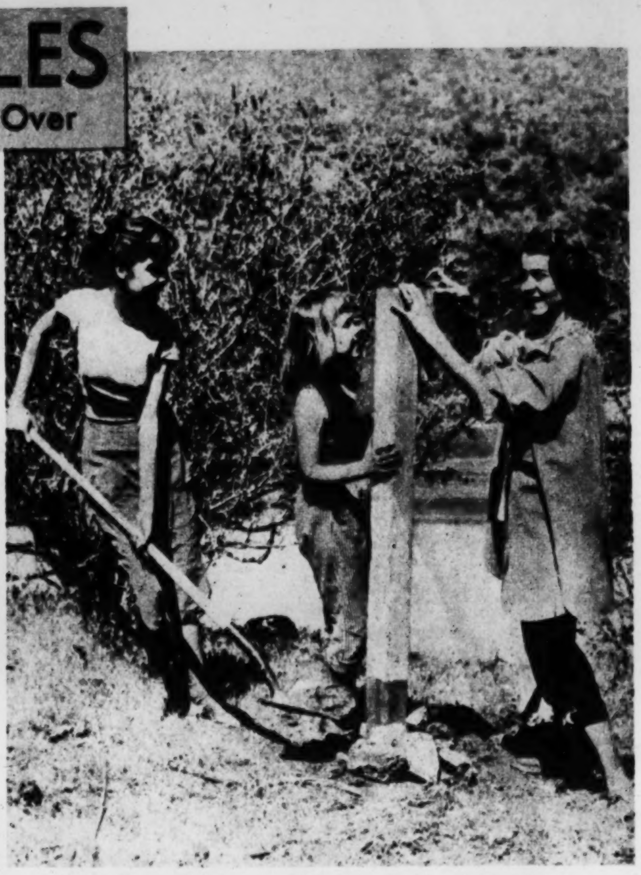
URANIUM RUSH FIZZLES

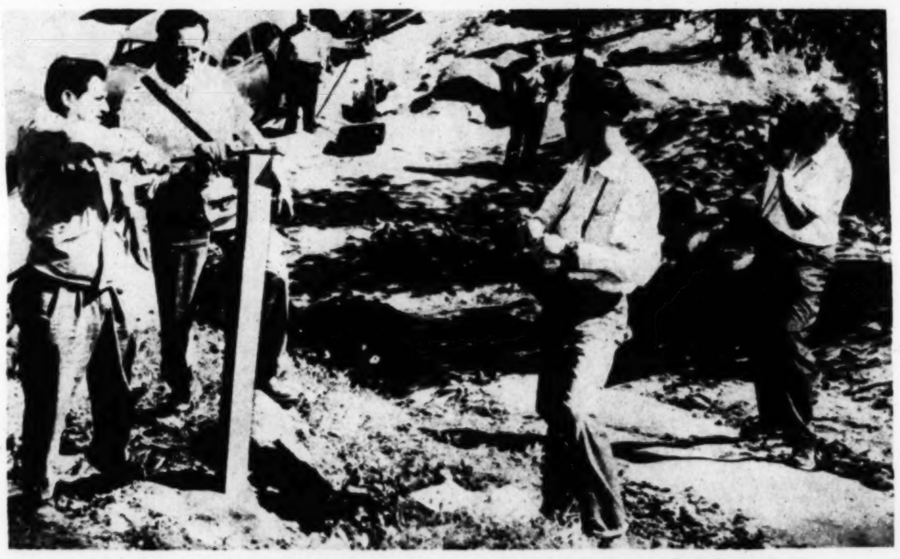
Federal Land Opened to All, but Professionals Take Over



Two officials of the Miracle Springs Mining Corporation restake claim to tract on which its $1,000,000 uranium mine is located. The Miracle and adjacent Kergon mine effectively kept away would-be claimants by warning they would set off dynamite in various discovery holes on their invalidated claims at 10 a.m. Miracle restaked 20 claims; Kergon renewed majority of its 65 previous claims by planting new markers at stroke of 10.



Mrs. Ruth Shelley of Sherman Oaks, California, is aided by her daughters, Judy, 14, and Patricia, 8, in staking a claim. Her husband remained in Bakersfield to file papers at recorder's office. To stake a claim, a person must set up a weatherproof marker, like a post or rock cairn, with a waterproof container holding the claimant's name, address, location of the plot and time it was staked. To hold his claim, the person must expend at least $100 a year on mining improvements.



Three Los Angeles prospectors have their claim-staking filmed in three-dimension movies (photographer at right). Despite the precaution, their location stake was uprooted 15 minutes later by unidentified group of men who scrambled up the hillside and disappeared.
International News Photo

A MODERN-DAY Cherokee land rush was expected when the Federal Government opened 2914 acres of Sequoia National Forest in California to uranium prospectors. The tract, in the rugged Kern River canyon, 35 miles east of Bakersfield, contained two rich uranium mines, and the entire area had already been thoroughly claim-staked. But all claims were invalidated when it was discovered the district had been withdrawn from public entry 30 years ago for a damsite, and it had to be put up for grabs again.

Fifty armed deputy sheriffs roamed the hills on horseback to prevent violence that might arise over claim-jumping. Fifty others patrolled the narrow mountain roads in automobiles to prevent accidents in the anticipated race to the county recorder's office at Bakersfield. Ten o'clock in the morning was the official time set for claim-staking, and everything was in readiness for a stampede rivaling the opening of the historic Oklahoma Cherokee strip.

But the rush was a fizzle. There were almost as many reporters, photographers and deputy sheriffs in the area as there were prospectors. And, it turned out, the two mining companies which had held more than half of the 150 possible 20-acre claims grabbed them again. Slim pickings were left for the amateurs.

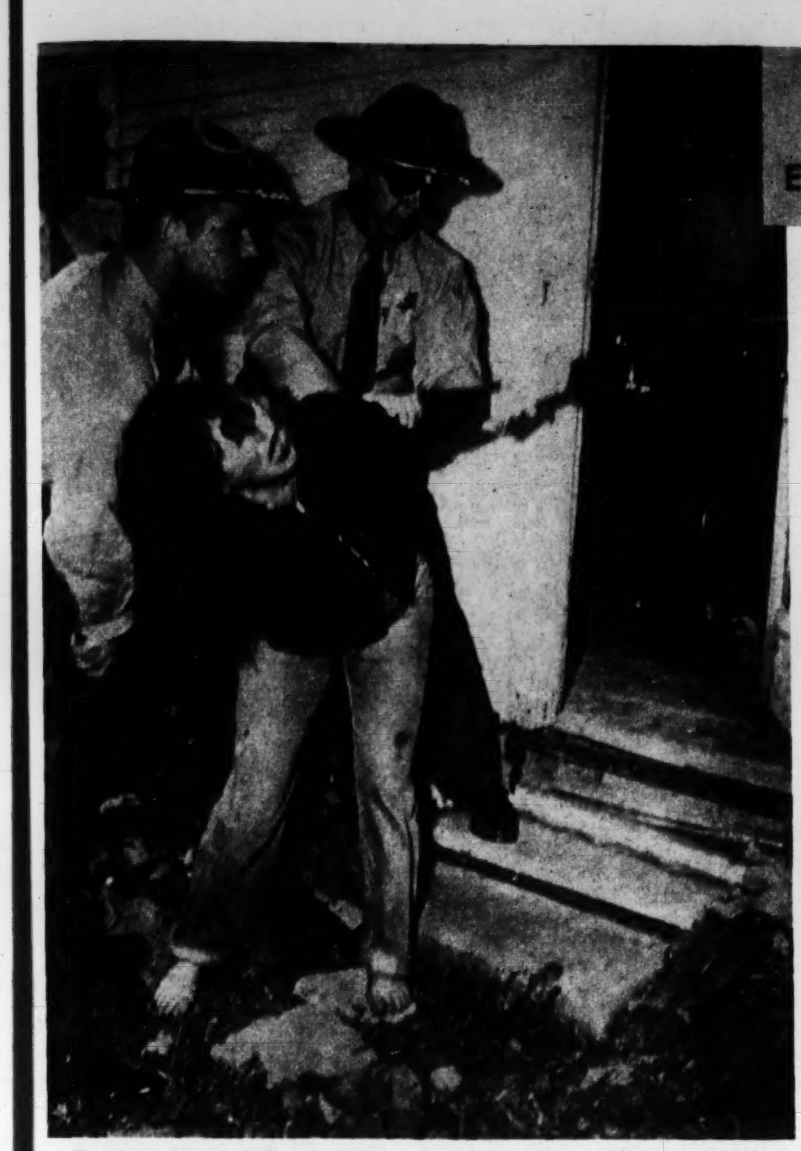
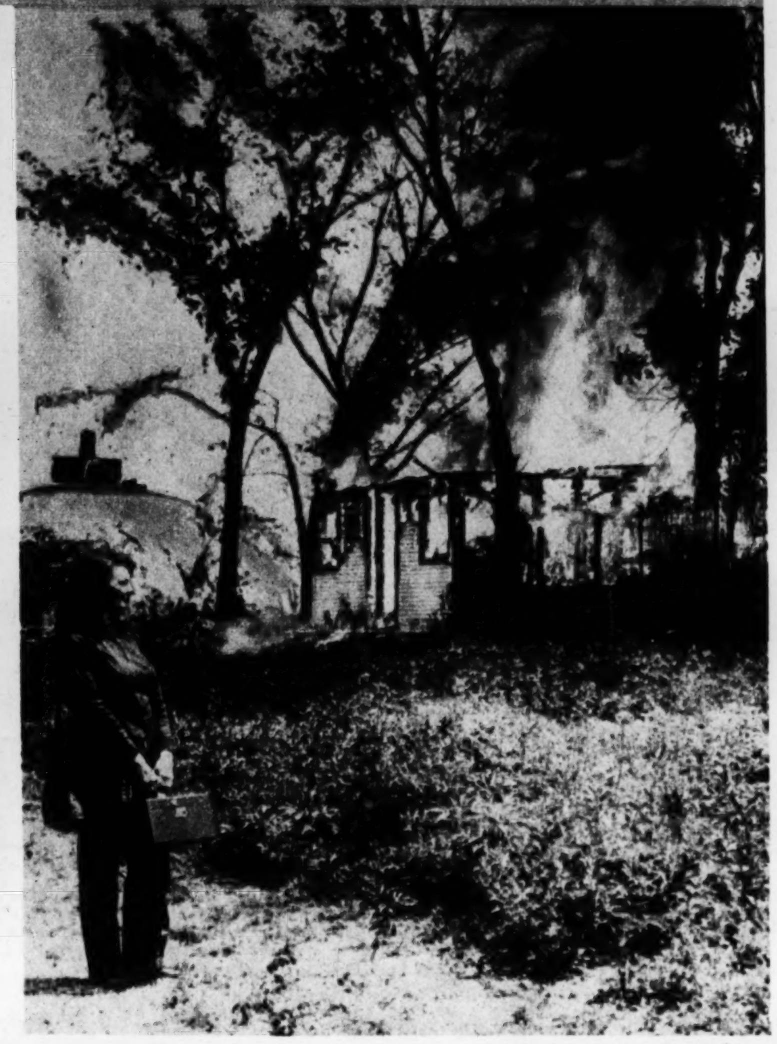
Ex-Dancer Fights Eviction From Condemned Home



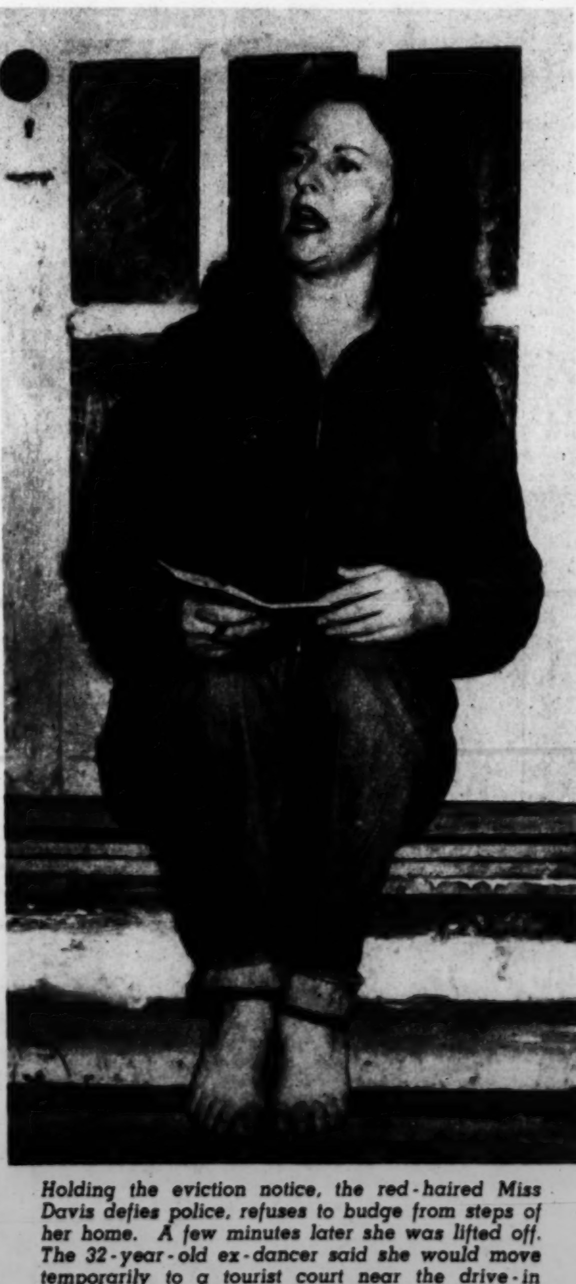


Barefooted and disheveled, Miss Davis struggles with state troopers who forcibly removed her from the house she had adamantly refused to vacate. Photo at right, she watches the one-story cottage burn. Mound at left of house is fill for railroad track; completion of the spur was delayed almost a year by the legal proceedings.

FOR SIX YEARS Lenena Davis, a ballet dancer turned waitress, lived in a frame cottage beside the Des Plaines River as a tenant of the Chicago Sanitary District. Her three Afghan hounds lived with her. Despite the proximity of an odorous sewage treatment plant, she apparently was happy in her suburban home until, about a year ago, she got into a dispute with her landlord. The district was putting a railroad spur through the property, and Miss Davis' house was in the way. She was asked to move. Miss Davis refused.

While eviction proceedings dragged on in court, Miss Davis frequently tangled with workmen and police. Twice she used a pistol and shotgun. Even after dropping her appeal from an eviction order she wouldn't leave without a fight. Police had to carry the kicking and screaming ex-dancer from the house and restrain her while animal welfare agents removed her dogs. After taking out her belongings, workmen set fire to the dwelling. At last Miss Davis gave up. She watched the house burn to the ground, then trudged away to seek a new home.

Associated Press Photos except as noted



Holding the eviction notice, the red-haired Miss Davis defies police, refuses to budge from steps of her home. A few minutes later she was lifted off. The 32-year-old ex-dancer said she would move temporarily to a tourist court near the drive-in restaurant where she worked as a carhop.

Ordinary Heel

Extrasoft Heel

New EXTRASOFT rubber heel —look at the difference

Your feet stay comfortable even if you walk miles. It's just like walking on air.

THIS new Extrasoft B. F. Goodrich heel cushions your step, leaves you fresher at the end of a day. It's perfect for children who run and jump on hard sidewalks and playgrounds.

No other heel like it. Only B. F. Goodrich makes the Extrasoft heel. Ask for it by name. Your shoe repairman has it. Both the box and heel are plainly marked B. F. Goodrich Extrasoft.

As the picture shows, the Extrasoft heels act just like shock absorbers. It's hard to believe till you try them, but they feel much different, feel twice as comfortable—and you'll notice it the first steps you take!

Get heels often. While this new heel wears longer than any other kind of rubber heel (twice as long as some) you get full advantage of the softness only when the heel is full thickness. So don't wait for the heels to show a lot of wear. You've already had bonus wear even if the heel is worn down only a 16th of an inch. You can afford to keep your heels at full thickness and get the advantage of full comfort. See your repairman often!

Price at most repair shops is $1.25 attached, for men's, and 85 cents for women's and children's shoes.

Look for the new Extrasoft heel when you buy new shoes. And why not look today to see how many shoes in the family need new heels? Chances are most of them do. Put them out so they'll remind you to see your shoe repairman tomorrow. Start now to get the extra comfort this new heel can bring you. Extrasoft, T. M., The B. F. Goodrich Co.

Blueberry Muffins, With Chicken Salad

1. Mrs. Wasem slowly stirs milk into the sifted dry ingredients for blueberry muffins. Beaten egg and melted butter are stirred in.

2. Flour is sprinkled over well-drained blueberries before they are added to batter. This is poured into greased muffin tins and baked.

3. For salad, cooked chicken is cut very fine, as are the celery, olives, pimento, pickles, hard-cooked egg and mushrooms.

By MERNA LAZIER

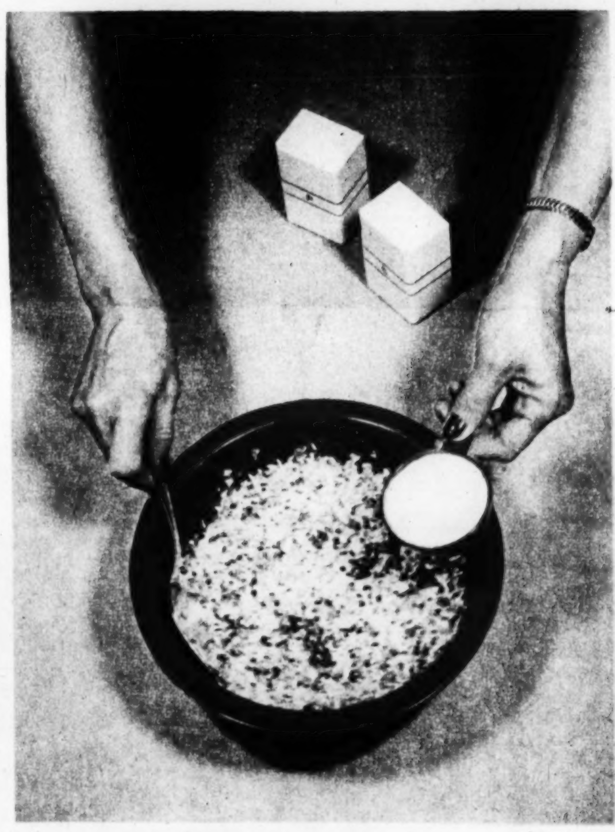
DELICATE MUFFINS generously filled with blueberries make a delicious base on which to spread finely cut chicken salad. Mrs. Otto A. Wasem of Shrewsbury makes these for church functions, and they are equally well suited to serving the family or company at home. The moisture-holding qualities of these open-faced sandwiches make them of special advantage for large parties.

Mrs. Wasem prepares the muffin batter by combining the milk with the flour, sugar, salt and baking powder which have been sifted together. Beaten eggs and shortening are added, then the blueberries, and the mixture is spooned into greased muffin tins. They are not filled as high as usual because it is best that muffins do not peak in center in baking. They are baked in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for about 30 minutes. Any size muffin pan may be used, varying amount of batter accordingly. Peak, if any, is cut off before cutting muffins in two equal slices.

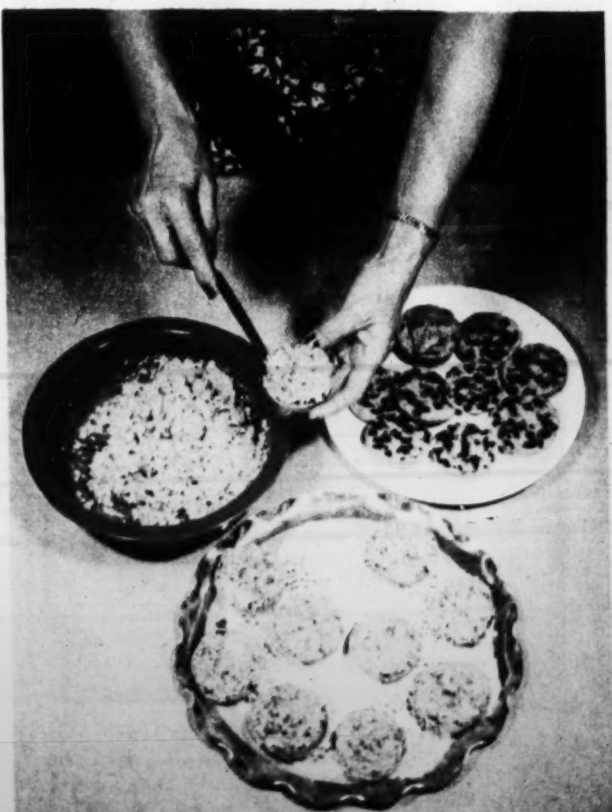
Salad is made by dicing previously cooked chicken very fine. Remaining ingredients likewise are cut fine, and all are mixed together with enough mayonnaise to moisten sufficiently to spread. Seasonings are added as desired and mixture is then spread on the split muffins. Sandwiches may be made up as served or done ahead of time and covered with foil paper. They are kept refrigerated until served. Chicken salad should always be prepared and served with the greatest of care as it may become toxic when left unrefrigerated for any great length of time.

INGREDIENTS: For the blueberry muffins—two cups sifted flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one tablespoon sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, three-fourths cup milk, two eggs, one tablespoon butter or margarine, one No. 2 size can blueberries, three or four tablespoons flour for sprinkling on berries. For the salad—two cups cooked chicken (finely cut), one-half cup celery, two tablespoons each of green olives and sweet pickles, two and one-half tablespoons pimento, one-fourth cup each of mushrooms and mayonnaise, one hard-cooked egg, salt and pepper as needed. Makes about 24 sandwiches.

Photos by SAM CALDWELL of the PICTURES Staff



4. Mayonnaise is stirred into the salad, and it is then seasoned with salt and pepper to taste.



5. Halves of blueberry muffins are spread with chicken salad. They are served as canapes or for afternoon tea.

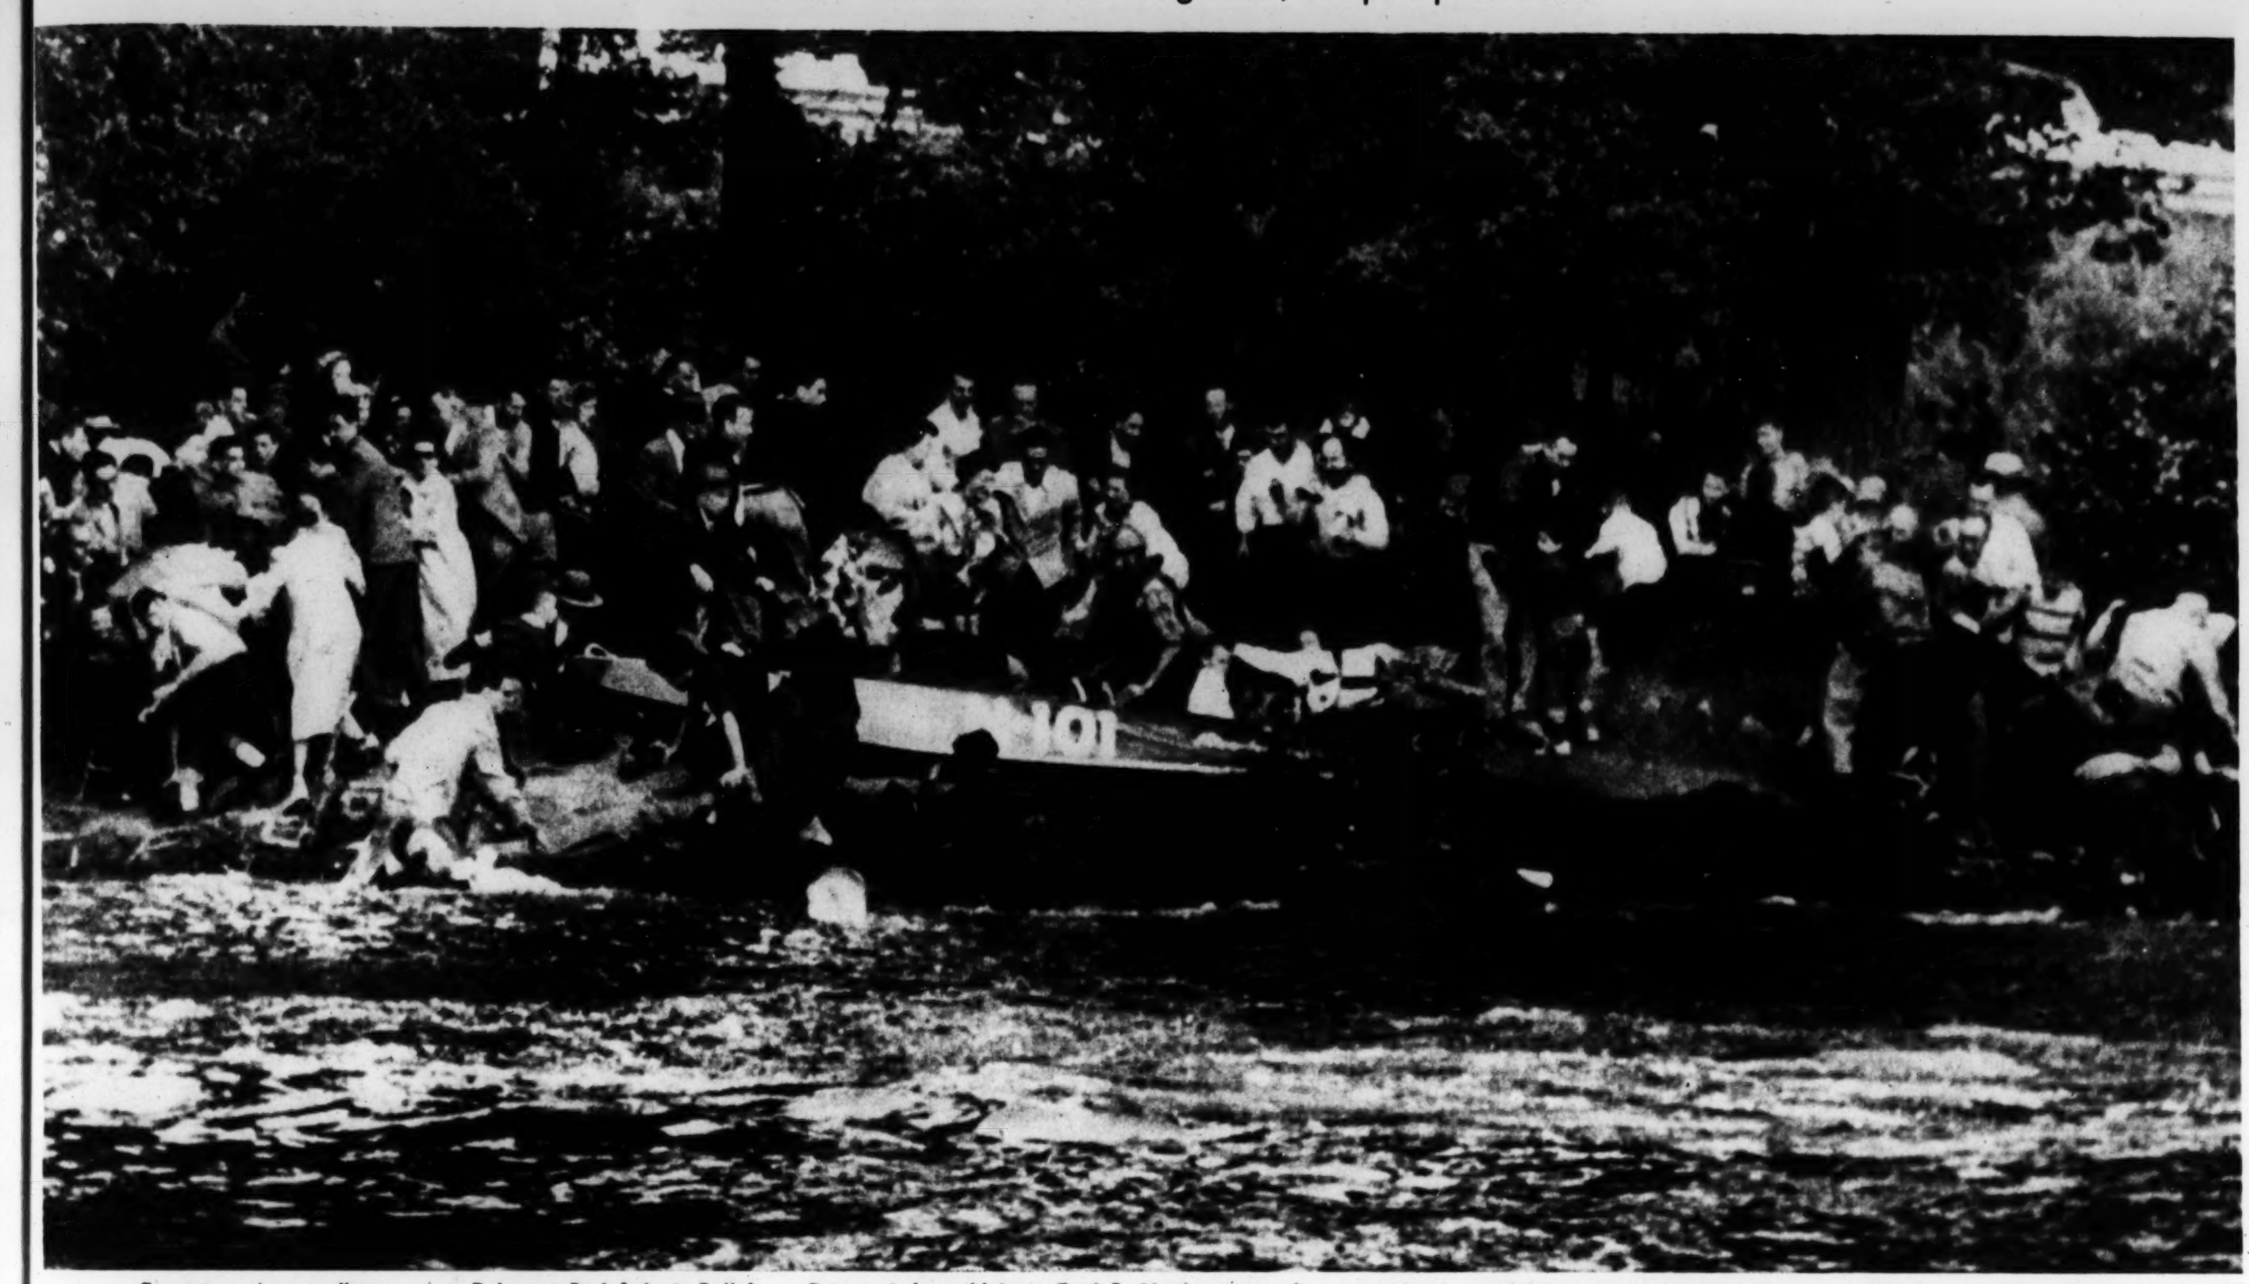
SPEEDBOAT TAKES AFTER CROWD

Craft Gets Out of Control During Race, Jumps Up on Bank



Spectators of a speedboat race on Delaware Park Lake in Buffalo, New York, scramble away in fright as one of the boats jumps up on the shore. Some of the onlookers scamper up the bank, others find themselves taking an unexpected dip in the water. Driver of the wild boat, Fred P. Matthews, standing in cockpit with hands still on controls, was unhurt. A 14-year-old boy's leg was broken, two other boys were slightly injured. Matthews said his metal hydroplane hit some solid object in the water, started skipping, went out of control, headed for the shore, jumped a two-foot embankment, skidded along the ground. About 50 persons were watching the race at the place of the accident.

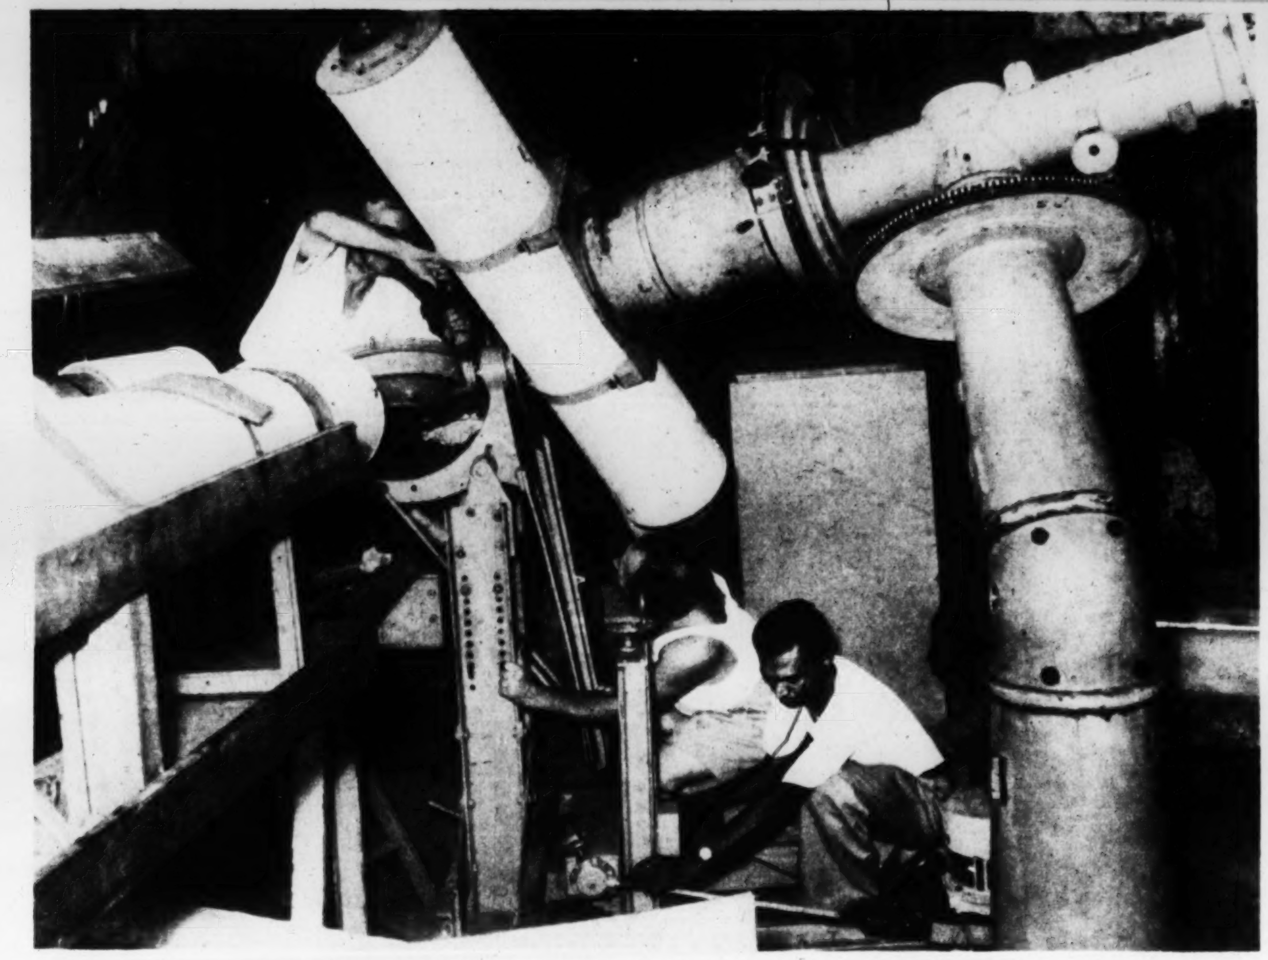
POWERFUL TOOLS



At an air strip in central Ceylon technicians assemble a giant telescopic camera that is to be used to photograph an extraordinary eclipse of the sun. The eclipse will be visible in that part of the world a week from tomorrow. The camera is part of elaborate scientific equipment taken to Ceylon from the University of Potsdam, Germany. The total solar eclipse of about seven minutes will be, some astronomers compute, the longest of the past 2000 years. There will be none of longer duration this century. Astronomers from a number of countries, including the United States, have made preparations to observe the phenomenon.

A huge transformer is prepared for a high voltage test before being shipped to an Atomic Energy Commission plant in southern Ohio. The polished aluminum spheres being adjusted by a technician in a bosun's chair assure that the proper amount of voltage is applied to the transformer. A series of tests to check the transformer's resistance to lightning surges was made at General Electric's Power Transformer plant at Pittsfield, Massachusetts. The 100,000 kilowatt unit, weighing more than 435,000 pounds, will be installed at the AEC plant on a transmission line carrying 330,000 volts. Six months were required to build the transformer; it had to be shipped on a specially designed flat car.

DOCTORS' TESTS
PROVE BLEMISHES CLEARED UP or definitely improved in 9 out of 10 cases

New! Clearasil Medication
STARVES' BLEMISHES
SKIN-COLORED...hides blemishes while it works

Doctors' clinical tests prove this new-type medication especially for blemishes really works. In skin specialists' tests on 202 patients, 9 out of every 10 cases were cleared up or definitely improved while using CLEARASIL.

Amazing starving action. CLEARASIL actually starves blemishes because it helps remove the oils that blemishes "feed" on. And CLEARASIL's antiseptic action stops the growth of bacteria that can cause and spread blemishes. Skin-colored to hide blemishes and end embarrassment. Greaseless, stainless . . . pleasant to leave on day and night for uninterrupted medication.

America's largest-selling specific blemish medication . . . GUARANTEED to work for you as it did in doctors' tests or money back. Only 59¢ & 98¢. At all druggists.

DOCTOR HEALS HIMSELF

Robert Mitchum, Olivia de Havilland in Film "Not As A Stranger"

1. Attending medical school, Lucas Marsh (Robert Mitchum) is desperate for money to continue his education. He sees his father, Luke (Lon Chaney), and asks for financial assistance. Finding that he will receive no help from the old man, Lucas berates him for his alcoholism and worthlessness.

2. Back at school, Lucas meets a lonely Swedish-American nurse, Kristina (Olivia de Havilland). Lucas learns that she has money saved, and, as head surgical nurse, has a steady income. Although he does not love Kristina, Lucas makes a practical decision. He proposes marriage, and is accepted. His problem of where the money is coming from is solved.

3. Lucas' roommate, Alfred Boone (Frank Sinatra), expresses his frank opinion of his friend's motives in marrying Kristina. The roommates' quarrel breaks into a violent scuffle.

4. Kristina devotedly turns to making a home for Lucas, helps him to finish medical school. She tries to overlook the fact that she is second in Lucas' life, that he subordinates everything to being a physician. Happy and absorbed with life as doctor in a small town, Lucas discovers that his partner and friend, Dr. Runkleman (Charles Bickford), has a serious heart ailment.

5. Kristina is expecting a baby. Lucas finds that he is attracted to rich, sophisticated Harriet (Gloria Grahame). Their tempestuous romance is ended when Harriet tells the doctor she cannot afford to fall in love with him.

6. Dr. Runkleman is felled by his heart disease. Lucas tries with all his skill to save Runkleman's life, and fails. This death causes Lucas to ponder his personal creed as a doctor and as a man. Realizing at last that doctors aren't paragons but are human beings and capable of human errors, Lucas asks and receives from Kristina forgiveness for his selfishness.

This is an aerial view of Missouri's only direct-connection vehicular traffic interchange. Located at Wentzville, 40 miles west of downtown St. Louis, it provides for the smooth flow of heavy traffic at the junction of three main highways—United States Routes 61, 40 and By-pass 40. In contrast to the familiar up-and-around cloverleaf intersection, the high-speed directional interchange is a network of sweeping one-way roads that permit traffic to move from one highway to another without slowing down. Instead of making two right turns, as in the cloverleaf, a motorist simply stays to the left to turn left, to the right to turn right. Three grade separations in the network eliminate cross traffic. This view is to the west, with the town of Wentzville in background. Arrows indicate direction of traffic on the various ramps making up the interchange, through which 10,000 vehicles move daily. From this point, Highway 40 to Kansas City stretches away as a dual highway as does By-pass 40 to St. Charles.

MAKES DISHES SHINE

WITHOUT WASHING OR WIPING!

"VEL SOAKS DISHES CLEAN—

SAVES YOU ALL THE HARD WORK!"

Don't Wash—JUST SOAK
Dishes soak grease-free in seconds! No washing is needed. If food clings, a touch of the dishcloth gets it off. No greasy dishwater with Vel.

Don't Wipe—JUST RINSE
Just soak and rinse. Dishes dry without wiping! Even grease in pots and pans is so completely dissolved no hard scouring is needed.

Package for package — VEL CUTS GREASE BETTER

- Better than liquid detergents
- Better than the leading washday detergent
- Better than soap

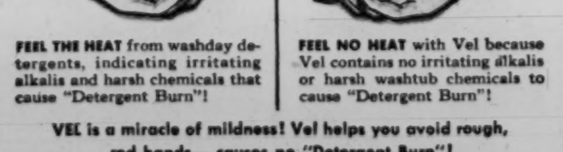
—and yet NO 'DETERGENT BURN' TO HANDS!

PROVE IT YOURSELF!

"HAND-HEAT TEST" shows why:

Dip hands in water. Then put a tablespoonful of any leading washday detergent in one hand — put a tablespoonful of VEL in the other.



FEEL THE HEAT from washday detergents, indicating irritating alkalis and harsh chemicals that cause "Detergent Burn"!

FEEL NO HEAT with Vel because Vel contains no irritating alkalis or harsh washtub chemicals to cause "Detergent Burn"!

VEL is a miracle of mildness! Vel helps you avoid rough, red hands — causes no "Detergent Burn"!

VERY INTERESTING.. ESPECIALLY THIS CHAPTER ON 'EARLY SCHOOL ADJUSTMENT.'
READ IT! I'D LIKE TO KNOW WHAT YOU THINK OF IT.
I WILL. BUT FIRST I HAVE TO WRITE UP THE MINUTES OF THE LAST P.T.A. MEETING.
OH YES - THE ANNUAL TOWNSHIP SCHOOL REPORT CAME. DO YOU WANT TO SEE IT?
I CERTAINLY DO!
THESE REPORTS ARE ROUGH GOING, BUT THERE'S A LOT OF MEAT IN THEM.
I PARTICULARLY WANT TO LOOK INTO THE NEW BOND ISSUE, AND THE EXPANSION PROGRAM.
DADDY?
YES, DEAR?
WHY DO YOU AND MOMMY HAVE TO DO ALL THAT READING AND WRITING
IT'S PART OF THE JOB OF BEING A PARENT.. YOU'LL SEE WHEN YOU GET OUT OF SCHOOL, GET MARRIED AND RAISE A FAMILY..
NOT ME! WHEN I GET OUT OF SCHOOL, I'M GONNA GET A JOB THAT DOESN'T HAVE SO MUCH HOME WORK!

I'M NOT A PSYCHIATRIST, JUNE---BUT HE SOUNDS PARANOID TO ME!
DOES HE REALIZE THAT HE NEEDS HELP?
PARANOIDS SELDOM DO, JUNE---AND HE'S NOT THE EXCEPTION! HE BECAME GREATLY DISTURBED WHEN HE ARRIVED HOME TO FIND ME THERE TALKING WITH HIS WIFE!
CERTAINLY HE UNDERSTOOD THAT HIS WIFE CALLED YOU BECAUSE OF HER CONCERN OVER HIM, DIDN'T HE?
IT'S DIFFICULT TO KNOW WHAT HE WAS THINKING, JUNE!
MEANWHILE, HAVING STRUCK DONNA, JACK MARTELL NOW PLEADS THAT SHE NOT LEAVE HIM!
DON'T TRY TO STOP ME, JACK! I'M LEAVING!
PLEASE, DONNA!

I HOPE YOU GET WHAT YOU WANT, BENT!
WHILE YOU'RE WIPING THE NOSES OF THOSE GRIMY LITTLE KIDS YOU TEACH AND SWEATING OUT THE FAMILY BUDGET, THINK OF OLD BENT—PLAYING WITH MINK TENNIS BALLS OVER A SPUN-GOLD NET!
I WANT TO MARRY A MILLION BUCKS, BABY. AND THIS IS WHERE IT HAPPENS! BE SEEING YOU.
SO LONG.
WHEW! WAS THAT EVER A NARROW ESCAPE! A COUPLE OF MORE DAYS EXPOSED TO THAT GIRL AND I'D HAVE WOUND UP WITH A COCKEYED SENSE OF VALUES!
MARRYING MERELY BECAUSE YOU LIKE SOMEBODY IS STRICTLY FOR THE BIRDS! LISTENING TO JULIE, YOU BEGIN KIDDING YOURSELF INTO FEELING THAT MONEY ISN'T AS IMPORTANT AS LOVE! HA!
WELL, THAT'S A DEAD ISSUE AS OF NOW. AS OF NOW— OBJECTIVE MATRIMONY—WITH MR. PIERSON'S ONLY—AND LOADED—DAUGHTER!
THAT MUST BE THE PRIVATE PLANE THEY WROTE ME ABOUT. UM-UM—THAT PIERSON MUST REALLY BE MINTING IT!

DICK'S Adventures
by NEIL O'KEEFFE and MAX TRELL
IT IS TOUCH AND GO WHETHER HOT-SPIRITED GENERAL CUSTER WILL CREDIT DICK'S STORY THAT HE IS A SETTLER'S BOY CAPTURED AND REARED AS AN ADOPTED SON OF THE SIOUX! A SLIGHT THING WINS THE DAY! DICK WHISTLES "YANKEE DOODLE".
AS FRIENDLY NOW AS HE WAS SUSPICIOUS BEFORE, CUSTER SAYS: "YOU'VE PROVED YOU'RE CLEVER! NOW PROVE YOU'VE GOT INFORMATION! WHERE'S THE CAMP OF SITTING BULL AND CRAZY HORSE?"
BY THIS TIME ALL THE OTHER OFFICERS HAVE COME CLUSTERING AROUND. TO THEIR INTENSE DISAPPOINTMENT, DICK REPLIES: "I DON'T KNOW."
YET THIS TRUTHFUL ANSWER PLEASES CUSTER! SHREWDLY, HE PROBES DICK'S WORDS. "YOU MEAN YOU DON'T KNOW EXACTLY BECAUSE THEY THEMSELVES DON'T KNOW?.... BECAUSE THE CAMP IS MOVED FROM DAY TO DAY?" -- "THAT'S IT!" CRIES DICK.
"MY ORDERS," SAYS CUSTER, "ARE TO LOCATE SITTING BULL AND CRAZY HORSE - TO CAPTURE THEM - TO DESTROY THEIR CAMP - TO FORCE ALL THE RENEGADE SIOUX AND CHEYENNES TO RETURN TO THEIR RESERVATION!"
STRIPPED TO THE BAREST RATIONS BUT WITH ALL THE AMMUNITION THEY CAN CARRY, CUSTER'S CAVALRY MOVES WARILY FORWARD. DICK LEADS, ALERT FOR ANY SIGNS OF THE ELUSIVE SIOUX. BUT SHARP EYES FOLLOW EVERY MANEUVER! QUICK SIGNALS MOVE AHEAD! CRAZY HORSE, CRAFTY AND WISE, PATIENTLY WAITS!

LANCE
WARREN TUFTS
YOUNG CAVALRY lieutenant Lance St. Lorne arrives on the frontier, eager to begin his exciting new life with the 1st Dragoons.
At the post he learns the Colonel is away inspecting something, so he sets out to find him.
Some distance ahead, Colonel Dodge has been forced to call off his inspection of a burned-out settler's cabin. Now he huddles with his staff amidst the charred ruins, trapped by the Sac arsonists who suddenly returned to underscore their distaste for land thieves.
At dusk the spirited attack suddenly halts and the Indians jabber excitedly. A lone Dragoon has blundered onto the scene and presents a great temptation!
The officers, guessing the Indians' plan, try to shout a warning . . .
But Lance does not hear. He sits frozen in his saddle, scarcely believing his eyes: his Colonel and all his superior officers, alone, outnumbered, and surrounded by hostile Indians! It is a wonder they are still alive!
The next instant the Sacs plow into the river, yelping and howling with glee, and Lance sees his own future fading! He could easily turn tail and outdistance them, of course, and live to fight another day . . .
Instead, his eyes dart through their ranks, searching. And then the heavy cavalry sabre glides from its scabbard and the young Dragoon sets himself in the saddle . . .

Everyone in the O. Hum household was up late last night and greet the day with a yawn. That is, everyone but the butterfly lady. She is sleeping peacefully in that knothole with a curtain draped over it.–
I don't understand it! When the butterfly lady spun around last night she turned into a bright light!
When I do it, I get dizzy!
I think she must be enchanted!
I think she's a fairy!
Nonsense! I am neither enchanted nor a fairy! I hatched from an egg into an ugly bug, spun a cocoon from which I emerged the way I now am! I don't know where that egg came from, but I do know there isn't another creature like me down here!
That worried me!
Gosh!
I want to be with my kind!
So when I saw that star flashing signals, something inside of me told me to spin around real fast! I did! And was as much surprised as anyone when I turned into a bright flash that they answered! That must be my home! They will come for me!
And on that tiny planet is a brainy little fellow who has been ordered to think of a way to bring her home. He has been flying back and forth, thinking and thinking. But the task seems hopeless and he becomes very much discouraged and starts mumbling to himself.
It isn't right! They leave everything for me to do!
Nobody can bring her back here!
The Earth Planet is more than a million miles away!
6-12-55
BANG!!
CRACK!!
WHAM
Gosh! I was just beginning to believe that it couldn't be done when suddenly a thought hit me! Now I know I'll be able to help her get back home! Bobby Blinker never fails!

A Walk in the Evening

It has brought deep understanding to this Pennsylvania family

by THOMAS R. MULLEN
PRESIDENT, LEHIGH STRUCTURAL STEEL CO.

ALLENTOWN, PA.

My children and I have been close friends ever since their childhood a quarter of a century ago. Our intimate relationship stems, I believe, from a family custom that originated then and is still being maintained—a walk in the evening after dinner.

The custom started when my late son, Tom, was 5. With the family dog at our heels, he and I would go for twilight strolls along the Shore Road in Brooklyn, N. Y., where we then lived. Pointing out a concrete mixer or some other unfamiliar object, Tom would ask, "What's that, Daddy?" and I would try to explain. Sometimes it seemed as though the boy had spent the whole day storing up questions to ask.

As Tom's younger brother, Leslie, and sister, Ruth, grew older, they took their turns accompanying me on my evening excursions. Once or twice a week, my wife Lillian would join us, and then the whole family would go on a ramble.

When we moved here to Allentown, we routed our walks through the tree-lined streets beside the Fair Grounds, inevitably stopping somewhere along the way for ice-cream cones. And I would never pass St. Catherine's Church without taking the children in for five or 10 minutes of prayer.

During our walks, the youngsters usually got around to posing their problems—of childhood, adolescence and growing-up. While the boys were in high school, their talk often turned to football, and I'd try to demonstrate how they could gain momentum while carrying the ball. When Ruth was 16, she confided to me that she was "in love" with a man much older than herself. I suggested it might be wise for her to wait until she was 21 before making up her mind; and after pondering the matter for a few days she agreed. (She now lives on Long Island with a husband nearer her own age and their four children.)

Once, when Leslie was 24, he told me he had decided to postpone marrying his girl Peggy until he had saved $10,000. He asked me what my bank balance had been when I married his mother. "Not a dime," I said. "You don't need money to be happy—Peggy will be your biggest asset." The couple shortly were married and live today with their four children in an attractive home just outside Allentown.

During the last war, when both boys were in service, Ruth and I regularly carried on the family custom. We'd talk about basic as well as trivial things on our walks, and I tried to pass on to her my outlook on life and its problems.

Six years ago, Tom died as the result of an automobile accident. He had been so close to me that I thought I could never get over the loss. What has sustained me, I believe, are the happy memories of our past together. I still feel his presence beside me as my wife and I go out for an evening stroll.

Even though Leslie lives some distance from us, he often drives over and says, "Dad, how about going for a walk?" Our conversation during it may lead to a discussion of how to solve an office problem, sell a tough customer or iron out some other situation.

I recently asked Leslie if he and Peggy were carrying on our family tradition. He grinned: "You know, Dad, living on a mountainside in the woods, it isn't easy to go walking at night. But we do go for a drive almost every evening. Then we amble along Hamilton Street, stopping to look at shop windows or watch the trains go by and wave to the engineers. And the children sure ask a lot of questions!"

So today is a motorized era, and things are done somewhat differently. But my son is still with his children in the evening, out in the open, under the stars. That, I feel, is what is really important. ■

THE AUTHOR (left) stresses a point while talking things over with his son, Leslie, during an after-dinner stroll near the elder Mullen's home.

MOST FAMILIES have a formula for happiness – a special activity, a favorite place, a saying handed down through generations, an unusual philosophy of life. What is yours? PARADE will pay $100 for each story of a family used in Parade Families. They must be true accounts from your own experience, submitted in typewritten form along with a photograph of the family. STRAIGHT
ASPIRIN

Day After Day Millions
Use Straight Aspirin
Without Stomach Upset!

Next time you hear or read about pain relieving products which make such claims as "better than aspirin", "faster than aspirin", "more effective than aspirin"—and which, incidentally, cost you substantially more—keep these facts in mind.

1 Aspirin is far and away the most widely used pain reliever in the entire world.

2 Bayer Aspirin's record of use by millions of people—without upsetting the stomach—is unmatched by any other pain reliever.

3 Aspirin is, as stated by highest medical authorities, probably the safest and most efficient of the pain-relieving drugs!

4 Aspirin is so gentle that doctors prescribe it even for small children.

So next time you have a headache, neuralgia or muscular aches and pains, take Bayer Aspirin—the sure, effective and time-tested pain reliever—the best aspirin the world has ever known.

Why Bayer Aspirin Acts So Fast

Bayer Aspirin—which is straight aspirin, with no antacids added—is being absorbed through your stomach wall—right to your pain—from the instant the tablet starts disintegrating in your stomach. Medical authorities have found that the addition of certain antacids to aspirin can actually slow down absorption of the pain reliever through the stomach wall. Bayer Aspirin starts to disintegrate instantly—and heads right for the root of your pain.

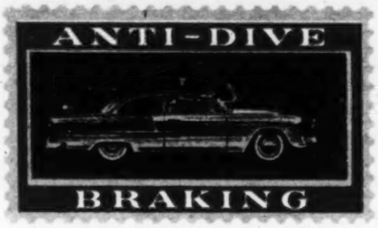
Chevrolet brings you ALL these fine features. No other low-priced car gives you even one and it is with this kind of quality that Chevrolet's even stealing the thunder from the high-priced cars! Come see it and drive it!

CHEVROLET
OUTRIGGER REAR SPRINGS

OUTRIGGER REAR SPRINGS

They're spaced wide apart, like outriggers on a canoe, to give you sure-footed stability on curves. The new Chevrolet corners like a sports car! And the rear springs are longer and wider to smother bumps and soak up road shocks.



ANTI-DIVE BRAKING

Chevrolet's the only car in the industry that stops with its head up! Anti-Dive braking control is an exclusive Chevrolet development that greatly reduces the tendency to nose down under sudden stops. You stop on the level—without lurching!

12
12 VOLT ELECTRICAL SYSTEM

12-VOLT ELECTRICAL SYSTEM

Delivers twice the punch of electrical systems in other low-priced cars! This means quicker starting in all weather, with up to 30 per cent faster cranking speed, better ignition for finer performance, and a greater reserve of electrical power.

BALL-RACE STEERING

Special ball bearings in the steering system roll with the turn of the wheel to reduce friction. Nothing makes steering and parking easier except Power Steering itself. And only Chevrolet and higher priced cars give you ball-race steering.

BODY by FISHER

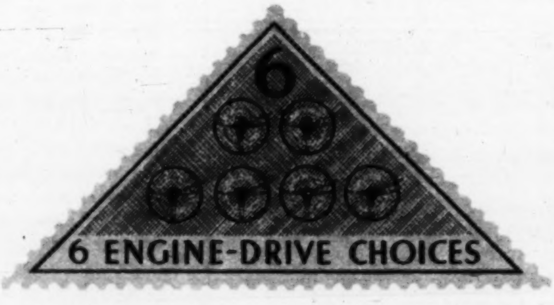
BODY BY FISHER

And that means by the world's best known builder of automobile bodies! The fine craftsmanship of Body by Fisher is found in many of America's costliest and most luxurious cars. And you get it only in Chevrolet in the low-price field.

HIGH-LEVEL VENTILATION SYSTEM

HIGH-LEVEL VENTILATION

Takes in air at hood-high level, away from road heat, fumes and dust. A special air chamber beneath the ventilation louvers prevents rain from entering the car and supplies a more even flow of air. You enjoy the best of ventilation.



SIX ENGINE-DRIVE CHOICES

New "Turbo-Fire V8"—the hottest, shortest-stroke V8 in the industry. Two new "Blue-Flame" 6's—most powerful in the low-price field. New Synchro-Mesh transmission, or as extra-cost options, new Overdrive or improved Powerglide.

DOUBLE ARCH
COWL CONSTRUCTION

DOUBLE-ARCH COWL CONSTRUCTION

The ventilation system air chamber is actually a double arch of steel that is an integral part of the body. This sturdy structure acts as a girder, adding the strength of an extra cross-member to the frame. It contributes to Chevrolet's solid feel on the road.

Man In Baby Shoes Deal Gets 23 Months

Sentenced In Franklin County Court At Chambersburg Friday

A Baltimore man charged last spring with operating a "r shoe racket" was given 2? in the Franklin Cour found guilty of ch

SWINDLER at work looks like this (l.). If caught, his punishment can parallel that in headline above.

WARNING: Gyps are active in the

BABY-SHOE RACKET

Once again a nasty little racket is entering its busy season. Tomorrow morning a pleasant stranger may ring your doorbell, smile warmly and ask whether you'd be interested in having Junior's baby shoes made into "a lasting keepsake in bronze" for only a small down deposit.

If he does, reach for the phone and have your Better Business Bureau check up on him—fast. He may be practicing one of the cruelest "con" games ever devised: the baby-shoe racket.

To date, uncounted housewives have been swindled in this dirty dodge. Smooth-talking crooks, posing as sales agents of real or imaginary shoe-bronzing services, base their appeal on normal maternal sentiment. When the mother "bites," they simply make off with the down deposit—and often the baby shoes as well.

One of the most notorious baby-shoe swindlers, H. E. White, Jr., caught in Baltimore, was given a 23-month jail sentence. Now he is at large again—and several like him are suspected of operating in other parts of the country.

"It's an old racket," says Van Miller of the National Better Business Bureau in New York, "and it seems to flourish mostly in the spring and summer. Swindlers have the whole country to work in and can skip from town to town when they arouse suspicion."

Unfortunately, it sometimes is difficult to distinguish between the crooks and the bona-fide representatives of honest bronzing services. The great majority of the latter—especially those of local jewelers and department stores—are 100 per cent reliable.

The "con" men often brazenly claim to represent legitimate out-of-town firms and even display literature, order blanks and promotional material. Some, after pocketing the down payment, actually send the shoes to a real company. One such Kansas City concern found itself stuck with hundreds of pairs of shoes within a few months.

More often, the swindlers drop the shoes into a trash basket or down a sewer. Not long ago, more than 20 pairs of baby shoes were found discarded along a highway near a Midwest town.

Another wrinkle is to rent a post-office box (usually in some other town) under a fictitious firm name, collect the down payment and instruct the housewife to mail in the shoes. Sometimes the company is real, but the shoes are returned cheaply sprayed instead of plated.

White Was Typical

Baltimore police caught up with White only after he had victimized housewives in several other states. He originally had represented a real Missouri company; fired in 1949, he kept right on collecting. PARADE has seen letters from some of his victims. A typical one; from a California housewife who had shelled out $12. 36, begged for help is getting her baby's shoes back. A Maryland mother lost two pairs of shoes.

What can you do to avoid being swindled by these vicious, petty thieves? The best answer is: deal with a known concern you can rely on. If the address of a baby-shoe bronzing agent's company is out of town, check with the Better Business Bureau. It may save you money or shoes—or both. ■

WON'T she look wonderful coming down the aisle? For the old saying that all brides are beautiful is truer than ever today.

That's because the modern girl knows the importance of taking good care of her figure. Her sensible modern taste in diet is for the lighter, less filling foods and beverages.

And that is the modern taste with which Pepsi-Cola has steadily kept pace. Today's Pepsi, never heavy, never too sweet, reduced in calories, refreshes without filling.

No wonder Pepsi-Cola is more popular than ever. It is the modern, the light refreshment. Have a Pepsi.

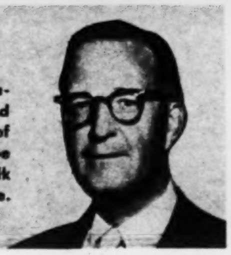
THE AUTHOR:

In a recent medical paper, Dr. Van Riper said up to 4,000 cases of paralytic polio might be prevented by the Salk vaccine this year alone.



After the Salk Vaccine—WHAT?

The question raised by Americans is discussed by a top polio authority

Shortly after the announcement that the vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk was safe and effective in preventing paralytic polio, I was asked: "How long will it take to wipe out polio?"

Predicting is risky, especially in the field of medicine, so I reached for a recent weekly report from the United States Public Health Service. It listed 23 cases of diphtheria, 35 cases of typhoid fever and 1,315 cases of whooping cough. Vaccines were developed for all of these years ago—but none of them has been wiped out yet.

Development of an effective vaccine is only a step toward control of a disease. It is an important step, certainly, and the polio vaccine is rightly regarded as a milestone in medical history. But between the creation of the vaccine and complete victory over polio there is bound to be a great deal of hard work.

Almost daily since April the vaccine has made front-page news. An avalanche of information concerning polio has been directed at the general public. Inevitably, a certain amount of confusion has resulted. Let's stop for a moment and try to dig out from under the avalanche.

Consider first the vaccine itself. Two years ago it was a laboratory product. No one knew whether it could ever be produced in sufficient quantities to inoculate large groups of people.

We now know that mass production is feasible. In fact, to keep production lines tooled up the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis allocated $9,000,000 in March of Dimes funds for the purchase of vaccine even before it was proved effective. The result of this calculated financial risk was that only four days after the vaccine was reported effective, mass injections started. From mid-April to mid-May alone, about 5½ million youngsters were inoculated. Yet, despite these and the additional inoculations this year, we will not have "wiped out" polio. There are already and there will continue to be cases this year.

Part of the reason lies in the fact that there are still production problems, just as there are with any new biological preparation. To produce sufficient vaccine first for the nation's 60 million children, and later for its 100 million adults, will take time—not to mention the tremendous job of performing the actual inoculations. No one can say when sufficient vaccine will be available, but we do anticipate that before the 1956 polio season very large supplies will be on hand.

Then there are the millions of youngsters in other parts of the world, whose mothers and fathers want them to be protected as well as American children. Here is a large area of need in which the United States is fortunately portrayed as a nation whose citizens have brought a great boon to all mankind.

It will be remembered that the evaluation report on the vaccine described it as being 60 to 90 per cent effective against paralytic polio. (By 60-90 per cent effective, we mean that there will be 60-90 per cent fewer polio cases among inoculated groups than among comparable uninoculated groups.) We know that the vaccine being made this year is more potent than this, but work is continuing toward improving it even more.

One area in which Dr. Salk himself is doing research is in the matter of vaccination schedules. We expect to learn much more about just how far apart shots should be spaced. Already we have moved from last years's procedure of three shots within five weeks to two injections two to four weeks apart, followed not less than seven months later by a third, so-called booster inoculation.

MEDICAL DIRECTOR, NATIONAL FOUNDATION FOR INFANTILE PARALYSIS

The question may be asked: why didn't we know all about this sooner? The answer is that the vaccine is a new product. We have not yet had time to measure its preventive effect with all possible dosage arrangements. Such measurements among injected children take months, even years.

Another unknown regarding the vaccine is how long its effect persists. We must see what occurs as vaccinated children grow older and are exposed to polio.

I have been asked to comment on the controversy regarding live-virus vaccines as compared to the inactivated vaccine developed by Dr. Salk.

Briefly stated, the idea behind the live-virus vaccine is that long-lasting immunity to a given type of polio results when an individual recovers from an actual attack of the disease. Many responsible scientists believe that each of the three types of polio virus may someday be trained or bred–not to cause illness, but to make the body develop long-lasting immunity. (Smallpox vaccine was developed along these lines.) Equally responsible scientists maintain that the Salk-vaccine approach is the most practical.

This controversy is a good and healthy thing. Science would hardly move forward without differing concepts. The National Foundation supports, and will continue to support, research into the merits of both live and inactivated virus preparations, in order that the ultimate polio vaccine will be the best possible.

It is a fact, however, that live-virus vaccines for polio are in the experimental stage. Brilliant work has been done on them, by Dr. Albert B. Sabin at the University of Cincinnati and others, but as yet no live virus vaccine suitable for mass human trial exists.

No vaccine yet developed for any disease is 100 per cent effective. In addition, there are always individuals who do not avail themselves of available vaccines. Thus, means are still needed for the treatment of polio and for prompt prevention in epidemic situations.

Research therefore is moving forward on the examination of chemical compounds that may be useful in polio. We should like to find a drug that might give even short-term protection against paralytic polio if administered during an epidemic. There is also some hope that scientists may find a drug that will be effective in treating the disease.

The Final Proof

In addition to the research that must go on, help must be given to the tens of thousands of people who are already suffering the effects of paralytic polio, or who will contract the disease in the future. Of primary importance in the treatment of those with breathing difficulties are 13 regional respirator centers established across the country by the Foundation. In these centers polio patients are taught to overcome their dependence on iron lungs. A very high percentage of those treated in the centers are returned to their homes, able to resume more nearly normal lives.

As the summer season wears on the amount of paralytic polio traditionally increases. But as more children are vaccinated, a time should come when the curve will move downward, contrary to all previous experience. Then we will know we are winning our battle. ■

What your Congressman can

You pay his salary and he needs your vote. So he likes to answer questions and run

WASHINGTON, D. C.

DEAR CONGRESSMAN," the letter began. "Five years ago my husband went downtown to cash his railroad pay check. He hasn't come back yet. Please find him. Sincerely, Mrs. W."

The lady was taking advantage of that unwritten amendment to the Bill of Rights: if you want something, ask your Congressman. For a 3¢ postage stamp, any citizen can buy the services of a $22,500-a-year combination legislator, messenger, expediter, trouble shooter, travel guide and information bureau.

In Mrs. W's case, as in countless others, the postage-stamp investment paid off. Her Congressman checked with the Railroad Retirement Board (no word of the missing spouse), queried the police (again no trace), then consulted Social Security records. Sure enough, these showed Mr. W had applied for benefits from a distant city. The errant husband's hooky-playing was over.

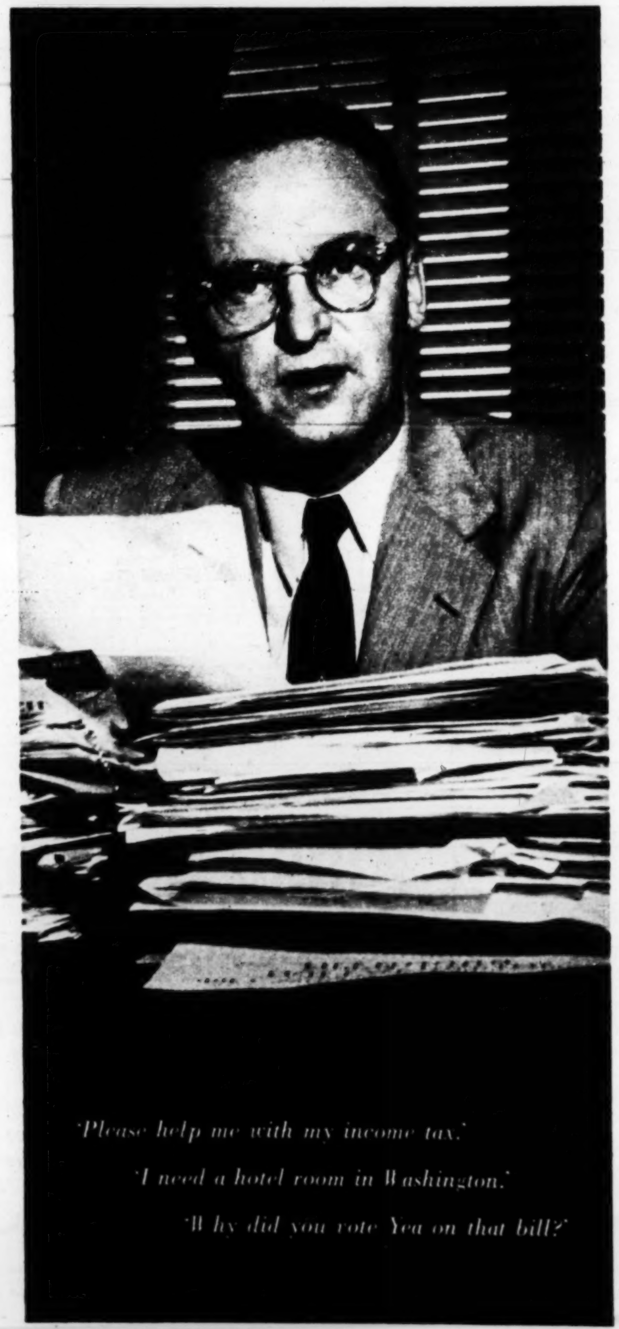
This sort of chore is routine to the 435 Representatives and 96 Senators who represent the home folks in Congress. Their constituents' requests range from a list of "everything that hasn't been invented yet" to information on "how to build a pigpen."

100 Letters a Day

Your Congressman, if he's typical, averages about 100 letters every working day while Congress is in session. (When it's out, he gets them at home.) He welcomes them. He may rebel at playing errand boy (he prefers to play statesman), but your mail gives him an insight into the voters' thinking, points up problems minor legislation might remedy. Even the errands are worth their weight in votes.

If you have a favor to ask, you'll likely get better service from your Representative because his constituency is smaller (average district: 370,000 population). Your Senator has the whole state to represent.

Don't expect your Congressman to do the impossible. (One estimates he accomplishes about half of one per cent of what people expect.) He can't get you a Government contract, or juggle the Army around to suit you, or send you all the Supreme Court decisions back to 1860. But there are hundreds of services he can provide. Here are a few:



'Please help me with my income tax.'
'I need a hotel room in Washington.'
'Why did you vote Yea on that bill?'

Such are the requests and queries that pour in on your Congressman. Above, Rep. John A. Blatnik (D., Minn.) sorts part of a day's mail.

- He can expedite your claims or applications before the Federal Government. He may not affect the final disposition, but he can cut red tape.
- He can send you free Government pamphlets on a variety of subjects. (Most popular: Infant Care, published by the Children's Bureau.)
- He can ask the National Archives to help you trace your family tree.
- He can act as your counsel before Federal boards (in a veteran's appeal case, for instance).
- He can introduce private legislation for you in hardship cases.
- He may find you a patronage job as a guard, elevator operator or handyman on Capitol Hill.
- He might make your boy a Congressional page or appoint him to West Point or Annapolis, if he qualifies.
- If you have business in Washington, he can introduce you to the right official.
- If you come to sightsee, he can supply you with passes to watch Congress in action, inspect the White House or take a conducted tour of the National Art Gallery. (He also can arrange hotel reservations.)
- He can hand out a few tickets to the Army-Navy football game. (But he has to pay for them.)
- He can answer almost any question by asking the right Government agency.
- If you have a relative in a distant Federal jail, he may get him transferred to a prison nearer your home. Or he can sometimes put in a good word with the Federal parole board.

Overcoats and Horses' Tails

He can even find a lost overcoat in the labyrinth of the U.S. Navy. Take Rep. Charles Bennett (D., Fla.), who heard that a hitchhiking constituent had left his overcoat in a sailor's car headed for Pensacola.

"Mr. Congressman," the coatless constituent wrote, "the Navy has given me the brush-off. They say they can't find my coat. I don't think they even tried. Can you possibly help me?" Congressman Bennett had only to express "interest" to the Navy; within five days the coat was on its way to its owner.

A Congressman is also sort of a Congressional quiz kid, ready to answer the wildest questions. If your query has a serious answer, he'll try to find it. But there's one that still stumps Rep. John Vorys (R., Ohio): "How can you tell a horse's age by the bones in his tail?"

Probably Vorys' most sweeping request came from a college coed who wrote blandly: "I'm studying government. Please send me a copy of everything that goes out of your office."

do for YOU

. errands—within reason. Here's how it works out

by JACK ANDERSON and FRED BLUMENTHAL
PARADE WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENTS

A Congressman's average day's mail runs something like this:

- 50 personal problems from constituents. ("Please ask the Army to transfer my son closer to home." "I made a mistake in my income taxes. What should I do?" "Help me collect my social security benefits.")
- 25 letters on legislation. ("Do you favor universal military training?" "I think you should vote for a tax cut." "Here are six reasons you should oppose H.R. 189.")
- 15 requests for pamphlets, bulletins and maps. ("I am coming to Washington. Please send me travel information." "Please furnish me all available Government pamphlets on how to find uranium.")
- 10 miscellaneous missives, such as form letters, anonymous gripes, etc. (Form letters receive form replies; anonymous letters usually go into the wastebasket.)

To handle the mail load, each Congressman has an authorized office payroll of around $22,500 a year. This is enough to hire about five assistants and secretaries, who spend 90 per cent of their time running errands and answering letters for constituents.

CONSTITUENTS from Indianapolis visit Rep. Charles B. Brownson (R., Ind.) in his office.

The Congressman, himself, must spend more of his time at the job he was elected to do—legislating. He must attend endless hearings, read stacks of legislative material, follow the floor debates. "A Congressman has another constituency—his colleagues in Congress," House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D., Tex.) explained to PARADE, "If he cooperates with them, he's in a better position to serve his constituency back home."

What happens to your letter to your Congressman? It will be handled by an assistant who specializes in your problem. He will phone or write the appropriate Government agency, requesting action. Since Congressional inquiries get top priority, the agency will rush back an answer.

Nine chances out of 10, the answer will be the same as you could have obtained on your own from the agency. Except in hardship cases, your Congressman can't change the answers. But he can get quicker answers.

Some miracles even Congressmen can't produce. Shortly before Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R., Ky.) left Congress to become Ambassador to India, he received this letter from a political lieutenant: "As you know, I brought in my precinct for you. I have always supported you, win or lose. I think I deserve something in return. I have now decided I would like to be the American Ambassador to London. Please take care of this."

The startled solon struggled for a tactful answer. He finally found it: "I know you were helpful during the last election. Many thanks. About that job as Ambassador to London, my feeling is that it's not quite the right spot for you. I have been concerned about your wife's lumbago. The climate in London would make her life miserable."

The reply came quickly: "Thanks for telling me about the climate in London. Let's forget about that job over there. If you'll just help me get the postmaster's job here, everything will be OK."

Most Congressmen want to perform such chores for their constituents. The problem is how to divide their time between legislation and errand-running. Rep. F. Edward Hébert (D., La.) told PARADE his ideas, developed over 15 years, in these words:

"I was elected to legislate, but I'm lucky to spend 10 per cent of my time at it. I spend the other 90 per cent giving services to my constituents. The Congressman is a doorman to the big Government bureaucracies in Washington. He opens the door to let in the constituent who has a perfect right to get in by himself but is often kept out by the bureaucrats. The big tycoon pays up to $100,000 a year to have someone here looking after his interests. The little guy pays only his taxes. Yet the high-salaried lobbyist can't accomplish for the tycoon what one lowly Congressman can do for his petitioners."

To illustrate, Hébert described what went on in his office before the PARADE interview: "You heard that phone call when you first came in. It was from a lawyer, whose client wants out of jail. Won't I put a fire under the pardon board to speed up his parole? You saw those men who just walked out of here. They wanted action on a $100 million project for building a channel between New Orleans and the Gulf of Mexico. And before them, some Louisiana-bound friends asked me to arrange the red carpet treatment for them in New Orleans."

REP. Sam Rayburn (D., Tex.) feels a Congressman should "stay close to his people."

EX-SEN. John Cooper (R., Ky.) has learned how to ward off would-be Ambassadors.

REP. John Rooney (D., N. Y.) knows the secret of keeping Brooklyn constituents happy.

REP. Joe Martin (R., Mass.) even helps out GOP voters in neighboring Rhode Island.

Congressmen approach the problem of serving their constituents in different ways, but most subscribe to this advice from veteran Speaker Rayburn: "A man elected to Congress should stay as close to his people as he can, respond to every request that is proper and reasonable, and, when Congress adjourns, go home and keep up his personal contact with them."

Congressmen whose districts are close to Washington, such as Rep. John Rooney (D., N.Y.), can spend more time at home. Rooney returns to his Brooklyn electorate every week end and makes himself conspicuous among the voters. As a regular ritual after Sunday Mass, he opens his office to all comers.

Rooney listens sympathetically while a clerk makes notes, then takes all the problems back to Washington for solution. Typical was the case of Mrs. Giustina Schiano Lomoriello, who was born in New York but raised in Italy. She lost her American birthright by voting in Italy and wanted to get it back again. When Rooney introduced a private bill restoring her American citizenship, what seemed like every Italian in Brooklyn jammed into the House gallery to hear him.

Threats Aren't Advisable

If it turns out your Congressman can't help you with a problem, it does no good to threaten him with defeat or to take out your wrath on him. Don't be like the huffy housewife who wrote: "I want my husband to get a hardship discharge from the Army. I know you have the influence to help get him out of the service. Now do it!"

Contrary to some impressions, few Congressmen can be threatened, bribed or cajoled into violating their trust. You might get into trouble if you try. "In my eight years in Congress," reports Rep. John Blatnik (D., Minn.), "only two people have asked me to do anything unethical. I gave them both a fast 'no.' "

The blizzard of mail that hits Congress is liable to turn up anything. Rep. Vorys even received a message from the long-departed George Washington, if you can take the word of the medium who delivered it.

He'll send out recipes and baby literature, even help Cupid for a lovelorn constituent

The how-to requests run high—how to grow mushrooms, or build a rabbit hutch, or travel abroad. These usually can be answered by mailing out a Government pamphlet on the subject. Each Congressman is alloted a quota of free Government literature (and must swap with others if his supply runs out).

Biggest demand is for baby literature, which Congressmen send out avidly: it serves as mail-order baby-kissing. And good recipes go far toward winning housewives' votes. Congressman Vorys even has whipped up his own recipe for marinated onions. (Slice the onions, soak them in milk with a little sugar. Let stand for an hour, then drain. Add salt, oil and vinegar.)

Rep. Joe Martin (R., Mass.), House GOP leader, has watched the demands of constituents grow through 32 years of service. "When I first came here," he told PARADE, "I averaged 15 letters a day from home. Now I get 200 most days. My first advice to a young Congressman is to do the chores for the homefolks. He must be a kind of adviser, lawyer and father confessor."

Martin should know. He plays the role not only for his own Massachusetts constituency but also for Republicans in Rhode Island who have no GOP representative in Congress. "My Rhode Island constituents are loyal," Martin remarked proudly. "They don't do business with anyone but me." Recently, on their behalf, he succeeded in bringing some shipwrecked men home from Australia.

Like many another Congressman, Martin—himself a bachelor—sometimes helps Cupid out of legal entanglements. He recalls one incident that backfired: "One day a farmer came to me, said he wanted to marry a girl in Czechoslovakia and asked me to help bring her over. He had never seen her, except for her pictures. I asked him why he wanted to marry a girl so far away. 'She's a farm girl and a good worker,' he said.

"So I got everything fixed. I had a bill passed to include her in the immigration quota. But when it came time for her to pick up her visa, she changed her mind. She found another farmer in her own country she liked better."

Your Congressman and His Vote

Every Congressman is swamped with so-called "pressure" mail—letters asking him to support or oppose certain legislation. Some are sincere expressions of individuals, some are dictated by groups. (The latter usually arrive by the bushel-basket, all with identical wording.)

Representative Bass believes a Congressman should seek out his constituents' opinions but should make up his own mind on how to vote. "He should avoid pledging his vote in advance. The turn of events may completely changes matters," is Bass's attitude.

Congressman Hébert, on the other hand, believes this: "I have voted against my convictions because my constituents wanted it. But you should look out for the people who want you to vote against all taxes and for all appropriations. They're tuned to the idea of a 'gimme' government."

WANT TO WRITE YOUR CONGRESSMAN? HERE'S HOW:

1 Address the letter plainly. If you don't know his name, ask your postmaster. Address: The Honorable ____________, House Office Building, Washington, 25, D.C. (In the case of a Senator, it should go to the Senate Office Building.)

2 Write your return address on your letter as well as the envelope. After the envelopes are opened, they're usually thrown away.

3 Begin your letter, "Dear Mr.__________," to a Representative; or, "Dear Senator__________," to a Senator.

4 Set down all the necessary information—names, birth dates, Army serial numbers, claim numbers, etc. Include everything that will help him get to the heart of your problem promptly.

5 Expect an answer within a week—though visible results may take longer, depending on the request.

Joe Martin doesn't believe in tipping his hand ahead of a vote. "Nine times out of 10," he says, "a measure you originallv favored will come up on the floor in a form you don't like. The less you commit yourself on a subject the more successful you can be."

That's why your letters, telling your Congressman how you think he should vote, invariably brings a response something like this: "Thank you for your interest in House Bill 000. Your thoughtful opinions will be taken into consideration at the time of the vote." Don't expect anything more.

Asking your Congressman for a favor doesn't put you in his debt forever. You aren't even obliged to vote for him in the next election, though Congressmen naturally hope you will. Martin ruefully recalls this incident:

"A man in my district was sentenced to jail for a year on a misdemeanor. He appealed to me to help get him out, and I arranged a pardon after he had served only six months. Soon after, I was campaigning for re-election and to my surprise found the man was campaigning against me. Out of curiosity, I asked him, 'Say, you were in jail, and I got you out. Now I see you campaigning for my opposition. How come?'

"'Well,' he said, 'you never asked me to help you. The other feller did.'" ■

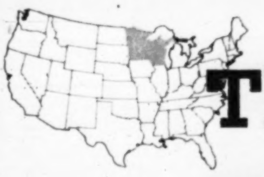
SMALL TALK passes between Jimmie Prindle and Chippewa Indian girls as Madison, Wis., family visits reservation.



THE NORTH WOODS

There's a lake for every taste in Wisconsin. Here's one family's choice for fish and fun

Across Northern Wisconsin (and adjoining Michigan, Minnesota and Ontario), thousands of pine-bordered lakes stretch in an almost endless galaxy. To the John Prindle family of Madison, Wis., this vast playground posed a problem: how to single out one lakeside family vacation spot?

When they made their choice, it was a little like stabbing a pin in a map blindfolded. But after a week at Lac Court Oreilles, near Hayward, in Wisconsin's Indian Head country, they were convinced they had made the best possible choice for family vacationing. They marked it down mentally as a place for next year—and probably the year after.

Originally, the attraction was fishing. Hayward is muskellunge country; the world's record muskie (69 pounds, 11 ounces) was caught in nearby Lake Chippewa, dethroning two previous record fish taken from Lac Court Oreilles. But the Prindles found that the lake also had appeal for all the family—John and Ruth Prindle as well as Jimmie, 5, and Johnnie, 3.

The prices had their appeal, too. In the North Woods lake country, accommodations range from the extremely plush and expensive to the downright primitive and dirt cheap. The Prindles

PROUD PAPA shows string of fine wall-eyed pike to admiring Johnnie and Jimmie. Fishing license cost Prindle $1. For nonresident couple, price is $6 for 10 days.

KIDS FROLIC, Mom and Pop sun themselves near lodge on shore of Lac Court Oreilles. Moccasin Lodge, famed for meals, offers guests $5 for each pound they lose while there.

found Moccasin Lodge on Lac Court Oreilles in the "average" bracket. Their total bill for the week was $189; included in the price ($9.50 a day for adults, half that for children under 10) was a two-bedroom cottage with bath, three excellent meals a day at the central lodge, full run of the lodge's recreational facilities.

The Prindles' cottage was located only 25 feet from the lake, and each morning Johnnie and Jimmie dashed down to the natural sand beach for a quick dip. It was the beach that "sold" the Prindles on the lake; a gradually sloping bottom allowed the children to wade out almost 200 feet without being in danger. There are no sudden drop-offs and it is impossible for a child to fall into the lake anywhere.

Most of the family's fun centered around the lake. But they discovered plenty of landbound amusement. At Hayward, a nine-hole golf course is free to guests of any lodge in the area. Horses can be rented for $1.25 an hour at two nearby stables. The family took hikes through the dense woods, enjoying the pine-scented air.

The world's record muskie was a piker; the granddaddy remains to be caught

One day they piled into their car and drove to Copper Falls State Park, 65 miles north of Hayward, where the Bad River, after flowing through copper-mining country, drops in a series of orange cascades. A shorter trip took them to a state-licensed deer farm, where Johnnie and Jimmie fed and got acquainted with the animals.

Some 13 miles from Moccasin Lodge, the Prindles visited the Court Oreilles Chippewa Indian Reservation. The kids hobnobbed with little Indian children in full costume, while their parents discussed the ceremonial dances which are held twice a week in Hayward during the summer months.

Many of the Indians hire out as fishing guides (fee: $11 a day) to take guests to the best muskie spots. The world's biggest muskie remains to be caught (the Wisconsin Conservation Commission says Lac Court Oreilles has some weighing over 80 pounds); for fishermen shooting at records, a guide is absolutely necessary.

But, Prindle was pleased to note, the lake abounds in other fish, too. Johnnie and Jimmie were thrilled with the ease with which they caught panfish—bluegills, crappies, rock bass—on kid-sized tackle. Dad also spent some of his time fishing for bass and walleyed pike, which are plentiful in the lake. Sometimes the family ignored fishing altogether, merely drifted along on the blue lake, drinking in the grandeur of its rugged shoreline and basking in the sun. (Incidentally, northern Wisconsin, although not in the daytime, cools off at night; guests are reminded to take jackets.)

How would you go about planning a vacation like the Prindles'? Mike Solo, owner of Moccasin Lodge (mailing address: Hayward, Wis.), will furnish information on his resort; or the Hayward Lakes Resort Association (Hayward, Wis.) can give details on other lodges in the area. If you'd prefer to range a little farther afield, write Indian Head Country Inc., Ashland, Wis., for data on the whole northeastern Wisconsin area.

Hayward has no airline service and most guests prefer to drive. The area is 280 miles from Madison, 420 from Chicago, 140 from Minneapolis-St. Paul, and is served by U.S. Highway 63 and Wisconsin 27. Often, groups of fishermen will fly to Minneapolis and hire a taxi to Hayward.

Wherever you choose in the North Woods—and however you choose to get there—you'll find the rugged charm of the great outdoors. And, the Prindles can guarantee you, if you choose Lac Court Oreilles, you'll also find that something extra that makes for ideal family vacationing. ■

June and daughter Pamela: For running a home, she needed a little responsibility.

JUNE ALLYSON:

HOW SHE CONQUERED HER 'PAST'

HOLLYWOOD.

The first time Dick Powell saw his present wife, June Allyson, she was singing and dancing in the 1942 Broadway musical, Best Foot Forward. "She had a barrel-house voice," he recalls, "and her veins stood out like a garden hose. When I went backstage, it was to see Rosemary Lane."

Today the most popular movie actress in America (according to the latest poll of the nation's movie exhibitors), June still is no beauty queen. Says Anthony Mann, who directed her in Strategic Air Command: "June is attractive but not cast from the orthodox mold of Hollywood beauty. She looks sufficiently average and simple to permit young members of her audience to feel that if she can be a star, so can they."

Being a star sometimes surprises Miss Allyson herself, because of an inferiority complex that traces back 30-odd years. Born Ella Geisman on the seedy side of the Bronx, reared by a series of relatives (her parents broke up when she was an infant), she long was convinced that audiences would not accept a tenement product as an authentic movie queen. Thus she tried to hide her origin from employers, reporters and even friends by describing a childhood of luxury and loving parents. Only recently, thanks largely to the affection and patience of her husband,

The easy Wesson way is the only way to make glorious Chiffon Cake

You pour light, sparkling Wesson Oil to make this glamorous cake. No messy solid shortening to measure and work in, because solid shortening just won't do.

In all the world there's no other salad oil as light and mild and fresh as Wesson Oil. So it's Wesson that helps give Chiffon Cake its spectacular height, its cloud-like texture and moist, rich taste.

STRAWBERRY CREAM CHIFFON CAKE

Recipe by Betty Crocker of General Mills

- 2 cups sifted Gold Medal "Kitchen-tested" Flour
- 1½ cups sugar
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ cup Wesson Oil
- 7 unbeaten egg yolks (medium)
- ¾ cup cold water
- Grated rind of 2 oranges (about 3 tablespoons)
- 1 cup egg whites (7 or 8)
- ½ teaspoon cream of tartar

Heat oven to 325° (slow). Have ready ungreased tube pan, 10 x 4".

Sift flour, sugar, baking powder, salt into bowl. Make a well; add Wesson Oil, egg yolks, water, grated rind. Beat with spoon until smooth or with electric mixer on medium speed 1 minute.

Measure egg whites and cream of tartar into large mixing bowl. Beat by hand until whites form very stiff peaks or with electric mixer on high speed 3 to 5 minutes. DO NOT UNDERBEAT. Pour egg yolk mixture gradually over beaten whites—folding just until blended. DO NOT STIR. Pour into ungreased pan.

Bake 55 minutes in slow oven (325°), then increase to 350° and bake 10 to 15 minutes longer, or until top springs back when lightly touched. Turn pan upside down with tube over neck of funnel or bottle. Let hang until cold. Loosen from sides and tube with spatula; turn pan over, hit edge sharply on table. Split cake into 3 layers; put together with:

STRAWBERRY CREAM: Mash 1 pint strawberries. Add 2 tablespoons sugar. Mix in 1 teaspoon gelatin softened in 1 tablespoon water and dissolved over hot water. Chill. When partially set, fold in ½ cup heavy cream, whipped and sweetened. Cover top and sides with sweetened whipped cream, tinted if desired. Refrigerate until used.

NOTE: Cake may also be baked in an oblong pan, 13 x 9½ x 2", for 45 to 50 minutes in moderate oven (350°).

Table of adjustment for high altitudes. 2,500 to 4,000 ft., use 2¼ teaspoons baking powder; 4,000 to 6,500 ft., use 1½ teaspoons baking powder; over 6,500 ft., use ¾ teaspoon baking powder. Over 3,500 ft., increase temperature 25°.

Love, two children and a red-hot career opened her eyes to a stunning truth . . . Second of two installments has she been able to tell the truth—that she is the heroine of a real-life rags-to-riches tale.

by LLOYD SHEARER PARADE WEST COAST CORRESPONDENT

Her first step up came in Best Foot Forward, one of five Broadway shows in which she appeared. MGM scouts were impressed—even if husband-to-be Powell was not—by the pert little actress and signed her to a $200-a-week contract. But she came to Hollywood shy and uncertain.

"She compensated for her insecurity with cuteness and hard work," says one director. "I've rarely seen any young actress so afraid of failure. She wore a perpetual smile and a cloak of affability that camouflaged a small talent but a tremendous ambition."

Of those early days June candidly admits being "miserable. I was a frightened kid. Working hours were fine, but nights were as full of terror as they had been in the Bronx, when my mother would leave me alone in the apartment. I lived in a small Hollywood flat by myself and lots of times I'd ask the neighbors if I could just sleep on their couch."

One of her first picture jobs was in Meet the People, which featured Dick Powell, an actor with an amazing career story in his own right. He broke into the movies in the '30s as a boyish-faced crooner and made a fortune in musicals; starting to fade as a singer in the '40s, he switched to straight acting and became a sensation as a tough private eye. For the '50s Powell is still playing hard-bitten roles in TV and the movies; he also is producing and directing.

On meeting June, veteran Powell was struck by her youthful inexperience. Separated from his second wife, actress Joan Blondell, he found June, he says, "a great contrast." They began dating. "Half the time," says June, "I couldn't believe that such a famous star would want to waste himself on me. I thought maybe he had ulterior motives."

Powell's main motive was "to avoid entangling alliances," for he was determined to stay single. But June—her first four pictures so successful that she was now a bigger star than Powell—was head-over-pumps in love.

"Richard," she demanded one night, "I want to know your intentions."

JUNE ALLYSON
CONTINUED

In these and some 20 other films, June has been cute, kind, sweet—and popular

CUTE CHARM of her song-and-dance act is unfurled in Till the Clouds Roll By (1947).

"Have you had any offers?" grinned Dick.

"Two," she replied, seriously.

"Look," Dick said, still joking, "I'll have to ask my business manager about my intentions."

"Okay," June mumbled, fighting back tears. "If that's the way you feel, we'd better not see each other any more."

Powell left, drove 20 miles to the San Fernando Valley, where he was living. When he got there he picked up the phone and called June.

"You crying?" he asked.

"Why? Why should I be crying?" June stammered, then burst into sobs.

Powell raced back to June's apartment. He explained that he was in no position to marry then because his divorce wouldn't be final for another six months. "But I love you," he said, "and I want you to marry me."

The marriage ceremony was held on August 19, 1945, in the home of composer Johnny Green. Exercising a female right, June gave her age as 21; Powell admitted to 40. He was late for the wedding and for a moment, June grew panicky. "I thought," she says, "that he had forgotten all about it."

BAD DEEDS are foreign to the movies' June. Exception: The Bride Goes Wild (1948), where she belted Van Johnson.

This was the first in a series of panics that for a long time marked June's marriage. "I got myself mixed up from the start," she says. "I wanted to be everything that Richard expected. We honeymooned on his boat and I did everything wrong because I didn't know a thing about boats. I almost set fire to the galley.

"Then after the honeymoon we lived in a mansion in Bel Air. We had to have a big house so that Richard could have partial custody of Norman and Ellen. [Norman is Joan Blondell's son by a former marriage whom Powell adopted, and Ellen is their daughter.] I didn't know anything about running a big house, even a small house. I couldn't order food. I couldn't handle the personnel. I was just terrified most of the time."

As a result, Dick took over many of the household chores. When June could not fire incompetent help, he would do it. When she ordered seven cords of wood, it was he who sent back six. He glossed over her inadequacies, knowing that a childhood like hers would hardly equip anyone to run an estate.

Afraid of her household responsibilities, June surrendered them to Dick rather than fail in trying. When Dick tried to bolster her ego with pep talks, she would dodge the issue by complaining of headaches, muscle strains, rhinitis. But always, in public, June would flaunt the cute smile, the gay flippancy.

In her heart, however, she craved to run her own household. And she worried that Dick was "disappointed in me."

The Babies Came

Dick wasn't. He told her not to be ashamed and insecure because of her past poverty. "And as for running a home," he added, "all you need is to try a little responsibility."

In 1948 June assumed the responsibility. She and Dick adopted a baby daughter, Pamela, from a Memphis adoption home. A year later, having proved to herself and Dick that she could care for one baby, June suggested adopting another. "But then I discovered," she says, "that I was going to have one the more usual way. We called our baby Herman before he was born. When he arrived—on Christmas Eve of 1950—we named him Richard Keith. When I brought him home from the hospital, his sister Pam was all pity. 'He's not even adoptinated!' she said."

Motherhood has helped ease June's inferiority complex, but not nearly so much as the moral support of Dick and the increasing success of her career.

This career has been phenomenal. In 12 years her pay has skyrocketed from $200 a week to where she's been offered $300,000 for one film. Since the income tax on such pay is a blockbuster, June is asking for a percentage of the profits of her movies. For doing The McConnell Story at Warner Brothers, for example, she will take home 7½ per cent of the net profits (which in a corporate setup is taxable at 25 per cent as capital gain).

In making such deals under the guidance of Dick, she is following the profit-sharing lead of Jimmy Stewart. The latter has become a millionaire several times over, something June is not but soon may be.

Her big push toward her first million came when she left MGM two years ago, after 10 years and 20 pictures, because she was unhappy with her parts. "It took a lot of courage for me to leave," she says. "Richard gave me the confidence to freelance. He told me I'd be a success. With him behind me I figured I might have a chance. I'm not a very good judge of scripts but Richard is an excellent one. He was sure The Glenn Miller Story would be a big money-maker. And right now I'm doing a musical version of It Happened One Night—and he's my producer.

First "Heavy"

"The only time I haven't listened to him was on my last picture, The Shrike, with Jose Ferrer. I play a wife who's a 'heavy' for seven reels and I think that's what Richard objected to. But after all, an actress can't play the same type of role year after year."

Up to The Shrike, in which she plays a dominating wife who has her husband kept in a mental ward to prevent his divorcing her, June has had pretty much the same role for 12 years—that of the self-sacrificing, uncomplaining wife whose love sees her husband through his problems to a happy ending.

But in private life, her husband has seen her through the problems. "Everything I have today that really counts," she told me, "I owe to Richard. He's the one who taught me about truth and love. Nowadays when anyone asks about my past, present or future, I speak right up. I've been cleansed of fear."

Explains Dick: "All Junie means is that it's taken a long time for her to grow up. Thank God, she's made it." ■

A Church for the Carriage trade

LONDON.

Once a year this scene takes place in St. Luke's Church, Wimbledon. It symbolizes the conviction of the Rev. J. L. Spencer that churchgoing should be a cradle-to-grave affair. Four years ago, to take care of the cradle end, he extended personal invitations to parishioners under 4 (and their mothers) for a special service; to ease things for the mothers, he offered aisle parking for prams. By now, attendance at Spencer's version of a drive-in service has grown to 60-plus mothers. Next year: a traffic jam? ■

Will you get a bouquet with your coffee today?

In coffee, "bouquet" means aroma—the rich aroma so many coffees lack these days!

Maxwell House gives you a bouquet in every cup

Close your eyes . . . draw a deep breath . . . inhale!

Now sip, and let that heady fragrance mingle with the flavor.

You'll know at once that without this rich bouquet, this fabulous aroma, no coffee can truly satisfy.

Since so many brands have so little aroma—and Maxwell House has so much—why not choose Maxwell House for your own enjoyment?

teen-age heaven

Remember the old-fashioned ice-cream parlor, way back when? Like all happy ideas, this one is having a revival—but now the parlors are more like palaces, and the ice-cream concoctions served in them resemble the towering fantasies of an Arabian Nights dream! Ask any teenager for details, then plan a party around this idea. Provide the ingredients, as above, and let the kids compose their own specialties—such as the Banana Crown at left (five scoops of ice cream in various flavors, crushed pineapple, crushed sweetened strawberries, a whole banana, whipped cream, chocolate sprinkles, nuts, Maraschino cherries).

Buy the ice cream in convenient half-gallon containers; let the kids make the three easy, no-cooking sauces given below. Don't forget the soda-lovers who will need carbonated beverages, plain and whipped cream in addition to ice cream. Pressure-canned whipped cream will delight them. Nuts, chopped and whole, are a must. Provide a variety of amusing dishes and tall glasses for serving—and let the kids take over.

CHOCOLATE SUNDAE SAUCE

Stir 1 package instant chocolate pudding into 1 cup light corn sirup. Stir in ¼ cup water. Makes 1¼ cups.

COFFEE SUNDAE SAUCE

Stir 1 package instant vanilla pudding into 1 cup light corn sirup. Thoroughly dissolve 2 tablespoons instant coffee in 3 tablespoons cream or evaporated milk. Stir into sirup mixture. Makes 1¼ cups.

BUTTERNUT SUNDAE SAUCE

Stir 1 package instant butterscotch pudding into 1 cup light corn sirup. Stir in ¼ cup cream, ½ cup broken walnut meats. Makes 1½ cups.

I'm Long on Shortcomings

Groggy but game, the man reports on his latest battle

by DICK EMMONS

"This article I'm reading says that one way to keep a marriage strong is to hold occasional frank, open discussions about each other's shortcomings," I announced to Helen the other night.

My bride smiled. "Excellent!" she said. "I, for one, am unanimously in favor of the frankest, most wide-open discussion possible on the subject!"

"Well, fine," I said, a trifle doubtfully. "When, for example?"

"Now, for example," Helen said.

Promptly we took up positions in opposite corners of the room, flexing our muscles, breathing deeply, bowing to the crowd (three is a crowd. We have three children) and making rapid notes in preparation for our little talk. At least Helen made rapid notes. I was so appalled to see her pencil flashing over the paper that, when the allotted time had elapsed, I had only two items on my list. They didn't seem to make much sense when I referred to them.

"Shoot!" my wife invited, moving toward the attack.

"Er–that is–ah–"

"Tell me my faults. Outline my weaknesses. Dwell upon my shortcomings."

"It–um, says dishes here," I mumbled, looking down at my notes and grinning wanly. "Something I've been meaning to say about dishes."

"I put them on the table. I fill them with food. I wash them. I dry them. I put them away. I have done so with the same dishes for the past eight years–which reminds me of something I forgot to put down."

"I've been meaning to buy you a new set of dishes," I inserted quickly. "But the meals you serve on the old ones are so delicious that it hardly seems–" My voice faded.

"Anything further, duck?"

"Well, my other note refers to the word attic. Something irritates me in connection with the attic. Perhaps," I added hastily, "it's just that it's upstairs. I wonder they don't put attics on the ground floor where people can get at them, don't you?"

"Finished?"

I squirmed. The mental picture I'd formed of the two of us sitting down peaceably together–with lovable old me ticking off my pet peeves and shy little Helen admitting that her life was barren of the slightest frustration–was slightly out of focus. So was my notion of what to do next.

"How about a fast game of quoits?" I suggested brightly. "Or a bite to eat? Let's go out for dinner. Maybe I'd better cut the lawn now. Or shovel the snow from the driveway. Want to see a football game?"

Items 1 to 347

"I have prepared, at your suggestion, a portfolio of your imperfections," Helen said firmly. "Now hear this. Item One: You do not make enough money. Item Two: You haven't built the preserve shelves I asked for . . .

". . . Item Three Hundred and Forty-Six: You dirty every ashtray in the house in the course of one evening . . . Item Three Hundred and Forty-Seven – –"

The crowd had long since departed for cookies and milk, but I still stood there, taking it. Dazedly I found myself wondering: Wouldn't it be a good idea if married couples sat down together every so often and told each other, frankly and openly, about their longcomings, their plus factors?

That way we could clean the thing up in a couple of minutes and go back to reading more articles. ■

Answers to questions on Social Contacts

In writing on the subject of social calls, it seems I have been misunderstood by some because I insist that today we should not just "drop in," but should do our calling "by appointment." Here is a letter from a reader in Maine, for example:

Q. I read with much surprise your statement in a recent PARADE stating that the "dropping in" of friends is not encouraged these days. I thought when I moved to this small community that people would come to call. They didn't, and the friends who do call spend their visit apologizing for dropping in. Guess they must read your column. How can a young couple with three small children get acquainted in a new location when their neighbors don't drop in to call?—Mrs. G.H., Greenville Junction, Me.

A. It is still perfectly proper to make a formal call upon people without letting them know in advance. I feel, however, that it is more thoughtful to let them know that you are coming; it gives them the opportunity (if they so desire) to suggest a more convenient time to receive you.

The best way to be accepted is to enter, modestly and quietly, into the activities of your community. Try to find other "newcomers" and stretch out your hand to them. They, too, probably are lonely.

Q. In our community it is customary to invite friends in for dessert. In serving, is the fork placed at the left of the plate and the spoon at the right? When a salad is served with a main course, which is placed farther from the plate, fork or salad fork?—E.M.R., Attleboro, Mass.

A. When serving dessert, the fork is placed at the left of the plate and the spoon on the right. When salad is served with a main course at the table, the salad fork is placed nearest the plate. When a salad is served as a first course, the salad fork is placed outside the meat fork.

Q. On my nieces' and nephews' birthdays I always send them a greeting card and put in a little check for a dollar. I feel they should acknowledge these little remembrances. Am I right?—Mrs. M.E.M., Long Beach, Calif.

A. Yes. If they are not old enough to write you, either their mothers should write for them or, if they see you, they should be reminded to thank you in person. By the time a child reaches his teens he should do these things automatically.

Q. I read your remarks on men and hats with interest and amazement. I would be interested to know if you agree that a man should wear a hat or not, depending on the custom of the area in which he lives?—Mrs. D.N., Long Beach, Calif.

A. Yes, I agree with you.

Q. In departing, what is the correct thing to say to someone you have met for the first time, and what should be the reply? —Mrs. W.A.J., San Leandro, Calif.

A. Say something spontaneous and – if possible – true. For example, "I so much enjoyed meeting you – and I hope that we'll meet again." The other person says, "I enjoyed meeting you, too." Then, if he wishes to make any further social appointments he may. You may do the same.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS will be answered in this column as space permits. (Miss Vanderbilt cannot answer letters personally.) Address: Amy Vanderbilt, PARADE, 285 Madison Ave., New York 17, N. Y.

BURRO, like those used by old-time miners, is sold to contestant for $40 before race, can be auctioned off at a profit after the event ends.

GREAT BURRO RACE

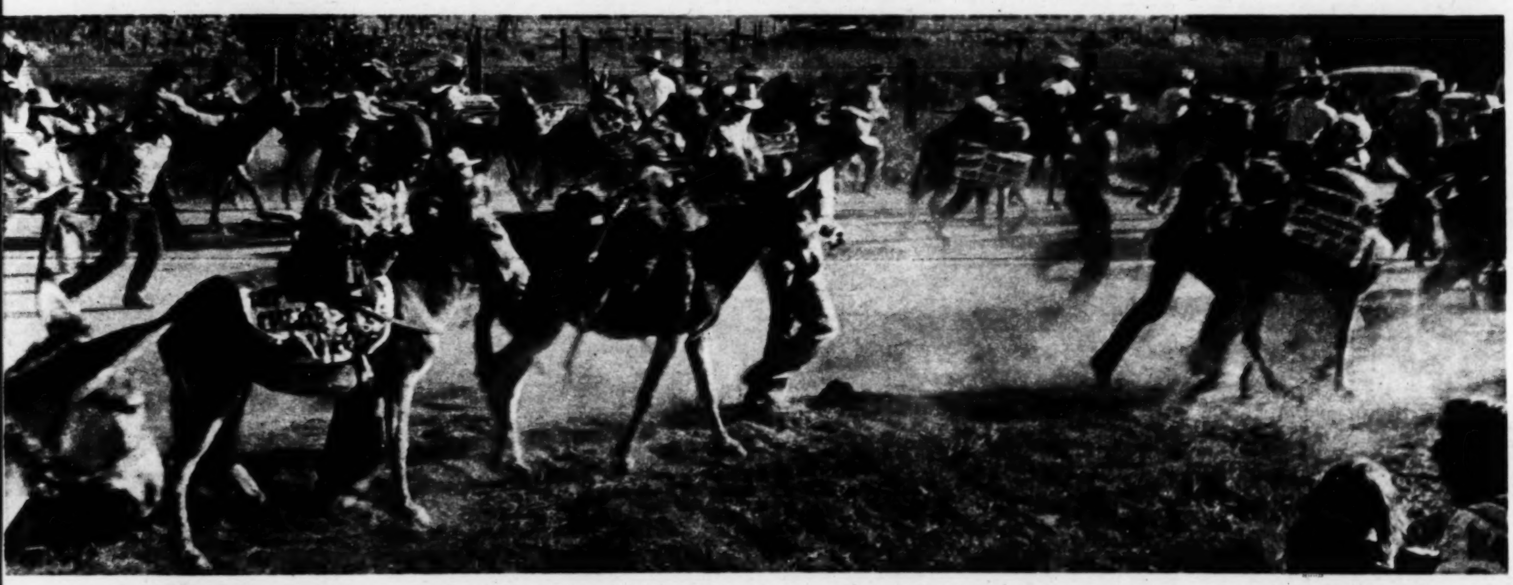
California 'prospectors' push, pull and carry their steeds to victory

APPLE VALLEY, CALIF.

To celebrate Old Miner's Day, the Chambers of Commerce here and at Big Bear, 42 miles away, stage what may be the world's slowest race—a burro derby from one town to the other.

Competing for prizes of up to $500, ranchers and cowhands (usually sponsored by local stores) grow beards, dress up like prospectors of the '80s, plunk down $40 apiece for a burro and food for the trip. Loaded with blankets, water cans, cooking utensils and prospecting tools, the burros are lined up on Highway 18 where it passes through Apple Valley. At 8 a.m., the "prospectors" start pushing, pulling and cajoling their animals 42 miles across the Mojave Desert, up over a 6,000-foot pass and down to the finish line in Big Bear. It takes days.

In the last race, only 50 out of 67 starters reached the first night's camp (17 miles). Next day 40 survivors covered 16 more miles. Just 34 die-hards straggled into Big Bear on the third day. Herewith, photos of the occasion. ■



STARTING at Apple Valley, 100 miles from Los Angeles, burro derby heads for Big Bear beyond mountains 42 miles away across Mojave Desert.

BALKY burro refuses to get in racing spirit, bites racer Ray Johnson when he tries to pull.

AT FINISH in Big Bear, burros still resist. Race was won by cowboy named Ward Morrison.

LOSER Johnson shows his wife bruise where burro bit him. The animal also nipped him on the ankle.

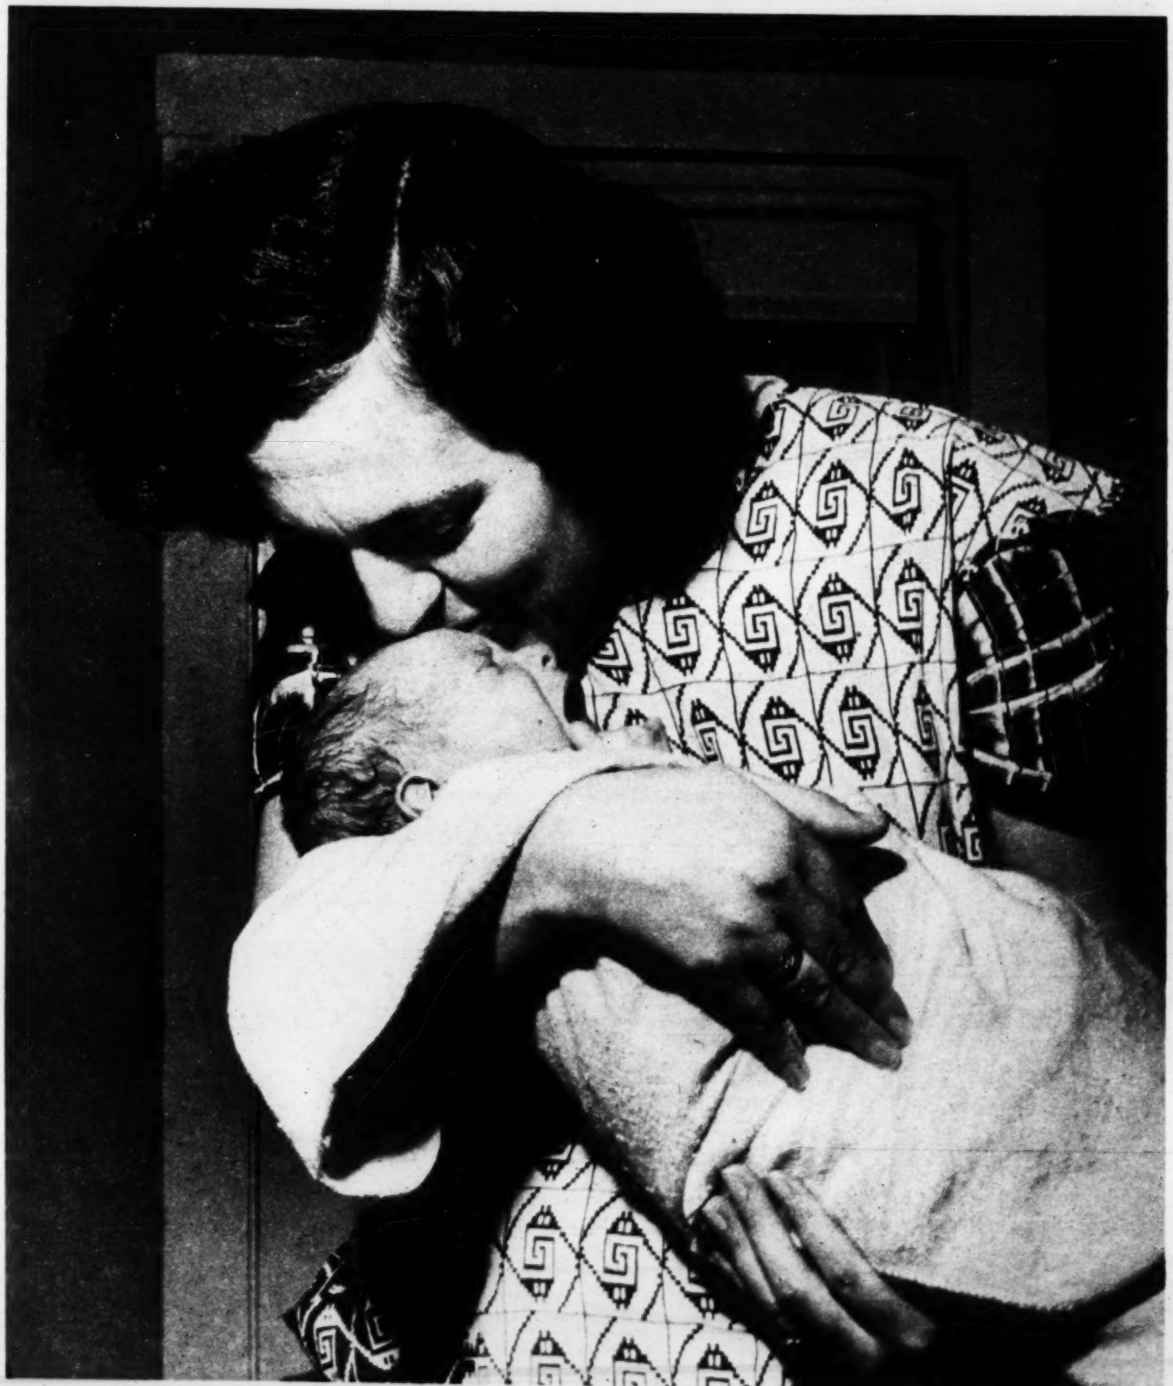
Welfare workers said this blind, deaf couple couldn't care for their baby. But . . .

The Hathaways Are

Sensitive fingers and stout determination guarantee



Quiet kiss is blind, deaf Georgia Hathaway's tender way of hushing her baby's cries. She and her husband say they'd like another child.

Doing ALL RIGHT

TINY HOUSE, all paid for, is couple's pride. Wires guide them to outhouse, incinerator.

4-month-old Clarence a normal upbringing in a house of silence

STOW, OHIO.
In the kitchen of a tiny, three-room cottage here, a mother bathes her infant son, bending low over his body. Gently she soaps and towels him, deftly she pins on a diaper. Occasionally she kisses him quietly —for perhaps he is crying. Then she picks up her child and shuffles back to his bassinet. As she passes her husband, his sensitive fingers grope for the baby's hand and pull it to his lips.

All this in silence—and in darkness. For both Georgia and Harold Hathaway are both blind and deaf, except for a faint glimmer of vision Georgia has in one eye. But they are doggedly determined to prove that red-haired Clarence Stephen Hathaway, 4 months old this week and normal in every way, can receive an equally normal upbringing.

Possibly you read their story in your newspaper: how a county welfare worker called on them shortly after the baby's birth and told them he would be taken from them "for the child's own good." And how terrorized they were: "He's the only thing in my life that I ever had of my own," said Mrs. Hathaway. And how, after hundreds of letters had poured into this little town near Akron, a sympathetic juvenile-court judge decided they deserved at least a chance.

All that is past, but the Hathaways remain a little baffled by all the fuss. From the first days of their "mail order" romance (they were married a year ago last winter in Topeka, Kans., after corresponding through Good Cheer, a magazine for the blind and deaf), they had planned a family. "I was so happy when I found I was pregnant," Mrs. Hathaway says. "Children make a home so nice."

It never entered their heads that someone might think them incapable of caring for a child. "We're not handicapped," snorts Hathaway. "We're not in wheel chairs." "Why, I can do everything for the baby," adds his wife. "Bathe him and change his didies and make the formula. And I do it all real good."

Standing On Their Own Feet

Individualists that they are, the Hathaways are proudest of what they can do for themselves. They do all the housework; Mrs. Hathaway cooks, irons, washes, even sews a little. She bakes her own bread. The couple even goes shopping; with 5 per cent vision in one eye, Mrs. Hathaway can make out the groceries she wants.

Even when Mrs. Hathaway was hospitalized by an abscess recently, the couple didn't despair. A neighbor, Mrs. Virginia Pipes, cared for the child while Mrs. Hathaway was ill. And as soon as possible after her minor operation, the mother shouldered the whole routine again.

In the dark, silent house, touch serves the Hathaways as eyes and ears. Each "talks" by laboriously tracing out letters on the other's palm. Similarly, Mrs. Hathaway's fingers keep her posted on her baby. At night she sleeps with one hand resting lightly on the bassinet. Although she cannot hear cries, she can feel vibrations; the slightest stir awakens her. Either parent, passing the bassinet, is certain to grope for the edge, "listening" for a sound that might mean trouble.

TRACING each letter on the palm of his hand, neighbor Virginia Pipes "talks" to Harold Hathaway. Now 53, Hathaway lost his sight gradually, went completely blind in 1947. He began losing hearing at age 11.

Everyone in their little Ohio village has offered

Of course, there are some things Mrs. Hathaway can't do. For instance, nurse Antoinette Daguanno, of the Visiting Nurse Association, must handle such delicate operations as cleaning the child's nose. "But outside of that, all I do is watch her," the nurse says. "I guess the Good Lord compensates for her handicaps."

Nurse Daguanno drops in each day to help Mrs. Hathaway and to give her instruction. Despite her handicaps, the 37-year-old mother has been an apt pupil. When Clarence was brought home from the hospital, the nurse printed, in large block letters with a black crayon, sheet after sheet of directions on how to make the formula and bathe the baby. Although barely able to make out the letters, Mrs. Hathaway had the directions memorized when the nurse came by the next morning.

Mrs. Hathaway has other assistance. Mrs. Pipes has been "helping around, doing some of the cooking and so on." Other neighbors are on call at all times. A red light in the living-room window is the established signal that help is needed. Hathaway also has a police whistle to call for aid in emergencies.

All the furor caused by the welfare agency's action helped the Hathaways quite a bit financially. They owned their house and furniture, and had paid the hospital bill, $169, in cash. But their income is only about $100 a month in blind pensions, plus a few dollars Hathaway makes by upholstering furniture.

this family a helping hand

Now, thanks to donations from all over the U.S. and even a few from Europe, a trust fund of close to $1,000 has been built up. Included are one guarantee of $10 a week for the first year and another of $10 a month for five years. A meat market donated a year's supply of baby food; an insurance agency issued a free policy. And the Rev. James R. Shoe, pastor of Stow Calvary Temple and a trustee of Clarence's trust fund, has been trying to raise the money to outfit the house with a septic tank. If this campaign proves unsuccessful, the money still may be supplied by the trust fund.

"Everyone has just opened their hearts to us," says Mrs. Hathaway. Many neighbors stop in every day to make sure that everything is all right. Quite often, the little house is full of neighbor children. "When the baby learns to talk," his mother says, "he'll have people to talk to."

The question of what will happen when Clarence begins talking worries the Hathaways quite a bit. "He'll get mad if he asks a question six times and gets no answer," exclaims Mrs. Hathaway, shaking her head. Her husband thinks Clarence will pick up "palm writing" quickly, once he learns to talk. The Hathaways also are hoping the American Foundation for the Blind will figure out some system for teaching the child to communicate with his parents.

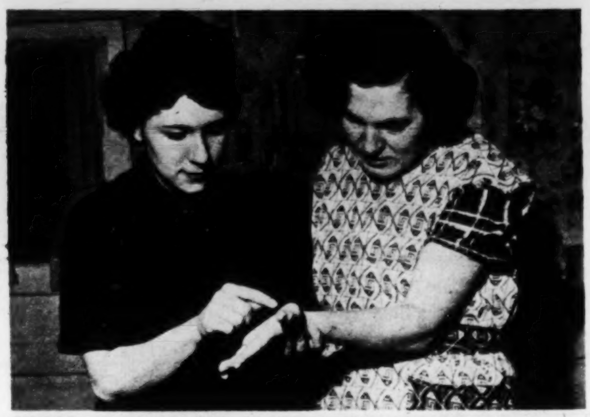
Their "Eyes and Ears"

When Clarence does learn to talk, Mrs. Hathaway wants to teach him to pray. She hopes he'll grow up to be a minister—anyway, "to lead a good, useful life and to help humanity—maybe do something for other blind people. He'll be a help to us, too," she says. "He'll be our eyes and ears."

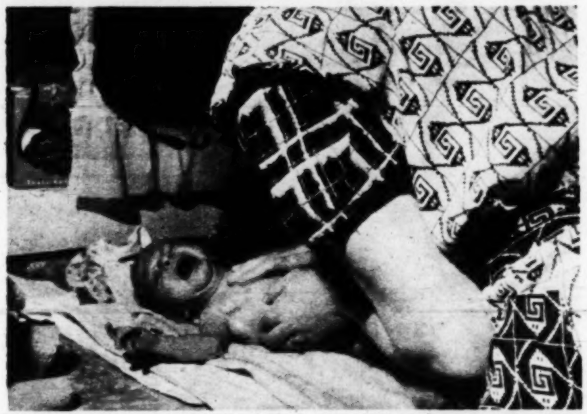
By holding Clarence close to her own eyes, Mrs. Hathaway knows what the baby looks like. Her husband, of course, has never seen his son. In line with his policy of refusing to be a crybaby, however, he won't admit that he wants to. "I describe the baby to him and it's as if Harold could see his face perfectly," says his wife.

"Our problems aren't bad," she continues. "It's not as if we were dying from cancer or something. I'm more happy than if I could see or hear. I feel like I'm rich in life with everything I have.

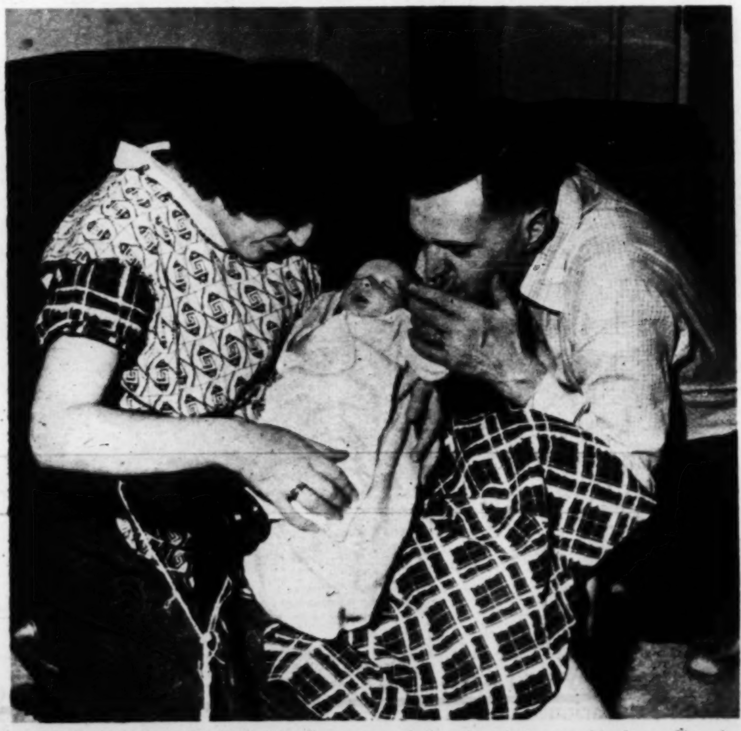
"I'm sure we can manage," she adds, peering intently at a nursing bottle to read the scale. "We'll do our best by him, to give him love, comfort and happiness. He means just everything in the world to us. And I hope maybe our case can show other people like us that there's really something to live for, that they can have families, too, and don't have to live in emptiness." ■



NURSE Antoinette Daguanno gives mother instructions in caring for Clarence. Nurse supervises Mrs. Hathaway's work, but mother can handle most duties herself. Mrs. Pipes also gives her some assistance.



BATHING Clarence, Mrs. Hathaway reveals sure, gentle touch of the blind. With her limited vision, mother must bend close to her work. She also makes baby's formula, changes diapers without help.



FATHER'S LIPS find baby's tiny fingers as mother bends to see his face. She describes child to father, who cannot see him. "Clarence is a Godsend to us," says Mrs. Hathaway. "He gives us something to live for. And he's not any bother to us."

Nobody can push you around!

You make your own decisions—especially about as personal a matter as sanitary protection.

You've a right to make up your own mind — to weigh the advantages and disadvantages of the external pad against internally-worn Tampax. Pads are perfectly familiar—but so was the coal-oil lamp when electricity came in. The thing many Tampax users like most about the product is the way it eliminates pads (and belts and pins!) with their bulk, their discomfort, their disposal problems. Tampax can neither be seen nor felt when it's in place. Because it absorbs internally, it absolutely prevents odor from forming. But how can you tell, no matter what's said about Tampax, until you actually give it a fair trial? Pick up a package this month at any drug or notion counter. (3 absorbency choices: Regular, Super, Junior.) Month's supply goes into your purse. Tampax Incorporated, Palmer, Mass.

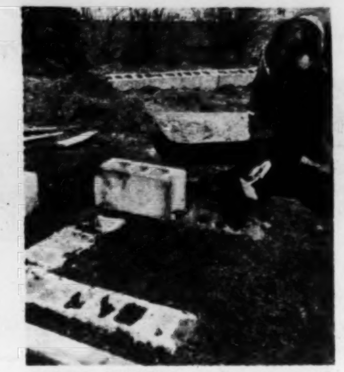
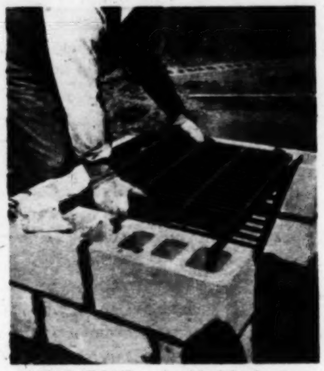
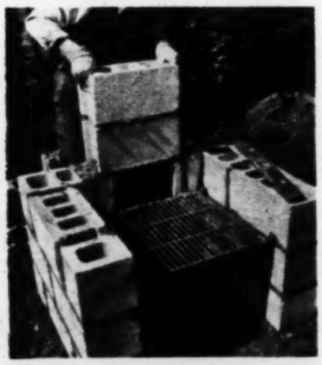
OVERALL SIZE of finished fireplace is 32" by 40". This area is more than adequate for most families.



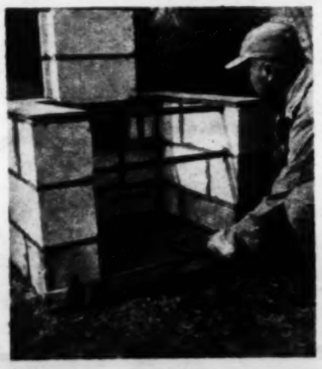
BUTTER MORTAR on first course of entrenched blocks and lay blocks of second course so joints alternate.



ANGLE IRONS embedded in the mortar between third and fourth courses support the lower cast-iron grate.



CHIMNEY-DRAFT opening is broken in inside face of top-course block. Center chimney blocks over opening.



CERAMIC TILES laid in thin bed of mortar should be on level with top surface of upper, cooking grate.

Build the Family an Outdoor Grill

You can build a useful, attractive grill in your back yard for as little or as much as you want to spend. The simple, tile-topped fireplace pictured here is a happy medium.

You will need 24 concrete blocks (8" x 16" –corner-block type, with flat ends), four bags of sand, one bag of cement, 8 feet of angle iron (1½" x 1½") and two iron grates (20" x 24"). For the colorful finishing touch, get about 40 ceramic tiles (4½" x 4½") for the top surface.

Clip and mail the coupon below to obtain full instructions on mixing concrete, applying mortar, embedding tiles and fitting chimney blocks. A sketch-plan is also included.

ENTHUSIASM of Mexicans for "beisbol" runs so high that they stage colorful ceremonies—like this one at an amateur tournament—before nearly every game.

Where Baseball

They play for keeps in Mexico—particularly

MEXICALI, B. C., MEXICO.

By 2 p.m.—six hours before game-time—the main stands at the baseball park here were already filled. By 6, when the teams came on the field for batting practice, more than 7,500 fans were fighting for the 3,500 available seats. They spilled onto the field, blanketed every inch of grass along the foul lines. They clambered on the 20-foot-high outfield walls, clung to ladders propped against the light towers, crashed their way into the visiting team's dugout and elbowed the players out on the field.

The attraction? A Class C minor-league game between the Mexicali Eagles and the Tucson Cowboys of the Arizona-Mexico League. Only down here nothing about beisbol (Spanish spelling for baseball) is Class C. Mexicans cherish it with a fervor that can make a Brooklyn Dodger rooter look as staid and reserved as a cricket fan.

And it's not because beisbol is a new toy for them. Played in Mexico as early as 1885, it is now the No. 1 sport in every Latin American country from Venezuela north. The fans screech both summer and winter, with imported U.S. stars playing in the winter leagues. (But they must get permission from their big-league bosses to do so. When they're turned down, some resort to an alias; Syd Cohen, Washington pitcher in the '30s, played in Mexican winter baseball under the name of Pablo Garcia.)

Is 'Beisbol'

in towns along the Arizona border border is the Class AA Mexican League, which raided U.S. teams in 1946 for players like Mickey Owen and Sal Maglie. Today, however, the traffic is reversed, with Latin America sending north such stars as Mexico's Bobby Avila, Cuba's Orestes Minoso and Venezuela's Chico Carrasquel.

Pay in the Latin circuits compares with U.S. minor leagues, with Mexican League players averaging $500 to $600 a month (though winter-league stars from the U.S. –Luke Easter was one–pull down as much as $1,200 monthly).

Often the fans work harder than the players. In this particular Mexicali-Tucson game, for example, the Mexicans were aided by "pitchers" in the grandstand. Their target: Bob Evert, right-fielder for Tucson. He came back to the bench after the first inning, sputtering: "What kind of a game is this? They're throwing rocks at me from the stands."

Replied teammate Eddie Roberts, a veteran of border beisbol, grinning: "Just be glad they're throwing only rocks."

Just then a police motorcycle roared down each foul line and brushed back the encroaching spectators by rolling gently over their toes.

Early in the game Ernie Choukalos, catcher for Tucson, slammed a drive into the crowd along the right-field line and romped leisurely to second for what he thought was a ground-rule double, scoring a man from second. But the umpire called the hit a ground-rule single and waved both runners back.

MEXICAN SCORECARD:

HOME RUN	Jonrón
BASE ON BALLS	Base por bolas
LEFT-HANDED HITTER	Bateador zurdo
CENTER FIELD	Jardín central
STOLEN BASE	Base robada
FAST-BALL PITCHER	El speed-ball
TWO OUTS	Dos outs
"GET A HIT"	Leña (means wood)

Tucson manager Don Jameson charged the plate umpire in a fury, then suddenly spun away. "How could I squawk?" he asked later. "That umpire would have been out of his mind to call it a double. The way that crowd looked, they'd never have let him out of the ball park alive!"

The game settled down into a tight pitching duel and the restive crowd–anxious for action of any sort–started slinging seat cushions about. When the game ended in a 5-2 Mexicali victory, they enthusiastically showered the field with cushions and beer cans until nearly every blade of grass was covered. As he watched the cans come crashing down, manager Jameson said cheerfully: "This is one game I'm glad I lost."

Though that game was unusual, some have been even wilder. At one in Nogales, Sonora, umpire Mike Quihuis was sassed by a batter; promptly he ripped off his jacket and took after the offending player. In a moment the field was a maelstrom, with umpire chasing batter, 4,000 fans (and other players) chasing the umpire and a platoon of panting soldiers–lugging bayonets–chasing everyone in sight.

Mike holds no grudge against Mexican baseball because of that episode. In fact, he still umpires league games occasionally. "It's lots of fun," he says. "Just like when I was boxing, you never know what's going to happen next."

What happened next to a few umpires was an ambulance ride. In the '30s, two umpires of the Sonora (state) League were put in the hospital just before a crucial series; taking the hint, every other arbiter went into hiding, leaving no one to umpire the series. Finally Gen. Abelardo Rodriguez, former president of Mexico and then governor of Sonora, ordered Mike De La Fuente, commissioner of the league, to umpire it. "At first I tried to beg out of it," admits Mike, but he finally obeyed–and survived.

Umpires have an easier lot today. If a player does slug one of them (as Luke Easter did last season), he is suspended and heavily fined. A few years ago a player who biffed an ump would immediately have been made mayor of the city.

But even without bloodshed, today's baseball is becoming a national institution in Mexico. Last year, for instance, while Arizona's Tucson (pop. 180,000) drew 60,375 fans, the three Mexican cities in the Arizona-Mexico League–all of them with only a fraction of Tucson's population – attracted from 20,000 to 30,000 more admissions. The little Mexican mountain city of Cananea filled its ball park for league games with more than four times its population.

This baseball fever is threatening an old south-of-the-border custom – bullfighting. In Nogales last season, almost 100,000 baseball fans jammed the tiny ball park, while only 42,000–many of them American tourists–attended the bullfights across the road.

The eyes of U.S. baseball men are turning to Mexican baseball. The St. Louis Cardinals staged three baseball schools in northern Mexico and the Cleveland Indians had one in Mexico City. Last season the Arizona-Mexico League produced Leo Rodriguez, No. 2 hitter in all minor-league baseball with a .430 batting average; he was purchased by the Hollywood Stars of the Pacific Coast League. And pitcher Panchillo Ramirez of Mexicali went to Houston of the Texas League.

Favorite U.S. team of the Mexicans, however, is Cleveland. The Indians train at Tucson (only 67 miles from the border) and have Spanish-speaking Al Lopez as manager, a front-line pitcher in Mexican-American Mike Garcia and an all-star second baseman in Bobby Avila. Last year's World Series between the Indians and the New York Giants was seen in Nogales on television, watched avidly. When the Indians dropped the fourth and final game, gloom pervaded the Nogales saloons. Said a fan: "It was as if I had died myself."

MEXICAN FANS press toward the Tucson dugout. These finally vaulted the barrier, forced the players to sit on the field.

Besides the Arizona-Mexico League's three Mexican clubs–Nogales, Mexicali and Cananea–there are five from Arizona: Tucson, Phoenix, Bisbee-Douglas, Globe-Miami and Yuma. And everything is run on a businesslike basis. But this was not always so in Mexico. Mike De La Fuente vividly recalls the occasion he pitched in a border-league game in which his team went into the ninth inning leading by the score of 4-3. As the inning got under way, the scorer came over to Mike and informed him he was losing 4-3.

"What?" screamed Mike. "Didn't we score four runs in the fifth inning to go ahead?"

"Si," said the scorer, "that is so. But just a little while ago someone from the other side checked the score–with a knife at my throat." ■
